26TH ANNUAL EFFORT

Goodfellows Set To Start Drive For Merry Yule

By MARY ANN CORPIN
World Staff Writer

The Goodfellows drive, a community-wide project to provide food, clothing and toys for needy families on Christmas, is being launched today.

Now in its 26th year, Goodfellows assisted 475 families, including 3,000 persons last year, when more than $5,000 was collected.

All funds should be sent to the News-Star—World Publishing Corporation, Monroe. Jack Taylor of the News-Star is treasurer for the Drive. Each contribution will be acknowledged in both the Morning World and the News Star.

Anyone who knows of needy cases may send the names and addresses to the newspaper. No information will be taken over the phone. Letters are required so a record may be made for each request.

All cases will be investigated by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and others assiting in the drive.

VOLUNTEER

Goodfellows is a completely volunteer project. No one who works with the drive will receive any pay.

All contributions will go to help local residents who otherwise would have a barren Christmas.

No special solicitations will be made. Goodfellows never conducts house-to-house collections.

People who wish to contribute may send checks to the newspaper.

The first contribution already has been received, from a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., resident, Mrs. H. G. Prophet, who is first each year to make a gift to Goodfellows, has sent $10. The donation is sent, "in memory of my dear husband, Harry G. Prophet Sr.,"

Goodfellows contributions may be made in memory of a relative or friend.

Many organizations, including churches, clubs, schools, city officials and members of the Jaycees of both Monroe and West Monroe are volunteer workers for the drive, according to B. B. Martin, who with Wilson Ewing began the Goodfellows in 1935.

Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department, is coordinator for the Drive. Hesketh has worked with the project for the past 19 years.

Extradition Is Waived In Kidnap Case

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest arrested in a motel with a teen-age girl waived extradition Saturday and was to be returned to Superior, Wis.

Charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and kidnaping by deceit, the Rev. Lawrence Dudink, 47, was in jail under $5,000 bond. Wisconsin statutes provide a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison for the charges.

Juvenile authorities declined to say whether Rosalie Anne O'Connell, 17, a high school junior at Gilbert, Minn., spoke about her trip with the priest.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad O'Connell, were expected to arrive in Phoenix sometime Sunday to take the girl home.

The pair disappeared Nov. 8 from St. Mary's Hospital in Superior, where Father Dudink was a chaplain. Both had received mental treatment.

Arizona FBI chief Edward L. Boyle said the priest was registered at the motel as a layman. But he said he didn't know whether the couple were registered as man and wife, although they were living together.

Boyle said he believed the two had been in Phoenix about two weeks but declined to say whether Dudink Saturday had discused his trip with the girl.

With only $1.16 on his person when he was arrested, Dudink told officers he had planned to look for work.

The pair attracted little attention, Boyle said, at the shabby little motel on Phoenix' westside, several blocks removed from a row of swanky hostelries.

In Bay St. Louis., Miss., the Rev. Robert Hunter said Dudink had been suffering from alcoholism for 12 years. But Father Hunter, provincial for the Southern Province of Society of Divine Word, said he does not know what disciplinary measures will be taken.

Deputies from Superior were expected to arrive in Phoenix early next week to return Father Dudink.

Critical Blast At Conviction May Bring Jail

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Medgar Evers of Jackson, Miss., field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has been subpoenaed by circuit court to determine whether he was in contempt for criticism of a conviction involving a Negro.

Dist. Atty. James Finch said Saturday Evers "attack upon the court and Circuit Judge Stanton Hall and upon the court's officials and jury was unjustified, flagrantly false and contemptuous."

Evers was critical of the Nov. 21 burglary conviction and seven-year sentence given to Negro Clyde Kennard, 27, who tried unsuccessfully last year to desegregate Mississippi Southern College.

Kennard was convicted of burglary by persuading a Negro teenager to steal five sacks of chicken feed.

If convicted of contempt, Evers could draw a $100 fine and 30 days in jail.

FBI Seeking Murderer In Kidnap Case

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A nationwide manhunt was on Saturday for a convicted murderer after the cash payment of $200,000 for the release of a kidnaped wealthy San Diego sportsman.

The hunted man is believed to have more than half of the ransom cash in his possession.

BACK WITH FAMILY

The victim, Anthony Alessio, 41, is back with his family, unharmed after his ordeal.

The Alessio family, one of the wealthiest in San Diego, operates the Caliente Racetrack at TiJuana, Mexico, just south of here, and the Hotel Del Coronado.

Three persons have been arrested for the kidnaping but a fourth, Frank Marrone, 31, is still at large and is believed to have $122,500 of the Alessio money.

Marrone's neighbors at an apartment house said he once told them: "I'm going to make a lot of money some day. And I' going to make it at Caliente Race-Track."

The FBI said it understood Marrone, a former bartender, was tried at Anchorage, Alaska, in 1958 and convicted of second-degree murder in the killing of another bartender. The FBI said their information is that he is at liberty in that case on $30,000 bond pending an appeal.

Alessio was kidnaped from his luxurious San Diego home Tuesday afternoon, but word of the crime was kept secret until Friday night as FBI agents and police worked on the case.

Alessio returned from the race-track and was kidnaped as he stepped out of his white Cadillac. He was driven to a vacant residence and then to a motel.

Soon Alessio's wife, Virginia, rereceived a call demanding $650,000 for her husband's release and warning her that he would be

Area Alerted For Suspects In Burglary

Roadblocks were thrown up last night on major highways throughout northeast Louisiana after Ouachita Parish sheriff's officers spotted a group of Memphis, Tenn., fur burglary suspects at a West Monroe diner about 8 p.m.

The group is wanted in Memphis for the burglary Friday night of about $50,000 in furs from an exclusive ladies shop.

Police were hunting a 1959 white Ford Thunderbird and a white 1956 sedan thought to be headed west toward Ruston from West Monroe.

DANGEROUS

The suspects were reported heavily armed and considered dangerous.

A large truck may be traveling with the two cars. Memphis police said they think a truck was used in the burglary of the furs.

Authorities in Memphis theorize the burglars sent in a false alarm to a neighboring fire station to lure firemen away from the Helen Shop in a fashionable district of Memphis while they broke into the rear door and made off with all the store's mink and squirrel.

The two cars were reported seen in El Dorado, Ark., about 4:30 p.m. and later on Louisville Avenue in Monroe and in West Monroe.

State police troop F sent out an alarm for the group and sheriff's offices and city police throughout the area responded with roadblocks and extra patrols on the major highways.

Bienville Parish authorities set up roadblocks on Highway 80 at Arcadia and reported extra patrols out, while Jackson and Lincoln Parish authorities reported

Kasavubu May Hold Katanga Peace Parley

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — A triumphant welcome was prepared Saturday for returning President Joseph Kasavubu amid reports that he may hold a "peace" conference with President Moise Tshombe of the secessionist Katanga province.

Kasavubu was in Paris en route home from New York where he won recognition of his delegation to the United Nations as the only one representing the Congo. Kasavubu said he and a Congolese delegation would leave Paris for their homeland Sunday morning.

Reports circulated that Kasavubu would meet with Tshombe as a communique issued in Elizabethville said Tshombe would fly to Brazzaville Sunday to visit President Abbe Fulbert Youlou of the old French Congo.

Tshombe was expected in Brazzaville shortly before Kasavubu arrives just across the river in Leopoldville. In addition Abbe Youlou is a close personal friend off both men who might act as mediator. The announced reason for Tshombe's trip was to attend Brazzaville ceremonies marking the first anniversary of the proclamation of independence of the former French colony.

Making peace with Tshombe will be only one of the problems faced by Kasavubu. He also must convene a roundtable conference to safeguard the Congo's unity and bring an end to the country's turmoil, and he must reach agreement on the status of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Mild, Cloudy Expected Today

Even though the Christmas season has arrived in the Twin Cities, winter has not. Carols and Yuletide lights downtown are accompanied these days by continued mild to warm temperatures.

The high expected here today ranges from 73 to 77 degrees. The low tonight is forecast from 54 to 58 degrees.

Skies today will be partly cloudy. Winds will be southeasterly from 8 to 18 miles per hour.

The Saturday high recorded by Federal Aviation at Selman Field was 76. The low mark was 47.

Traffic Toll Climbing At Rapid Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths increased sharply Saturday as the long Thanksgiving weekend moved into its final and most dangerous hours—the period when homebound holiday travelers and short-trip drivers fill the highways.

The death rate slackened Friday when many persons went back to work after a one-day holiday. But it then climbed steadily when motorists swelled post-Thanksgiving traffic.

DEATH TOLL RISES

The toll since the weekend began at 6 p.m. Wednesday was 294. Fires claimed 37 lives and 68 persons died in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 406.

Generally pleasant weather lured many to highways across the country. But the absence of severe cold early in the holiday—always a factor in fire fatalities—helped hold down the toll to some extent in that category.

The National Safety Council did not estimate the number who might die in traffic during the current weekend. However, it said that 407 persons would normally be killed on the highways during a four-day weekend at this time of year.

The council says travel on Thanksgiving is not as heavy as on other major holidays.

An Associated Press nonholiday weekend count two weeks ago showed 433 traffic deaths, 69 fire deaths and 144 in other accidents for a total of 646.

The record for highway deaths and over-all accident deaths for a four-day holiday period was set during Christmas weekend of 1959 and 706 died in traffic and the total accident toll was 884.

Cafe Bombings Fatal For Eight

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Nationalist rebel terrorists struck in two Algerian cities Saturday night, killing eight persons and injuring 57. Virtually all the casualties were Europeans.

Two rocket bombs killed seven persons and wounded 54 at a cafe in Boufarik, some 20 miles south of Algiers.

A grenade tossed into a crowded cafe in Oran in western Algeria killed another person and wounded three more.

An Oran mob seized a man they said was the bomb thrower and threatened to lynch him. He was beaten unconscious before police could get him into a nearby office building.

Reinforcements were called to disperse the mob when it threatened to storm the building, demanding the man's death.

BLINDING STORM HITS

Traffic Blocked By Snow Drifts

By UPI

A blinding snowstorm whipped across the high Sierra Mountains of California Saturday, whipping up deep drifts and stalling traffic on snow-covered roads.

A ground party plowed through the storm and three-foot drifts to a remote cabin at the 7,100 foot level of Echo Summit, where a woman gave birth to a 3½ pound girl.

Battling night-long against the storm, the rescue party reached the cabin and found the mother, Mrs. Anne Shiefrine, and her new daughter, "doing well." The woman's husband, Moshe, skied to summon help after the sudden storm isolated their cabin.

BUSES COLLIDE

Meanwhile, two buses collided on U.S. 40 near the top of the Sierras, injuring both drivers, one seriously.

Patrolmen said one bus stopped to avoid striking a truck and flatbed stalled crossways on the snow-covered road. The second bus came upon both vehicles, tried to stop and slid about 160 feet before striking the rear of the halted bus, police said.

Very cold arctic air moved into the northern plains, accompanied by gusty, northerly winds and light snow. Several mid or lower 20 - degree temperatures were noted at mid-day Saturday in North Dakota and Montana, with an extreme of 8 above zero at

Wagner Seeking Names Of N.O. White Students

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Emile A. Wagner Jr., dissident member of the New Orleans school board, said Saturday he wants the identity of the white pupils—not the Negroes—in the two integrated schools.

Wagner's suit to force school Supt. James Redmond to disclose names of all pupils at the two schools is scheduled to be heard Tuesday.

"It's not the names of the four Negroes that I want," Wagner said. "I know who they are.

"I want the names of the white children in those schools so I can make arrangements to get them in school for their education."

Parents of children going to McDonogh No. 19 and William Frantz elementary school have been boycotting the schools. Many have been enrolling youngsters in adjoining St. Bernard Parish schools.

Switch From Kennedy Is Group's Goal

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature, seeking ways to wreck integration, returns Sunday with some members trying to block the state's 10 electoral vote for John F. Kennedy.

With the possibility of Illinois' 27 votes becoming a bit uncertain, any switch in Louisiana's 10 electoral votes won by Kennedy could play a key national role.

ELECTORS TO BATTLE

But Louisiana's 10 electors, who will cast their vote here Dec. 19, insisted they are firmly behind the president-elect and any attempt to cripple them would be met with a court battle.

Gov. James H. (Jimmie) Davis, who formed a coalition with top segregationists and Shelby M. Jackson, the politically powerful state superintendent of education to combat the school integration of four Negro girls in two New Orleans schools, remained silent on the elector showdown.

City Judge Edmund Reggie, of Crowley, an elector and a Davis supporter, said Saturday, "I have not heard anything from Gov. Davis on this, nor have I heard that he has discussed the matter with other electors.

"Frankly," Reggie added, "I believe Gov. Davis will abide by the vote of the majority of the people Nov. 8 and not interfere with the electors."

Kennedy carried Louisiana, with its heavy Roman Catholic population in southern Louisiana, by 176,000 votes over Richard M. Nixon. A states rights slate of unpledged electors ran third.

The elector business was

Elderly Woman Rescued After Six-Day Ordeal

FARMERSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A search party Saturday found a 65-year-old woman alive in a roadside culvert where she said she spent six days feebly calling for help.

Mrs. J. J. Brooks was described by her doctor as being "terribly weak" after her ordeal in the culvert, about 250 yards from the Park Lake Country Club.

Hundreds of searchers and cars had passed by her during the search which started early Monday. The search ended at 2:15 p.m. when Fire Chief Raymond Brandon spotted a corner of Mrs. Brooks' housecoat protruding from the culvert.

Authorities believe Mrs. Brooks slipped while taking an early morning walk Monday. She fell into the ditch at the side of the road and slid into the mouth of the culvert which passes under the road.

The culvert was extremely muddy from recent rains.

After she was found by the searching party Mrs. Brooks was able to say she had called for help time after time, but no one heard her.

The first thing Mrs. Brooks asked for when found was water.

She was taken to her home under care of her family doctor who said she was "in remarkably good condition after a nightmarish week."

Farmersville is about 50 miles north of Dallas in northeast Texas.

Assistant Manager Robs Supermarket

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The assistant manager of a Houston supermarket, who admitted robbing his own store of over $13,000, Saturday blamed the crime on an emotional impulse.

"I just goofed up and wanted to get away and I knew I could get a lot of money there," Jackie Lee Tadlock, 25, said at police headquarters.

Tadlock, slim, soft-spoken man, was arrested in a local hotel at 4 a.m. Saturday. He had $12,953 and a revolver in his room, police said. Tadlock signed extradition papers.

He was captured only 20 hours after he took the cash at gunpoint while on the job.

Police said a key tipoff to Tadlock's whereabouts came when he sent a telegram to a girl friend, Carmen Lemon Morrison, 23, of Galveston, Tex.

Tadlock told her to meet him here and named a hotel, police said.

Galveston police questioned the woman Friday night.

However, Tadlock, who sent the woman $200 from Lake Charles, denied making a rendezvous.

Tadlock said he was expecting his divorce from his wife in Houston would become final Monday. They have three children.

He was arrested after a police check of the business district showed a "Jackie Lee" registered at a hotel.

Tadlock also said he sent his wife $500 by telegram from New Orleans.

The robbery was committed at Weingarten's Supermarket, where Tadlock worked as assistant store manager for eight weeks.

VISITS NURSERY

Mrs. Kennedy Sees Son For First Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mrs. John F. Kennedy saw her new born son Saturday night for the first time. She was accompanied by her husband to the hospital nursery.

"She was very pleased," President-elect John F. Kennedy told reporters afterwards. At the same time, Kennedy disclosed that the baby had been suffering from a slight respiratory ailment, but is now "fine."

The two day-old baby, John F. Kennedy, Jr., will probably stay in the incubator "another day or so."

Asked the cause of the respiratory trouble, Kennedy suggested talking to the doctor about it. He expressed belief it was a result of the baby's premature birth.

Mrs. Kennedy first saw her first-born son when her husband paid her his second visit of the day at 5:51 p.m. EST.

Kennedy said his 31-year-old wife traveled down the hall from her room to the nursery in a wheelchair. "I just walked along with her," he reported.

Asked if he could remember his wife's exact words on seeing her boy for the first time, Kennedy merely shook his head and grinned.

Kennedy said he did not think three - year - old Caroline will be visiting her new brother "for a while," even though authorities at Georgetown University Hospital have waived their usual rule against visiting by children.

Asked about his wife's condition, Kennedy said "she's a little sick, but she's coming along all right."

Earlier, Mrs. Kennedy's obstetrician, Dr. John Walsh, said she was making a quick recovery from the caesarean birth—more rapidly than she did after the

"I just goofed up and wanted to get away and I knew I could get a lot of money there," Jackie Lee Tadlock, 25, said at police headquarters.

Tadlock, slim, soft-spoken man, was arrested in a local hotel at 4 a.m. Saturday. He had $12,953 and a revolver in his room, police said. Tadlock signed extradition papers.

He was captured only 20 hours after he took the cash at gunpoint while on the job.

Police said a key tipoff to Tadlock's whereabouts came when he sent a telegram to a girl friend, Carmen Lemon Morrison, 23, of Galveston, Tex.

Tadlock told her to meet him here and named a hotel, police said.

Galveston police questioned the woman Friday night.

However, Tadlock, who sent the woman $200 from Lake Charles, denied making a rendezvous.

Tadlock said he was expecting his divorce from his wife in Houston would become final Monday. They have three children.

He was arrested after a police check of the business district showed a "Jackie Lee" registered at a hotel.

Tadlock also said he sent his wife $500 by telegram from New Orleans.

The robbery was committed at Weingarten's Supermarket, where Tadlock worked as assistant store manager for eight weeks.

Traffic Toll Climbing At Rapid Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths increased sharply Saturday as the long Thanksgiving weekend moved into its final and most dangerous hours—the period when homebound holiday travelers and short-trip drivers fill the highways.

The death rate slackened Friday when many persons went back to work after a one-day holiday. But it then climbed steadily when motorists swelled post-Thanksgiving traffic.

DEATH TOLL RISES

The toll since the weekend began at 6 p.m. Wednesday was 294. Fires claimed 37 lives and 68 persons died in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 406.

Generally pleasant weather lured many to highways across the country. But the absence of severe cold early in the holiday—always a factor in fire fatalities—helped hold down the toll to some extent in that category.

The National Safety Council did not estimate the number who might die in traffic during the current weekend. However, it said that 407 persons would normally be killed on the highways during a four-day weekend at this time of year.

The council says travel on Thanksgiving is not as heavy as on other major holidays.

An Associated Press nonholiday weekend count two weeks ago showed 433 traffic deaths, 69 fire deaths and 144 in other accidents for a total of 646.

The record for highway deaths and over-all accident deaths for a four-day holiday period was set during Christmas weekend of 1959 and 706 died in traffic and the total accident toll was 884.

Cafe Bombings Fatal For Eight

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Nationalist rebel terrorists struck in two Algerian cities Saturday night, killing eight persons and injuring 57. Virtually all the casualties were Europeans.

Two rocket bombs killed seven persons and wounded 54 at a cafe in Boufarik, some 20 miles south of Algiers.

A grenade tossed into a crowded cafe in Oran in western Algeria killed another person and wounded three more.

An Oran mob seized a man they said was the bomb thrower and threatened to lynch him. He was beaten unconscious before police could get him into a nearby office building.

Reinforcements were called to disperse the mob when it threatened to storm the building, demanding the man's death.

BLINDING STORM HITS

Traffic Blocked By Snow Drifts

By UPI

A blinding snowstorm whipped across the high Sierra Mountains of California Saturday, whipping up deep drifts and stalling traffic on snow-covered roads.

A ground party plowed through the storm and three-foot drifts to a remote cabin at the 7,100 foot level of Echo Summit, where a woman gave birth to a 3½ pound girl.

Battling night-long against the storm, the rescue party reached the cabin and found the mother, Mrs. Anne Shiefrine, and her new daughter, "doing well." The woman's husband, Moshe, skied to summon help after the sudden storm isolated their cabin.

BUSES COLLIDE

Meanwhile, two buses collided on U.S. 40 near the top of the Sierras, injuring both drivers, one seriously.

Patrolmen said one bus stopped to avoid striking a truck and flatbed stalled crossways on the snow-covered road. The second bus came upon both vehicles, tried to stop and slid about 160 feet before striking the rear of the halted bus, police said.

Very cold arctic air moved into the northern plains, accompanied by gusty, northerly winds and light snow. Several mid or lower 20 - degree temperatures were noted at mid-day Saturday in North Dakota and Montana, with an extreme of 8 above zero at

Wagner Seeking Names Of N.O. White Students

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Emile A. Wagner Jr., dissident member of the New Orleans school board, said Saturday he wants the identity of the white pupils—not the Negroes—in the two integrated schools.

Wagner's suit to force school Supt. James Redmond to disclose names of all pupils at the two schools is scheduled to be heard Tuesday.

"It's not the names of the four Negroes that I want," Wagner said. "I know who they are.

"I want the names of the white children in those schools so I can make arrangements to get them in school for their education."

Parents of children going to McDonogh No. 19 and William Frantz elementary school have been boycotting the schools. Many have been enrolling youngsters in adjoining St. Bernard Parish schools.

VISITS NURSERY

Mrs. Kennedy Sees Son For First Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mrs. John F. Kennedy saw her new born son Saturday night for the first time. She was accompanied by her husband to the hospital nursery.

"She was very pleased," President-elect John F. Kennedy told reporters afterwards. At the same time, Kennedy disclosed that the baby had been suffering from a slight respiratory ailment, but is now "fine."

The two day-old baby, John F. Kennedy, Jr., will probably stay in the incubator "another day or so."

Asked the cause of the respiratory trouble, Kennedy suggested talking to the doctor about it. He expressed belief it was a result of the baby's premature birth.

Mrs. Kennedy first saw her first-born son when her husband paid her his second visit of the day at 5:51 p.m. EST.

Kennedy said his 31-year-old wife traveled down the hall from her room to the nursery in a wheelchair. "I just walked along with her," he reported.

Asked if he could remember his wife's exact words on seeing her boy for the first time, Kennedy merely shook his head and grinned.

Kennedy said he did not think three - year - old Caroline will be visiting her new brother "for a while," even though authorities at Georgetown University Hospital have waived their usual rule against visiting by children.

Asked about his wife's condition, Kennedy said "she's a little sick, but she's coming along all right."

Earlier, Mrs. Kennedy's obstetrician, Dr. John Walsh, said she was making a quick recovery from the caesarean birth—more rapidly than she did after the

Switch From Kennedy Is Group's Goal

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature, seeking ways to wreck integration, returns Sunday with some members trying to block the state's 10 electoral vote for John F. Kennedy.

With the possibility of Illinois' 27 votes becoming a bit uncertain, any switch in Louisiana's 10 electoral votes won by Kennedy could play a key national role.

ELECTORS TO BATTLE

But Louisiana's 10 electors, who will cast their vote here Dec. 19, insisted they are firmly behind the president-elect and any attempt to cripple them would be met with a court battle.

Gov. James H. (Jimmie) Davis, who formed a coalition with top segregationists and Shelby M. Jackson, the politically powerful state superintendent of education to combat the school integration of four Negro girls in two New Orleans schools, remained silent on the elector showdown.

City Judge Edmund Reggie, of Crowley, an elector and a Davis supporter, said Saturday, "I have not heard anything from Gov. Davis on this, nor have I heard that he has discussed the matter with other electors.

"Frankly," Reggie added, "I believe Gov. Davis will abide by the vote of the majority of the people Nov. 8 and not interfere with the electors."

Kennedy carried Louisiana, with its heavy Roman Catholic population in southern Louisiana, by 176,000 votes over Richard M. Nixon. A states rights slate of unpledged electors ran third.

The elector business was

Elderly Woman Rescued After Six-Day Ordeal

FARMERSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A search party Saturday found a 65-year-old woman alive in a roadside culvert where she said she spent six days feebly calling for help.

Mrs. J. J. Brooks was described by her doctor as being "terribly weak" after her ordeal in the culvert, about 250 yards from the Park Lake Country Club.

Hundreds of searchers and cars had passed by her during the search which started early Monday. The search ended at 2:15 p.m. when Fire Chief Raymond Brandon spotted a corner of Mrs. Brooks' housecoat protruding from the culvert.

Authorities believe Mrs. Brooks slipped while taking an early morning walk Monday. She fell into the ditch at the side of the road and slid into the mouth of the culvert which passes under the road.

The culvert was extremely muddy from recent rains.

After she was found by the searching party Mrs. Brooks was able to say she had called for help time after time, but no one heard her.

The first thing Mrs. Brooks asked for when found was water.

She was taken to her home under care of her family doctor who said she was "in remarkably good condition after a nightmarish week."

Farmersville is about 50 miles north of Dallas in northeast Texas.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Officials Differ On School Crisis

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Four men involved in the New Orleans school integration crisis differed on proposed methods, but agreed that schools should be kept open.

Two state legislators and two school board members appeared Saturday night on a televised panel discussion of the school problem WDSU-TV.

Sen. Adrian Duplantier of New Orleans said the schools should be open under control of the Orleans Parish school board. He said the school board was in a better position to operate local schools."

"Federal courts would not put up with the closing of schools," Duplantier said.

Rep. Risley Triche of Assumption Parish, a floor leader for Gov. Jimmie Davis, said "I am not in favor of closing schools."

Triche said he did not favor using the pupil placement law that was pursued by the school board because it "would lead to total integration.

"I am in favor of actively pursuing segregation through the state legislature."

Segregationist Emile Wagner Jr., the only member of the school board who refused to go along with token integration, proposed a cooperative school system for white students of integrated schools.

He said under this system, the state would provide grants to the students for tuition, as grants college.

It is constitutional, he said, because the switch from public schools to cooperatives would be made only when it became uneconomical to operate a school where only a few students attended.

He gave as an example two integrated schools, Frantz and McDonogh 19, where a boycott was almost complete and only a handful of students, including the four first grade Negro girls, attended.

Lloyd Rittiner, president of the school board, said "we want to keep the schools open at all costs. When U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright ruled, we had no other choice."

Rittiner criticized Gov. Davis and the legislature for not taking action sooner and for making the schools a battleground.

"Why didn't they enact a sensible cooperative system," Rittiner said, "instead of addressing the school board out of office.'

Addressing out of office is ousting.

He said unless the state undertakes a workable cooperative system, the only solution is token integration under the pupil placement law.

When asked if students would attend token integrated schools, Rittner said, "When parents realize the education of their children is at stake, they will attend.'

Wagner said pupil placement would work only so long as there was no discrimination. He said in the case of the New Orleans situation, where it is being used to discriminate against Negroes, it would be thrown out by the courts, leaving total integration.

Rittiner said pupil placement has worked effectively in all instances where it has been used, and would continue to do so.

Triche said the present situation was not desirable, but that the legislature took the action to get from under the injunction of the federal courts.

It was up to the legislature to prevent any mixing and he doubted the cooperative plan would work.

Duplantier said he had faith in pupil placement if it came to a showdown between closing or integrating the schools.

The suspects were believed headed for Shreveport.

Memphis police failed to notice the burglary until shortly after midnight Friday, when they discovered the rear door of the shop had been forced open.

About 122 pieces were taken, including capes, stoles, neck pieces, jackets and coats. Other clothing, the safe and the store's petty cash were ignored.

Memphis authorities think the work was done by a group of professionals who have burglarized places in Nashville, Tenn., Hot Springs and Little Rock, Ark., recently.

Tennessee officials said yesterday the Federal Bureau of Investigation is also working to apprehend the burglars, since the suspects have crossed state lines in the chase.

The two cars were carrying Michigan and Ohio license plates. Police were watching both Highway 80 and 167.

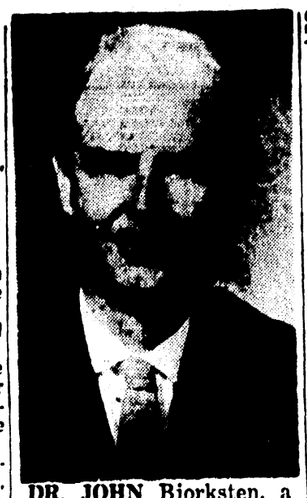

The suspects were reportedly seen at a West Monroe Kopper Kettle restaurant.

Memphis Assistant Police Chief Lee Quianthy said the burglary had all the marks of a professional job.

"You can bet they weren't amateurs," he added.

Quainthy said the burglary was similar in a lot of ways to one at Nashville Nov. 12 in which $12,900 in furs was taken from Grayson's Shop.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are working with police on the case.

Segregation Dent Appears In Georgia

ATLANTA (AP) — A dent—ever so small but expanding slowly—is beginning to appear in the previously impregnable armor of official segregation surrounding Georgia's public schools.

High officials and legislators, who a few months ago were saying the 1961 legislature would make no changes in the state's maze of statutes designed to hold the line, now are spreading the word of "possible action on some phases."

Many are admitting that there is no chance of segregation being maintained. They now are talking of limiting integration as much as possible through pupil placement enactments.

Trial balloons have been released officially and unofficially in the past two weeks. The politicians don't want scientific data. They want to know how the folks back home would react if they made initial moves at the January-February session to start slowly abandoning massive resistance.

If the reaction comes in heavily for segregation at all costs, the legislators may hold off at the regular session and then come back next summer for action at a special session. But, regardless, there is every indication currently of a warfare of words breaking out on the subject when the legislature convenes Jan. 9 for 40 days.

It is apparent that sources high in Gov. Ernest Vandiver's administration are convinced something must be done before next September or public school closings will follow. Vandiver may shed further light on the crisis and possible developments upon his return from a South American trip next week.

Two weeks ago the odds were overwhelming that the legislators would make not one move at the regular session toward disturbing the network of laws requiring segregation in the schools. Today there is more than a chance that a start will be made toward compliance with federal court desegregation orders.

2 Pacifists Are Released Under Bail

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — To self-styled pacifists, opposed to construction of Polaris-firing nuclear submarines, were released under bail Saturday from New Haven state jail.

Of nine pacifists arrested Tuesday in Groton for trying to interfere with the launching of the Polaris submarine Ethan Allen, four remained in the jail here.

The two released Saturday, Victor Richman, 20, and Roger Aarons, 19, both of New York City, chose temporary freedom after about 24 hours in isolation cells.

Richman, Aarons and another of the pacifist group, Donald Martin, 20, of Wellesley, Mass., were placed in solitary confinement Friday for breaking jail rules.

The trio at first was determined to remain in solitary, despite an offer by jail authorities to return them to regular cells.

But by Saturday morning, they were ready to be taken out of the isolation cells. And Richman and Aarons left with a U. S. marshal to post the necessary bond for their freedom.

A hearing on the Groton launching incident is set for Monday before U. S. Commissioner Robert H. Alcorn in New Haven.

Three of the pacifists accepted release under bail one day after they were arrested. The others elected to remain in jail.

Officials said Richman, Aarons and Martin were placed in solitary for refusing to go to the prison mess or to return to their cells.

After they were let out of solitary, Sheriff J. Edward Slavin said the three youths "were willing to cooperate."

All nine pacifists are members of the Committee for Non-Violent Action, a group which has staged demonstrations and incidents against missile submarines and atomic installations in various parts of the country.

The nine arrested Tuesday were charged with entering a restricted area in Groton after the harbor had been closed by the Coast Guard.

Rockefeller Is Defended By Chairman

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican state chairman, defending Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, appeared in a guarded statement Saturday to be blaming Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the loss of New York State in the national election.

Chairman L. Judson Morhouse said the GOP lost the Empire State because of voter reaction to "issues and matters" beyond control of Rockefeller and other leaders of the state campaign.

Morhouse attacked what he called "currently circulated distortions" that alleged that Rockefeller had not campaigned wholeheartedly for Nixon, who lost the presidency to Democrat John F. Kennedy in a tight, national race.

New York's 45 electoral votes were a part of the Kennedy victory.

Rockefeller's name has been raised, after the Nixon defeat, as a potential GOP candidate for the presidency in 1964. But some Republican leaders hold that Rockefeller's inability to carry his own state for Nixon ruled him out of consideration for 1964.

Morhouse gave no specifics in his statement as to what New York Republican leaders considered the reasons for Nixon's failure to win the state.

In defending the Rockefeller role, Morhouse might have been counterattacking the claim that Rockefeller was ineligible for the 1964 nomination because of the unsuccessful 1960 campaign in New York.

It also is conceivable that Morhouse might be telling Republicans that the "issues and matters" that resulted in a Republican defeat in New York this year might work against Nixon if he is renominated in four years.

Rockefeller made a short-lived attempt to win the Republican nomination this year and became a severe critic of Nixon in the process. The two had a public reconciliation when they reached agreement on platform principles a few days before the GOP National Convention.

Morhouse said that Rockefeller's campaign within New York State for Nixon was "exhaustive and exhausting. No effort could have been more vigorous, more extensive, more unstinting."

The state chairman pointed out that Republicans had suffered a net loss of nearly two million votes. President Eisenhower carried the state by 1.5 million votes in 1956. Nixon lost by 400,000 this year.

Morhouse said it was preposterous to suggest this turnover "could be ascribed to campaign techniques or tactics within the state."

"Such a swing could obviously result from far more fundamental reactions to issues and matters quite beyond control by the campaigning at the state level," the chairman said.

STATE AMENDMENTS

Voting Traditions Tumble In Election

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Some tradition in voting tumbled in the Nov. 8 balloting for 55 constitutional amendments, a study showed Saturday.

The final tally on the voting came as organizations over the state Thursday ended a farm-city week observance.

The occasion may have marked to some extend a change of heart from the tendency for the city to vote against the country and the country against the city on such issues that pertain to the other.

A major upset of previous "form sheets" was the handy passage of amendment 17, which provides two additioal representatives each for East Baton Rouge and Jefferson parishes.

The real margin of victory for the apportionment amendment came from semi-rural and rural areas which previously had resisted successfully all efforts to equalize the legislative voting strength of city and rural areas.

Reversal of this negative trend in rural areas was accented by the defeat of the reapportionment proposal in Orleans Parish, and a surprisingly small margin of victory in neighboring Jefferson.

The amendment failed to pass by 2,100 votes in Orleans, and had a cushion of less than 22,000 votes in East Baton Rouge and Jefferson, the two parishes directly affected.

An overwhelming negative vote "up country" had swamped the 1958 reapportionment proposal nearly 2-1 or 107,000 to 54,697.

As the returns were promulgated this time, however, it was apparent the rural parishes contributed substantially to the margin of 28,000 votes by which the amendment carried.

Half the 34 parishes giving a majority to amendment 17 are designated as rural, including such stalwart country parishes as Union, Vernon, Tensas, Sabine, Avoyelles and East Carroll. The final total was 207,418 votes for and 179,661 against.

The rural support apparently was reciprocated to some extent, as substantial numbers of city residents voted in favor of the strictly agricultural amendment 32, which provided for exemption of farm equipment from parish and state property taxes.

The rural amendment had been whipped soundly in two previous appearances, mustering only 40 per cent of the vote in 1958, and taking nearly a 2-1 shellacking in 1956 when a limited exemption of $5,000 per farm was proposed.

In the recent voting, the amendment carried 56 parishes, including the city-dominated parishes of Caddo, Ouachita and Calcasieu.

Voters in Orleans and East Baton Rouge rejected it, but the negative votes in these areas were considerably less on a percentage basis than in the previous two attempts.

Some selectivity was noted in voting on the Agricultural proposal.

Although amendment 32 as approved by more than 14,000 votes, a majority of 112,000 soundly rejected amendment 34, which would have provided a similar exemption for crop dusting aircraft. Amendment 33, which provides for refund for taxes paid on fuel burned in stationary agricultural motors, was approved handily, 222,237 to 152,399.

Most observers give the state's daily newspapers credit for passage of amendment 17. Most dailies supported the measure.

Some rural politicians also admit privately they did not actively oppose the reapportionment proposal as in the past.

Youth Is Found Dead On Tracks

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Carl Wayne Chandler, 14, of Colfax, was found dead late friday near a railroad track in the Mead swamp area.

Grant Parish Coroner Dr. B. W. Smith said the boy, who was on a deer hunt, apparently fell asleep across the tracks and was struck by a train.

He said Chandler was apparently lying partially on the track watching for deer in a nearby field when he fell asleep.

Police Probing Local Shooting

Monroe police yesterday said they are still investigating a shooting which sent one Negro man to the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital with three bullet wounds from a small caliber pistol.

Authorities did not release the identity of either the victim or his assailant who is being charged with attempted murder.

Officers said they received a call to a Negro nightclub on Ouachita Avenue a few minutes before 5 p.m. yesterday.

When they arrived they found the wounded Negro wandering about in a daze. He was later taken to Charity hospital for treatment. His condition was reported not serious, although he suffered some loss of blood.

G. G. McCallum Dies Saturday

2 Pacifists Are Released Under Bail

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — To self-styled pacifists, opposed to construction of Polaris-firing nuclear submarines, were released under bail Saturday from New Haven state jail.

Of nine pacifists arrested Tuesday in Groton for trying to interfere with the launching of the Polaris submarine Ethan Allen, four remained in the jail here.

The two released Saturday, Victor Richman, 20, and Roger Aarons, 19, both of New York City, chose temporary freedom after about 24 hours in isolation cells.

Richman, Aarons and another of the pacifist group, Donald Martin, 20, of Wellesley, Mass., were placed in solitary confinement Friday for breaking jail rules.

The trio at first was determined to remain in solitary, despite an offer by jail authorities to return them to regular cells.

But by Saturday morning, they were ready to be taken out of the isolation cells. And Richman and Aarons left with a U. S. marshal to post the necessary bond for their freedom.

A hearing on the Groton launching incident is set for Monday before U. S. Commissioner Robert H. Alcorn in New Haven.

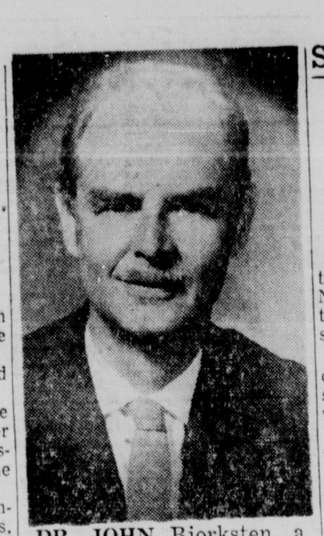

Three of the pacifists accepted release under bail one day after they were arrested. The others elected to remain in jail.

Officials said Richman, Aarons and Martin were placed in solitary for refusing to go to the prison mess or to return to their cells.

After they were let out of solitary, Sheriff J. Edward Slavin said the three youths "were willing to cooperate."

All nine pacifists are members of the Committee for Non-Violent Action, a group which has staged demonstrations and incidents against missile submarines and atomic installations in various parts of the country.

The nine arrested Tuesday were charged with entering a restricted area in Groton after the harbor had been closed by the Coast Guard.

DR. JOHN Bjorksten, a native of Finland, will address the South Arkansas Section of the American Chemical Society here at 7 p.m. Tuesday. He is head of a large research organization and will discuss patent applications.

Rockefeller Is Defended By Chairman

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican state chairman, defending Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, appeared in a guarded statement Saturday to be blaming Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the loss of New York State in the national election.

Chairman L. Judson Morhouse said the GOP lost the Empire State because of voter reaction to "issues and matters" beyond control of Rockefeller and other leaders of the state campaign.

Morhouse attacked what he called "currently circulated distortions" that alleged that Rockefeller had not campaigned wholeheartedly for Nixon, who lost the presidency to Democrat John F. Kennedy in a tight, national race.

New York's 45 electoral votes were a part of the Kennedy victory.

Rockefeller's name has been raised, after the Nixon defeat, as a potential GOP candidate for the presidency in 1964. But some Republican leaders hold that Rockefeller's inability to carry his own state for Nixon ruled him out of consideration for 1964.

Morhouse gave no specifics in his statement as to what New York Republican leaders considered the reasons for Nixon's failure to win the state.

In defending the Rockefeller role, Morhouse might have been counterattacking the claim that Rockefeller was ineligible for the 1964 nomination because of the unsuccessful 1960 campaign in New York.

It also is conceivable that Morhouse might be telling Republicans that the "issues and matters" that resulted in a Republican defeat in New York this year might work against Nixon if he is renominated in four years.

Rockefeller made a short-lived attempt to win the Republican nomination this year and became a severe critic of Nixon in the process. The two had a public reconciliation when they reached agreement on platform principles a few days before the GOP National Convention.

Morhouse said that Rockefeller's campaign within New York State for Nixon was "exhaustive and exhausting. No effort could have been more vigorous, more extensive, more unstinting."

The state chairman pointed out that Republicans had suffered a net loss of nearly two million votes. President Eisenhower carried the state by 1.5 million votes in 1956. Nixon lost by 400,000 this year.

Morhouse said it was preposterous to suggest this turnover "could be ascribed to campaign techniques or tactics within the state."

"Such a swing could obviously result from far more fundamental reactions to issues and matters quite beyond control by the campaigning at the state level," the chairman said.

STATE AMENDMENTS

Voting Traditions Tumble In Election

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Some tradition in voting tumbled in the Nov. 8 balloting for 55 constitutional amendments, a study showed Saturday.

The final tally on the voting came as organizations over the state Thursday ended a farm-city week observance.

The occasion may have marked to some extend a change of heart from the tendency for the city to vote against the country and the country against the city on such issues that pertain to the other.

A major upset of previous "form sheets" was the handy passage of amendment 17, which provides two additioal representatives each for East Baton Rouge and Jefferson parishes.

The real margin of victory for the apportionment amendment came from semi-rural and rural areas which previously had resisted successfully all efforts to equalize the legislative voting strength of city and rural areas.

Reversal of this negative trend in rural areas was accented by the defeat of the reapportionment proposal in Orleans Parish, and a surprisingly small margin of victory in neighboring Jefferson.

The amendment failed to pass by 2,100 votes in Orleans, and had a cushion of less than 22,000 votes in East Baton Rouge and Jefferson, the two parishes directly affected.

An overwhelming negative vote "up country" had swamped the 1958 reapportionment proposal nearly 2-1 or 107,000 to 54,697.

As the returns were promulgated this time, however, it was apparent the rural parishes contributed substantially to the margin of 28,000 votes by which the amendment carried.

Half the 34 parishes giving a majority to amendment 17 are designated as rural, including such stalwart country parishes as Union, Vernon, Tensas, Sabine, Avoyelles and East Carroll. The final total was 207,418 votes for and 179,661 against.

The rural support apparently was reciprocated to some extent, as substantial numbers of city residents voted in favor of the strictly agricultural amendment 32, which provided for exemption of farm equipment from parish and state property taxes.

The rural amendment had been whipped soundly in two previous appearances, mustering only 40 per cent of the vote in 1958, and taking nearly a 2-1 shellacking in 1956 when a limited exemption of $5,000 per farm was proposed.

In the recent voting, the amendment carried 56 parishes, including the city-dominated parishes of Caddo, Ouachita and Calcasieu.

Voters in Orleans and East Baton Rouge rejected it, but the negative votes in these areas were considerably less on a percentage basis than in the previous two attempts.

Some selectivity was noted in voting on the Agricultural proposal.

Although amendment 32 as approved by more than 14,000 votes, a majority of 112,000 soundly rejected amendment 34, which would have provided a similar exemption for crop dusting aircraft. Amendment 33, which provides for refund for taxes paid on fuel burned in stationary agricultural motors, was approved handily, 222,237 to 152,399.

Most observers give the state's daily newspapers credit for passage of amendment 17. Most dailies supported the measure.

Some rural politicians also admit privately they did not actively oppose the reapportionment proposal as in the past.

Youth Is Found Dead On Tracks

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Carl Wayne Chandler, 14, of Colfax, was found dead late friday near a railroad track in the Mead swamp area.

Grant Parish Coroner Dr. B. W. Smith said the boy, who was on a deer hunt, apparently fell asleep across the tracks and was struck by a train.

He said Chandler was apparently lying partially on the track watching for deer in a nearby field when he fell asleep.

Police Probing Local Shooting

Monroe police yesterday said they are still investigating a shooting which sent one Negro man to the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital with three bullet wounds from a small caliber pistol.

Authorities did not release the identity of either the victim or his assailant who is being charged with attempted murder.

Officers said they received a call to a Negro nightclub on Ouachita Avenue a few minutes before 5 p.m. yesterday.

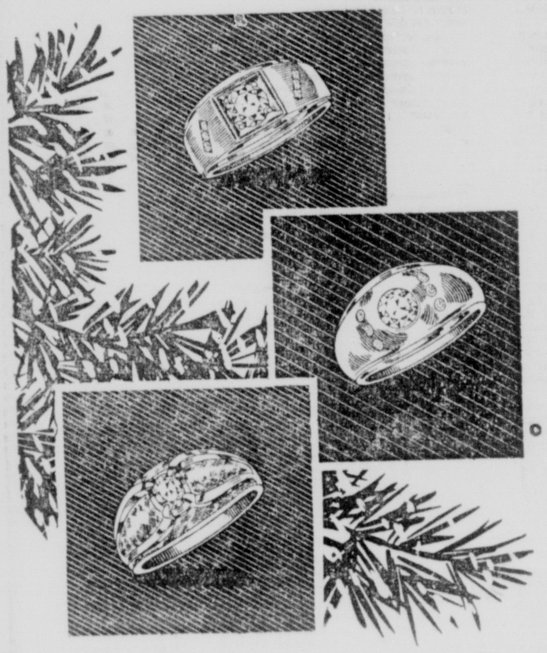

When they arrived they found the wounded Negro wandering about in a daze. He was later taken to Charity hospital for treatment. His condition was reported not serious, although he suffered some loss of blood.

EAT ENEMIES

Cannibal Rituals Return To Congo

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The ancient ritual of eating your enemy is making a secret comeback in the Congo backwoods.

Unrest sweeping the country and the fact Belgian punitive measures no longer are to be feared contribute to the revival of cannibal witchcraft.

The Belgian administration and Christian missionaries never quite stamped out the belief among the isolated and primitive tribes that eating your enemy will strengthen you.

Among some Baluba clans in Kasai and north Katanga, in the remote border regions of Oriental Province and in the swamps of the middle Congo, human flesh is again eaten in secret tribal ritual—not as a delicacy or for nourishment, but for the magic properties of a dead enemy's limbs and organs.

The heart brings courage, the brain intelligence, and the legs speed, according to the witch doctors. They hold that the more dreaded and hated the enemy, the more powerful the magic.

But never is a man sacrificed in cold blood simply to be eaten, as in the cartoonists' "missionary stew." The magic of the warrior tribesmen requires a body slain in combat or in vengeance.

U.N. officials are convinced that one of the eight Irish soldiers killed in a recent Baluba ambush in northern Katanga was eaten in a cannibal ritual

His body disappeared from where he had died under a hail of arrows. It never has been recovered. Experts in tribal customs believe he was selected from the eight victims as most suited for their rites.

Two Tunisians killed earlier in tribal fighting in southern Kasai are known they have been partly consumed in similar ceremonies.

The pilot of a single-seater Belgian observation plane shot down by Congolese mutineers near Inkisi in July never was found. A Congolese blandly told searchers: "The people were so enraged they ate him."

Near Kundu an escaping prisoner killed a policeman during the postindependence turmoil. Since there was no authority to pursue the murderer, the policeman's clan formed a posse, tracked the man through the jungle killed him and ate him.

The dreaded Kitawala sect, the crocodile men of the middle Congo, dress in crocodile skins and rip up a victim's body with claws strapped on their arms.

The Kitawalas in the final years of Belgian rule brought the greatest upsurge of cannibalism in the Congo for nearly a century.

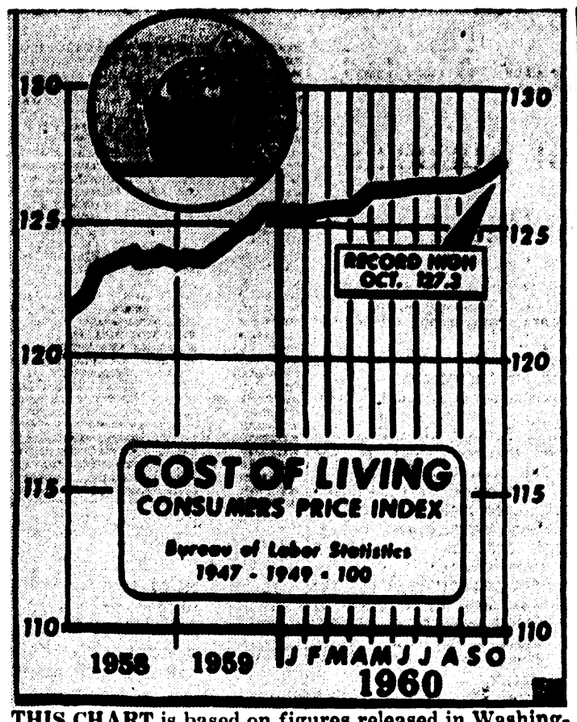

They were ruthlessly suppressed by the Belgian administration, but some of their followers are reported regrouping in remote areas seldom visited by white men.

All those familiar with the more primitive Congo tribes report a conspiracy of silence concerning the cannibal rites. Even in the cities Africans become silent and hard of hearing when the matter is raised.

Now and again a civilized city-African can be heard to utter cannibalistic threats more in jest than in anger.

Occasionally such threats contain more than a hint of savagery. A Congolese army lieutenant stepped up to the plane of departing Ghana charge d'affaires Nathaniel Welbeck last week and shouted at him: "If you don't take your Ghana soldiers out of the Congo, we will eat them all."

Welbeck, a highly cultured African himself, grinned and quickly withdrew from the door of the plane.

PICKET ATLANTA STORES

Negroes Ignore Robed Klansmen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Negro students disregarded white-robed, hooded Klansmen parading in front of a downtown department store Saturday and picketed the store in protest over segregated lunch counters.

It was the first time Klansmen and Negroes have staged demonstrations simultaneously on the same ground in Atlanta.

Klansmen paraded around Rich's department store for three hours before leaving the scene to Negro pickets. There was no disorder and no arrests.

Thousands of shoppers paid little attention to either group. Christmas chimes from the store mingled with horns of cars that jammed the area.

The Negro picketing was a resumption of antisegregation demonstrations that resulted last month in the arrest of 79 persons on charges of violating a new state trespass law aimed at halting lunch counter sit-ins.

After the mass arrests, a 30-day truce was called to permit white and Negro leaders to seek a solution. Negro sit-in demonstrators returned to the downtown area Friday, causing the closing of store eating facilities on what is usually the biggest shopping day of the year.

Some 30 Klansmen appeared at 10 a.m. Saturday at Rich's, largest department store in the Southeast. They marched in single file, 15 feet apart, circling the store which covers an entire block. Men in civilian clothing handed out Klan pamphlets criticizing "sit-ins, knee-ins, wade-ins and all other push-ins." The pamphlets called attention to a segregation rally set for Wednesday night at a downtown hotel.

An hour later, fifteen or more Negro pickets bearing antisegregation and boycott signs, began parading across the street from the Klansmen. Other Negroes distributed pamphlets calling on residents to "act for freedom." Their leaflets said merchants "have flatly refused to let Atlanta Negroes shop and eat in dignity."

The Klansmen paraded for three hours. Half an hour before they left the scene, Calvin Craig, Klan grand dragon, went into Rich's, accompanied by Lester Maddox, chairman of a segregationist group.

Maddox said he came downtown to try to stop the Klan marching after some merchants made the request. He said he disapproved of picketing stores that maintain segregated eating places. But Craig said the decision to halt the Klan marching was his own.

Most of the picketed stores closed their lunch counters during Friday's demonstrations. Three drug stores opened them Saturday and Negroes staged a sit-in at once, just across the street from parading Klansmen. They sat at a counter with one of the robed and hooded Klansmen.

Klan groups are permitted to parade and demonstrate in Georgia if they obtain a charter and do not wear masks.

Set Chemical Engineers Meet On December 2

EL DORADO, Ark. (Special) — J. S. Brooks, El Dorado attorney and president of the local school board, will discuss "Current School Problems" as principal speaker at the Ladies Night meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, El Dorado section, on December 2.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. and is expected to be well attended by members of the El Dorado section of AICE, which includes the northern third of Louisiana and the southern half of Arkansas.

Brooks has practiced law since 1937. He has served on the El Dorado school board since 1957 and has served as president of the board the past two years.

Farmerville Radio Station Is Sought

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Farmerville Broadcasting Company has been organized by J. H. Martin of Delhi and Si Willing of Winnsboro.

Martin is the owner and Willing is the manager of Radio Station KMAR in Winnsboro. They said that plans have been completed to file with the federal communication commission for a 1,000 watts radio station to be located in Farmerville.

BRODERICK, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Refugio Ramirez, believed to be 102 years old, burned to death Tuesday in a fire that destroyed the home she shared with her 66-year-old son. Fire department officials said the fire apparently was caused by Mrs. Ramirez' smoking in bed. Her son, Juan, suffered serious burns.

Set Architect Meet At LSU December 2-3

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The 1960 Louisiana Architects Association Convention will convene in Baton Rouge at the Capitol House Hotel on December 2 and 3 with representatives from the seven state chapters of the American Institute of Architects in attendance.

Kenneth C. Landry, general convention chairman, reports that an outstanding slate of speakers and panelists are scheduled for the meeting. Lt. Governor C. C. "Taddy" Aycock, representing Gov. Jimmie Davis, will address the group at a luncheon on Saturday. Aycock will speak on the new Louisiana Bond and Building Commission and will introduce the Commission Director, Col. Wilbur Atkins to the assembled architects.

The Saturday evening address will be delivered by Buford L. Pickens, Director of Campus Planning, Washington University in St. Louis. Pickens, who is former dean of the schools of Architecture at Tulane and Washington U., will also serve as moderator on the Saturday afternoon panel discussion. Panel members for Saturday's educational program will include Dean Samuel T. Hurst of Auburn University; Dean John W. Lawrence of Tulane University; O. J. Baker, head of the LSU Board of Architecture, and Seymour Van Os. of Shreveport, who is secretary of the State Board of Architectural Examiners. The panel will discuss the responsibilities of the school, licensing board and architectural practicioners toward the education of an architect.

Other guests of the convention will include John Glover, Director of the Dept. of Occupational Standards of Louisiana, and the following members of the State Board of Architectural Examiners: D. Curtis Smith, of Monroe, President, Patrick M. Allison of New Orleans; Earl Mathes of New Orleans; A. Hays Town of Baton Rouge, and Van Os.

The informal opening of the convention will be on Friday with a Board of Directors meeting and luncheon. LAA President G. Scott Smitherman of Shreveport will preside.

Registration and producers exhibit visits are planned for Friday afternoon. A buffet supper, cocktail party and exhibit by LSU and Tulane students will fill the Friday evening program at the Old State Capitol.

The Saturday schedule includes a breakfast and business sessions. A luncheon and style show will be held for the architect's wives at the City Club of Baton Rouge at noon.

A full afternoon of activity is scheduled to include the address by Lt. Gov. Aycock and the educational panel discussion.

Saturday evening, a cocktail party, and the convention banquet and dance will be held.

Some 50 producers of materials and services used by architects have rented booths for displaying their wares during the convention.

AIA Chapters are located in Alexandria, Baton Rouge, Lafayette, Lake Charles, Monroe, New Orleans and Shreveport.

Grandmother's Rescue Try In Fire Is Futile

GLEN ROCK, N. J. (AP) — A grandmother vainly tried to rescue her granddaughter Saturday in a fire that cost them their lives. The child's paternal grandfather also died.

The body of Salome Long, 65, a school teacher, was found next to the crib of Candice Lee, 3, on the second floor after the early morning fire swept through a two-story frame dwelling.

The two died of suffocation, police said.

Also found dead on the second floor was Howard W. Green Sr., 56. He was burned to death, according to the authorities.

The owners of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Green Jr. were out at the time. Their older child, Richard Baker, 11, escaped from the burning house after two men passing by noticed the flames at 2:18 a.m., entered the house and woke the boy and his grandmother.

Mrs. Green went into shock when the Greens returned home to the fire. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson, where she was reported in fair condition.

Compromise Step Taken By Alliance

PARIS (AP) — Leading lawmakers from Atlantic pact countries agreed Saturday that the governments of the 15 NATO nations should have a voice in the use of the alliance's missile strength. But they declined to take steps toward making NATO a nuclear power on its own.

About 200 members of parliaments of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization members ended their annual conference with a unanimous resolution for the NATO Council, which meets here next month. It urged the council to develop "political authority" over aircraft, missiles, Polaris submarines and other methods of delivering a nuclear bomb to an enemy target.

NOT SPELLED OUT

The specific type of authority was not spelled out, but from previous discussion it would mean some kind of control of an Allied political body rather than U. S. military commanders.

U.S. officers, acting under orders from the President, have custody of the nuclear warheads that pack the punch of the U.S. missiles and bombers in Western Europe. But the actual use of the weapons — operating launching sites or air bases, for example — is shared between the United States and the countries where they are stationed.

The NATO parliamentarians had been asked to consider a new idea—putting missiles and even their nuclear warheads under the collective control of the alliance. That would have made NATO a world nuclear power on its own.

The parliamentarians — Whose recommendations are purely advisory—refused to go that far. They want to see NATO in control of the missiles but sidestepped a decision on the warheads, which would remain under U.S. control.

They also called for creation of a strongly armed and highly mobile NATO "fire brigade" that could use conventional or nuclear weapons to repl any attack on NTAO territory, which stretches from Alaska across North America and Europe to eastern Turkey.

The parliamentarians acted after hearing hints from Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary-general, that the next U.S. administration may make what Spaak described as a very important proposal on the subject of nuclear armament.

Just back fro a visit to Washington, where he conferred with top American officials and with spokesmen for President - elect John F. Kennedy, Spaak conceded that for the moment nothing has been definitely decided by the Americans.

The final resolution mentioned only the use of nuclear weapons and not their custody. Thus it represented an apparent compromise between the proponents of making NATO an atomic power and others who feel that putting nuclear arms in NATO's hands would unduly complicate a vital command problem in which decisions to retaliate must be taken within minutes.

Putting nuclear arms under NATO control would give all 15 members an equal voice in their use. This may help convince the smaller nations, and especially West Germany, that they do not need their own atomic bomb to stand on an equal footing with the United States.

West Germany is prohibited by treaty from manufacturing nuclear weapons. There is a strong feeling in some quarters against allowing the Germans even to use them because of bitter memories of German aggression in two World Wars.

Spaak said the Eisenhower administration had started the examination of the problem of NATO armament, and he iplied that the Kennedy administration will continue this study.

"There are one or two solutions which are extremely audacious—for example, giving the alliance as such its own nuclear force," Spaak said.

"I am for it. . .If we create a single atomic force for all our countries, it will be a sign of new cohesion within the alliance which will have immediate psychological and political advantages."

American delegates joined in supporting the final resolution.

Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, two Democrats whose support could have been construed as committing the Kennedy administration, were absent. Both left for London Friday, possibly to avoid the votes.

BUDGET OUT OF BALANCE?
...here's sure way to solve your problem!

Budgets-out-of-balance probably cause more family arguments than almost anything else! Usually the trouble is that the amount budgeted for SAVINGS has a way of simply disappearing into the thin air. The argument then is about how or why this happened and who was responsible! The solution is as simple as this: If you would make it a practice to DEPOSIT your budgeted savings FIRST thing every payday, they couldn't disappear, and there'd be nothing to argue about. In the interests of family harmony and a growing bank account, always do your saving BEFORE you do your spending . . . starting very next payday!

PICKET ATLANTA STORES

Negroes Ignore Robed Klansmen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Negro students disregarded white-robed, hooded Klansmen parading in front of a downtown department store Saturday and picketed the store in protest over segregated lunch counters.

It was the first time Klansmen and Negroes have staged demonstrations simultaneously on the same ground in Atlanta.

Klansmen paraded around Rich's department store for three hours before leaving the scene to Negro pickets. There was no disorder and no arrests.

Thousands of shoppers paid little attention to either group. Christmas chimes from the store mingled with horns of cars that jammed the area.

The Negro picketing was a resumption of antisegregation demonstrations that resulted last month in the arrest of 79 persons on charges of violating a new state trespass law aimed at halting lunch counter sit-ins.

After the mass arrests, a 30-day truce was called to permit white and Negro leaders to seek a solution. Negro sit-in demonstrators returned to the downtown area Friday, causing the closing of store eating facilities on what is usually the biggest shopping day of the year.

Some 30 Klansmen appeared at 10 a.m. Saturday at Rich's, largest department store in the Southeast. They marched in single file, 15 feet apart, circling the store which covers an entire block. Men in civilian clothing handed out Klan pamphlets criticizing "sit-ins, kneel-ins, wade-ins and all other push-ins." The pamphlets called attention to a segregation rally set for Wednesday night at a downtown hotel.

An hour later, fifteen or more Negro pickets bearing antisegregation and boycott signs, began parading across the street from the Klansmen. Other Negroes distributed pamphlets calling on residents to "act for freedom." Their leaflets said merchants "have flatly refused to let Atlanta Negroes shop and eat in dignity."

The Klansmen paraded for three hours. Half an hour before they left the scene, Calvin Craig, Klan grand dragon, went into Rich's, accompanied by Lester Maddox, chairman of a segregationist group.

Maddox said he came downtown to try to stop the Klan marching after some merchants made the request. He said he disapproved of picketing stores that maintain segregated eating places. But Craig said the decision to halt the Klan marching was his own.

Most of the picketed stores closed their lunch counters during Friday's demonstrations. Three drug stores opened them Saturday and Negroes staged a sit-in at once, just across the street from parading Klansmen. They sat at a counter with one of the robed and hooded Klansmen.

Klan groups are permitted to parade and demonstrate in Georgia if they obtain a charter and do not wear masks.

Set Chemical Engineers Meet On December 2

EL DORADO, Ark. (Special) — J. S. Brooks, El Dorado attorney and president of the local school board, will discuss "Current School Problems" as principal speaker at the Ladies Night meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, El Dorado section, on December 2.

FBI Seeking Murderer In Kidnap Case

killed instantly if authorities were notified.

This was the first in a series of phone calls and communications. The Alessio family, which includes Alessio's six brothers, finally talked the kidnapers into accepting $200,000 for the abducted man's release.

Following instructions, a brother, John Alessio, placed the money in bills of $100 and less in a duffel bag and drove to a parking lot in Hollywood at Hollywood Boulevard and Bronson Avenue Wednesday night. He left the bag in the unlocked car and walked away. A man removed the bag and disappeared in heavy traffic that was connected with a Santa Claus parade in Hollywood that night.

Ninety minutes later Alessio was found by FBI agents in the San Diego motel, still handcuffed and blindfolded, but unharmed. The family had received a call telling them where Alessio could be found.

Shortly after Alessio was freed three persons were arrested in Los Angeles in the case. They are Robert James Gorman, 29, an escapee from the Men's Prison at Chino, Calif., where he was serving five years to life for robbery; his wife, Ruby Elaine, 30, and Selma Clark Marrone, 25, of Los Angeles. With their arrest FBI agents recovered $77,500 of the ransom money.

Mrs. Marrone is the wife of the man still being sought.

JAMES GORMAN, 29, of Monterey Park, Calif., is in custody of two FBI agents as he was led from the agents' office in Los Angeles following his arrest in connection with the kidnaping of Anthony Alessio, 41, one of the owners of the Caliente race track at Tijuana, Mexico. (AP Wirephoto)

Traffic Blocked By Snow Drifts

Cut Bank, Montana.

Unseasonably mild temperatures continued to prevail generally over the eastern third of the nation.

But a stable air mass held steady over the mid-Atlantic states for several days, and was blamed for acrid odors at ground level.

The New York City Department of Air Pollution Control said the odors were due to an "unusually high concentration of carbon monoxide and sulphur dioxide in the air."

Although brisk winds alleviated the condition slightly along the Atlantic Coast Saturday, the odors were expected to worsen before clearing out of the region about Monday.

Cold wave warnings were in effect for portions of Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Light snow and gusty northerly winds swept the region at midafternoon. Temperatures were in th middle and lower 20s.

Unpleasant weather continued to harass other sections of the West. Rain dampened northern and central California and fell as snow in the mountains. Fog shrouded wide stretches of Oregon and Washington.

Even though flood evacuees in western Oregon were able to return to homes they were forced to leave on Thanksgiving Day, the Willamette River and tributary streams swirled higher. At least 150 families were evacuated when a 6-inch downpour swamped the area Thursday.

Temperatures over the lower half of the Plains States were in the 60s and 70s at midday. The mildness extended eastward across the Mississippi Valley and into the Great Lakes region.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department has estimated the 1960 commercial fish catch for the United States at 4.9 billion pounds. This equals the five-year average and compares with 5.1 billion pounds in 1959.

Switch From Kennedy Is Group's Goal

touched off when state Sen. Howard Jones, St. Joseph, said he would introduce a resolution requesting the 10 electors not to vote for anyone who doesn't take a stand on the question of states regulating their own schools.

Jones' said his proposal had nine co-sponsors in the 39-member Senate. None of the sponsors is a Davis administraton leader.

The movement developed after Kennedy told a Louisiana delegation it would be inappropriate for him to comment, as the legislature had asked, on federal courts restraining the legislature.

Backers of unpledged electors hoped to put together a southern bloc. There are eight unpledged electors in Mississippi, six in Alabama.

In New Orleans Friday night, a segregationist legislator asked citizens to bombard the 10 electors with letters urging them to change their minds about voting for Kennedy.

Rep. Wellborn Jack, Caddo Parish, said in an address to the National Organization for Whites (NOW) the Louisiana electors would not be violating their pledge to the party candidate by holding back their votes.

Jack said " the original constitutional purpose was to have the electoral votes remain unpledged until they were cast in the Electoral College."

Sen. Jackson B. Davis of Shreveport, speaking to the same group, said he did not think the letters and telegrams would change the minds of the electors. But Davis pledged to vote in the Senate for the resolution.

Backers of unpledged electors hoped to put together a Southern bloc. There are eight unpledged electors in Mississippi, six in Alabama.

Should Illinois change, Nixon could have 250 votes, or 19 shy of election. And should the Louisiana Legislature succeed in throwing the state's 10 electoral votes into the unpledged category, that would add 10 free electors to the 14 in Mississippi and Alabama for a total of 24.

But there is no evidence of strong support in the Legislature. One veteran senator, who would not be quoted by name, said that Jones' Senate concurrent resolution "wouldn't go." And several southern Louisiana representatives branded any attempt to tamper with the electors foolish and ridiculous.

Rites Scheduled For Mrs. Green, Died Saturday

Mrs. Susan Elizabeth Avant Green, lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish, died early Saturday in a local hospital following a long illness. She was 76.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. today in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home with the Rev. E. L. Tanner and the Rev. Connie Ward officiating.

Interment will be in the Chapel Hill cemetery near West Monroe under the direction of Hixson Brothers.

Mrs. Green was the widow of the late John Green, who died earlier this year. She was a member of the Assembly of God Church.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Johnnie Mae Littleton of West Monroe, Mrs. Thelma Sager of New York and Mrs. Eunice Oberback of Los Angeles, Calif.; five sons, Elvin Green of Monroe, Edwin Green of Uniontown, Penn., Alton of Electra, Tex., and Robin and Arthur Steven Green, both of West Monroe; one brother, B. O. Avant of Calhoun; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Averitt and Mrs. Minnie Bullock, both of Epps, and Mrs. Pearl Malone of Calhoun; 17 grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

Pallbearers will be Seth Blazier, C. H. Cruse, Henry Johnson, O. A. Milstead, Cleo Deason and James White.

birth of her first child.

After being restricted to her bed since she entered the hospital Friday morning, Mrs. Kennedy was permitted to leave bed for the first time Saturday afternoon and walk around the room.

Pickup 4th pgh: Kennedy's press

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, told reporters that John Jr.—described by Dr. John Walsh as "very good-looking, healthy and good-sized" — had started to eat and was taking "little bits of sugar water."

This morning, the delighted President-elect paid a visit to his wife and newborn son. He later reported that mother, baby—and himself as well—were "doing fine."

Smiling and appearing well-rested, Kennedy was greeted by a small crowd of spectators when he arrived at the hospital for his fourth visit to his wife and their new son.

Earlier, a hospital spokesman reported that Mrs. Kennedy, who previously suffered two miscarriages, had spent a "very good" night sleeping under sedation. Nurses, meanwhile, reported that Mrs. Kennedy's room had been converted into a veritable florist's shop.

"You couldn't possibly wedge in another bouquet,' one of them said.

Mrs. Kennedy has been sending some of the overflow to other patients on the same floor.

Between visits to the hospital, the President-elect was devoting considerable time to the Kennedy's blonde daughter, Caroline, who will be three years old Sunday. Salinger told reporters that Kennedy had told Caroline about her new baby brother Friday night and that she since had been relaying the news to everyone visiting the Kennedy's Georgetown home.

The press secretary said that since the children's birthdays are only two days apart, they probably would be celebrated together in the future.

FBI Seeking Murderer In Kidnap Case

killed instantly if authorities were notified.

This was the first in a series of phone calls and communications. The Alessio family, which includes Alessio's six brothers, finally talked the kidnapers into accepting $200,000 for the abducted man's release.

Following instructions, a brother, John Alessio, placed the money in bills of $100 and less in a duffel bag and drove to a parking lot in Hollywood at Hollywood Boulevard and Bronson Avenue Wednesday night. He left the bag in the unlocked car and walked away. A man removed the bag and disappeared in heavy traffic that was connected with a Santa Claus parade in Hollywood that night.

Ninety minutes later Alessio was found by FBI agents in the San Diego motel, still handcuffed and blindfolded, but unharmed. The family had received a call telling them where Alessio could be found.

Shortly after Alessio was freed three persons were arrested in Los Angeles in the case. They are Robert James Gorman, 29, an escapee from the Men's Prison at Chino, Calif., where he was serving five years to life for robbery; his wife, Ruby Elaine, 30, and Selma Clark Marrone, 25, of Los Angeles. With their arrest FBI agents recovered $77,500 of the ransom money.

Mrs. Marrone is the wife of the man still being sought.

JAMES GORMAN, 29, of Monterey Park, Calif., is in custody of two FBI agents as he was led from the agents' office in Los Angeles following his arrest in connection with the kidnaping of Anthony Alessio, 41, one of the owners of the Caliente race track at Tijuana, Mexico. (AP Wirephoto)

Noah W. Rando Services Slated

Funeral services will be held today for Noah W. Rando, 79-year-old retired millwright, who died at his residence at 500 Wood St., Friday morning after a long illness.

Services will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home with the Rev. Elvin Parrott officiating. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery under the direction of Hixson Brothers.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Hester Rando, Monroe; two sons, William H. Rando, Goodwill, and Edward J. Freeman, Monroe; and three grandchildren.

Child Fatally Injured

She was Debra Sue Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis M. Curtis of Libuse.

Traffic Blocked By Snow Drifts

Cut Bank, Montana.

Unseasonably mild temperatures continued to prevail generally over the eastern third of the nation.

But a stable air mass held steady over the mid-Atlantic states for several days, and was blamed for acrid odors at ground level.

The New York City Department of Air Pollution Control said the odors were due to an "unusually high concentration of carbon monoxide and sulphur dioxide in the air."

Although brisk winds alleviated the condition slightly along the Atlantic Coast Saturday, the odors were expected to worsen before clearing out of the region about Monday.

Cold wave warnings were in effect for portions of Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Light snow and gusty northerly winds swept the region at midafternoon. Temperatures were in th middle and lower 20s.

Unpleasant weather continued to harass other sections of the West. Rain dampened northern and central California and fell as snow in the mountains. Fog shrouded wide stretches of Oregon and Washington.

Even though flood evacuees in western Oregon were able to return to homes they were forced to leave on Thanksgiving Day, the Willamette River and tributary streams swirled higher. At least 150 families were evacuated when a 6-inch downpour swamped the area Thursday.

Temperatures over the lower half of the Plains States were in the 60s and 70s at midday. The mildness extended eastward across the Mississippi Valley and into the Great Lakes region.

Former Resident Of West Monroe Succumbs Friday

Mrs. Ivy Coates Barnett, 69, of Savannah, Ga., and formerly of West Monroe, died in Savannah Friday after a long illness.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held Saturday in Savannah where interment was to be conducted.

Mrs. Barnett was a native of West Monroe. She moved to Georgia many years ago.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. J. O. Fleming, Mrs. A. J. Hattaway and Mrs. Tom Hobgood, all of West Monroe; one son, Albert T. Coates, of California; one brother, W. C. Kelley, of West Monroe; four sisters, Mrs. Louella Cade, Mrs. L. L. Banks, Mrs. V. B. Roark, all of West Monroe, and Mrs. Mattie Mann, of Columbia; 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Youth Is Hit, Killed By Auto

ST. FRANCISVILLE, La. (AP) — A car killed 12-year-old Sylvester White, Negro, as he ran from behind a parked bus north of here Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff W. M. Daniels said the boy had seen his mother off as she boarded the bus and ran into the car's path when it was only five feet away.

Driver of the car was identified as Jack B. Hombs, Baton Rouge.

MRS. SELMA CLARK MARRONE, 25, of Los Angeles is pictured with two FBI agents after her arrest in Los Angeles in connection with the kidnaping at San Diego of Anthony Alessio, 41, one of the owners of the Caliente race track at Tijuana, Mex. Two other suspects also were arrested. Alessio was released after the payment of $200,000. (AP Wirephoto) (See AP Wire story)

Test Of Talents

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — A city policeman was writing a parking ticket when a pretty girl flounced up and pouted:

"Oh, officer, you aren't going to write me a ticket, are you?"

The officer continued writing and she persisted.

"Please, you know I just forgot all about what time it was."

"Oh, all right," the officer relented, putting away his pencil and tearing up the ticket gallantly. The girl turned abruptly and stifling a giggle, walked away.

"Just a minute," he said. "Aren't you going to move your car"

"Oh, it isn't mine," she replied. "I just wanted to see if I could do it."

BY BRITISH QUEEN

Royal 'Hideaway' Created In Palace

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip have created a hideaway in Windsor Castle, with every rug, chair, wall decoration end piece of furniture right out of today's show windows.

The queen and her husband, it was disclosed Saturday, decided to create a suite in the Kind Edward III Tower that would completely reflect life in 1960. Even the paintings are modern.

They planned the five-room apartment, supervised the drawings and purchases and completed the work before permitting any information to leak out.

Details of the venture were revealed in the magazine Design, published by the Council of Industrial Design.

The modern suite is for family use only and will not be open to tourists. Large sections of Windsor are seen by thousands of tourists annually at times when the queen is not in residence.

The royal couple comissioned Sir Hugh and Lady Casson to prepare the layout, making the one apartment typical of these times. Others are of the past.

The huge pile of stone that is Windsor has undergone many changes over the centuries, especialily when it was occupied by the more dynamic sovereigns such as Queen Elizabeth I, Charles II, and George IV.

In furnishing the suite, the queen drew on the ideas of prominent designers but also accepted some standard brands from manufactured stock.

Juries of the Furniture Makers' Guild lent their expert advice and passed on the quality of the items.

The suite is predominantly British. Design, commenting on the project, saw it s a boost for "modern."

"The queen could not have chosen a more appropriate place in which to enjoy the pleasures of refurnishing and to demonstrate her faith in British tradition of experiment and development," the magazine said.

Find the strength for your life...

WORSHIP TOGETHER THIS WEEK

Somewhere in your town a man you may have never seen waits hopefully for you.

He is a minister. A priest. A rabbi. A man used to speaking out . . . making decisions . . . taking action for himself, for his congregation and his community. But where you're concerned, he can only wait and hope you will come.

He holds something in trust for you—the powerful, crucial first introduction to Faith. And he is anxious to be able to pass it on.

The strength and confidence of Faith can mean many things to many men . . . and to the families who count on them. So together with your family start to find that Faith this week.

Former Resident Of West Monroe Succumbs Friday

Mrs. Ivy Coates Barnett, 69, of Savannah, Ga., and formerly of West Monroe, died in Savannah Friday after a long illness.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held Saturday in Savannah where interment was to be conducted.

Mrs. Barnett was a native of West Monroe. She moved to Georgia many years ago.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. J. O. Fleming, Mrs. A. J. Hattaway and Mrs. Tom Hobgood, all of West Monroe; one son, Albert T. Coates, of California; one brother, W. C. Kelley, of West Monroe; four sisters, Mrs. Louella Cade, Mrs. L. L. Banks, Mrs. V. B. Roark, all of West Monroe, and Mrs. Mattie Mann, of Columbia; 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Youth Is Hit, Killed By Auto

ST. FRANCISVILLE, La. (AP) — A car killed 12-year-old Sylvester White, Negro, as he ran from behind a parked bus north of here Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff W. M. Daniels said the boy had seen his mother off as she boarded the bus and ran into the car's path when it was only five feet away.

Driver of the car was identified as Jack B. Hombs, Baton Rouge.

MRS. SELMA CLARK MARRONE, 25, of Los Angeles is pictured with two FBI agents after her arrest in Los Angeles in connection with the kidnaping at San Diego of Anthony Alessio, 41, one of the owners of the Caliente race track at Tijuana, Mex. Two other suspects also were arrested. Alessio was released after the payment of $200,000. (AP Wirephoto) (See AP Wire story)

Test Of Talents

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — A city policeman was writing a parking ticket when a pretty girl flounced up and pouted:

"Oh, officer, you aren't going to write me a ticket, are you?"

The officer continued writing and she persisted.

"Please, you know I just forgot all about what time it was."

"Oh, all right," the officer relented, putting away his pencil and tearing up the ticket gallantly. The girl turned abruptly and stifling a giggle, walked away.

"Just a minute," he said. "Aren't you going to move your car"

"Oh, it isn't mine," she replied. "I just wanted to see if I could do it."

BY BRITISH QUEEN

Royal 'Hideaway' Created In Palace

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip have created a hideaway in Windsor Castle, with every rug, chair, wall decoration end piece of furniture right out of today's show windows.

The queen and her husband, it was disclosed Saturday, decided to create a suite in the Kind Edward III Tower that would completely reflect life in 1960. Even the paintings are modern.

They planned the five-room apartment, supervised the drawings and purchases and completed the work before permitting any information to leak out.

Details of the venture were revealed in the magazine Design, published by the Council of Industrial Design.

The modern suite is for family use only and will not be open to tourists. Large sections of Windsor are seen by thousands of tourists annually at times when the queen is not in residence.

The royal couple comissioned Sir Hugh and Lady Casson to prepare the layout, making the one apartment typical of these times. Others are of the past.

The huge pile of stone that is Windsor has undergone many changes over the centuries, especiallly when it was occupied by the more dynamic sovereigns such as Queen Elizabeth I, Charles II, and George IV.

In furnishing the suite, the queen drew on the ideas of prominent designers but also accepted some standard brands from manufactured stock.

Juries of the Furniture Makers' Guild lent their expert advice and passed on the quality of the items.

The suite is predominantly British. Design, commenting on the project, saw it s a boost for "modern."

"The queen could not have chosen a more appropriate place in which to enjoy the pleasures of refurnishing and to demonstrate her faith in British tradition of experiment and development," the magazine said.

Find the strength for your life...

WORSHIP TOGETHER THIS WEEK

Somewhere in your town a man you may have never seen waits hopefully for you.

He is a minister. A priest. A rabbi. A man used to speaking out . . . making decisions . . . taking action for himself, for his congregation and his community. But where you're concerned, he can only wait and hope you will come.

He holds something in trust for you—the powerful, crucial first introduction to Faith. And he is anxious to be able to pass it on.

The strength and confidence of Faith can mean many things to many men . . . and to the families who count on them. So together with your family start to find that Faith this week.

Scientists To Establish Space Group

GENEVA (UPI) — Scientists from 10 European countries gathered here Saturday for a conference aimed at launching an independent space program that will compete with the United State and Russia.

"We in Europe feel that we must have our own space program" said Prof. Marcel Golay who will preside over the meeting. "What if relations between Russia and the United States change?"

The experts will meet Monday at the Center for Nuclear Research (CERN) to establish a planning commission to coordinate European science on a joint effort of space research. The experts hope to begin operations in about a year.

Golay, who directs the Geneva observatory, said that so far only such giants as the United States and Russia have been able to offer the sums needed to probe space with missiles, satellites and delicate measuring instruments.

"It is necessary to limit this advance," said Golay.

"We are not worried about strategic or military weapons. The purpose is to put space research to work for European industry and to make it competitive with the technological advances which have been made in the United States and Russia," he said.

Churchill Gets Back On Feet

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, bedfast since he broke a small bone in his back in a fall at his home Nov. 13, got back on his feet Saturday.

Puffing away at a cigar, the former prime minister was up and around in his London home for an hour or so Saturday afternoon. He had said he would be up in time for his 86th birthday Wednesday.

Change Of Tempo

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A new idea in motion picture music will be presented in Allied Artists "The Plunderers."

The music has been written by composer - conductor Leonard Roseman. The picture is based on four juvenile delinquents on horseback. Although the story takes place in post - Civil War Texas, the music has a modern touch instead of the traditional Western style.

Cecil "Buddy" Long of Ferriday was among the 37 Mississippi Southern College students who were named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

Buddy is a senior major in chemistry and mathematics, scheduled to graduate in June.

After a short stint in the Army he plans to go into chemical research.

At Southern, he has earned three letters in football and was named to the American Chemical Society Football All-America in 1958.

A member of Phi Eta Sigma Honorary Society, Buddy is an outstanding student — he maintained a 3. average out of a possible 4.

He is also a member of these groups: American Chemical Society Student Affiliate; Scabbard and Blade; Kappa Alpha; and a nominee of Omicorn Delta Kappa.

Buddy is married to the former Gerrie Olds, of Abbeville, La.

Over in Lake Providence, Dr. Carl Kelly was named the new Cubmaster for Pack No. 25, when it was recently re-organized.

Already enrolled are 25 members with these Den Mothers: Mrs. F. A. Babb, Mrs. J. S. McKenzie, Mrs. Brady Oswalt, Mrs. Brown Nelson, Mrs. Francis Aken and Mrs. Homer Milstead.

Dr. Kelly has announced the first regular meeting of the new group will be at 7 p.m. Monday in Fellowship Hall of the Methodist church, sponsor of the Cub Scout Pack.

Concordia Parish is represented on the Northwestern State College campus at Natchitoches by 36 students.

Meanwhile, art students of the Rev. C. E. Peaden, Ferriday, exhibited their work at the Concordia Parish Library during last week. Visitors voted for pictures of their choice, and coming up in first place was Mrs. Ruby Swayze for her painting of a country scene. Second place went to Catherine Castleberry for her mountain scene and third spot was taken by Jeannette DeLaune's sea scene. In the still life division, choices ran like this; first, a magnolia by Jackie Maxwell; second, a brass vase of flowers, Mrs. Jules O. Glanton; and third, a magnolia by Mrs. Glanton. Other exhibitors included Mrs. Myrtle Finley, Harrisonburg; Mrs. Anna Clayton and Mrs. J. L. Blue.

Youths seem to be in the news more and more, not so much for delinquency, but for what they're accomplishing to further their futures.

Hilda Wade, Holly Ridge High school junior, was elected the statewide reporter for the Future Homemakers of America at the group's 27th annual meeting this month in Alexandria.

Hilda was chosen from hundreds of delegates from high schools all over the state.

Official 1960 U. S. Census Bureau results, just released, show that Franklin Parish lost 3,283 residents since 1950, more than any of the other 13 northeast Louisiana parishes. West Carroll was a close second with a loss of 3,071 noses.

Only four of the parishes showed a population gain: Jackson, Lincoln, Morehouse and Ouachita. Jackson gained the least number: 394 persons. Its neighbor, Winn, lost fewer than any of the other parishes: 85.

The four "gains" parishes counted: Jackson, 15,828—1950, 15,434; Lincoln, 36,595—1950, 25,782; Morehouse, 33,709—1950, 32,038; and Ouachita, 101,663—1950, 84,513.

Production Starts

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Filming has begun at Nagasaki, Japan, on "The Big Wave," starring an all - Japanese, but English - speaking cast.

Sessue Hayawaka, who starred in "Hell to Eternity," heads the cast in the story dealing with the effect of a tidal wave on a small fishing village.

Ike Denies U.S. Against Free Africa

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Saturday it is not ture, as President Sekou Toure of Guinea contends, that the United States supports those who oppose freedom for Africans.

Toure linked his complaint chiefly to the U.S. attitude toward the turbulent Congo. Guinea has lined up there with the position taken by the Soviet Union.

Toure set forth his views in a cablegram dated Nov. 20. Eisenhower replied Friday, and the White House made the exchange public Saturday.

Eisenhower said the record is clear that the United States has been in the forefront of those nations which have favored emancipation of all peoples, including Africans.

He added: "With specific reference to the Republic of the Congo, the United States warmly welcomed its independence. We have recognized and upheld its unity and territorial integrity through United Nations actions."

Toure had expressed concern at what he termed "the development of a partisan position by the United States in the situation in the Congo."

He urged that the United States "cease supporting the position of the enemies of African emancipation, who are employing every possible means against the legitimate government of the Congo to attack the unity and territorial integrity of the Congolese nation."

The United States has been supporting Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu.

EILEEN WEISS, 29, comes face to face with Salvatore Andrioli, 31, right, outside Felony Court in New York after she was paroled for a hearing in child abandonment case. Miss Weiss said she abandoned her two youngsters in a department store on Thanksgiving Eve because she was penniless and unable to care for them. A women's organization is working to provide her with a home, job and proper care for the children. She said Andrioli, who identified himself as the father of the children, had been supporting her and the youngsters, but had recently left her. (AP Wirephoto)

Interference Charged By Laos Leader

By ROY ESSOYAN

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Prince Souvanna Phouma, Laos' neutralist premier, charged Saturday that foreigners are interfering in his attempts to restore political peace.

Souvanna did not mention any names in a speech before a cheering rally of 2,000. But he often has accused the United States of supporting the right-wing rebel regime of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and has suggested that Washington back him exclusively in Laos.

However, Souvanna has made no formal demands for an end to U.S. help for Phoumi, an anti-Communist strong man in previous Laotian regimes.

Phong Phongsavan, former president of the National Assembly and organizer of the rally, made a speech to the crowd calling on the premier to do so. Souvanna ignored the request.

"I have only one desire," said Souvanna, "to bring peace to all our people. But foreign interference, which certain people have taken advantage of for their own ends, has created a very dangerous situation.

"I hope and pray that we can get together and that the wishes of our people will prevail. But if we are thwarted, we will fight. And if we do, we will win."

Souvanna said that if his government does not work out a truce among the country's political factions and therefore collapses, open war will break out between Phoumi's pro-Western forces and the Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels, who have been waging civil war on their own for six years.

"We must not let our country become a battleground between East and West," he said as the crowd roared approval.

Souvanna is attempting an extremely delicate political balancing act. He has asked the Pathet Lao and Phoumi's right-wingers to join his government, proposed sending goodwill missions to Communist China and North Viet Nam, agreed to accept Soviet aid, and asked the United States to back up all these measures.

The United States has been sending help to Phoumi because its aid agreements sitpulate it must support the Laotian army, much of which is under Phoumi's command.

Souvanna has not gone as far to agree to diplomatic recognition for Red China and North Viet Nam on the ground that they are not members of the United Nations. Laotian recognition of these two Communist countries is an aim of the Pathet Lao, which has agreed to serve in a government with Phoumi's representatives. Whether such a coalition government will ever be set up, however, remains doubtful.

Red Skelton To Present Spectacular

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Red Skelton, Hollywood's gentle, genial and charming clown, has arranged a personally guided tour of Hollywood, complete with dancing in the streets, for television viewers next Wednesday (Nov. 30).

The spectacular, billed as a sort of non-profit show, is a production of his Skelton Studios, the old Chaplin Studios, which were designed by the late Douglas Fairbanks. The show is pre-taped and in what Skelton says is perfect color and perfect audience reaction.

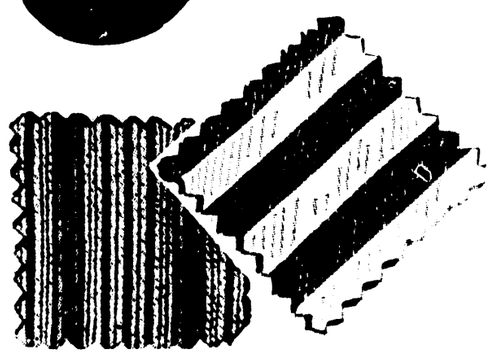

"We have an awful lot of new color tape equipment in our trailers," he said. "In fact, we even have two trailers with sides which let down into bleachers for 350 people. This is our audience and gives us proper reaction.

"For example, we measure each laugh on a meter. Later we eliminate this sound track if there are any background noises we don't want. Then we can put back the laughs, each one at exactly the same strength given by the live audience."

Skelton, enthusiastic about his new color tape project, said performers such as Jack Benny, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, George Raft, William Demarest and teen-age singer Bobby Rydell worked for minimum salary on the show.

"It's wonderful what they're doing," he said softly. "They wanted to make the show a hit. They knew that every cent from it would go back into our production facilities, so they worked for scale—and that isn't much when you consider what they usually get."

Charged Slayer Enters Hospital

WHITEIFLE, Miss. (AP) —Albert Lloyd Hall was taken to the state mental hospital here Saturday for indefinite observation after he had been charged with the murder of his 12-year-old son.

The 34-year-old Texan, who has been in and out of mental hospitals, was to undergo a series of tests to see if he was sane.

He said he shot his mentally retarded son Nov. 18 in a hunting accident. The youth's body was found Thursday under pine needles about 10 miles from Poplarville, near the Louisiana-Mississippi border.

Circuit Judge Sebe Dale ordered Hall taken to the institution.

Progress Slight On Republican Vote Recounts

WASHINGTON AP)—With little more than three weeks remaining before the electoral college meets, Republicans have made no positive progress toward obtaining statewide recounts of the presidential election in 11 states where they spoke of such action.

Final decisions still are pending in several states. In others, there has been no direct move to challenge the announced results of the Nov. 8 balloting.

President-elect John F. Kennedy was described Saturday by his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, as being not at all concerned over GOP efforts to obtain vote recounts in such states as Illinois and Texas.

They were among the 11 states which Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton mentioned Nov. 11 in urging that local Republican officials look into what he called purported vote frauds.

Vatican Protests Haiti Expulsion

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The expulsion of a Roman - Catholic archbishop from Haiti has brought a sharp, official protest from the Vatican and almost certainly exposed the Haitians responsible to automatic excommunication.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said Saturday the Holy See — in effect Pope John XXIII — has "presented the expression of its profound sorrow and its protest for the grave episode" through diplomatic channes.

There was no confirmation in the Haitian capital that the Vatican protest had been received.

The most Rev. Francois Poirier of Port au Prince, 56, the church's highest prelate in largely Roman Catholic Haiti, was expelled Thursday.

Haitian officials accsued him of having given money to Communists.

Poirier denied the charge. Now in Paris, he said that "the situation in Haiti is too delicate for me to talk." The Negro republic has been trying to end a university student strike, begun to protest the jailing of a student leader suspected of being a Communist.

The Vatican newspaper defended the archbishop and said it is not likely public opinion can be persuaded of any truth in the charges against him.

Strained relations between the Vatican and Haiti were dramatically highlighted Saturday by the absence of Haiti's Vatican ambassador from a memorial service for four cardinals who died in the past year.

Ambassador Antonio T. Kebreau here for the past 20 months, said he was too ill to attend.

"I'm suffering with rheumatism," he said. "It would be too painful for me to kneel. I told Vatican authorities yesterday that I could not go.'

Vatican circles, however described the ambassador's ailment as diplomatic, pointing out that he could have sent a representative.

All other members of the diplomatic corps to the Vatican were present for the ceremony, one of the major religious events in the Vatican's year. Pope John presided.

Among the four commemorated was Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac, primate of Yugoslavia, who died last February. His arrest, imprisonment and confinement led to the break of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Yugoslavia in 1952—the last Vatican tie with any Communist nation.

Vatican sources said those responsible for Stepinac's arrest and confinement incurred automatic excommunication, under Canon Law 2334 of the church.

The same law, L'Osservatore Romano indicated Saturday, applies to Haitian authorities who expelled Poirier.

The law inflicts excommunication upon any person who raises his hand against a church prelate or impedes his work. Excommunication deprives Catholics of the sacraments and, in general, ostracizes them.

That penalty was placed on those who acted against Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, primate of Hungary, and against Archbishop Josef Groesz of Hungary in 1951.

The most notable among modern cases of excommunication was proclaimed against authorites in Argentina—an almost solidly Catholic nation —in June, 1955, by the Vatican Consistorial Congregation. It was leveled against authorites of the former Juan Peron regime who had expelled Bishop Manuel Tato.

The most general of recent decrees was issued by the church in July, 1949, excommunicating Roman Catholics who serve as militant Communists and advance the cause of Marxist philosphy.

L'Osservatore said Archbishop Poirier had been taken "by military hand" from his official residence and immediatelly expelled. The Vatican newspaper called that surprising and described the archbishop's attitude as one of dignity.

Man Is Shot, Heavy Car Coat Saves His Life

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A heavy car coat was credited with saving the life of Leonard Hollins, a taproom owner, who was shot point blank in the stomach by a gunman early Saturday but escaped with only a scratch.

Hollins was wearing the car coat as he stood at the door of his taproom at closing time unlocking it for customers who were leaving.

Witnesses said one of two men sitting together in a booth walked up to Hollins, pulled a .38 caliber revolver from his pocket, stuck it against the proprietor's stomach and fired.

The force knocked Hollins backward but as he pulled himself to his knees, he heard a clink on the floor, looked down and saw the bullet. The bullet had struck a large button on the car coat and the zipper and bounced back.

An amazed Hollins ran out to look for a policeman as the gunman leaped the bar and emptied one cash register while his companion emptied another register.

The two fled with $268 as some 10 persons watched in fright.

Hollins later was treated at Germantown hospital for powder burns on his stomach.

Secrecy Ban By Congress Is Advocated

NEW YORK (AP)—A Florida newspaper editor, who heads Sigma Delta Chi's freedom of information committee, said Saturday that Congress could — "by simple strokes of the pen"—eliminate most secrecy in federal government agencies virtually overnight.

The statement came in an annual report prepared by V. M. Newton Jr., managing editor of The Tampa Tribune and president of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalistic fraternity. Newton also serves as chairman of the fraternity's Freedom of Information Committee.

Sigma Delta Chi's annual convention opens here next Wednesday.

Newton said there probably is more secrecy now among federal agencies than when he took over as committee chairman eight years ago.

"Congress, by simple strokes of the pen, could withhold all appropriations from those agencies, bureaus, commissions, etc., that persist in doing the people's business in deep - dark secret," he added.

Newton cited three reasons why Congress is hesitant to take action against secrecy in federal bureaus and agencies:

1. "The worship of the political party at the expense of the rights of the people.

2. "A hesitiancy to collide head on with the president, who is the head man of the bureaucracy.

3. "A preference for the political privilege that is available in its own little packages of secret government."

Newton's 43-page printed report reviews progress toward the goal of freedom of information at federal and state levels of government, in the court rooms—and in Latin American countries.

Most federal government meetings are locked-door affairs, Newton said, and the government's decisions are given to the people only after secret deliberations.

Newton said Congress is the key to the problem of government secrecy.

Alabama Vote Records Check Nearing Close

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (UPI)—Federal attorneys inspecting Macon County vote records are expected to complete their investigation shortly, according to sources here.

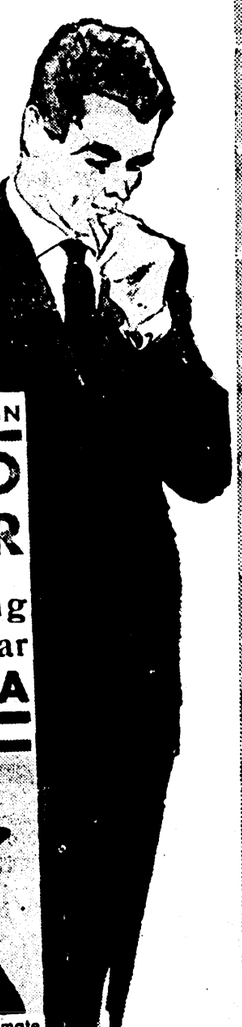

The attorneys, Ben Brooks and John Archibold of Washington, D. C., were reported to have left the courthouse here with some of the documents.

Macon County Registrar Board Chairman Wheeler Dyson said, however, the keys to his office had not been returned to him. He said, "I don't reckon they are through, but I haven't seen them since Monday."

The agents began their check of the documents last Monday following a court order requiring the registrar board to make available their documents. The records are being checked for possible evidence of discrimination against Negroes in Macon County where, although Negro residents greatly outnumber whites, the number of white registered voters exceeds that of Negro voters.

Charged Slayer Enters Hospital

WHITEIFLE, Miss. (AP) —Albert Lloyd Hall was taken to the state mental hospital here Saturday for indefinite observation after he had been charged with the murder of his 12-year-old son.

The 34-year-old Texan, who has been in and out of mental hospitals, was to undergo a series of tests to see if he was sane.

He said he shot his mentally retarded son Nov. 18 in a hunting accident. The youth's body was found Thursday under pine needles about 10 miles from Poplarville, near the Louisiana-Mississippi border.

Circuit Judge Sebe Dale ordered Hall taken to the institution.

MAP SUMMARY

Late Saturday afternoon fund inclement weather rather limited and confined to the northern Rockies and to scattered areas of the far western states. Light snow was reported over western Montana and temperatures continued to fall and warranted the issuing of cold wave warnings for that area earlier in the day. Over the remainder of the country east of the Rockies this has been an unseasonably warm and pleasant day. Skies were cloudy however with the exception of the middle and north Atlantic region and in much of the central Rockies and central Plains.

Temperatures highlighted the weather in the east today and were generally in the 60's. The 70's were common along Gulf regions and a few 80 degree readings were noted in southern Texas and Florida. Readings were unusually high in the panhandle area of Texas, Oklahoma and in Colorado and in western sections of the central Plains. Many 50's were recorded in this area and Childress, Texas reported an 24 degrees at 5 p.m. Several record temperatures were recorded for this late in the season. In contrast, the afternoon readings in the extreme northern Plains were in the 10's and 20's. Cooler air has covered much of the far west and in Washington and Oregon the 30's and 40's were common. Through the Plateau region and California the 50's were numerous except in southern desert regions.

Outlook for Sunday — much colder weather will be moving into the upper Mississippi Valley and northern regions of the Lakes states and will extend through the northern Rockies and northern Plains. Mostly cloudy skis are indicated for this region and snow showers will be scattered throughout the area. The east will remain mostly fair with temperatures unseasonably warm. Cloudiness will increase again over the Ohio Valley and scattered rain showers are expected. The south and southern Plains states will again enjoy a mild day but it will be mostly cloudy. The far west will remain cool and rather widespread fog is in the forecasts for northern areas tonight and early tomorrow.

Ex-Convicts Are Charged In Slaying

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Warrants charging first degree murder were issued Saturday for two ex-convicts still being sought in the slaying of a Kansas City policeman early Friday.

Magistrate Joseph L. Duffy ordered the warrants issued against the two men during the arraignment of a third man, Leroy Lee Larson, on a first degree murder charge.

Larson, 29-year-old former convict from Wolford, N. D., was arrested at suburban Excelsior Springs a few hours after Bennie Hudson, 22-year-old rookie patrolman was shot down in a shopping center parking lot. Larson admitted he shot the officer, who had stopped him and two companions as they were fleeing from the $200 holdup at a restaurant.

The prisoner said he did not know his companions in the crime, but from photographs he identified them as Jack Lynn Hodge, formerly of Phoenix, Ariz., and Billy Miles, Los Alamos, N. M., and Zenoria, La. Both are 27 years old.

He was picked out of the police lineup as one of three men who held up a tavern last Saturday night, getting $2,700 in cash and checks.

Roy Magee, the owner, pointed to Larson and said:

"I could have picked him out of a box of popcorn."

Larson told police that while drinking with his two companions, one of them remarked that holdups were a better way of making a living than working.

"I should never have listened to him," Larson related. "I wouldn't be in all this trouble now."

Water Level Survey Slated On Bayou

A feasibility survey for doing work on Dead Bayou and on the Ouachita River in West Monroe will soon be undertaken by the Department of Public Works of Louisiana, according to Rep. Lawrence Gibbs.

Gibbs said that he has received hundreds of letters from the Sterlington - Perryville area regarding the problem in Dead Bayou. He stated that the water level in Dead Bayou has dropped to a low level, causing concern to persons living on it. At times, according to unrevealed sources, dead fish have covered the surface of the bayou, making it a health menace.

Gibbs also announced that field surveys are nearly complete regarding an earlier request for flood protection of an area on the west bank of the Ouachita River about four miles south of U. S. Highway 80 in the vicinity of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

Earlier this year Gibbs requested a feasibility survey run on parts of wards seven, eight and nine in the Bawcomville area near Olin to determine how the homes in this area can be properly protected by some sort of a levee system from floods nd high water.

He explained that during the spring when high water is backed up in this area, people are forced to leave their homes because they are flooded.

Gibbs stated that immediately after the special session of the legislature adjourned for the Thanksgiving holidays, Rep. Mike John Jr. and he visited the office of Claude Kirkpatrick, director of the Department of Public Works of Louisiana to obtain his agreement to do the feasibility survey in the Dead Bayou area in wards one and two.

Gibbs further stated that he had received a letter from Calvin T. Watts, assistant director of the department of public welfare, advising that field surveys are nearly complete in the West Monroe flood protection problem and that recommendations will be ready for consideration within the next 30 to 60 days.

When the study on this problem is complete, the department of public welfare will contact Gibbs.

This will be a long term project if it goes through, which will necessitate federal as well as state funds Gibbs pointed out. But he added that a levee at the site on the river would not only protect homes, but road beds and the Tremont Gulf railway system as well.

In the Dead Bayou proposition, Gibbs remarked that the elevation and maintenance of the water level in the bayou would serve industry presently located in the area, would give the farmers of the area an ample supply of water to irrigate their crops, prevent the further luring of the underground water level, and also be good for wild life preservation and outdoor sports.

"I hope the surveys prove the feasibility of it, and that it can be worked," Gibbs said.

MAP SUMMARY

Late Saturday afternoon fund inclement weather rather limited and confined to the northern Rockies and to scattered areas of the far western states. Light snow was reported over western Montana and temperatures continued to fall and warranted the issuing of cold wave warnings for that area earlier in the day. Over the remainder of the country east of the Rockies this has been an unseasonably warm and pleasant day. Skies were cloudy however with the exception of the middle and north Atlantic region and in much of the central Rockies and central Plains.

Temperatures highlighted the weather in the east today and were generally in the 60's. The 70's were common along gulf regions and a few 80 degree readings were noted in southern Texas and Florida. Readings were unusually high in the panhandle area of Texas Oklahoma and in Colorado and in western portions of the central Plains. Many 70's were recorded in this area and Childress Texas reported an 84 degrees at 3 p.m. cst. Several record temperatures were recorded for this late in the season. In contrast, the afternoon readings in the extreme northern Plains were in the 10's and 20's. Cooler air has covered much of the far west and in Washington and Oregon the 30's and 40's were common. Through the Plateau region and California the 50's were numerous except in southern desert regions.

Outlook for Sunday — much colder weather will be moving into the upper Mississippi Valley and northern regions of the Lakes states and will extend through the northern Rockies and northern Plains. Mostly cloudy skis are indicated for this region and snow showers will be scattered throughout the area. The east will remain mostly fair with temperatures unseasonably warm. Cloudiness will increase again over the Ohio Valley and scattered rain showers are expected. The south and southern Plains states will again enjoy a mild day but it will be mostly cloudy. The far west will remain cool and rather widespread fog is in the forecasts for northern areas tonight and early tomorrow.

Water Level Survey Slated On Bayou

Ex-Convicts Are Charged In Slaying

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Warrants charging first degree murder were issued Saturday for two ex-convicts still being sought in the slaying of a Kansas City policeman early Friday.

Magistrate Joseph L. Duffy ordered the warrants issued against the two men during the arraignment of a third man, Leroy Lee Larson, on a first degree murder charge.

Larson, 29-year-old former convict from Wolford, N. D., was arrested at suburban Excelsior Springs a few hours after Bennie Hudson, 22-year-old rookie patrolman was shot down in a shopping center parking lot. Larson admitted he shot the officer, who had stopped him and two companions as they were fleeing from the $200 holdup at a restaurant.

The prisoner said he did not know his companions in the crime, but from photographs he identified them as Jack Lynn Hodge, formerly of Phoenix, Ariz., and Billy Miles, Los Alamos, N. M., and Zenoria, La. Both are 27 years old.

He was picked out of the police lineup as one of three men who held up a tavern last Saturday night, getting $2,700 in cash and checks.

Roy Magee, the owner, pointed to Larson and said:

"I could have picked him out of a box of popcorn."

Larson told police that while drinking with his two companions, one of them remarked that holdups were a better way of making a living than working.

"I should never have listened to him," Larson related. "I wouldn't be in all this trouble now."

YULE GIFT PARCELS

Post Office Gives Tips On Packaging

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the Christmas holidays just around the corner, the Post Office Department has some suggestions to make sure that gift parcels arrive undamaged.

Poor packaging accounts for more breakage and spoilage in shipment than any other factor. But the Post Office often gets blamed anyway. When a parcel arrives in battered condition, some persons jokingly accuse the department of "hiring a man to jump on the packages."

The Federal Register, published by the government, lists revised rules and regulations to assure the safe arrival of fragile and easily damaged items. Along with the suggestions, the Post Office warns that it reserves the right to exclude from the mail certain types of badly packaged merchandise.

The department suggests that packages sent to more distant points need stronger containers. This is true because the parcel receives more handling on its way to a distant point than a package addressed to a nearby destination.

Size of the container also is an important factor. If the container is too large, the contents might shift in transit; if it is too small, there won't be roomy enough for protective inside cushioning. Overstuffed cartons frequently burst before arriving at their destination.

Adequate cushioning keeps the goods inside from bumping against the sides of the carton in which they are shipped. In addition to protecting against outside impact, cushioning also protects items inside from damaging one another, if two or more items are in the same box.

Among the materials which can be used for cushioning are excelsior, flexible corrugated cardboard, felt, cotton, clothing, tissue paper, shredded newspaper, and even popcorn. The government conducted tests with popcorn as a cushioning agent and found it useful in certain cases, especially in packing delicate electronic gear. But shredded newspaper is still the handiest and most popular material for packing fragile items.

For maximum safety, stuff about two inches of cushioning material on all sides of the object and make sure that there can be no shifting or movement. Wrap several fragile items separately before packing in the same case.

The Post Office's revised rules and regulations also include the following:

—Heavy paper can be used as an outside wrapping provided it is tied with twine. Thin paper bags are not acceptable as an outside wrapper.

—Self - contained articles may be mailed without outside packaging, but the Post Office will not be responsible if the surface or finish becomes marred.

—A sturdy fiberboard carton in good condition need not be wrapped.

Concerning outside markings, the Post Office emphatically encourages use of appropriate labels. Glass, chinaware, electrical appliances, jewelry and musical instruments must be marked "fragile" by the mailer.

Phrases like "do not bend" or "do not fold" may be used only when stiffening material is used to protect the contents. Words like "rush" or "do not delay" can be used only on special delivery shipments or on mail intended for special handling.

The department cautions that all other markings and labels are superfluous, unnecessary and forbidden.

Bluff Memorial

Captain Betsy

By E. W. PLUMMER
Special Correspondent

Betsy's Bluff is a beautiful prominence overlooking Little River near the point where it flows into historic Catahoula Lake.

It was given this name back in the steamboat days by the river folk who said that it could rightly have no other. And today this scenic height is a memorial to the community's most renowned and beloved heroine of yesteryears, Betsy Watson.

This is the saga of Betsy's Bluff as it was handed down in the families now living there from their forefathers of long ago. Captain James Watson was owner and pilot of a steamboat that traversed Little River up as far as Simmon's Ferry (now Zenoria). It delivered freight to the several landings along the river on its upstream run and towed great rafts of logs on the return trip, which terminated at New Orleans.

ACCOMPANIED

His vivacious young wife, Betsy, always accompanied Captain Watson on the trips to New Orleans and back, and during those voyages, she was at his side in the pilothouse, studying the art of river navigation under his tutorage.

Betsy was so apt in acquiring the fundamentals of navigation that she completed her apprenticeship within a short time and successfully passed examinations which brought her a license as co-pilot.

After a few prosperous years, Captain Watson and his wife decided to build a home where they could rest from their long journeys on weekends, and have flowers and neighbors. And they could think of no site quite so lovely as a bluff on Little River, where they built their home.

TRAGEDY

Then tragedy struck. Captain Watson died of yellow fever in their new home after a return trip from New Orleans. Betsy was stricken with grief, but she was brave, enduring and practical. She gave orders to the boat's licensed crew, which remained faithful to their jobs, to "Steam up and let's go. There's work to do."

On that day, she became "Captain" Betsy Watson, and thereafter she was known affectionately by the neighbors as "Captain Betsy."

All the river folk knew Captain Betsy's boat by its musical signals. Four blasts, a long, two short, and long, meant that she would moor the boat at her home. The nieghbors would meet her there.

She enthralled them with stories of New Orleans, Baton Rouge, and the great Mississippi River. Before departing she gave the children candy and toys, and to the grown-ups, newspapers, and maybe some store - bought baby things to an expectant mother.

After a few years, Captain Betsy passed on and her home by the riverside also ceased to be. But Betsy's Bluff remains as a memorial to this extraordinary woman.

Haircuts And Laughter

HEARNE, Tex. (AP) — Cayce Moore leaned close to the ear of a stranger in his barber chair recently and whispered, ominously stropping his razor:

"They say you can't get blood out of a turnip. But some say I could—if I shaved it."

The stranger snatched the towel from his face and shot upright; homefolk in the shop merely grinned and shook their heads. They have come to expect such carryings on by The Nation's Most Famous Barber.

The townspeople weren't the ones to give Cayce Moore the title, however. Cayce gave it to himself. He feels he deserves it.

His fame is not so much for his tonsorial skill or chairside shenanigans as for his ability at the delicate and often abused art of after dinner speaking.

WIDESPREAD

His reputation as a humorist is widespread, especially in the South and Southwest, and four-digit fees are not uncommon for his services at some big industrial conventions.

Cayce considers himself one of the few real experts on humor. He spends every spare moment polishing his repertoire of jokes, which he keeps at about 1,000; adding new ones, discarding worn ones.

Bank tellers who cash his checks have asked Cayce more than once why he continues barbering.

"I like barbering," he explains. "Besides, I'm so good at it I just get fascinated watching myself cut hair."

EARLY START

Cayce is 43 and has been cutting hair since he was 11. Truly, he does enjoy it. But mainly he realizes the clippers add to his appeal as an after dinner speaker. He likes to be introduced as "just a barber from down at Hearne."

Nor is he exactly shy about reminding folks of his reputation. On the facade of the Moore Building, which he calls his barber shop, a huge sign proclaims:

"The Nation's Most Famous Barber: Cayce Moore—Raconteur. Philospher ... Columnist ... Humorist."

Originally the sign, visible from one of the main highways through Texas, informed the passing public Cayce's talents were limited to "Barber, Humorist, Philosopher, Columnist."

MYSTIFIED

"Somehow that didn't catch on." Cayce said. "So I threw that 'raconteur' at them. Some folks didn't know what it meant, but rather than admit it they just chuckled and said 'What a sign'."

"Raconteur" belongs, because more than anything else it is Cayce's skill as a story teller—plus his keen perception of humanity's foibles—that makes him a master at the art of humor.

His backwoods East Texas background adds additional spice to his anecdotes. His patter is embellished with colloquialisms which provoke snickers even before he gets to the punch line.

This Cayce comes by naturally.

He was reared on a 70-acre river bottom dirt farm at the nearby village of Marquez under circumstances that make his middle name, Wellborn, somewhat ironical.

Recently Cayce was recounting an episode from his youth for a New York salesman who had stopped in the shop for a trim. The salesman said he doubted there were three people in New York who ever heard of Marquez.

"Probably true," drawled Cayce. "And I doubt there are three people in Marquez who ever heard of New York."

At 14 Cayce went to work in the Marquez barber shop and picked up many a salty East Texas tale while putting in his daily stint.

Five years later he got a job at the shop in Hearne (population 3,000) and began re-spinning all the old Marquez yarns, attaching his own embroidery to them.

He discovered his customers liked them, liked him, and business was good.

Editor Ted Rickenbacher soon persuaded Cayce to write some of his yarns for the weekly Hearne Democrat.

"Some of those early columns were terrible," Cayce shudders. "Pretty soon I got the hang of it, though, and occasionally I even fancied them up with a few semicolons."

He also fancied them up with a picture of the author.

To Cayce's dismay, his readers refused to take him seriously a-decade later when he waged a political campaign through the column for a seat in the Texas House of Representatives.

"Ain't gonna worry folks much about voting for me," he wrote. "If the race looks close in July, may kiss a few babies. Right now it looks like I'll win in a walk.

PLEASED

After the election:

"Never knew so many people wanted me to stay on as a barber. It makes a man feel good to know his friends appreciate him."

Whereupon Cayce organized the Defeated Candidates Club.

The DCC was—and is—a ludicrous success. Cayce's defeat was in 1948 and the club has held biennial banquets since, welcoming new members to its ranks after each major election.

Cayce appointed himself the first DCC president, and each president appoints his successor. "No voting in this organization," explains Cayce. "Makes the members jittery."

Others than its banquet, the DCC's aim is to do nothing. "We figure if people wanted us to do something they wouldn't have made us eligible for membership in this outfit," says Cayce.

Cayce seems to have a penchant for doing things opposite from everyone else.

Recently he and Rickenbacher went into the real estate business. Each week their ad appears in the Democrat with the current offerings.

SAMPLES

Samples:

"For Sale—400 acres of poor land. It's so poor you can't raise your voice above a whisper. That's the kind they hit oil on."

"For sale—300 acres near Hearne. No house. Water—when it rains. Priced a little high."

Cayce is a lean 6-footer, plain faced and bald, with black horn rimmed glasses. His temples and tuft of gray mustache are impeccably manicured, and his clothes are well tailored and expensive. He wears a tux on speaking engagements, which sometimes seems whimsically incongruous with his rustic delivery.

Because of his dry style, enthusiastic reviewers frequently describe him as a modern day Will Rogers. Cayce idolizes Will Rogers, and abhors the comparison.

"In the first place," he says, "it's ridiculous. There never will be another Will Rogers. And can you imagine the spot it puts me in when I have to follow a build-up like that?

"The Nations Most Famous Barber," he says, "is enough distinction for me.

Report From Zoo

Animals Need Psychiatry

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Need a psychiatrist? Don't feel sheepish. So do some animals in the zoo.

Monkeys, for example. It's not always easy to tell when a monkey is emotionally disturbed, but monkeys do flip, and so do snakes.

Okay, but what's the therapy?

You can't, after all, put him on a couch and probe his subconscious with clever questions. But Dr. Charles R. Schroeder, managing director, and his staff at the San Diego Zoological Gardens have found ways to maintain a generally happy state among their 3,850 birds, beasts and serpents.

ONE ASPECT

This is one aspect of zoo management which the public isn't privileged to observe. It is closely related to several other behind-the-scenes operations—the hospital, research laboratories, nursery and food processing facilities—on this landscaped preserve of 200 rolling acres in Balboa Park.

It is a popular notion that zoo creatures are unhappy because they are confined. Not so, says Schroeder. Great pains have been taken to give them natural surroundings and a sense of freedom. Trees, grass and moated grottos have replaced barred cages. Behind the grottos are air-conditioned apartments to which animals can retire at will, beyond the sight of zoo visitors.

"Man is the zoo animal's greatest hazard, and therefore our biggest problem," Schroeder says. "We are working every day on ways to protect animals from people. Not all people or most people; just an irresponsible few."

You wouldn't think a person would toss a cigarette into the mouth of a hippopotamus. Yet this—and worse—has happened.

SPECIAL EFFORT

Because most visitors are fond of animals, the San Diego Zoo doesn't keep its specimens behind glass or away from spectators but makes every effort to provide as close and uninhibited a view as safety will allow.

A great many animals love the attention they get. Every zoo has ham actors. Inevitably some will over-perform.

A case in point was a young gibbon so stimulated by the crowd that he finally went into hysteria, leaping and screaming in his enclosure even after zoo visitors had departed.

Schroeder led the way to the restraint area, a private courtyard behind the hospital, where the gibbon had been placed behind bars. Tranquilizers had been administered, but he still leapt and chattered wildly when spoken to.

Keepers then put into his cage another ape, benign and sluggish, who merely hung upside down and grinned. This placid companion was as salutary as the tranquilizers, the dietary delicacies and the soothing words that the jittery little beast got from his attendants.

"In just about a week he'll be ready to go back on exhibition," said Schroeder.

Character traits of animals are under constant study, so that zoo personnel can better distinguish between natural peculiarities and the aberrations displayed by beasts which are actually disturbed. Says Schroeder:

"It may surprise you, but the meanest animal in the zoo is a wapiti elk, raised here as a bottle baby. You'd think he'd be a pet. He isn't. This beast isn't disturbed, either; he just naturally hates everything, and he always has. He lives alone, you can be sure, in his own big compound.

"We have had a tiger who didn't know he was a tiger. He grew up here too, and he thought he was a big pet. He played with a lynx. This too was definitely a character quirk, not a disturbed condition."

On the other hand, a new baby gorilla became disturbed and quit eating because his almost constant companion, Sue Ross, couldn't be with him at his early-hour breakfast time.

The baby was removed to the restraint area and placed under observation. Then an experiment was tried.

After he went to sleep at night, leaves and other green vegetation were sneaked into his cage, to be found when he awoke. When Miss Ross reached the zoo in the morning, she took him a belated breakfast.

In a week or two he was eating normally again.

Zoo attendants concluded that the gorilla associated the secretly delivered leaves with his beloved keeper. If the leaves were there, she would show up before long.

Even snakes sometimes wind up in the restraint area. One diamond-back rattler was so sensitive that he would strike at his glass window whenever anyone walked by. This exhausted him. Worse, he stopped eating. Many newly acquired snakes fail to adapt to public display and refuse to feed—probably, Schroeder said, for psychological reasons. This may last for weeks or months. Placed in a private area—the zoo calls it the surplus area—they usually will settle down and accept food, continuing to eat after they are returned to public display.

"We have had snakes, however, that consistently refused food while on display, though they would eat readily in surplus—discontinuing feeding every time they were returned to display," Schroeder said.

Not long ago the zoo contracted for two European linx, from Moscow. When they arrived they proved to be two males, instead of a pair. In no time at all both wound up in surplus—and segregated, even there.

Not only did they dislike the spectators and all the other animals; they couldn't even stand each other.

Therapy in this case has been abandoned.

New Rocket May Shift Warfare Concept

Editor's Note — for years the world's civilian population has lived under the threat of nuclear annihilation. But America's newest rocket, the Minuteman, could change all this, Air Force officers claim, by making war once again primarily a battle between armies in which soldiers—not civilians—would bear the brunt of the battle.

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quiet but mounting revolt is being waged by Air Force officers against the notion that war can be deterred simply by aiming a small number of missiles at an enemy's population centers.

The Air Force holds that adherence to this doctrine is the road to national suicide.

A key factor in this revolt is the development of the 6,000-mile range Minuteman missile, a true push-button weapon designed for mass production.

The Minuteman, so the Air Force believes, will make it possible to abandon the theory of "deterrence by terror."

POINT

In Air Force opinion the use of terror, a threat implying mass slaughter of civilians by the military, is effective only so long as the enemy's civil and military defenses are weak, but that it will not deter a well-prepared army.

Clearly, the Air Force believes the Soviet Union is no longer susceptible to the terror deterrent.

And this is where the Minuteman missile enters the picture.

With this weapon, which is to be flight tested—two years ahead of schedule—at Cape Canaveral, Fla. next month, the Air Force believes the United States can regain clear military supremacy for the West. Minuteman can be produced in such numbers, says the Air Force that it could knock out much of the Soviet Union's nuclear missile potential with a saturation attack aimed at military zones.

Hours of background briefings by Air Force officers on the role of the Minuteman in national defense have shed considerable light on what may become a rip-snorting controversy between the services in the new administration.

BRIEFINGS

Of necessity the briefings went to the heart of Air Force strategic beliefs. All the spokesmen presented the official Air Force viewpoint, but none spoke for personal attribution.

In any case, these beliefs may well mark the most significant return to the first principles of warfare made public by military planners since the beginning of the missile age.

In lectures to its own officers, the Air Force maintains that to destroy enemy cities without first destroying his military striking force is strategically and morally wrong.

The Air Force contends that to make population centers prime targets for attack would amount to an expenditure of the United States' major force against non-vital targets, leaving the enemy fully armed and with this nation at its mercy.

ANCIENT PRINCIPLE

Thus, the Air Force has returned to an ancient military principle: An armed force exists to destroy the enemy's armed force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, has said repeatedly in speeches: "The concept of deterrence as interpreted by some is merely the possession of military strength which could inflict severe and perhaps indiscriminate punishment upon an enemy. Apparently they disregard the need for military strength sufficient to defeat him. I cannot agree with it. If deterrence fails and a nation must fight, it must have the strength to win."

In Brief, the Air Force believes an enemy can be deterred from attack or beaten if he ignores the odds, only by the existence of clear military superiority.

If both the United States and the Soviet Union have roughly equal missile forces, the Air Force contends, the Soviets might be tempted to nibble away at the free world, gambling that the United States would not risk nuclear war for the sake of allies.

The Air Force also believes the bulk of the deterrent forces should be based in this nation where the enemy could not destroy them one by one.

DIRECTED

This latter argument is directed against the placing of our major strategic reliance on the Navy's missile-launching Polaris submarine force. Navy officers have argued dispersion of missiles at sea in submarines would insure their survival while drawing fire away from continental United States. Placing a missile striking force inside the country, they claim, simply invites domestic attack.

The Air Force raises this question: Would the United States go to war if the Soviets sank one of our missile submarines? Two? Three0 How far would the United States permit the Soviets to go if Soviets began a war of attrition against our submerged launching pads?

To this argument, Adm. W. F. Raborn, boss of the Navy Polaris program, said before Congress last July, If we lose one ship we are going to do something—"It is barely possible we could have a limited war at sea. It is possible that it would never extend to the United States, but the enemy would lose that war."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said it would be impossible to detect and destroy all Polaris subs since they would be mixed in with atomic-powered attack submarines. He also said he could foresee the day when missiles would have such extreme accuracy they would be able to score hits so close to underground launching sites, such as the Air Force has in mind for Minuteman, that the sites would be destroyed.

The Navy's chief also noted the mobile Minuteman would have to have tracks—and tracks can be destroyed. On the other hand, he noted, a Polaris submarine will oprate in a section of the ocean as large as Texas.

Invulnerability to attack is essential to an American missile force because the United States has said it would never attack first.

The Air Force argues this invulnerability can be obtained with literally thousands of Minuteman missiles ready to fire in "hardened" underground launching tubes, or silos. With such numbers dispersed across the country, a knockout attack by the Soviet Union would be virtually impossible.

At this point the question arises: Who is going to be around after an attack to care whether the United States or the Soviet Union wins?

The Air Force briefing officers take the position that no fact about nuclear warfare should be hidden any longer from the public.

To hide the facts, they claim, creates a state of fear and undermines the national will to resist.

ARGUMENTS

Despite considerable argument to the contrary, the Air Force insists that the vast majority of the people can survive an atomic attack if only they could be prevailed upon to build even the most rudimentary fallout shelters.

Two other points raised by Air Force briefing officers:

1. As missiles become mobile, the United States will need forces able to seek out and destroy them. To the Air Force, this means manned aircraft, preferably supersonic nuclear-powered aircraft.

2. The United States should supply nuclear missile forces to responsible allies, thereby forcing the Soviets to disperse the weight of surprise attack.

This second point is based on the assumption underlying the Western defensive alliances that an attack upon one is an attack upon all, a factor the Soviets would have to consider in planning any strike. This would decrease Soviet chances of delivering a single knockout blow.

And this brings the story back to the Minuteman missile. What stage of development has it reached and what gives it more significance in Air Force opinion than other missile weapons?

The Minuteman is a relatively small missile—about 58 feet tall and 6 feet in diameter — which can be produced for less than $1 million each.

The Minuteman is the first major missile to reduce manpower requirements. Only nine men are required to service and shoot each missile. The huge, liquid-fueled Atlas and Titan missiles require the attention of about 78 men each.

The Minuteman is not designed to replace the extraordinarily accurate Atlas and Titan missiles, each of which carries a warhead with an explosive potential of well over 10 million tons of TNT.

SMALLER WARHEAD

The Minuteman will carry a much smaller warhead and is essentially a target saturation weapon. Since it has a solid fuel the Minuteman can be set off like a Roman candle.

What makes the Minuteman so important is the fact that it can be made by the thousands more quickly and more easily than liquid-fueled missiles and without bankrupting the nation in the process. This immense firepower could be aimed at Soviet military target areas to obliterate Soviet offensive ability. While the civilian population would certainly not remain unscathed under such attack, the priority targets would be military and not civilian population centers.

By 1964 the Air Force hopes to have at least 600 Minutemen dispersed across the nation, including 150 on railroad cars.

The Air Force is so convinced the Minuteman will work that 165 two-acre launching sites have already been bought near Great Falls, Mont.

PLANS

In time, the Air Force plans to have more than 2,000 of these sites scattered across the northern tier of Western states.

The first of the 500-man, 55-missile Minuteman squadrons is presently scheduled to become operational by mid-1962.

All the Minutemen will be placed in underground firing tubes or silos. These silos are what the Air Force calls "hardened sites." The Air Force believes most of the Minutemen placed in the ground can survive a surprise atomic attack.

The Air Force figures that as many as 930 of 1,000 missiles can remain intact under the weight of an attack by 1,000 Soviet missiles with a 10-megaton capacity and 75 per cent reliability.

These calculations vary, of course, according to the size of the warhead, proximity to target and the degree of "hardness" built into the site.

But in any case the message the Air Force is trying to get across is this: The United States can survive and win a thermonuclear war.

Cayce considers himself one of the few real experts on humor. He spends every spare moment polishing his repertoire of jokes, which he keeps at about 1,000; adding new ones, discarding worn ones.

Bank tellers who cash his checks have asked Cayce more than once why he continues barbering.

"I like barbering," he explains. "Besides, I'm so good at it I just get fascinated watching myself cut hair."

EARLY START

Cayce is 43 and has been cutting hair since he was 11. Truly, he does enjoy it. But mainly he realizes the clippers add to his appeal as an after dinner speaker. He likes to be introduced as "just a barber from down at Hearne."

Nor is he exactly shy about reminding folks of his reputation. On the facade of the Moore Building, which he calls his barber shop, a huge sign proclaims:

"The Nation's Most Famous Barber: Cayce Moore—Raconteur. Philospher ... Columnist ... Humorist."

Originally the sign, visible from one of the main highways through Texas, informed the passing public Cayce's talents were limited to "Barber, Humorist, Philosopher, Columnist."

MYSTIFIED

"Somehow that didn't catch on." Cayce said. "So I threw that 'raconteur' at them. Some folks didn't know what it meant, but rather than admit it they just chuckled and said 'What a sign'."

"Raconteur" belongs, because more than anything else it is Cayce's skill as a story teller—plus his keen perception of humanity's foibles—that makes him a master at the art of humor.

His backwoods East Texas background adds additional spice to his anecdotes. His patter is embellished with colloquialisms which provoke snickers even before he gets to the punch line.

This Cayce comes by naturally.

He was reared on a 70-acre river bottom dirt farm at the nearby village of Marquez under circumstances that make his middle name, Wellborn, somewhat ironical.

Recently Cayce was recounting an episode from his youth for a New York salesman who had stopped in the shop for a trim. The salesman said he doubted there were three people in New York who ever heard of Marquez.

"Probably true," drawled Cayce. "And I doubt there are three people in Marquez who ever heard of New York."

At 14 Cayce went to work in the Marquez barber shop and picked up many a salty East Texas tale while putting in his daily stint.

Five years later he got a job at the shop in Hearne (population 3,000) and began re-spinning all the old Marquez yarns, attaching his own embroidery to them.

He discovered his customers liked them, liked him, and business was good.

Editor Ted Rickenbacher soon persuaded Cayce to write some of his yarns for the weekly Hearne Democrat.

"Some of those early columns were terrible," Cayce shudders. "Pretty soon I got the hang of it, though, and occasionally I even fancied them up with a few semicolons."

He also fancied them up with a picture of the author.

To Cayce's dismay, his readers refused to take him seriously a decade later when he waged a political campaign through the column for a seat in the Texas House of Representatives.

"Ain't gonna worry folks much about voting for me," he wrote. "If the race looks close in July, may kiss a few babies. Right now it looks like I'll win in a walk.

PLEASED

After the election:

"Never knew so many people wanted me to stay on as a barber. It makes a man feel good to know his friends appreciate him."

Whereupon Cayce organized the Defeated Candidates Club.

The DCC was—and is—a ludicrous success. Cayce's defeat was in 1948 and the club has held biennial banquets since, welcoming new members to its ranks after each major election.

Cayce appointed himself the first DCC president, and each president appoints his successor. "No voting in this organization," explains Cayce. "Makes the members jittery."

Others than its banquet, the DCC's aim is to do nothing. "We figure if people wanted us to do something they wouldn't have made us eligible for membership in this outfit," says Cayce.

Cayce seems to have a penchant for doing things opposite from everyone else.

Recently he and Rickenbacher went into the real estate business. Each week their ad appears in the Democrat with the current offerings.

SAMPLES

Samples:

"For Sale—400 acres of poor land. It's so poor you can't raise your voice above a whisper. That's the kind they hit oil on."

"For sale—300 acres near Hearne. No house. Water—when it rains. Priced a little high."

Cayce is a lean 6-footer, plain faced and bald, with black horn rimmed glasses. His temples and tuft of gray mustache are impeccably manicured, and his clothes are well tailored and expensive. He wears a tux on speaking engagements, which sometimes seems whimsically incongruous with his rustic delivery.

Because of his dry style, enthusiastic reviewers frequently describe him as a modern day Will Rogers. Cayce idolizes Will Rogers, and abhors the comparison.

"In the first place," he says, "it's ridiculous. There never will be another Will Rogers. And can you imagine the spot it puts me in when I have to follow a build-up like that?

"The Nations Most Famous Barber," he says, "is enough distinction for me.

Report From Zoo

Animals Need Psychiatry

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Need a psychiatrist? Don't feel sheepish. So do some animals in the zoo.

Monkeys, for example. It's not always easy to tell when a monkey is emotionally disturbed, but monkeys do flip, and so do snakes.

Okay, but what's the therapy?

You can't, after all, put him on a couch and probe his subconscious with clever questions. But Dr. Charles R. Schroeder, managing director, and his staff at the San Diego Zoological Gardens have found ways to maintain a generally happy state among their 3,850 birds, beasts and serpents.

ONE ASPECT

This is one aspect of zoo management which the public isn't privileged to observe. It is closely related to several other behind-the-scenes operations—the hospital, research laboratories, nursery and food processing facilities—on this landscaped preserve of 200 rolling acres in Balboa Park.

It is a popular notion that zoo creatures are unhappy because they are confined. Not so, says Schroeder. Great pains have been taken to give them natural surroundings and a sense of freedom. Trees, grass and moated grottos have replaced barred cages. Behind the grottos are air-conditioned apartments to which animals can retire at will, beyond the sight of zoo visitors.

"Man is the zoo animal's greatest hazard, and therefore our biggest problem," Schroeder says. "We are working every day on ways to protect animals from people. Not all people or most people; just an irresponsible few."

You wouldn't think a person would toss a cigarette into the mouth of a hippopotamus. Yet this—and worse—has happened.

SPECIAL EFFORT

Because most visitors are fond of animals, the San Diego Zoo doesn't keep its specimens behind glass or away from spectators but makes every effort to provide as close and uninhibited a view as safety will allow.

A great many animals love the attention they get. Every zoo has ham actors. Inevitably some will over-perform.

A case in point was a young gibbon so stimulated by the crowd that he finally went into hysteria, leaping and screaming in his enclosure even after zoo visitors had departed.

Schroeder led the way to the restraint area, a private courtyard behind the hospital, where the gibbon had been placed behind bars. Tranquilizers had been administered, but he still leapt and chattered wildly when spoken to.

Keepers then put into his cage another ape, benign and sluggish, who merely hung upside down and grinned. This placid companion was as salutary as the tranquilizers, the dietary delicacies and the soothing words that the jittery little beast got from his attendants.

"In just about a week he'll be ready to go back on exhibition," said Schroeder.

Character traits of animals are under constant study, so that zoo personnel can better distinguish between natural peculiarities and the aberrations displayed by beasts which are actually disturbed. Says Schroeder:

"It may surprise you, but the meanest animal in the zoo is a wapiti elk, raised here as a bottle baby. You'd think he'd be a pet. He isn't. This beast isn't disturbed, either; he just naturally hates everything, and he always has. He lives alone, you can be sure, in his own big compound.

"We have had a tiger who didn't know he was a tiger. He grew up here too, and he thought he was a big pet. He played with a lynx. This too was definitely a character quirk, not a disturbed condition."

On the other hand, a new baby gorilla became disturbed and quit eating because his almost constant companion, Sue Ross, couldn't be with him at his early-hour breakfast time.

The baby was removed to the restraint area and placed under observation. Then an experiment was tried.

After he went to sleep at night, leaves and other green vegetation were sneaked into his cage, to be found when he awoke. When Miss Ross reached the zoo in the morning, she took him a belated breakfast.

In a week or two he was eating normally again.

Zoo attendants concluded that the gorilla associated the secretly delivered leaves with his beloved keeper. If the leaves were there, she would show up before long.

Even snakes sometimes wind up in the restraint area. One diamond-back rattler was so sensitive that he would strike at his glass window whenever anyone walked by. This exhausted him. Worse, he stopped eating. Many newly acquired snakes fail to adapt to public display and refuse to feed—probably, Schroeder said, for psychological reasons. This may last for weeks or months. Placed in a private area—the zoo calls it the surplus area—they usually will settle down and accept food, continuing to eat after they are returned to public display.

"We have had snakes, however, that consistently refused food while on display, though they would eat readily in surplus—discontinuing feeding every time they were returned to display," Schroeder said.

Not long ago the zoo contracted for two European linx, from Moscow. When they arrived they proved to be two males, instead of a pair. In no time at all both wound up in surplus—and segregated, even there.

Not only did they dislike the spectators and all the other animals; they couldn't even stand each other.

Therapy in this case has been abandoned.

New Rocket May Shift Warfare Concept

Editor's Note — for years the world's civilian population has lived under the threat of nuclear annihilation. But America's newest rocket, the Minuteman, could change all this, Air Force officers claim, by making war once again primarily a battle between armies in which soldiers—not civilians—would bear the brunt of the battle.

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quiet but mounting revolt is being waged by Air Force officers against the notion that war can be deterred simply by aiming a small number of missiles at an enemy's population centers.

The Air Force holds that adherence to this doctrine is the road to national suicide.

A key factor in this revolt is the development of the 6,000-mile range Minuteman missile, a true push-button weapon designed for mass production.

The Minuteman, so the Air Force believes, will make it possible to abandon the theory of "deterrence by terror."

POINT

In Air Force opinion the use of terror, a threat implying mass slaughter of civilians by the military, is effective only so long as the enemy's civil and military defenses are weak, but that it will not deter a well-prepared army.

Clearly, the Air Force believes the Soviet Union is no longer susceptible to the terror deterrent.

And this is where the Minuteman missile enters the picture.

With this weapon, which is to be flight tested—two years ahead of schedule—at Cape Canaveral, Fla. next month, the Air Force believes the United States can regain clear military supremacy for the West. Minuteman can be produced in such numbers, says the Air Force that it could knock out much of the Soviet Union's nuclear missile potential with a saturation attack aimed at military zones.

Hours of background briefings by Air Force officers on the role of the Minuteman in national defense have shed considerable light on what may become a rip-snorting controversy between the services in the new administration.

BRIEFINGS

Of necessity the briefings went to the heart of Air Force strategic beliefs. All the spokesmen presented the official Air Force viewpoint, but none spoke for personal attribution.

In any case, these beliefs may well mark the most significant return to the first principles of warfare made public by military planners since the beginning of the missile age.

In lectures to its own officers, the Air Force maintains that to destroy enemy cities without first destroying his military striking force is strategically and morally wrong.

The Air Force contends that to make population centers prime targets for attack would amount to an expenditure of the United States' major force against non-vital targets, leaving the enemy fully armed and with this nation at its mercy.

ANCIENT PRINCIPLE

Thus, the Air Force has returned to an ancient military principle: An armed force exists to destroy the enemy's armed force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, has said repeatedly in speeches: "The concept of deterrence as interpreted by some is merely the possession of military strength which could inflict severe and perhaps indiscriminate punishment upon an enemy. Apparently they disregard the need for military strength sufficient to defeat him. I cannot agree with it. If deterrence fails and a nation must fight, it must have the strength to win."

In Brief, the Air Force believes an enemy can be deterred from attack or beaten if he ignores the odds, only by the existence of clear military superiority.

If both the United States and the Soviet Union have roughly equal missile forces, the Air Force contends, the Soviets might be tempted to nibble away at the free world, gambling that the United States would not risk nuclear war for the sake of allies.

The Air Force also believes the bulk of the deterrent forces should be based in this nation where the enemy could not destroy them one by one.

DIRECTED

This latter argument is directed against the placing of our major strategic reliance on the Navy's missile-launching Polaris submarine force. Navy officers have argued dispersion of missiles at sea in submarines would insure their survival while drawing fire away from continental United States. Placing a missile striking force inside the country, they claim, simply invites domestic attack.

The Air Force raises this question: Would the United States go to war if the Soviets sank one of our missile submarines? Two? Three0 How far would the United States permit the Soviets to go if Soviets began a war of attrition against our submerged launching pads?

To this argument, Adm. W. F. Raborn, boss of the Navy Polaris program, said before Congress last July, If we lose one ship we are going to do something—"It is barely possible we could have a limited war at sea. It is possible that it would never extend to the United States, but the enemy would lose that war."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said it would be impossible to detect and destroy all Polaris subs since they would be mixed in with atomic-powered attack submarines. He also said he could foresee the day when missiles would have such extreme accuracy they would be able to score hits so close to underground launching sites, such as the Air Force has in mind for Minuteman, that the sites would be destroyed.

The Navy's chief also noted the mobile Minuteman would have to have tracks—and tracks can be destroyed. On the other hand, he noted, a Polaris submarine will oprate in a section of the ocean as large as Texas.

Invulnerability to attack is essential to an American missile force because the United States has said it would never attack first.

The Air Force argues this invulnerability can be obtained with literally thousands of Minuteman missiles ready to fire in "hardened" underground launching tubes, or silos. With such numbers dispersed across the country, a knockout attack by the Soviet Union would be virtually impossible.

At this point the question arises: Who is going to be around after an attack to care whether the United States or the Soviet Union wins?

The Air Force briefing officers take the position that no fact about nuclear warfare should be hidden any longer from the public.

To hide the facts, they claim, creates a state of fear and undermines the national will to resist.

ARGUMENTS

Despite considerable argument to the contrary, the Air Force insists that the vast majority of the people can survive an atomic attack if only they could be prevailed upon to build even the most rudimentary fallout shelters.

Two other points raised by Air Force briefing officers:

1. As missiles become mobile, the United States will need forces able to seek out and destroy them. To the Air Force, this means manned aircraft, preferably supersonic nuclear-powered aircraft.

2. The United States should supply nuclear missile forces to responsible allies, thereby forcing the Soviets to disperse the weight of surprise attack.

This second point is based on the assumption underlying the Western defensive alliances that an attack upon one is an attack upon all, a factor the Soviets would have to consider in planning any strike. This would decrease Soviet chances of delivering a single knockout blow.

And this brings the story back to the Minuteman missile. What stage of development has it reached and what gives it more significance in Air Force opinion than other missile weapons?

The Minuteman is a relatively small missile—about 58 feet tall and 6 feet in diameter — which can be produced for less than $1 million each.

The Minuteman is the first major missile to reduce manpower requirements. Only nine men are required to service and shoot each missile. The huge, liquid-fueled Atlas and Titan missiles require the attention of about 78 men each.

The Minuteman is not designed to replace the extraordinarily accurate Atlas and Titan missiles, each of which carries a warhead with an explosive potential of well over 10 million tons of TNT.

SMALLER WARHEAD

The Minuteman will carry a much smaller warhead and is essentially a target saturation weapon. Since it has a solid fuel the Minuteman can be set off like a Roman candle.

What makes the Minuteman so important is the fact that it can be made by the thousands more quickly and more easily than liquid-fueled missiles and without bankrupting the nation in the process. This immense firepower could be aimed at Soviet military target areas to obliterate Soviet offensive ability. While the civilian population would certainly not remain unscathed under such attack, the priority targets would be military and not civilian population centers.

By 1964 the Air Force hopes to have at least 600 Minutemen dispersed across the nation, including 150 on railroad cars.

The Air Force is so convinced the Minuteman will work that 165 two-acre launching sites have already been bought near Great Falls, Mont.

PLANS

In time, the Air Force plans to have more than 2,000 of these sites scattered across the northern tier of Western states.

The first of the 500-man, 55-missile Minuteman squadrons is presently scheduled to become operational by mid-1962.

All the Minutemen will be placed in underground firing tubes or silos. These silos are what the Air Force calls "hardened sites." The Air Force believes most of the Minutemen placed in the ground can survive a surprise atomic attack.

The Air Force figures that as many as 930 of 1,000 missiles can remain intact under the weight of an attack by 1,000 Soviet missiles with a 10-megaton capacity and 75 per cent reliability.

These calculations vary, of course, according to the size of the warhead, proximity to target and the degree of "hardness" built into the site.

But in any case the message the Air Force is trying to get across is this: The United States can survive and win a thermonuclear war.

The People Have Made The Decision

The proposal to bring up tonight in the House of Representatives at Baton Rouge a resolution calling on Louisiana's presidential electors to refuse to vote for anyone for president who does not express his views on the present desegregation judicial situation in Louisiana is an effort by the Legislature to "interpose" itself between the will of the people and the people themselves as expressed less than two weeks ago at the polls.

A majority of Louisianians who voted on November 8 expressed the desire that John F. Kennedy be President. Their total was nearly 7,000 more than the combined total of those perferring Mr. Nixon and those perferring electors with no candidate.

Mr. Kennedy led the "unpledged" or "no candidate" slate by 237,700 votes. He was 176,300 votes ahead of Mr. Nixon. Mr. Nixon was 61,400 ahead of the candidate-less slate. Yet the proposal now is, in effect, to try to make the Kennedy slate a candidate-less slate, even though this is not stated in so many words.

Regardless of whether a legal way could be found to let the Kennedy-Democratic electors vote other than for Mr. Kennedy, they ran as electors who would vote for him-for the Democratic candidate. As we see it they are as of now bound both morally and legally to vote for him.

If the Legislature, by legislative action, now can persuade or force, Louisiana electors to vote otherwise, then federal elections in this state become a farce. Such switching by electors, or steps by the Legislature in that direction, would place our federal elections on a par with Russian elections where up to 98 per cent of the eligible people vote but actually have no say as to who is elected because they have only one candidate, or ticket, on the ballot.

A Louisiana switch proposed would mean that it would make no difference how many tickets were on the ballot, the will of the voters could be overridden by a small group that happened to dislike the decision of a majority of the voters.

The point here in some ways is more than legality-which is merely the lowest standard by which a person may live and keep out of jail. It is a matter of common sense, common morality, common honesty.

So far as Mr. Kennedy's "views" are concerned, they were made clear during the campaign by himself and the Party platform which he repeatedly endorsed 100 per cent. The most recent court rulings on New Orleans schools had not been made, but the federal Court decision requiring integration in New Orleans had been made before the election and the date had been set.

Mr. Kennedy has made it clear that he stands for initial steps toward desegration in every segregated school by 1963, that he stands behind the federal judiciary in any and all decisions on racial issues, that he believes there should be no literacy tests for voters, black or white.

The Kennedy proposal for federal payment in part of salaries of public school teachers opens the door to Negro teachers for white children under federal coercion. It was repeated as a pledge dozens of times during the campaign.

Shortly before the presidential campaign, Mr. Kennedy stated on a Sunday TV panel that he favored appointment of qualified Negroes as federal judges, a fact that seemed to escape attention when Mr. Lodge mentioned putting a Negro in the Cabinet, something over which he would have had no power if elected.

All of this was before the voters when they made their decision. What more is there for Mr. Kennedy to say now?

Calling Everybody Communists Gets Us Nowhere

In its action condemning the Executive and Judicial branches of the federal government as "making common cause with a Communist conspiracy to destroy our public school systems" the State Legislature has strayed far from the high purpose of interposition through which it has been seeking so commendably to uphold the sovereign rights of Louisiana.

The House of Representatives unanimously passed a resolution branding every federal judge of every federal court and every member of the Executive Branch of the government-which includes President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon-as "making common cause with a Communist conspiracy." The Senate qualified the wording in a manner that soothed the conscience of some members but still left its action undesirable.

Such invective and vindictiveness automatically destroys the dignity of act and intent in interposition itself-a procedure initiated in 1798 by such men as Madison and Jefferson in placing the sovereignty of the state of Virginia and its General Assembly (with Kentucky joining) between the people and rulings by the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Chase. Most of the rulings were by individual Justices who in those days traveled in the manner of Circuit Judges and rendered individual decisions in local cases as District Judges do now.

The World itself more than once has pointed out that various federal Supreme Court decisions have aided the Communist cause. We have stated ever since May, 1954 that the Supreme Court's Brown vs. School Board ruling at that time against compulsory segregation was in violation of the Constitution and that thus all decisions since then-based in it-are in violation of the Constitution. The World brought interposition before the people in Louisiana in editorials in 1956 when we urged the State Legislature to adopt it as a policy for the future. This was done by resolution of the Legislature in its first session of 1956. In urging passage of that resolution in an editorial May 26, 1956, The World said:

"Interposition is a position essential to Louisiana and all states seeking to preserve segregation. Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia, and Mississippi already have taken that position through action of their Legislatures.

"It is legal, it has the precedent of Thomas Jefferson and James Madison, and it is logical. Under it the states simply proclaim that the federal government or some branch of it-in this case the Supreme Court-has gone beyond the constitution and that redress is sought.

"It is quite true that interposition by itself cannot change a Supreme Court decision or a legal act of the federal government. But it brings to the foreground the real issues involved-the issues of a constitutional branch of the government exceeding the Constitution in a manner which cannot be overridden directly by either of the other branches."

But the House resolution brands the innocent along with the guilty. For example:

Do the members of the House-including the Caddo and other local area members-believe that Federal District Judge Ben Dawkins, Jr., is "making common cause with a Communist conspiracy to destroy our public school system and our standards of education"? Judge Dawkins, in our opinion, has shown thorough and praiseworthy understanding of the United States Consitution in his decisions involving these matters.

Do our Legislators believe that Federal District Judge John T. Hunter, Jr., with headquarters in Lake Charles but a resident of this part of the state for years, also is engaged in this "Communist conspiracy"?

Do they believe that Federal Fifth Circuit Judge Ben F. Cameron of Mississippi, who has fought so valiantly against pro-integration decisions of that Court, is engaged in "making common cause with a communist conspiracy?"

Or the venerable Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, who single-handedly has kept Dallas schools open and segregated for six years, despite some contrary higher Court rulings?

Or the panel of three federal judges which refused to try to compel Governor Coleman of Mississippi to answer a federal Court subpeoena in a racial case in 1957 when he refused and left the state?

Or the panel of three federal judges who ruled an interstate chain restaurant in Virginia did not have to serve a Negro if it did not want to?

This could be carried on considerably farther.

As for tying President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon into this "Communist conspiracy"-as the House did through the inclusiveness of its resolution though not by name-that already is being condemned editorially by some outstanding pro-segregation and pro-interposition papers of the South.

President Eisenhower has stood against even Macmillan of England and de Gaulle of France in his determination to block Khrushchev of Russia. Mr. Nixon has not merely "stood up to Khrushchev." He stood unflinching while Communist mobs tried to spit on his wife and threw stones at both of them. He has seen the hate for him and his country in the eyes of the Reds at six inches distance and refused to budge. He alone kept open the doors —when all others were ready to close them — which eventually led to prison bars for Alger Hiss.

It is easy to understand the feelings of the House and the Senate over the arrogant action of a federal judge in taking the unprecedented step of actually issuing an injunction against the entire elected Legislature of a Sovereign State. But that is no reason to turn to vindictiveness and invective against public officials solely because of honest disagreement by them with our beliefs, or to include in the attack those who obviously are not even in disagreement with those same beliefs.

Many primitive peoples practice asceticism as a means of acquiring supernatural power. They abstain from food, drink or sleep, or inflict pain upon themselves through winter bathing, whipping or blood letting.

Explains Recreation Defeat

Fear Of Overtaxing Industry And Danger Of Forced Integration Of Facilities Are Among Reasons

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In Thursday's Ward 5 recreation election the program was defeated by many odds but not the principle of recreation for our fine youth west of the river.

Most citizens were conscious of the need in making adequate facilities for this worthy cause, but a number of things kept them from doing so at this time.

Jim Dana and his speaking committee did a fine work in taking the program before the people of Ward 5. Mr. Dana worked his heart out, but it could not be won at this time.

I am always glad to have part in a campaign for the growth, happiness and welfare of young people, boys and girls. The things we do for them will make our communities a better place to live and will give the country happier, finer and better youth.

We have heard this statement after defeat "we will be back again." The question of making provision for our youth will not be back, it is still here and will be here every day. It has never left and will never leave. Ward 5 voters did not put that question to rest last Tuesday.

I am listing some of the reasons people gave who voted against the program so they can be studied for future use when the opportunities come again.

1. A good program, but will cost more than the people are willing to pay at this time.
2. The cost of the recreational building out of proportion to the rest of the program.
3. Fear by some living out of city limits that they would not get their share of the program.
4. The intergration crisis in New Orleans schools.
5. Fear that industry might be overtaxed.
6. Opposition by some large tax payers.

These are real live questions and should be given careful study when the next program is planned.

I am a small tax payer and do not own much of this world's goods but I am always glad to share with the program for youth.

Passman Is Rapped

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Many people came away from Neville auditorium very disappointed with Congressman Otto E. Passman. Expecting the crescendo to be reached when our Washington representative took the rostrum and that we would be all enthused with the fight that our governor and the legislature were doing for the cause of our way of life in the south, this man used up the time blowing his own horn and recounting all he has done in Congress for the last 14 years. Then to cap the smooth politician's words, Passman made the mistake of telling the people that we should not withhold the 10 Louisiana votes from Kennedy. One wonders if the Democratic party and Texan Rayburn told Otto to toe the line or else face embarrassment when he comes to Washington. It was not the same Otto who months ago spoke out against Kennedy and his cohorts. This Passman has changed his tune and one wonders if personal ambition and favors are more dear than standing for everything the south holds precious. Passman, you caused many of your former supporters to doubt your sincerity and next time you run we hope and pray that a true southerner will be in the field against our brainwashed congressman from the fifth district.

A true southerner,
ALAN SHIVERS.

Sees Discrimination

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Recently we had some traffic violations in the Twin City and in the case of two violators the police took obviously the people and not the accident into account. Running a red light or a stop sign is for the ordinary person "reckless driving", but not if you are a representative's daughter. Is this justice . . . equal treatment before the law whether you are white or black, an inhabitant of the northside of town or the south, rich or poor, politician or taxpayer. Let's not have one set of laws for the poor and non-tenities in the parish and another law for the country club and the like.

To The Editor:

The Recreation Board of the City of Monroe in its regular monthly meeting, Wednesday, November 9, 1960, proposed and approved unanimously, the following:

Resolution

We, the Recreation Board of the City of Monroe, gratefully acknowledge the cooperation of the members of the staff of the Monroe News-Star, Morning World, in the recent recreation bond election. We greatly appreciate the generous use of time, facilities and news space which were donated. We feel that without the help we received from the News - Star and Morning World, we would never have received such an enthusiastic endorsement for our program.

I would also like to add my personal thanks to you and all the members of your staff for their kind help and cooperation.

Farmer Thanks

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

On behalf of the farmers of northeast Louisiana, I want to express our sincere appreciation for the editorial support of the News-Star and World for Amendment 32 in the recent constitutional election. We feel that your newspapers played a major part in explaining the need and justifications for this property tax exemption on farm equipment, and thus contributed materially in the nearly three - to - one majority gained for Amendment 32 in the Fifth Congressional District.

I might point out that in addition to removing the threat of a new tax in excess of $2,000,000 annually on Louisiana farmers, passage of this amendment also provides immediate benefit to a number of farmers in Caldwell, Concordia, East Carroll, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita and Tensas by removing farm equipment already on the tax rolls, with assessment in excess of $250,000.

We feel that this effort by your newspapers to support and help explain the value of an agricultural amendment to our non-farming neighbors is a splendid example of your effective and continuing backing of those measures which contribute to the economic health of Northeast Louisiana.

To the Editor:

I was very much interested in your Sunday Issue editorial relative to segregation of the Public Schools in La.

I am a Yankee so called in the South and people in the south will probably resent my taking any part in the affairs of the State this withstanding the fact that I own property here have a daughter attending school here and carry a reasonable bank balance that is used through banking to assist the merchants of the locality in their business ventures and thus stimulate jobs for the working man so no matter what classification the south gives me I claim to be a good citizen and my interest are in the welfare of the south and the nation as a whole.

I can understand the attitude of the south toward desegregation in the schools and with the large colored populations and the mentality standing of a large number of colored there is reason for alarm in the policy of race mixing in the public schools and that subject must be dealt with, I do however think that our State officials have and are taking the wrong steps in dealing with the situation. It is my opinion that our Federal judges have fully considered the problem of race mixing in the decision demanding that the first grades be desegregated and such only on a token basis and that application to attend a white school be on the individual basis only.

It is a known fact by our teachers that the foundation of civilized society is the first grades of school and that race mixing in marriage is far beyond the thoughts of these first graders. It is also a known fact that the attitude and the respect by the child towards the teacher is established in the first grade here the teacher not only trains the child in a method by which he or she can acquire knowledge but also the pattern for the child to follow in adopted civilized society. If the colored child in the first grade of school is taught the southern tradition of society regulations on the subject of race mixing they will be a salesman for the program rather than a advocate for its overflow. I think Judge Wright was more than considerate for the wishes of the southern white and colored people in his decision of token integration of the first grades of school, this decision having been made after the Federal courts decision relative to mass application for segregation a very slow process during those years a sound policy will be adopted by our educators.

If we of the south and I say we for the reason that I consider myself a part of the south go along with the program of token integration of the first grades and insist that applications for entry to a white school by a colored person be considered only on the individual basis and that proof that he or she is qualified both socially and mental and a good citizen in respect also to the rules of Society in the section of the nation he or she lives, if we adopt this attitude we will have the support of the states in the north.

The People Have Made The Decision

The proposal to bring up tonight in the House of Representatives at Baton Rouge a resolution calling on Louisiana's presidential electors to refuse to vote for anyone for president who does not express his views on the present desegregation judicial situation in Louisiana is an effort by the Legislature to "interpose" itself between the will of the people and the people themselves as expressed less than two weeks ago at the polls.

A majority of Louisianians who voted on November 8 expressed the desire that John F. Kennedy be President. Their total was nearly 7,000 more than the combined total of those perferring Mr. Nixon and those perferring electors with no candidate.

Mr. Kennedy led the "unpledged" or "no candidate" slate by 237,700 votes. He was 176,300 votes ahead of Mr. Nixon. Mr. Nixon was 61,400 ahead of the candidate-less slate. Yet the proposal now is, in effect, to try to make the Kennedy slate a candidate-less slate, even though this is not stated in so many words.

Regardless of whether a legal way could be found to let the Kennedy-Democratic electors vote other than for Mr. Kennedy, they ran as electors who would vote for him-for the Democratic candidate. As we see it they are as of now-bound both morally and legally to vote for him.

If the Legislature, by legislative action, now can persuade or force, Louisiana electors to vote otherwise, then federal elections in this state become a farce. Such switching by electors, or steps by the Legislature in that direction, would place our federal elections on a par with Russian elections where up to 98 per cent of the eligible people vote but actually have no say as to who is elected because they have only one candidate, or ticket, on the ballot.

A Louisiana switch proposed would mean that it would make no difference how many tickets were on the ballot, the will of the voters could be overridden by a small group that happened to dislike the decision of a majority of the voters.

The point here in some ways is more than legality-which is merely the lowest standard by which a person may live and keep out of jail. It is a matter of common sense, common morality, common honesty.

So far as Mr. Kennedy's "views" are concerned, they were made clear during the campaign by himself and the Party platform which he repeatedly endorsed 100 per cent. The most recent court rulings on New Orleans schools had not been made, but the federal Court decision requiring integration in New Orleans had been made before the election and the date had been set.

Mr. Kennedy has made it clear that he stands for initial steps toward desegration in every segregated school by 1963, that he stands behind the federal judiciary in any and all decisions on racial issues, that he believes there should be no literacy tests for voters, black or white.

The Kennedy proposal for federal payment in part of salaries of public school teachers opens the door to Negro teachers for white children under federal coercion. It was repeated as a pledge dozens of times during the campaign.

Shortly before the presidential campaign, Mr. Kennedy stated on a Sunday TV panel that he favored appointment of qualified Negroes as federal judges, a fact that seemed to escape attention when Mr. Lodge mentioned putting a Negro in the Cabinet, something over which he would have had no power if elected.

All of this was before the voters when they made their decision. What more is there for Mr. Kennedy to say now?

Calling Everybody Communists Gets Us Nowhere

In its action condemning the Executive and Judicial branches of the federal government as "making common cause with a Communist conspiracy to destroy our public school systems" the State Legislature has strayed far from the high purpose of interposition through which it has been seeking so commendably to uphold the sovereign rights of Louisiana.

The House of Representatives unanimously passed a resolution branding every federal judge of every federal court and every member of the Executive Branch of the government-which includes President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon-as "making common cause with a Communist conspiracy." The Senate qualified the wording in a manner that soothed the conscience of some members but still left its action undesirable.

Such invective and vindictiveness automatically destroys the dignity of act and intent in interposition itself-a procedure initiated in 1798 by such men as Madison and Jefferson in placing the sovereignty of the state of Virginia and its General Assembly (with Kentucky joining) between the people and rulings by the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Chase. Most of the rulings were by individual Justices who in those days traveled in the manner of Circuit Judges and rendered individual decisions in local cases as District Judges do now.

The World itself more than once has pointed out that various federal Supreme Court decisions have aided the Communist cause. We have stated ever since May, 1954 that the Supreme Court's Brown vs. School Board ruling at that time against compulsory segregation was in violation of the Constitution and that thus all decisions since then-based in it-are in violation of the Constitution. The World brought interposition before the people in Louisiana in editorials in 1956 when we urged the State Legislature to adopt it as a policy for the future. This was done by resolution of the Legislature in its first session of 1956. In urging passage of that resolution in an editorial May 26, 1956, The World said:

> "Interposition is a position essential to Louisiana and all states seeking to preserve segregation. Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia, and Mississippi already have taken that position through action of their Legislatures.
>
> "It is legal, it has the precedent of Thomas Jefferson and James Madison, and it is logical. Under it the states simply proclaim that the federal government or some branch of it-in this case the Supreme Court-has gone beyond the constitution and that redress is sought.
>
> "It is quite true that interposition by itself cannot change a Supreme Court decision or a legal act of the federal government. But it brings to the foreground the real issues involved-the issues of a constitutional branch of the government exceeding the Constitution in a manner which cannot be overridden directly by either of the other branches."

But the House resolution brands the innocent along with the guilty. For example:

Do the members of the House-including the Caddo and other local area members-believe that Federal District Judge Ben Dawkins, Jr., is "making common cause with a Communist conspiracy to destroy our public school system and our standards of education"? Judge Dawkins, in our opinion, has shown thorough and praiseworthy understanding of the United States Consitution in his decisions involving these matters.

Do our Legislators believe that Federal District Judge John T. Hunter, Jr., with headquarters in Lake Charles but a resident of this part of the state for years, also is engaged in this "Communist conspiracy"?

Do they believe that Federal Fifth Circuit Judge Ben F. Cameron of Mississippi, who has fought so valiantly against pro-integration decisions of that Court, is engaged in "making common cause with a communist conspiracy?"

Or the venerable Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, who single-handedly has kept Dallas schools open and segregated for six years, despite some contrary higher Court rulings?

Or the panel of three federal judges which refused to try to compel Governor Coleman of Mississippi to answer a federal Court subpeoena in a racial case in 1957 when he refused and left the state?

Or the panel of three federal judges who ruled an interstate chain restaurant in Virginia did not have to serve a Negro if it did not want to?

This could be carried on considerably farther.

As for tying President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon into this "Communist conspiracy"-as the House did through the inclusiveness of its resolution though not by name-that already is being condemned editorially by some outstanding pro-segregation and pro-interposition papers of the South.

President Eisenhower has stood against even Macmillan of England and de Gaulle of France in his determination to block Khrushchev of Russia. Mr. Nixon has not merely "stood up to Khrushchev." He stood unflinching while Communist mobs tried to spit on his wife and threw stones at both of them. He has seen the hate for him and his country in the eyes of the Reds at six inches distance and refused to budge. He alone kept open the doors —when all others were ready to close them — which eventually led to prison bars for Alger Hiss.

It is easy to understand the feelings of the House and the Senate over the arrogant action of a federal judge in taking the unprecedented step of actually issuing an injunction against the entire elected Legislature of a Sovereign State. But that is no reason to turn to vindictiveness and invective against public officials solely because of honest disagreement by them with our beliefs, or to include in the attack those who obviously are not even in disagreement with those same beliefs.

Many primitive peoples practice asceticism as a means of acquiring supernatural power. They abstain from food, drink or sleep, or inflict pain upon themselves through winter bathing, whipping or blood letting.

Explains Recreation Defeat

Fear Of Overtaxing Industry And Danger Of Forced Integration Of Facilities Are Among Reasons

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In Thursday's Ward 5 recreation election the program was defeated by many odds but not the principle of recreation for our fine youth west of the river.

Most citizens were conscious of the need in making adequate facilities for this worthy cause, but a number of things kept them from doing so at this time.

Jim Dana and his speaking committee did a fine work in taking the program before the people of Ward 5. Mr. Dana worked his heart out, but it could not be won at this time.

I am always glad to have part in a campaign for the growth, happiness and welfare of young people, boys and girls. The things we do for them will make our communities a better place to live and will give the country happier, finer and better youth.

We have heard this statement after defeat "we will be back again." The question of making provision for our youth will not be back, it is still here and will be here every day. It has never left and will never leave. Ward 5 voters did not put that question to rest last Tuesday.

I am listing some of the reasons people gave who voted against the program so they can be studied for future use when the opportunities come again.

1. A good program, but will cost more than the people are willing to pay at this time.
2. The cost of the recreational building out of proportion to the rest of the program.
3. Fear by some living out of city limits that they would not get their share of the program.
4. The intergration crisis in New Orleans schools.
5. Fear that industry might be overtaxed.
6. Opposition by some large tax payers.

These are real live questions and should be given careful study when the next program is planned.

I am a small tax payer and do not own much of this world's goods but I am always glad to share with the program for youth.

Passman Is Rapped

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Many people came away from Neville auditorium very disappointed with Congressman Otto E. Passman. Expecting the crescendo to be reached when our Washington representative took the rostrum and that we would be all enthused with the fight that our governor and the legislature were doing for the cause of our way of life in the south, this man used up the time blowing his own horn and recounting all he has done in Congress for the last 14 years. Then to cap the smooth politician's words, Passman made the mistake of telling the people that we should not withhold the 10 Louisiana votes from Kennedy. One wonders if the Democratic party and Texan Rayburn told Otto to toe the line or else face embarrassment when he comes to Washington. It was not the same Otto who months ago spoke out against Kennedy and his cohorts. This Passman has changed his tune and one wonders if personal ambition and favors are more dear than standing for everything the south holds precious. Passman, you caused many of your former supporters to doubt your sincerity and next time you run we hope and pray that a true southerner will be in the field against our brainwashed congressman from the fifth district.

A true southerner,
ALAN SHIVERS.

Sees Discriminaton

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Recently we had some traffic violations in the Twin City and in the case of two violators the police took obviously the people and not the accident into account. Running a red light or a stop sign is for the ordinary person "reckless driving", but not if you are a representative's daughter. Is this justice . . . equal treatment before the law whether you are white or black, an inhabitant of the northside of town or the south, rich or poor, politician or taxpayer. Let's not have one set of laws for the poor and non-tentities in the parish and another law for the country club and the like.

To The Editor:

The Recreation Board of the City of Monroe in its regular monthly meeting, Wednesday, November 9, 1960, proposed and approved unanimously, the following:

Resolution

We, the Recreation Board of the City of Monroe, gratefully acknowledge the cooperation of the members of the staff of the Monroe News-Star, Morning World, in the recent recreation bond election. We greatly appreciate the generous use of time, facilities and news space which were donated. We feel that without the help we received from the News - Star and Morning World, we would never have received such an enthusiastic endorsement for our program.

I would also like to add my personal thanks to you and all the members of your staff for their kind help and cooperation.

Farmer Thanks

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

On behalf of the farmers of northeast Louisiana, I want to express our sincere appreciation for the editorial support of the News-Star and World for Amendment 32 in the recent constitutional election. We feel that your newspapers played a major part in explaining the need and justifications for this property tax exemption on farm equipment, and thus contributed materially in the nearly three - to - one majority gained for Amendment 32 in the Fifth Congressional District.

I might point out that in addition to removing the threat of a new tax in excess of $2,000,000 annually on Louisiana farmers, passage of this amendment also provides immediate benefit to a number of farmers in Caldwell, Concordia, East Carroll, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita and Tensas by removing farm equipment already on the tax rolls, with assessment in excess of $250,000.

We feel that this effort by your newspapers to support and help explain the value of an agricultural amendment to our non-farming neighbors is a splendid example of your effective and continuing backing of those measures which contribute to the economic health of Northeast Louisiana.

Dawn In Navajoland

Often Forbidding Country Is Arising

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajoland — a huge, sprawling, often forbidding country — is stirring from its centuries-long sleep.

Jarring it out of slumber are the noises of the pounding drill of an oil crew, the whirr of rubber wheels over asphalt roads and the blare of a radio playing rock 'n' roll.

But the sleep was sound, and the awakening is difficult.

The Navajo reservation is the largest in the United States, spreading across 25,000 square miles of northeastern Arizona, southern Utah and northwestern New Mexico.

Larger than West Virginia, this lonely and beautiful land is the ancestral home of 90,000 Indians, the largest tribe in the country and, until less than a decade ago, one of the poorest.

Today the Navajos, collectively, are among the wealthiest Indians in the country, but the tribe still is plagued by the old problems of illiteracy, disease, poverty.

The 20th century bypassed the isolated land of the Navajos until the end of World War II when hundreds of young men returned to the reservation from military service with new visions of the future.

Their hopes, however, were stymied by a lack of money to develop the resources of their eroded, drought-stricken, overgrazed land. The Navajos sank even deeper into poverty.

Then, in 1950, a congress aroused by public indignation passed the long-range, $88-million Navajo-Hopi Rehabilitation act. Five years later came the discovery of oil and natural gas on the reservation.

Population is booming in the area. Farmington, on the edge of the reservation, has increased tenfold in 10 years.

Since 1955, petroleum companies have paid the tribe an estimated $200 million in lease fees and royalties. About half of this has been spent, the remainder placed in a federal trust fund.

All income from reservation resources is controlled by a 74-member council, elected by the tribe and headed by Paul Jones, a 65-year-old Navajo with the shrewdness of a big-city banker.

Most of the money spent by the council has gone for public works programs, development of resources and other projects designed to benefit the tribe as a whole.

"We want some of that money for babes yet unborn," says Jones, explaining the council's fiscal policy. "We want, in the meantime, to bring up the level of opportunity for our people so they will not have to face a machine age working only with their hands."

The federal government pumps about $50 million a year into the reservation over and above expenditures under the Rehabilitation Act.

The government has paved hundreds of miles of roads, built, irrigation and reclamation projects and greatly expanded health, education and welfare programs.

These massive spending programs have created a land of paradoxes.

A stylishly dressed secretary powders her nose in a plush tribal office while a few miles away another woman, dressed in calico, grinds corn at the door of her hogan, a small, round, windowless hut of mud and timber.

An elderly Navajo, accepting a ride from a tourist, climbs into the car, points down the road, grunts, "Me keams kahn-yon, me keams kahn-yon," and then lapses into wary silence for 20 miles.

Another elderly Indian, his hair tied with strands of wool in a bun behind his head, rises in a council meeting to describe to his fellows the advantages of automating the tribe's accounting department.

Perhaps typical is Gene Price, 25, a high school graduate, an ex-Marine and a commercial photographer.

Price, son of a shepherd and grandson of a medicine man, leaned back in a swivel chair in his cluttered office at Window Rock and took a cautious sip from a cup of steaming black coffee.

"Boy, I'm tired," he sighed. "I just got back from a squaw dance and I'll bet I haven't had more than a couple hours of sleep in three days."

A squaw dance, Price explained, is a complex but ordered social event involving, among other things, horse races, gift exchanges, eating, singing and, of course, dancing.

Most Anglos think a squaw dance is just a boy-meet-girl sort of thing," he said. "Well, that's true—I mean that's part of it. But there's more to it than that.

"This one was for the ex-GIs. At night the medicine man and the rest of us moved off a ways from the women and children and sang the old songs—the old chants—around a campfire."

"After a while, a guy gets kind of hypnotized by the music and forgets what's bothering him. It's kind of like—what do you call it—psychotherapy."

A radio in his office almost drowned his voice in a sea of harsh sound. He interrupted himself and changed the station.

"I can't stand that rock 'n' roll stuff, can you? Give me some good jazz or the old swing bands—now there was real music!"

This curious intermingling of the old and the new is spreading throughout Navajoland.

"I feel this is the most rapid cultural and social change experienced by any group in this country or abroad since the war," says Jones. "But we've still got a lot of problems.

"The biggest — and contributing in large degree to many of the others — is lack of education. Conquering this, we feel, is the key to the solution of most of our troubles."

Eighty-five per cent of the Navajos are illiterate. Many do not have even the simplest job skills. Thousands are ignorant of the need for proper sanitation.

But it is in the field of education that the greatest strides have been made by the tribe and the government.

In eight years, school enrollment has more than doubled to about 28,500, or 93 per cent of the school-age population. Many children attend off-reservation boarding schools, but classroom construction on the reservation is booming.

The tribe recently created a $10 million trust which provides $400,000 a year for scholarship grants, awarded on a competitive basis to high school graduates.

Three of every five Navajo families own battery-powered radios, and they are constantly bombarded with tribal-sponsored information programs in their native tongue from four off-reservation stations.

Navajo specialists in a variety of fields regularly visit virtually every hogan on the reservation by plane, car, truck, horseback and foot to spread the gospel of enlightenment.

Paved highways have opened vast areas of the reservation once visited by only the most daring travelers. Tourism soon is expected to rank second only to oil as a source of tribal income.

The tribe recently dedicated a $166,000 observatory in Monument Valley, a pallette-hued expanse of huge, sandstone cliffs.

Seven other tribal parks are planned and the creation of Lake Powell behind Glen Canyon Dam on the Colorado River will give the Navajos many miles of shoreline, to be developed at a cost of several millions.

"We've got some of the wildest country in North America here," says John McPhee, administrative assistant to the council chairman, "and much of it is unsurpassed in beauty.

"The Navajos have a great attachment to this land," adds McPhee, one of the few white men in the tribal hierarchy. "These are an aesthetic people. They are a gentle, philosophical people."

O'Hara Is As Usual Tops At 'Novella Work'

SERMONS AND SODA-WATER: THE GIRL ON THE BAGGAGE TRUCK, IMAGINE KISSING PETE, WE'RE FRIENDS AGAIN. By John O'Hara. Random House. $5.95.

Gibbsville, Pa.; the 1920s and '30s in the perspective provided by 1960; people finding a place in their world, making money, loving their husbands or wives or somebody's, straightening out problems or just messing them up more — these are the time, place and substance of O'Hara's three novellas.

He quotes from Byron, whom his spokesman, and no doubt he himself, dislikes:

"Let us have wine and woman, mirth and laughter,

"Sermons and soda-water the day after."

It's an admirable title, and O'Hara could use it for more books of his than this — or these, for each is bound separately and they come in a box. The couplet tells the plots:

The narrator is Jim Malloy; Charley Ellis loves his cousin Polly who's married to Ethridge Williamson of the Long Island Williamsons, but she has a lover in Boston; it's at the Williamsons' that Hunterden gets a dare from Malloy for the sake of Charlotte Sears, the baggage-truck girl from Hollywood; there are automobile accidents. First and last stories have casts largely in common, but the second mostly concerns Bobbie who on the rebound from Johnny White marries Pete, or Ichabod, McCrea; it reveals how the young folks sleep around and how, even so, life fixes life up sometimes with a moderately happy ending.

In his foreword O'Hara defends the novella form and regrets that so many readers apply to a story the hefting test. He adds that, at work now on a big long novel that will pass that test, he must interrupt research every now and then to do some writing — like this. "The United States in this century is what I know," and he wants to get it down on record.

For all these opinions and for the way he acts on them, we can be utterly grateful. The stories unfold in a wonderfully straight-forward way, there is no straining, the settings are vivid. This is O'Hara at his story-telling best.

Many Answers Provided On Man Creature

CONFESSIONS OF A SPENT YOUTH. By Vance Bourjaily. Dial. $4.95.

What is the stuff in a man? Where does it come from, how does he assimilate it? Or maybe this is the question: What added to what added to what and so on makes a man?

There certainly are many answers, and Bourjaily, or his narrator Quince, has one in this novel, an answer not merely as good as any, but even better than most.

Quince is a youngster in his teens when we first meet him and old enough to do his stint of World War II soldiering by the time we say goodby. We leave him without reluctance, for his only promise is understanding and forthrightness — with no trace of the endowment which suggests greatess. Yet we remember him, and are thankful for the acquaintance, for he's a sincere fellow who can identify his own problems and figure out, usually, ways to solve them.

Denied a settled, secure life in the bosom of a family, he has a reasonably happy time learning to be on his own. His story is one of chance associations with boys in service and college, men in business and in the army, and principally with women. They're not elevating experiences. They are important only cumulatively; they go on and on: The bumbling initiation into sex, the brute realites of a stag party and smoker, the girl who amplifies sex with love contrasted with the girl who knows only sex, the Jew girl among the Arabs, the Japanese prostitutes, and so back to the States and Cynthia Ann. There also are some gruesome, and some humorous war scenes; some warm fond friendships; some rash adventures with intoxicants and drugs.

Mostly however young Quince grew up thanks to the buffeting, welcome, rejection, submission and other responses of the girls and women he knew.

Parisian Airs Contempt For Italian Way

AS FOR ITALY. By Jean-Francois Revel. Translated from French by Anthony Rhodes. Dial. $3.95.

Carlo Levi wrote a good postwar novel, "Christ Stopped at Eboli." Marini is an able sculptor. The Italians have produced some good films, thanks mainly to Fellini and Rossellini. And, for some unaccountable reason, they love babies.

This about exhausts the good things Revel has to say about Italy and Italians. "As for Italy" could be translated, "Down the Drain with Them," for it is so virulent it crackles and spits. The author, Marseilles-born and now a Parisian, lived in Italy four and a half years, mostly as a teacher. Whatever the Italians did to him, he has got even 100 times over.

Among his blanket excoriations are these: "Italians are unable to write." Their philosopers, meaning Croce, are "only eloquent orators." "The Italian public no longer knows anything about music. Its taste, as in painting, is academic." "The modern Italian is one of the most ponderous people alive" and he's also "muddle-headed, confused, prolix." "A female is not considered a human being."

Italy, he charges, is the product of the forces that tried to block the Renaissance. He is savage about the influence of church and press but at the same time he thinks the Communists are far from a valid, intellectual, political or creative Left. Latins as lovers he ridicules, and he spends two hilarious pages in a brothel. Francophiles will practicularly relish his gibe at expatriate Americans who prefer Rome to the "harsher competition" of contemporary Paris.

Even if he were wrong in every respect, he still makes a tingling good book out of it. The Italians he flays ought to sort of like it even as they cringe. But may he never visit this country!

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS, OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARIAN

Several new and exciting books of fiction are among the latest additions to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Nicholas E. Wyckoff is the author of "The Corinthians." This is a most unusual story, set in the middle of the last century. It is concerned with the beliefs of the Mormon people and the way they affected the life of a non-believer. It is a book which the reader will not soon forget. "The House of Five Talents" is the title of a new novel by Louis Auchincloss and is worthy of the genius of this talented young writer. It is the story of five generations of an American family and of how their wealth shaped their lives. It makes absorbing reading and can be heartily recommended. "The Doomed Oasis" by Hammond Innes is an exciting novel of adventure in Arabia, where oil causes the sharpest king of conflict between native tribes and outsiders. A young Britisher goes there to find his father and finds himself involved in desert politics. How he made a lone fight against aggression is a startling story of courage. This is a book which will appeal to all readers, but especially to men.

Books of poetry are always a welcome addition to the library collection and this week there are two very lovely titles. One is "Times Three" by Phyllis McGinley. This is a collection of three verses written during the last three decades. The other is a collection of the complete poems of Emily Dickinson. This is the only one-volume complete edition of her works and is quite a literary achievement. Dr. Thomas H. Johnson, the editor and Little Brown and Co., really deserve praise for entering into this project, for they have made a real contribution to the field of American literature.

Probably there is no living author who knows more about the old South than Harnett T Kane of New Orleans does. His latest book has just appeared and he calls it. "Gone Are the Days." It is an illustrated history of the Old South. It begins with the explorations of the Spanish and French, takes up the English settlements in Virginia and the other Eastern colonies, then deals with the remainder of the deep south. He shows how the Civil War brought an end to a way of life, which will be long regretted (By us at any rate).

A most significant addition to our collection of material about great Louisianian's is "Rudolph Matas" by Isidore Cohn. Dr. Matas lived and practiced medicine in New Orleans for many years and was one of the great pioneers in surgery. By his work at the Tulane Medical School, he influenced the advancement of medicine all over the State. This is a very fine piece of work and one which will interest many readers. William G. Vogt, author of the startling book of several years ago, "The Road to Survival" has a new book called "People, Challenge to Survival". Mr. Vogt states that more than 140,000 people are born in the world each day and that this zooming population is the cause of many of the world's difficulties today. Whether you agree with his solutions or not, this is a challenging book and one which will be read and discussed. Mr. Vogt makes the statement that in spite of all of the advances in technology in the past few years "Today there are more hungry, more illiterate, more dissatisfied people in the world than ever before."

America At Lowest Ebb

THE WAR FOR THE UNION, Vol. II: War Becomes Revolution. By Allan Nevins, Scribners. $7.50.

In the early spring of 1862, hope flamed high that the conflict which has split the nation might soon be ended. The fall of Forts Henry and Donelson had opened the heart of the South to Federal armies. New Orleans had been captured. A massive Union army was almost within sight of Richmond. So bright was optimism, that recruting was stopped in the belief the North had enough men in uniform to finish the job of smashing the Confederacy.

The period of hope was sadly brief. U. S. Grant was caught off guard at Shiloh. Henry Halleck frittered away opportunity in the West; George B. McClellan did likewise in the East. Both North and South realized grimly that a long and bitter struggle lay ahead.

It is a story of disillusionment and regirding for the long haul that Allan Nevins tells in volume II of his study of the Civil War, a volume that advances mangnificently to No. 6 his momentous and monumental work on the period from the Mexican War through Reconstruction.

These days of 1862-63 were the apex for the South. Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jeb Stuart fanned the hopes of victory on the Peninsula below Richmond, in the Shenandoah Valley, at Antietam and Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. For the North McClellan, Burnside and Hooker were found wanting, Buell and Rosecrans fumbled, the nation was appalled by disaster and bloodshed.

Still, in the many facets of Nevins' narrative, the omens for the future are apparent. The North was still improvising in a measure — as in the titanic mustering of the Western river fleet — but there was a flexing of industrial muscle and a rallying of manpower that foretold the inevitable outcome. And, perhaps most important of all, the tremendously overshadowing personality of Abraham Lincoln was taking charge.

It is a stupendous, moving story that Nevins tells, a story of perhaps the most trying time in our national experience. We and the world are beset by many troubles now but it would be a daring soul indeed who could insist that these United States ever were closer to utter calamity than in 1862.

CASTRO'S WOMEN

Bearded One's Secret With Fair Ladies Deep, Dark One

EDITOR'S NOTE — Fidel Castro's private life with women is a dark secret. But there's no secret about his public effect on the ladies. Flocking to his revolutionary banner they've filled every job from Cabinet minister to pistol-packing militia mamas. In fact there seems to be only one thing the Cuban cuties cannot do—grow beards.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—In the bewhiskered man-world of the Cuban revolution, women performed — and still do—important tasks.

They were in the mountains with the fighters when the revolution was still only a rebellion. They were in the dangerous underground in the city doing espionage or courier work.

Today they represent a formidable portion of the army of civilians engaged in every phase of Cuba's big social-economic experiment—including the armed militia.

But the strapping revolutionary figure that inspires them — Fidel Castro—shuns all but the most formal public contact with them.

An impenetrable wall of security screens the Cuban prime minister in his nonpublic hours. The result is an impression among most people here that the 34-year-old lawyer-revolutionary leads a monastic existence. Intimates say that in spite of the official encumbrances, Castro enjoys a thoroughly normal but secluded life.

The reason for this seclusion, these friends state, is that Castro has an almost fanatical preoccupation about keeping his personal life above even the most subtle hint of reproach. The Cuban prime minister is said to feel the quickest way to destroy the image of the true revolutionary is to cast himself in the mold of the playboy.

There are those, too, who claim the extraordinary isolation is due less to an aversion to scandal than to Castro's equally fanatical concern about staying alive. He is seen less in public now than in the early days and four carloads of armed guards escort his car.

It is perhaps a tribute to his precautions and revolutionary zeal that in this land of free-wheeling boudoir gossip Castro has been almost totally spared—even by his enemies.

The few stories about his private life have been in the nature of jokes that seem neither to enhance nor belittle his masculinity.

Looking back on all this, veteran reporters assigned to Castro since his rise to power refused to be taken in by rumors of "wine and women" in his Harlem hotel headquarters last September on his trip to the United Nations.

The once-married, now divorced, Castro, father of a 10-year-old boy, maintains several apartments around Havana. But it is not known publicly that he has entertained either formally or informally at any of them or gone nightclubbing with a woman.

But there is no question about his personal hold on women. They turn out in droves at public demonstrations, shrilly shouting "Fidel, Fidel" and behaving much like teen-age mobs before a favorite movie idol.

Castro's most constant companion is a woman, his private secretary Celia Sanchez.

Miss Sanchez is a plain, thin-faced serious woman in her late 40s. Unobtrusive to the point of shyness, she hovers near Castro at public rallies and appearances, but in a manner to avoid notice and even the TV cameras.

There is no hint of romantic involvement. "She is more like an older sister to Fidel," her friends say.

Miss Sanchez typifies the revolutionary woman who left home and job to join the ranks in support of Castro. A descendant of early settlers of easternmost Oriente Province, she went into the mountains soon after Castro debarked in November 1956.

Others followed. At present, some of these veterans hold key positions. The legion of female revolutionaries grew—as did the male ranks—at the conclusion of hostilities in January 1959. But the important posts for women have gone to those who were in the fight almost from the start.

Among these, and next to Miss Sanchez in unofficial rank are Vilma Espin and Violeta Casals. Vilma is the wife of Fidel's young brother, Raul. Miss Casals is an attractive stage veteran. Both are considered staunch Communist sympathizers.

The tall, well-educated Vilma has been busy representing Cuba at various international women's conferences, including some behind the Iron Curtain.

Miss Casals says she fled to the mountains to escape persecution by Fulgencio Batista's police. Her voice became familiar to clandestine radio listeners tuned in to Castro's "Radio Rebelde." Like most Communist-liners presently in the Castro government, Miss Casals was shunted to the background during the first 10 months of the revolutionary regime. After that she emerged gradually until at the moment she is a recognized frontliner at public demonstrations.

One of the first women to join the revolutionary movement was Haydee Santamaria, a woman still in her 20s and the wife of Minister of Education Armando Hart. When Castro attacked the Moncada military barracks at Santiago on July 26, 1953, Miss Santamaria went along as a nurse. Her brother Abel was killed in the assault. She is now engaged in cultural affairs for the government.

Pastorita Nunez, a short stout woman in her late 40s, was a sort of tax collector for the revolution, going about sugar cane plantations to collect contributions for Castro forces in the mountains. She presently heads the National Housing Institute charged with erecting low-cost homes for the poor out of funds derived from a form of lottery that replaced the old Cuban national lottery.

Ernestina Otero, one of Castro's press secretaries, was an underground agent right in Batista's headquarters. She relayed information to Castro in the mountains through various channels, including personal horseback trips to the front lines.

A woman has held down the social welfare portfolio in the Cabinet ever since the revolutionary government was formed. The present incumbent is Dr. Raquel Perez Miret whose revolutionary background is obscure.

Old-timers here cannot recall when, if ever, women ever had a more active role in Cuban government. They are practically in every possible activity, from stenographic work to managing government-expropriated firms. Hundreds are in the civilian militia.

A familiar sight about the Cuban capital is the young girl, barely out of her teens, in tight-fitting blue shirt and tighter-fitting olive drab slacks—the colors of the militia — with an efficient looking .45-caliber revolver loosely strapped at the hip. (Disconcerting as the sight might appear to foreigners, it draws a symphony of wolf whistles from the usually irrepressible Cuban).

And contrary to spy fiction tradition, the less-glamorous, older types seem to have found themselves in the volunteer corps of female informers.

But like the men revolutionaries, the distaff ranks include the disenchanged.

Miss Teresa Casuso was one of the women closest to Castro in the days when the revolution was aborning in Mexico City. She shielded the Cuban leader in her own home in the Mexican capital and once went to jail for her troubles. A skilled linguist, she became Castro's foreign press relations chief after the revolutionary triumph. But disillusioned, she stepped down from that position early in October.

"We were being called on to defend matters that were now quite indefensible," she told reporters.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

There's a week at the opera for northeast Louisiana if the patrons want to take in the whole bill of fare.

Monday and Friday nights, the Northeast State Concerts Series will light up Neville Auditorium with Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and the broadway musical hit "Fiorello."

Tuesday, the Boris Goldovsky company will unwrap Mozart's classic "Don Giovanna" at Howard Auditorium on the Louisiana Tech campus.

This lineup affords a wide variety in stage works which bear the name opera or "musical comedy" which is a sort of close cousin. The Menotti piece is a contemporary one with modern melodies and harmonies. But in its setting — the Christmas story — there is all the tradition of the visit of the Wise Men to the Infant Jesus.

Mozart's "Don Giovana," was billed as comic opera at its inception, but more recent scholars won't go along with the idea. Its music is gay enough as the principal character, Don Juan, moves from one love affair to the other. But the closing scene which depicts the Don receiving due punishment at the hands of a stone statue is stronger medicine than most comedies can tolerate.

The music itself is tops in the Mozart catalog, which is saying plenty. The famous overture was written on the afternoon of the first performance and played that night with no chance for rehersal. It was a success as the whole opera has been for the past 170-odd years.

The Pulitzer Prize musical, "Fiorello," is a tribute to New York's Mayor LaGuardia. But the show, which covers the period 1915-33 of the New Yorker's career, has made a box office success in Chicago, indicating that its interest carries beyond the too-narrow confines of the Hudson and East Rivers.

Folk music collector Dr. Harry Oster of the LSU faculty made a visit to Delhi last week to hear old time fiddlers, banjo, guitar and mandolin players.

While Dr. Oster has recorded prison, 'cajun and traditional jazz tunes in South Louisiana, the North Louisiana hill music may possibly open a previously untapped source of "Bible Belt" folklore.

Since Morning World syndicated columnist George Sokolsky frequently runs into the field of music and literature, the scales feel free to run his way anytime. Last Wednesday he discussed a magazine study in contrasts between Alger Hiss and Roy Cohn.

In the column, writer Sokolsky noted, "In these articles, Hiss is painted as a Werther and Cohn as a Till Eulenspiegel." As the teenagers were saying several years back, "This is real George (Sokolsky, in this case.)"

Maybe some people know about the practical joker Till Eulenspiegel who kept many irons in the fire according to the musical tone poem by Richard Strauss.

But this Werther fellow is not too well known off George Sokolsky's well-traveled beat. He is a character in a poem by Goethe which tells of the self pity of a youth after his girl friend and the world turned him down.

At any rate, the columnist used these characters from music and literature to describe the way the magazine contrasted the cases of Hiss and Cohn. Then he branded the article as "misleading."

"Music hath charms," as the saying goes, but it can get pretty complicated on the editorial page.

Dawn In Navajoland

Often Forbidding Country Is Arising

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajoland — a huge, sprawling, often forbidding country — is stirring from its centuries-long sleep.

Jarring it out of slumber are the noises of the pounding drill of an oil crew, the whirr of rubber wheels over asphalt roads and the blare of a radio playing rock 'n' roll.

But the sleep was sound, and the awakening is difficult.

The Navajo reservation is the largest in the United States, spreading across 25,000 square miles of northeastern Arizona, southern Utah and northwestern New Mexico.

Larger than West Virginia, this lonely and beautiful land is the ancestral home of 90,000 Indians, the largest tribe in the country and, until less than a decade ago, one of the poorest.

Today the Navajos, collectively, are among the wealthiest Indians in the country, but the tribe still is plagued by the old problems of illiteracy, disease, poverty.

The 20th century bypassed the isolated land of the Navajos until the end of World War II when hundreds of young men returned to the reservation from military service with new visions of the future.

Their hopes, however, were stymied by a lack of money to develop the resources of their eroded, drought-stricken, overgrazed land. The Navajos sank even deeper into poverty.

Then, in 1950, a congress aroused by public indignation passed the long-range, $88-million Navajo-Hopi Rehabilitation act. Five years later came the discovery of oil and natural gas on the reservation.

Population is booming in the area. Farmington, on the edge of the reservation, has increased tenfold in 10 years.

Since 1955, petroleum companies have paid the tribe an estimated $200 million in lease fees and royalties. About half of this has been spent, the remainder placed in a federal trust fund.

All income from reservation resources is controlled by a 74-member council, elected by the tribe and headed by Paul Jones, a 65-year-old Navajo with the shrewdness of a big-city banker.

Most of the money spent by the council has gone for public works programs, development of resources and other projects designed to benefit the tribe as a whole.

"We want some of that money for babes yet unborn," says Jones, explaining the council's fiscal policy. "We want, in the meantime, to bring up the level of opportunity for our people so they will not have to face a machine age working only with their hands."

The federal government pumps about $50 million a year into the reservation over and above expenditures under the Rehabilitation Act.

The government has paved hundreds of miles of roads, built, irrigation and reclamation projects and greatly expanded health, education and welfare programs.

These massive spending programs have created a land of paradoxes.

A stylishly dressed secretary powders her nose in a plush tribal office while a few miles away another woman, dressed in calico, grinds corn at the door of her hogan, a small, round, windowless hut of mud and timber.

An elderly Navajo, accepting a ride from a tourist, climbs into the car, points down the road, grunts, "Me keams kahn-yon, me keams kahn-yon," and then lapses into wary silence for 20 miles.

Another elderly Indian, his hair tied with strands of wool in a bun behind his head, rises in a council meeting to describe to his fellows the advantages of automating the tribe's accounting department.

Perhaps typical is Gene Price, 25, a high school graduate, an ex-Marine and a commercial photographer.

Price, son of a shepherd and grandson of a medicine man, leaned back in a swivel chair in his cluttered office at Window Rock and took a cautious sip from a cup of steaming black coffee.

"Boy, I'm tired," he sighed. "I just got back from a squaw dance and I'll bet I haven't had more than a couple hours of sleep in three days."

A squaw dance, Price explained, is a complex but ordered social event involving, among other things, horse races, gift exchanges, eating, singing and, of course, dancing.

Most Anglos think a squaw dance is just a boy-meet-girl sort of thing," he said. "Well, that's true—I mean that's part of it. But there's more to it than that.

"This one was for the ex-GIs. At night the medicine man and the rest of us moved off a ways from the women and children and sang the old songs—the old chants—around a campfire."

"After a while, a guy gets kind of hypnotized by the music and forgets what's bothering him. It's kind of like—what do you call it—psychotherapy."

A radio in his office almost drowned his voice in a sea of harsh sound. He interrupted himself and changed the station.

"I can't stand that rock 'n' roll stuff, can you? Give me some good jazz or the old swing bands—now there was real music!"

This curious intermingling of the old and the new is spreading throughout Navajoland.

"I feel this is the most rapid cultural and social change experienced by any group in this country or abroad since the war," says Jones. "But we've still got a lot of problems.

"The biggest — and contributing in large degree to many of the others — is lack of education. Conquering this, we feel, is the key to the solution of most of our troubles."

Eighty-five per cent of the Navajos are illiterate. Many do not have even the simplest job skills. Thousands are ignorant of the need for proper sanitation.

But it is in the field of education that the greatest strides have been made by the tribe and the government.

In eight years, school enrollment has more than doubled to about 28,500, or 93 per cent of the school-age population. Many children attend off-reservation boarding schools, but classroom construction on the reservation is booming.

The tribe recently created a $10 million trust which provides $400,000 a year for scholarship grants, awarded on a competitive basis to high school graduates.

Three of every five Navajo families own battery-powered radios, and they are constantly bombarded with tribal-sponsored information programs in their native tongue from four off-reservation stations.

Navajo specialists in a variety of fields regularly visit virtually every hogan on the reservation by plane, car, truck, horseback and foot to spread the gospel of enlightenment.

Paved highways have opened vast areas of the reservation once visited by only the most daring travelers. Tourism soon is expected to rank second only to oil as a source of tribal income.

The tribe recently dedicated a $166,000 observatory in Monument Valley, a pallette-hued expanse of huge, sandstone cliffs.

Seven other tribal parks are planned and the creation of Lake Powell behind Glen Canyon Dam on the Colorado River will give the Navajos many miles of shoreline, to be developed at a cost of several millions.

"We've got some of the wildest country in North America here," says John McPhee, administrative assistant to the council chairman, "and much of it is unsurpassed in beauty.

"The Navajos have a great attachment to this land," adds McPhee, one of the few white men in the tribal hierarchy. "These are an aesthetic people. They are a gentle, philosophical people."

O'Hara Is As Usual Tops At 'Novella Work'

SERMONS AND SODA-WATER: THE GIRL ON THE BAGGAGE TRUCK, IMAGINE KISSING PETE. WE'RE FRIENDS AGAIN. By John O'Hara. Random House. $5.95.

Gibbsville, Pa.; the 1920s and '30s in the perspective provided by 1960; people finding a place in their world, making money, loving their husbands or wives or somebody's, straightening out problems or just messing them up more — these are the time, place and substance of O'Hara's three novellas.

He quotes from Byron, whom his spokesman, and no doubt he himself, dislikes:

"Let us have wine and woman, mirth and laughter,

"Sermons and soda-water the day after."

It's an admirable title, and O'Hara could use it for more books of his than this — or these, for each is bound separately and they come in a box. The couplet tells the plots:

The narrator is Jim Malloy; Charley Ellis loves his cousin Polly who's married to Ethridge Williamson of the Long Island Williamsons, but she has a lover in Boston; it's at the Williamsons' that Hunterden gets a dare from Malloy for the sake of Charlotte Sears, the baggage-truck girl from Hollywood; there are automobile accidents. First and last stories have casts largely in common, but the second mostly concerns Bobbie who on the rebound from Johnny White marries Pete, or Ichabod, McCrea; it reveals how the young folks sleep around and how, even so, life fixes life up sometimes with a moderately happy ending.

In his foreword O'Hara defends the novella form and regrets that so many readers apply to a story the hefting test. He adds that, at work now on a big long novel that will pass that test, he must interrupt research every now and then to do some writing — like this. "The United States in this century is what I know," and he wants to get it down on record.

For all these opinions and for the way he acts on them, we can be utterly grateful. The stories unfold in a wonderfully straight-forward way, there is no straining, the settings are vivid. This is O'Hara at his story-telling best.

they go on and on: The bumbling initiation into sex, the brute realites of a stag party and smoker, the girl who amplifies sex with love contrasted with the girl who knows only sex, the Jew girl among the Arabs, the Japanese prostitutes, and so back to the States and Cynthia Ann. There also are some gruesome, and some humorous war scenes; some warm fond friendships; some rash adventures with intoxicants and drugs.

Mostly however young Quince grew up thanks to the buffeting, welcome, rejection, submission and other responses of the girls and women he knew.

Denied a settled, secure life in the bosom of a family, he has a reasonably happy time learning to be on his own. His story is one of chance associations with boys in school and college, men in business and in the army, and principally with women. They're not elevating experiences. They are important only cumulatively:

What is the stuff in a man? Where does it come from, how does he assimilate it? Or maybe this is the question: What added to what added to what and so on makes a man?

There certainly are many answers, and Bourjaily, or his narrator Quince, has one in this novel, an answer not merely as good as any, but even better than most.

Quince is a youngster in his teens when we first meet him and old enough to do his stint of World War II soldiering by the time we say goodby. We leave him without reluctance, for his only promise is understanding and forthrightness — with no trace of the endowment which suggests greatess. Yet we remember him, and are thankful for the acquaintance, for he's a sincere fellow who can identify his own problems and figure out, usually, ways to solve them.

Parisian Airs Contempt For Italian Way

AS FOR ITALY. By Jean-Francois Revel. Translated from French by Anthony Rhodes. Dial. $3.95.

Carlo Levi wrote a good postwar novel, "Christ Stopped at Eboli." Marini is an able sculptor. The Italians have produced some good films, thanks mainly to Fellini and Rossellini. And, for some unaccountable reason, they love babies.

This about exhausts the good things Revel has to say about Italy and Italians. "As for Italy" could be translated, "Down the Drain with Them," for it is so virulent it crackles and spits. The author, Marseilles-born and now a Parisian, lived in Italy four and a half years, mostly as a teacher. Whatever the Italians did to him, he has got even 100 times over.

Among his blanket excoriations are these: "Italians are unable to write." Their philosopers, meaning Croce, are "only eloquent orators." "The Italian public no longer knows anything about music. Its taste, as in painting, is academic." "The modern Italian is one of the most ponderous people alive" and he's also "muddle-headed, confused, prolix." "A female is not considered a human being."

Italy, he charges, is the product of the forces that tried to block the Renaissance. He is savage about the influence of church and press but at the same time he thinks the Communists are far from a valid, intellectual, political or creative Left. Latins as lovers he ridicules, and he spends two hilarious pages in a brothel. Francophiles will practicularly relish his gibe at expatriate Americans who prefer Rome to the "harsher competition" of contemporary Paris.

Even if he were wrong in every respect, he still makes a tingling good book out of it. The Italians he flays ought to sort of like it even as they cringe. But may he never visit this country!

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS, OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARIAN

Several new and exciting books of fiction are among the latest additions to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Nicholas E. Wyckoff is the author of "The Corinthians." This is a most unusual story, set in the middle of the last century. It is concerned with the beliefs of the Mormon people and the way they affected the life of a non-believer. It is a book which the reader will not soon forget. "The House of Five Talents" is the title of a new novel by Louis Auchincloss and is worthy of the genius of this talented young writer. It is the story of five generations of an American family and of how their wealth shaped their lives. It makes absorbing reading and can be heartily recommended. "The Doomed Oasis" by Hammond Innes is an exciting novel of adventure in Arabia, where oil causes the sharpest king of conflict between native tribes and outsiders. A young Britisher goes there to find his father and finds himself involved in desert politics. How he made a lone fight against aggression is a startling story of courage. This is a book which will appeal to all readers, but especially to men.

Books of poetry are always a welcome addition to the library collection and this week there are two very lovely titles. One is "Times Three" by Phyllis McGinley. This is a collection of three verses written during the last three decades. The other is a collection of the complete poems of Emily Dickinson. This is the only one-volume complete edition of her works and is quite a literary achievement. Dr. Thomas H. Johnson, the editor and Little Brown and Co., really deserve praise for entering into this project, for they have made a real contribution to the field of American literature.

Probably there is no living author who knows more about the old South than Harnett T Kane of New Orleans does. His latest book has just appeared and he calls it. "Gone Are the Days." It is an illustrated history of the Old South. It begins with the explorations of the Spanish and French, takes up the English settlements in Virginia and the other Eastern colonies, then deals with the remainder of the deep south. He shows how the Civil War brought an end to a way of life, which will be long regretted (By us at any rate).

A most significant addition to our collection of material about great Louisianian's is "Rudolph Matas" by Isidore Cohn. Dr. Matas lived and practiced medicine in New Orleans for many years and was one of the great pioneers in surgery. By his work at the Tulane Medical School, he influenced the advancement of medicine all over the State. This is a very fine piece of work and one which will interest many readers. William G. Vogt, author of the startling book of several years ago, "The Road to Survival" has a new book called "People, Challenge to Survival". Mr. Vogt states that more than 140,000 people are born in the world each day and that this zooming population is the cause of many of the world's difficulties today. Whether you agree with his solutions or not, this is a challenging book and one which will be read and discussed. Mr. Vogt makes the statement that in spite of all of the advances in technology in the past few years "Today there are more hungry, more illiterate, more dissatisfied people in the world than ever before."

America At Lowest Ebb

THE WAR FOR THE UNION, Vol. II: War Becomes Revolution. By Allan Nevins, Scribners. $7.50.

In the early spring of 1862, hope flamed high that the conflict which has split the nation might soon be ended. The fall of Forts Henry and Donelson had opened the heart of the South to Federal armies. New Orleans had been captured. A massive Union army was almost within sight of Richmond. So bright was optimism, that recruting was stopped in the belief the North had enough men in uniform to finish the job of smashing the Confederacy.

The period of hope was sadly brief. U. S. Grant was caught off guard at Shiloh. Henry Halleck frittered away opportunity in the West; George B. McClellan did likewise in the East. Both North and South realized grimly that a long and bitter struggle lay ahead.

It is a story of disillusionment and regirding for the long haul that Allan Nevins tells in volume II of his study of the Civil War, a volume that advances mangnificently to No. 6 his momentous and monumental work on the period from the Mexican War through Reconstruction.

These days of 1862-63 were the apex for the South. Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jeb Stuart fanned the hopes of victory on the Peninsula below Richmond, in the Shenandoah Valley, at Antietam and Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. For the North McClellan, Burnside and Hooker were found wanting, Buell and Rosecrans fumbled, the nation was appalled by disaster and bloodshed.

Still, in the many facets of Nevins' narrative, the omens for the future are apparent. The North was still improvising in a measure — as in the titanic mustering of the Western river fleet — but there was a flexing of industrial muscle and a rallying of manpower that foretold the inevitable outcome. And, perhaps most important of all, the tremendously overshadowing personality of Abraham Lincoln was taking charge.

It is a stupendous, moving story that Nevins tells, a story of perhaps the most trying time in our national experience. We and the world are beset by many troubles now but it would be a daring soul indeed who could insist that these United States ever were closer to utter calamity than in 1862.

CASTRO'S WOMEN

Bearded One's Secret With Fair Ladies Deep, Dark One

EDITOR'S NOTE — Fidel Castro's private life with women is a dark secret. But there's no secret about his public effect on the ladies. Flocking to his revolutionary banner they've filled every job from Cabinet minister to pistol-packing militia mamas. In fact there seems to be only one thing the Cuban cuties cannot do—grow beards.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—In the bewhiskered man-world of the Cuban revolution, women performed — and still do—important tasks.

They were in the mountains with the fighters when the revolution was still only a rebellion. They were in the dangerous underground in the city doing espionage or courier work.

Today they represent a formidable portion of the army of civilians engaged in every phase of Cuba's big social-economic experiment—including the armed militia.

But the strapping revolutionary figure that inspires them — Fidel Castro—shuns all but the most formal public contact with them.

An impenetrable wall of security screens the Cuban prime minister in his nonpublic hours. The result is an impression among most people here that the 34-year-old lawyer-revolutionary leads a monastic existence. Intimates say that in spite of the official encumbrances, Castro enjoys a thoroughly normal but secluded life.

The reason for this seclusion, these friends state, is that Castro has an almost fanatical preoccupation about keeping his personal life above even the most subtle hint of reproach. The Cuban prime minister is said to feel the quickest way to destroy the image of the true revolutionary is to cast himself in the mold of the playboy.

There are those, too, who claim the extraordinary isolation is due less to an aversion to scandal than to Castro's equally fanatical concern about staying alive. He is seen less in public now than in the early days and four carloads of armed guards escort his car.

It is perhaps a tribute to his precautions and revolutionary zeal that in this land of free-wheeling boudoir gossip Castro has been almost totally spared—even by his enemies.

The few stories about his private life have been in the nature of jokes that seem neither to enhance nor belittle his masculinity.

Looking back on all this, veteran reporters assigned to Castro since his rise to power refused to be taken in by rumors of "wine and women" in his Harlem hotel headquarters last September on his trip to the United Nations.

The once-married, now divorced, Castro, father of a 10-year-old boy, maintains several apartments around Havana. But it is not known publicly that he has entertained either formally or informally at any of them or gone nightclubbing with a woman.

But there is no question about his personal hold on women. They turn out in droves at public demonstrations, shrilly shouting "Fidel, Fidel" and behaving much like teen-age mobs before a favorite movie idol.

Castro's most constant companion is a woman, his private secretary Celia Sanchez.

Miss Sanchez is a plain, thin-faced serious woman in her late 40s. Unobtrusive to the point of shyness, she hovers near Castro at public rallies and appearances, but in a manner to avoid notice and even the TV cameras.

There is no hint of romantic involvement. "She is more like an older sister to Fidel," her friends say.

Miss Sanchez typifies the revolutionary woman who left home and job to join the ranks in support of Castro. A descendant of early settlers of easternmost Oriente Province, she went into the mountains soon after Castro debarked in November 1956.

Others followed. At present, some of these veterans hold key positions. The legion of female revolutionaries grew—as did the male ranks—at the conclusion of hostilities in January 1959. But the important posts for women have gone to those who were in the fight almost from the start.

Among these, and next to Miss Sanchez in unofficial rank are Vilma Espin and Violeta Casals. Vilma is the wife of Fidel's young brother, Raul. Miss Casals is an attractive stage veteran. Both are considered staunch Communist sympathizers.

The tall, well-educated Vilma has been busy representing Cuba at various international women's conferences, including some behind the Iron Curtain.

Miss Casals says she fled to the mountains to escape persecution by Fulgencio Batista's police. Her voice became familiar to clandestine radio listeners tuned in to Castro's "Radio Rebelde." Like most Communist-liners presently in the Castro government, Miss Casals was shunted to the background during the first 10 months of the revolutionary regime. After that she emerged gradually until at the moment she is a recognized frontliner at public demonstrations.

One of the first women to join the revolutionary movement was Haydee Santamaria, a woman still in her 20s and the wife of Minister of Education Armando Hart. When Castro attacked the Moncada military barracks at Santiago on July 26, 1953, Miss Santamaria went along as a nurse. Her brother Abel was killed in the assault. She is now engaged in cultural affairs for the government.

Pastorita Nunez, a short stout woman in her late 40s, was a sort of tax collector for the revolution, going about sugar cane plantations to collect contributions for Castro forces in the mountains. She presently heads the National Housing Institute charged with erecting low-cost homes for the poor out of funds derived from a form of lottery that replaced the old Cuban national lottery.

Ernestina Otero, one of Castro's press secretaries, was an underground agent right in Batista's headquarters. She relayed information to Castro in the mountains through various channels, including personal horseback trips to the front lines.

A woman has held down the social welfare portfolio in the Cabinet ever since the revolutionary government was formed. The present incumbent is Dr. Raquel Perez Miret whose revolutionary background is obscure.

Old-timers here cannot recall when, if ever, women ever had a more active role in Cuban government. They are practically in every possible activity, from stenographic work to managing government-expropriated firms. Hundreds are in the civilian militia.

A familiar sight about the Cuban capital is the young girl, barely out of her teens, in tight-fitting blue shirt and tighter-fitting olive drab slacks—the colors of the militia — with an efficient looking .45-caliber revolver loosely strapped at the hip. (Disconcerting as the sight might appear to foreigners, it draws a symphony of wolf whistles from the usually irrepressible Cuban).

And contrary to spy fiction tradition, the less-glamorous, older types seem to have found themselves in the volunteer corps of female informers.

But like the men revolutionaries, the distaff ranks include the disenchanged.

Miss Teresa Casuso was one of the women closest to Castro in the days when the revolution was aborning in Mexico City. She shielded the Cuban leader in her own home in the Mexican capital and once went to jail for her troubles. A skilled linguist, she became Castro's foreign press relations chief after the revolutionary triumph. But disillusioned, she stepped down from that position early in October.

"We were being called on to defend matters that were now quite indefensible," she told reporters.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

There's a week at the opera for northeast Louisiana if the patrons want to take in the whole bill of fare.

Monday and Friday nights, the Northeast State Concerts Series will light up Neville Auditorium with Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and the broadway musical hit "Fiorello."

Tuesday, the Boris Goldovsky company will unwrap Mozart's classic "Don Giovanna" at Howard Auditorium on the Louisiana Tech campus.

This lineup affords a wide variety in stage works which bear the name opera or "musical comedy" which is a sort of close cousin. The Menotti piece is a contemporary one with modern melodies and harmonies. But in its setting — the Christmas story — there is all the tradition of the visit of the Wise Men to the Infant Jesus.

Mozart's "Don Giovana," was billed as comic opera at its inception, but more recent scholars won't go along with the idea. Its music is gay enough as the principal character, Don Juan, moves from one love affair to the other. But the closing scene which depicts the Don receiving due punishment at the hands of a stone statue is stronger medicine than most comedies can tolerate.

The music itself is tops in the Mozart catalog, which is saying plenty. The famous overture was written on the afternoon of the first performance and played that night with no chance for rehersal. It was a success as the whole opera has been for the past 170-odd years.

The Pulitzer Prize musical, "Fiorello," is a tribute to New York's Mayor LaGuardia. But the show, which covers the period 1915-33 of the New Yorker's career, has made a box office success in Chicago, indicating that its interest carries beyond the too-narrow confines of the Hudson and East Rivers.

Folk music collector Dr. Harry Oster of the LSU faculty made a visit to Delhi last week to hear old time fiddlers, banjo, guitar and mandolin players.

While Dr. Oster has recorded prison, 'cajun and traditional jazz tunes in South Louisiana, the North Louisiana hill music may possibly open a previously untapped source of "Bible Belt" folklore.

Since Morning World syndicated columnist George Sokolsky frequently runs into the field of music and literature, the scales feel free to run his way anytime. Last Wednesday he discussed a magazine study in contrasts between Alger Hiss and Roy Cohn.

In the column, writer Sokolsky noted, "In these articles, Hiss is painted as a Werther and Cohn as a Till Eulenspiegel." As the teenagers were saying several years back, "This is real George (Sokolsky, in this case.)"

Maybe some people know about the practical joker Till Eulenspiegel who kept many irons in the fire according to the musical tone poem by Richard Strauss.

But this Werther fellow is not too well known off George Sokolsky's well-traveled beat. He is a character in a poem by Goethe which tells of the self pity of a youth after his girl friend and the world turned him down.

At any rate, the columnist used these characters from music and literature to describe the way the magazine contrasted the cases of Hiss and Cohn. Then he branded the article as "misleading."

"Music hath charms," as the saying goes, but it can get pretty complicated on the editorial page.

1. SAVE THE LAST DANCE FOR ME, Drifters.
2. YOU TALK TOO MUCH, Joe Jones.
3. POETRY IN MOTION, Johnny Tillotson.

BISHOP A. MOORE

Church Sets Opening For Revival Here

The First Methodist Church of Monroe will start its annual revival this morning at 11, with retired Bishop Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta, Ga., as guest evangelist.

The bishop started his ministry as an evangelist. He later was appointed to the pastorate of the Travis Park Methodist Church in Birmingham, Ala., then the largest church in Methodism. In his 10 years in that capacity, he is credited with converting 6,000 persons.

He was elected to the Episcopacy in 1930.

During the week the revival morning services will be held at 10, and evening services at 7.

A nursery will be maintained for each session and the church parking lot on Grammont

Gingko Tree Ball Of Gold

By MILDRED SWIFT

Last Sunday I reminded you to see the gingko tree in the Layton garden. It's beautiful, a ball of gold. This is a tree you may want to plant in your own garden. It's easy to grow, but not a fast grower. Gingko is almost immune to insects and diseases. It adapts well to city conditions, stands drouth and heat well. This tree matures to a large size. Gingko is of Chinese origin.

JUST TALKIN'

If you'll watch your flowering quince, you can see when the buds begin to form. If left on the shrub, in the open, these will not open until January or later. But — if you'll cut branches that have small buds, you can put these in water and force them. The warmth of the house helps them to open. I do think quince is lovely cut. It's so stiff and straight and has a grace all its own.

Soon bulb foliage will be coming up. This is the time to fertilize with a complete food such as 8-8-8.

In some gardens, sweet alyssum is a carpet of color. You can plant these seed now, or any month of the year.

A gardner once told me she was quite successful drying blooms of the paper plant by hanging them upside down. If you're one of the lucky ones who grew paper plants, and they bloomed, you can try this. The blossoms look like crochet after they bloom and are dried.

If you have a westeria vine that doesn't bloom, don't discard it until you've tried root pruning. Sharpen the spade and cut down into the soil, four feet out from the trunk of the vine. Make a complete circle around the trunk, cutting as deep as the spade will plunge. If this doesn't induce blooming, then, next summer just dig it up and discard. After all - a new plant costs so little and grows so fast.

SELECTING SHADE

Since planting time is so near, you'll be buying that shade tree. There are many reasons we need and want shade in our gardens. About the best reason is - for our children. A shade tree also increases the value of property, cools the house and gives us mulch. True, trees take a lot of food from the soil, but then all plants can be expected to do that. What type shade tree do you want? A fast growing one? Then here is a list: Catalpa, sycamore, ash, sweet gum, Chinese tallow, blackberry, locust. These are all large trees.

The sycamore is messy but more than makes up for this with its gorgeous white trunk. The ashy whiteness begins to show up after the tree puts on some age.

The locust grows very fast, has beautiful white blooms that look like westeria, and they're fragrant. I'd not recommend this tree for small properties. It's entirely too prolific.

Sweet gum and Chinese tallow have gorgeous colored foliage in the fall.

Some slower growing trees are pecan, oaks, gingko, persimmon and walnut.

Fast growing small trees for your selection are: loquat, native holly, banana shrub, mimosa, cherry laurel, tree legustrum, crape myrtle, champhor, youpon and crabapple. There are many more. These are only a few. Visit the nurseries and see what they have.

GET READY

Since the holiday season is close at hand, you're planning for beauty for you home. You've requested that I repeat the instructions for glycerinizing and skeletonizing magnolia leaves. The bronzed leaves will keep for years. You can't glycerinize huge branches. The top leaves will die before the glycerin gets that far up. You'll have to be satisfied with smaller branches. Then-after they're the bronze color you want, you can wire them to long stems if you need them for large containers. Here's the method: Either pound the lower two inches of the stem or slit several times. Put these in a solution of one part glycerin and one part water. Let the branches stay in this solution for several weeks, adding a very small amount of water as evaporation takes place. I've found it sometime takes six or seven weeks for the leaves to turn that beautiful brown you want. Then the branches can be kept without their stems in water.

Many other plants are beautiful treated in this manner. Some are: asperdistra leaves, wild myrtle branches, loquat, photenia, pittosporum.

SKELETONIZING

To skeletonize magnolia leaves, here's what you do: Put one can of lye and one cup of soap in five gallons of water. Put the leaves in this solution and boil for twenty minutes. Remove leaves and put in a pan of clorox until they have bleached as white as you want them. Then quickly put the leaves in a large container of water. Take a small brush and work the fleshy part of the leaf off the veins. Now you have your skeleton and you're ready to dye. Use all purpose rit, following the instructions in the package and adding a tablespoon of vinegar to set the color. You can dye these any shade to blend with the color scheme of your room. They are dainty and lovely mixed in dried arrangements. They're gorgeous, white, too.

SUCCULENTS

Succulents play an important part in garden planting. They have the property of being able to store up moisture in their tissues. We usually refer to them as being "juicy." For that reason, succulent plants, as a general rule, will grow in arid spots in your garden. They go through drouths well because of this stored up moisture. The family of spiny cactus is an example.

Geranium is usually classed as a succulent. Cuttings from this class of plants should be made and left on the shelf to rest for a week before putting them in the roating medium. This allows the stem to lose some of its moisture and there's less danger of rot.

Other plants that should be treated the same way are wandering Jew, coleus and begonia. All these are suitable for indoor and outdoor culture. There are many lovely geraniums in gardens in north Louisiana. If we have a mild winter, these can be carried through, outdoors, without transplanting. The geranium gets leggy though, so it's a good idea to make cuttings now.

CLEAN

Best insurance available at any price, against odors developing, is plain old baking soda. Sponge down the interior of the refrigerator and all its trays, etc. Do this about every two weeks and there'll never be any stale food odors sneaking out when the refrigerator door opens. This same applies to the freezer when defrosting time comes due.

Use the same basic solution to sponge out the bread box and cookie jar weekly to prevent mustiness from developing. Sponges tend to sourness and could be soaked in a soda solution every couple of days.

When you're working with fish, one of the strong cheeses, garlic, or onion, wet the dish or utensil with which the food came in contact, sprinkle with dry soda and rub with a paper towel. You can get rid of the odor on your hands by wetting them, sprinkling with dry soda and then rubbing your hands together.

Although ash trays and flower containers don't reside in the kitchen, they do get washed there, and since they harbor odors, they too benefit from a soda sweetening. Rush ash trays with dry soda applied with a damp paper towel. Fill flower container with soda solution and let sit while you brush the holder with dry soda and a brush. Rinse both, well!

If you burn food in a boiler, boil it out with a strong solution of soda water. Sometimes it's necessary to repeat this a second time but you'll get it. Have patience.

New Stamp Is Spotlight For Satellite

ECHO I, the world's first communications satellite, will be depicted on a new U.S. stamp Dec. 15 in Washington, D.C. The satellite was placed in orbit around the earth by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on Aug. 12, 1960.

In announcing plans for this new stamp, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield stated:

"Because this represents an initial and potentially a most significant and historic advancement in world communications for peace, the Post Office Department is commemorating the achievement with a commemorative stamp."

He further commented that the Post Office Department's long range interest in this and other improved means of communication is grounded in the belief that our postal system might ultimately employ this new technology to improve and extend our ability to communicate with others throughout the word.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent Echo I stamp may send self-addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers 4-Cent Echo I."

Switzerland, long famed for its expertly designed postage stamps, has just issued ts 1960 Pro Juventute set. It consist of five new semi-postals. Four of the stamps feature flowers and the fifth has a portrait of Alexandre Calame, noted Swiss landscape painter.

The four flower stamps, printed in full natural color, are a continuation of the "wild flowers and garden flowers" series. The 4 centimes plus 10 green, yellow and grey depicts the dandelion; 20 c plus 10 carmine red, red grey and yellow green and yellow illustrates the larkspur; the 50 c plus 10 ultramarine, green, grey and yellow pictures the thorn apple. The Calame stamp is 5 c plus 5 reddish blue.

According to the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America, 90 per cent of the proceeds from the additional values on the stamps goes to the Pro Juventute Foundation and the remaining 10 per cent for various youth welfare activities.

French Somaliland has issued a five value definitive "bird" set. The 10 franc violet, brown and green depicts the flamingo; 15 fr violet red, green and yellow —wasp eater; 30 fr blue, black and brown — ibis; 75 fr green, bistre and yellow — pelican; 200 fr (airmail) red, bistre, black and grey — bustard.

Minkus Publications announces that it has issued its complete line of 40 supplements for 1960 according to schedule, welcome news to those who look forward to keeping their various supplements up to date.

Turkey has issued two new stamps to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Turkish journalism. The stamps depict the Agah Efendi and the newspaper Turcamani Ahval. The 60 kurus is dark and light brown. The 40 kurus is dark brown and grey green.

Spain will issue its annual monastery set depicting the Monastery of Samos near Coruna. The 80 cts green and biue green will show the cloister the 1 peseta red and orange will illustrate the fountain. The 5 pesetas bistre and red will depict the front of the monastery.

Also announced by Spain for issuance on Dec. 1 is a Christmas stamp showing a reproduction of "The Holy Family" by Velasquez. It will be 1 pesetas orange.

Johnson Gives Kennedy's Aims

LONDON (AP)—Vice President elect Lyndon B. Johnson has promised British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan "a new burst of energy" when the Kennedy administration takes over the White House Jan. 20.

The Texas senator spent several hours Friday night with Macmillan, outlining the general aims President-elect John F. Kennedy intends to pursue.

Qualified informants said Saturday they boiled down to this:

1. Fiscal responsibility at home, so that the money is there to meet commitments abroad.

2. A global drive to prove that capitalism can give a worker more security than communism.

3. Broadened Social Security in the United States to serve as an example to the rest of the world.

4. Full-scale backing of the Western alliance wherever needed, with either support or required leadership.

Yule Photo Greetings Snap For Cameramen

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When the phone rang, it sounded somehow like the tinkling of faroff sleighbells.

"I have a call for you from the North Pole," the operator said when I picked up the phone.

"This is the Photographic Department of St. Nicholas Enterprises." the vcoice informed me. "We have a telephoto view of the photographic Yuletide activities of our Christmas clientele from up here and frankly, we don't see too much activity down there among the camera fans."

"You sure you have the right number?" I answered. "Why tell me?"

SUGGESTION

"You write a camera column for photo fans, don't you?" the voice replied. "Well, I want you to stir them up. . .get them going. . .or my department isn't going to look too good on Dec. 25.

"Confidentially," he went on, "the boss really goes for those personal photo greeting cards. Says it's the best way to get acquainted with the customers and know what they look like. He gets a kick out of watching the kids grow up from year to year.

"You know, if it weren't for that big pack he has to carry around, he'd have a camera instead. He says he sees a lot of great shots to take while making his rounds and nobody's taking them.

"I thought Santa was more of a chimney bug than a shutterbug," I quipped. "But I was going to remind the camera fans this year just as I've done every year."

"Look at the calendar. . .it's kind of late, isn't it?" he said sharply. "There's just about time to get cards out for this Yuletide if those cameras start clicking right away.

"Sure we know some of them put off taking pictures with the excuse that they haven't some super-special idea this year. Tell them there's nothing wrong with a family picture, with or without a Christmas setting, as long as it's up-to-date."

"That's what I told camera fans at Thanksgiving time," I told him.

"Tell 'em again!" he shot back. "And you can remind those who have moved into a new house or have added a blessed event to the household that these make appropriate subjects. . .with or without holiday trimmings.

"And speaking of trimmings, the stores have them now. . . wreaths, bells, little choir boys and angels and even the boss with his reindeer.

"Which reminds me," he continued, "When I see the trouble some photo fans have trying to catch their youngsters in the right spirit, why don't they turn to table top photograph? The little figures don't mind posing or how much light you pour on them."

"But I thought Santa liked personal cards?" I pointed out.

"Anything a photographer takes himself is personal," he replied. "In a houseful of holiday cards, they're the ones that catch the eye and command careful attention. Even a busy guy like Santa takes time out to study them. Says it makes him feel like one of the family, sort of."

YULETIDE PHOTO GREETINGS should be a snap for camera fans with the focus on home, family and hobbies. There's a greeting card format to fit any type of card.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Woodpecker Clan Studied

By MARY M. JARDINE

(Caroline Dormon)
(guest writer)

Reprinted by courtesy of Hodges Gardens Magazet.

Woodpeckers are in plenty of various sizes and habits. The little downies and hairies, in their black-and-white gingham frocks, creep about almost silently in their never-ending march up and down tree trunks and branches. The number of insects, eggs, and larvae devoured by these small friends is amazing.

At the other end of the size-scale is the handsome pileated woodpecker. The only difference between him and the famous ivory-billed is his black beak instead of a white one. Also, he is a little smaller, but he makes up for it in noise.

His rattling call is startling, and when he decided to dissect a dead tree, the size of the falling chunks is astonishing. Dressed in black and white, with a blazing red cockade, he is beautiful, and as large as a small hen. Indian hen is one of his common names, but the most surprising is Lord God — a corruption, I feel sure, of the old English name Log Cock.

REDHEAD

One of our finest birds, the redhead or redheaded woodpecker, is rapidly disappearing. He wears a white shirt, black coat, and a red cap, his entire head being a beautiful red. But that vivid head has become a target for every featherbrained person digging out the corn borers. Telephone people claim he makes holes in poles, but he never picks into one unless there is already a decayed spot. Unless every bird-lover makes himself a committee of one to fight for the preservation of this valuable species he will soon go to join the passenger pigeon.

The brightest spot in winter woods is the cardinal, our common redbird, so beautiful when seen against snow. Usually at this time we hear only his sharp "chip" but on a sunny day in January he may give us his full spring song. This is the friendly fellow who seems to like people for he builds his twiggy nest in shrubs around houses.

The best method to become acquainted with birds is to feed them, seeds and chops for the grain eaters, cornbread for the insectivorous species. Few can resist good cornbread, with eggs, milk and shortening. Plenty of water at all times is a necessity. It has to be thawed out often in freezing weather.

SHARING

As if to compensate for the invasion of the obnoxious Armadillo, Texas is sharing with us two of her most interesting birds. Texas roadrunner must be seen to be believed. Two feet long from tip of beak to end of tail, he is streaked with black, white and brown in fine camouflage. This is well, for he is truly a ground bird, flying only as a last resort. He has a strong beak and tremendous long-toed feet, and is said to kill rattlesnakes.

Scissor-tail flycatcher is a complete contrast, an airy beauty which catches insects on the wing. The colors are exquisite, but the feature by which it can be identified without any doubt is a tail ten inches long, which divides as it flies. This gives it its name, scissor-tail. I have seen both these birds in Louisiana. Hodges Garden Preserve is near the Texas line, so one need not be surprised to see a roadrunner streaking across open woods, or a scissor-tailed flycatcher performing its airy maneuvers.

BASTROP CLUB

Garden grown chrysanthemums were featured in the lovely flower show presented by members of the Bastrop Garden Club. Mrs. S. E. Cathey and Mrs. Charles Gray Jr. combined talents in creating a beautiful Hogarth curve. An antique lamp base was selected for a container. Oasis was used for a mechanic. The water in the lamp bowl was tinted rose pink. The Hogarth line was delineated with small leafed ivy with lavender-pink mums skillfully massed in the center of the design. Very suitable for an early American or traditional home.

Mrs. W. P. Stephenson and Mrs. O. L. Alexander designed a classic mass arrangement using a tall white urn. Spike material was of green and yellow ligustrum, followed by the shiny green leaves of photinia serrulata. Buds and blooms of bright yellow chrysanthemums filled in the center of the symmetrical pattern. Photinia leaves were placed low over the rim of the container. Suitable for a living room or hall table, also eminently suitable for a church.

THEME

Mrs. Luther Booth and Mrs. W. L. Duckworth designed a gay and crisp crescent arrangement with a Thanksgiving theme. A brass compote set on a round wood plaque served as a receptacle for the arrangement. The crescent line was established with small leaf ivy and the design filled in with tiny cushion chrysanthemums of yellow and deeper bronze mums in the center. Large ivy leaves were used low for transition and filler. A small turkey was perched in the curve of the crescent symbolizing the Thanksgiving holiday.

Our extra of the week was a bold, modern mass design made by Mrs. O. L. Alexander and Mrs. W. P. Stephenson. The pillow container was modern in concept in green, gold and white. Furled aspidistra leaves were placed in an asymetrical pattern in the vase with deep lavender chrysanthemums following the established pattern. Foliage of the primrose jasmine was used for transition and filler. A most effective arrangement for a modern living room.

A pink radiance rose was exhibited by Mrs. Stephenson in the horticulture section. Also exhibited were a group of debutante camellias grown by Mrs. Charles Camp.

Sleepyheads Welcomed At This School

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is one school in the nation where sleepyheads are welcome. In fact, coming to class with heavy eyelids is a recognized occupational disease.

This unique situation applies to the Capitol page school which begins classes at the unearthly hour of 6:30 a.m. and closes shop four hours later—at 10:30 a.m.

But the pupils—82 boys who run errand and do other chores for member of Congress and justices of the Supreme Court—are not penalized if they report late for class. That also is a recognized part of their schooling.

There is only one requirement for admission to this exclusive college prep school, but it is ironclad.

Each youngster must be sponsored by a member of the House or Senate or a justice of the court. There are 50 in the House, 26 in the Senate, and 4 in the Supreme Court.

When classes end for the day, the boys report for their page duties and, between those and classes the next morning, must manage their schoo! homework as best they can. This calls for considerable management.

When Congress works late into the night, the pages must stay on duty.

Most of the pupils feel they are lucky to be enrolled in the school principal Henry L. De Keyser said. Their attendance record is unusually good, he said, but their tardiness rate likely is the highest of any school.

STANDARDS HIGH

He said teachers try to take the pages' working hours into account, and often close their eyes to sleepyheads who arrive with lessons unprepared. But the school standards remain high, more demanding than most of the boys were accustomed to at home.

De Keyser said that despite this the school's rate of failures is lower than the national average.

Pupils never are flunked out of the page school. But sponsors are sent copies of their proteges' report cards four times a year.

A boy who cannot keep up with his school work is likely to be replaced.

Each page is assured of an after-taxes income of about $280 a month. Those graduated receive presidential certificates along with their diplomas. To facilitate their studies the pages have access to the best reference library in the nation — the 13-million book Library of Congress where their classrooms are situated.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Some Trees Grow Fast

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Trees are commonly thought to grow very, very slowly. This is not necessarily true: after a tree becomes established, its growth is dependent almost entirely upon the food and water you provide for it. If you set your tree out in poor soil, you will get very little growth. If you set it out in a hole that is at least a foot bigger than the root spread and fill in with good soil, you will get fair growth. If, however, you are willing to put your tree into a hole three or four feet deep and two or three feet wider than the root spread and fill this in with garden soil, then the growth will be called "phenominal" by all who see it.

WORTH

Surely your shade trees are worth more than anything else on your property. Young trees will respond with this "phenominal" growth if you are willing to provide the conditions that produce it, and you will have shade where you want it in a few years.

The scarlet oaks finally came through with their color this fall. In some places, they were a disappointment in the Southern mountains, but in the hills, they were brilliant — and still are dazzling in sections where they are native. Few Southern nurserymen supply this handsome tree, but your nurseryman can get trees for you. Even in areas where the scarlet oak may not grow particularly well, it is worthwhile to have one on the grounds and give it special soil and care.

MAPLES

There is a very large-leaved form of sugar maple which seems to occur, here and there over the South. This year, the leaves were yellow with most attractive red veins and edges. The northern sugar maple turns many colors in the Fall, whereas, the Southern sugar maple usually turns bright yellow. In nurseries, the foliage is still hanging on the large-leaved type mentioned here long after it has gone from the trees of the other two kinds. This is certainly a handsome tree at all times of the year. In shape it is like the "northern" and "southern" species, but everything about the tree is more vigorous, and it grows quickly, in good soil, into fine shade tree. Out to themselves, maples cannot send their roots into pipes and are certainly worth planting for their beautiful bare trunks in winter, their flowers in late winter (red maples) and their fall colors. The red maples have been especially brilliant this year. They have assumed almost the ruby red of the scarlet oaks. It hardly seems possible that there is a lapse of only two to two and a half months between the red maple foliage and the early red flowers that tell us spring is trying to come.

EXTENSION NOTES

Compost Pile Items Handy

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's time to make that compost pile if you do not have one. With all the good oak leaves and pine needles falling, be sure and save them - by all means don't burn them. Pile the leaves in a corner of your yard and put a layer of complete fertilizer and another layer of leaves. Next spring this compost will be excellent to put in your flower beds.

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have plans for a rose garden in your landscape, now is the time to get as much sunshine as possible. A location exposed to full sun is best for the rose garden. Good drainage is necessary if roses are to be grown successfully. If the soil is poorly drained, it is not suitable for planting roses.

If you plan to grow roses exclusively for cut flowers, the garden should not be located in a prominent place as the front yard because this type garden is usually not too pretty from the landscape point of view. Be sure to allow enough space in your rose garden. Three feet between plants in the row is a good spacing. After the garden is ready it would be well to place a mulch over the top. The best time to set out roses in our section, according to our specialists, Dr. R. H. Hanchey and W. D. Kimbrough, is February. If you want to be sure of getting certain varieties, I suggest you place your order now with your nurserymen.

Have you, Mrs. Homemaker, ever eaten or made pumpkin preserves. Yours truly is one who has never but plans to make some real soon. Mrs. C. A. Kincaid in Ward 4 called this week to tell us that she had made some and that they are simply delicious. If you have a pumpkin and would like to try, Mrs. Kincaid will be glad to share her recipe with you, so call her at FA 3-7084.

Yours truly will give a demonstration on making Christmas candies this Thursday, December 1 at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe at 9:30 a.m. At this same meeting there will be on display inexpensive decorations which you and the Junior members of your family may enjoy making to give the home a more festive spirit during the Christmas holidays. Will be glad to have you, Mrs. Homemaker, of Ouachita Parish. Remember the date - Thursday, December 1, at 9:30. The meeting will be over by 12:00 o'clock.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

Mrs. Homemaker do you know that certain foods should not be stored in steel containers? Mustard, mayonnaise, lemon juice, vinegar, salt or dressings containing these will attack and corrode stainless steel if exposed to it for a long period of time. Remember, too, that strong bleaches should not come in contact with stainless steel sinks or utensils for periods longer than 30 minutes.

Mrs. Homemaker, the latest information which I have gotten from our State Entomogolist, Kirby Cockerham, and J. J. Joyce Jr., county agent, on the control of the milliped and earwig that are invading your lawn and home, is as follows. To keep them out of the house apply a 15 foot band of insecticide around the house, use five per cent aldrin granules using 10 pounds for 1,000 square feet or 10 pounds of 2.5 per cent heptachlor. They reported that the worm and insect which are found in such great abundance in yards and lawns do little or no damage to the plants and lawns. They usually feed on decaying matter and fungus. Of course this is some consolation, but I know that you are interested in keeping them off your property regardless of whether they do harm or not.

A number of homemakers have reported that these insecticides were not effective but this is the latest information which I have available as there hasn't been any research on this subject in Louisiana.

Gingko Tree Ball Of Gold

By MILDRED SWIFT

Last Sunday I reminded you to see the gingko tree in the Layton garden. It's beautiful, a ball of gold. This is a tree you may want to plant in your own garden. It's easy to grow, but not a fast grower. Gingko is almost immune to insects and diseases. It adapts well to city conditions, stands drouth and heat well. This tree matures to a large size. Gingko is of Chinese origin.

JUST TALKIN'

If you'll watch your flowering quince, you can see when the buds begin to form. If left on the shrub, in the open, these will not open until January or later. But — if you'll cut branches that have small buds, you can put these in water and force them. The warmth of the house helps them to open. I do think quince is lovely cut. It's so stiff and straight and has a grace all its own.

Soon bulb foliage will be coming up. This is the time to fertilize with a complete food such as 8-8-8.

In some gardens, sweet alyssum is a carpet of color. You can plant these seed now, or any month of the year.

A gardner once told me she was quite successful drying blooms of the paper plant by hanging them upside down. If you're one of the lucky ones who grew paper plants, and they bloomed, you can try this. The blossoms look like crochet after they bloom and are dried.

If you have a westeria vine that doesn't bloom, don't discard it until you've tried root pruning. Sharpen the spade and cut down into the soil, four feet out from the trunk of the vine. Make a complete circle around the trunk, cutting as deep as the spade will plunge. If this doesn't induce blooming, then, next summer just dig it up and discard. After all - a new plant costs so little and grows so fast.

SELECTING SHADE

Since planting time is so near, you'll be buying that shade tree. There are many reasons we need and want shade in our gardens. About the best reason is - for our children. A shade tree also increases the value of property, cools the house and gives us mulch. True, trees take a lot of food from the soil, but then all plants can be expected to do that. What type shade tree do you want? A fast growing one? Then here is a list: Catalpa, sycamore, ash, sweet gum, Chinese tallow, blackberry, locust. These are all large trees.

The sycamore is messy but more than makes up for this with its gorgeous white trunk. The ashy whiteness begins to show up after the tree puts on some age.

The locust grows very fast, has beautiful white blooms that look like westeria, and they're fragrant. I'd not recommend this tree for small properties. It's entirely too prolific.

Sweet gum and Chinese tallow have gorgeous colored foliage in the fall.

Some slower growing trees are pecan, oaks, gingko, persimmon and walnut.

Fast growing small trees for your selection are: loquat, native holly, banana shrub, mimosa, cherry laurel, tree legustrum, crape myrtle, champhor, youpon and crabapple. There are many more. These are only a few. Visit the nurseries and see what they have.

GET READY

Since the holiday season is close at hand, you're planning for beauty for you home. You've requested that I repeat the instructions for glycerinizing and skeletonizing magnolia leaves. The bronzed leaves will keep for years. You can't glycerinize huge branches. The top leaves will die before the glycerin gets that far up. You'll have to be satisfied with smaller branches. Then-after they're the bronze color you want, you can wire them to long stems if you need them for large containers. Here's the method: Either pound the lower two inches of the stem or slit several times. Put these in a solution of one part glycerin and one part water. Let the branches stay in this solution for several weeks, adding a very small amount of water as evaporation takes place. I've found it sometime takes six or seven weeks for the leaves to turn that beautiful brown you want. Then the branches can be kept without their stems in water.

Many other plants are beautiful treated in this manner. Some are: asperdistra leaves, wild myrtle branches, loquat, photenia, pittosporum.

SKELETONIZING

To skeletonize magnolia leaves, here's what you do: Put one can of lye and one cup of soap in five gallons of water. Put the leaves in this solution and boil for twenty minutes. Remove leaves and put in a pan of clorox until they have bleached as white as you want them. Then quickly put the leaves in a large container of water. Take a small brush and work the fleshy part of the leaf off the veins. Now you have your skeleton and you're ready to dye. Use all purpose rit, following the instructions in the package and adding a tablespoon of vinegar to set the color. You can dye these any shade to blend with the color scheme of your room. They are dainty and lovely mixed in dried arrangements. They're gorgeous, white, too.

SUCCULENTS

Succulents play an important part in garden planting. They have the property of being able to store up moisture in their tissues. We usually refer to them as being "juicy." For that reason, succulent plants, as a general rule, will grow in arid spots in your garden. They go through drouths well because of this stored up moisture. The family of spiny cactus is an example.

Geranium is usually classed as a succulent. Cuttings from this class of plants should be made and left on the shelf to rest for a week before putting them in the roating medium. This allows the stem to lose some of its moisture and there's less danger of rot.

Other plants that should be treated the same way are wandering Jew, coleus and begonia. All these are suitable for indoor and outdoor culture. There are many lovely geraniums in gardens in north Louisiana. If we have a mild winter, these can be carried through, outdoors, without transplanting. The geranium gets leggy though, so it's a good idea to make cuttings now.

CLEAN

Best insurance available at any price, against odors developing, is plain old baking soda. Sponge down the interior of the refrigerator and all its trays, etc. Do this about every two weeks and there'll never be any stale food odors sneaking out when the refrigerator door opens. This same applies to the freezer when defrosting time comes due.

Use the same basic solution to sponge out the bread box and cookie jar weekly to prevent mustiness from developing. Sponges tend to sourness and could be soaked in a soda solution every couple of days.

When you're working with fish, one of the strong cheeses, garlic, or onion, wet the dish or utensil with which the food came in contact, sprinkle with dry soda and rub with a paper towel. You can get rid of the odor on your hands by wetting them, sprinkling with dry soda and then rubbing your hands together.

Although ash trays and flower containers don't reside in the kitchen, they do get washed there, and since they harbor odors, they too benefit from a soda sweetening. Rush ash trays with dry soda applied with a damp paper towel. Fill flower container with soda solution and let sit while you brush the holder with dry soda and a brush. Rinse both, well!

If you burn food in a boiler, boil it out with a strong solution of soda water. Sometimes it's necessary to repeat this a second time but you'll get it. Have patience.

New Stamp Is Spotlight For Satellite

ECHO I, the world's first communications satellite, will be depicted on a new U.S. stamp Dec. 15 in Washington, D.C. The satellite was placed in orbit around the earth by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on Aug. 12, 1960.

In announcing plans for this new stamp, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield stated:

"Because this represents an initial and potentially a most significant and historic advancement in world communications for peace, the Post Office Department is commemorating the achievement with a commemorative stamp."

He further commented that the Post Office Department's long range interest in this and other improved means of communication is grounded in the belief that our postal system might ultimately employ this new technology to improve and extend our ability to communicate with others throughout the word.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent Echo I stamp may send self-addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers 4-Cent Echo I."

Switzerland, long famed for its expertly designed postage stamps, has just issued ts 1960 Pro Juventute set. It consist of five new semi-postals. Four of the stamps feature flowers and the fifth has a portrait of Alexandre Calame, noted Swiss landscape painter.

The four flower stamps, printed in full natural color, are a continuation of the "wild flowers and garden flowers" series. The 4 centimes plus 10 green, yellow and grey depicts the dandelion; 20 c plus 10 carmine red, red grey and yellow green and yellow illustrates the larkspur; the 50 c plus 10 ultramarine, green, grey and yellow pictures the thorn apple. The Calame stamp is 5 c plus 5 reddish blue.

According to the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America, 90 per cent of the proceeds from the additional values on the stamps goes to the Pro Juventute Foundation and the remaining 10 per cent for various youth welfare activities.

French Somaliland has issued a five value definitive "bird" set. The 10 franc violet, brown and green depicts the flamingo; 15 fr violet red, green and yellow —wasp eater; 30 fr blue, black and brown — ibis; 75 fr green, bistre and yellow — pelican; 200 fr (airmail) red, bistre, black and grey — bustard.

Minkus Publications announces that it has issued its complete line of 40 supplements for 1960 according to schedule, welcome news to those who look forward to keeping their various supplements up to date.

Turkey has issued two new stamps to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Turkish journalism. The stamps depict the Agah Efendi and the newspaper Turcamani Ahval. The 60 kurus is dark and light brown. The 40 kurus is dark brown and grey green.

Spain will issue its annual monastery set depicting the Monastery of Samos near Coruna. The 80 cts green and biue green will show the cloister the 1 peseta red and orange will illustrate the fountain. The 5 pesetas bistre and red will depict the front of the monastery.

Also announced by Spain for issuance on Dec. 1 is a Christmas stamp showing a reproduction of "The Holy Family" by Velasquez. It will be 1 pesetas orange.

Johnson Gives Kennedy's Aims

LONDON (AP)—Vice President elect Lyndon B. Johnson has promised British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan "a new burst of energy" when the Kennedy administration takes over the White House Jan. 20.

The Texas senator spent several hours Friday night with Macmillan, outlining the general aims President-elect John F. Kennedy intends to pursue.

Qualified informants said Saturday they boiled down to this:

1. Fiscal responsibility at home, so that the money is there to meet commitments abroad.

2. A global drive to prove that capitalism can give a worker more security than communism.

3. Broadened Social Security in the United States to serve as an example to the rest of the world.

4. Full-scale backing of the Western alliance wherever needed, with either support or required leadership.

Yule Photo Greetings Snap For Cameramen

Bq IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When the phone rang, it sounded somehow like the tinkling of faroff sleighbells.

"I have a call for you from the North Pole," the operator said when I picked up the phone.

"This is the Photographic Department of St. Nicholas Enterprises." the vcoice informed me. "We have a telephoto view of the photographic Yuletide activities of our Christmas clientele from up here and frankly, we don't see too much activity down there among the camera fans."

"You sure you have the right number?" I answered. "Why tell me?"

SUGGESTION

"You write a camera column for photo fans, don't you?" the voice replied. "Well, I want you to stir them up. . .get them going. . .or my department isn't going to look too good on Dec. 25.

"Confidentially," he went on, "the boss really goes for those personal photo greeting cards. Says it's the best way to get acquainted with the customers and know what they look like. He gets a kick out of watching the kids grow up from year to year.

"You know, if it weren't for that big pack he has to carry around, he'd have a camera instead. He says he sees a lot of great shots to take while making his rounds and nobody's taking them.

"I thought Santa was more of a chimney bug than a shutterbug," I quipped. "But I was going to remind the camera fans this year just as I've done every year."

"Look at the calendar. . .it's kind of late, isn't it?" he said sharply. "There's just about time to get cards out for this Yuletide if those cameras start clicking right away.

"Sure we know some of them put off taking pictures with the excuse that they haven't some super-special idea this year. Tell them there's nothing wrong with a family picture, with or without a Christmas setting, as long as it's up-to-date."

"That's what I told camera fans at Thanksgiving time," I told him.

"Tell 'em again!" he shot back. "And you can remind those who have moved into a new house or have added a blessed event to the household that these make appropriate subjects. . .with or without holiday trimmings.

"And speaking of trimmings, the stores have them now. . . wreaths, bells, little choir boys and angels and even the boss with his reindeer.

"Which reminds me," he continued, "When I see the trouble some photo fans have trying to catch their youngsters in the right spirit, why don't they turn to table top photograph? The little figures don't mind posing or how much light you pour on them."

"But I thought Santa liked personal cards?" I pointed out.

"Anything a photographer takes himself is personal," he replied. "In a houseful of holiday cards, they're the ones that catch the eye and command careful attention. Even a busy guy like Santa takes time out to study them. Says it makes him feel like one of the family, sort of."

YULETIDE PHOTO GREETINGS should be a snap for camera fans with the focus on home, family and hobbies. There's a greeting card format to fit any type of card.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Woodpecker Clan Studied

By MARY M. JARDINE

(Caroline Dormon)
(guest writer)

Reprinted by courtesy of Hodges Gardens Magazet.

Woodpeckers are in plenty of various sizes and habits. The little downies and hairies, in their black-and-white gingham frocks, creep about almost silently in their never-ending march up and down tree trunks and branches. The number of insects, eggs, and larvae devoured by these small friends is amazing.

At the other end of the size-scale is the handsome pileated woodpecker. The only difference between him and the famous ivory-billed is his black beak instead of a white one. Also, he is a little smaller, but he makes up for it in noise.

His rattling call is startling, and when he decided to dissect a dead tree, the size of the falling chunks is astonishing. Dressed in black and white, with a blazing red cockade, he is beautiful, and as large as a small hen. Indian hen is one of his common names, but the most surprising is Lord God — a corruption, I feel sure, of the old English name Log Cock.

REDHEAD

One of our finest birds, the redhead or redheaded woodpecker, is rapidly disappearing. He wears a white shirt, black coat, and a red cap, his entire head being a beautiful red. But that vivid head has become a target for every featherbrained person digging out the corn borers. Telephone people claim he makes holes in poles, but he never picks into one unless there is already a decayed spot. Unless every bird-lover makes himself a committee of one to fight for the preservation of this valuable species he will soon go to join the passenger pigeon.

The brightest spot in winter woods is the cardinal, our common redbird, so beautiful when seen against snow. Usually at this time we hear only his sharp "chip" but on a sunny day in January he may give us his full spring song. This is the friendly fellow who seems to like people for he builds his twiggy nest in shrubs around houses.

The best method to become acquainted with birds is to feed them, seeds and chops for the grain eaters, cornbread for the insectivorous species. Few can resist good cornbread, with eggs, milk and shortening. Plenty of water at all times is a necessity. It has to be thawed out often in freezing weather.

SHARING

As if to compensate for the invasion of the obnoxious Armadillo, Texas is sharing with us two of her most interesting birds. Texas roadrunner must be seen to be believed. Two feet long from tip of beak to end of tail, he is streaked with black, white and brown in fine camouflage. This is well, for he is truly a ground bird, flying only as a last resort. He has a strong beak and tremendous long-toed feet, and is said to kill rattlesnakes.

Scissor-tail flycatcher is a complete contrast, an airy beauty which catches insects on the wing. The colors are exquisite, but the feature by which it can be identified without any doubt is a tail ten inches long, which divides as it flies. This gives it its name, scissor-tail. I have seen both these birds in Louisiana. Hodges Garden Preserve is near the Texas line, so one need not be surprised to see a roadrunner streaking across open woods, or a scissor-tailed flycatcher performing its airy maneuvers.

BASTROP CLUB

Garden grown chrysanthemums were featured in the lovely flower show presented by members of the Bastrop Garden Club. Mrs. S. E. Cathey and Mrs. Charles Gray Jr. combined talents in creating a beautiful Hogarth curve. An antique lamp base was selected for a container. Oasis was used for a mechanic. The water in the lamp bowl was tinted rose pink. The Hogarth line was delineated with small leafed ivy with lavender-pink mums skillfully massed in the center of the design. Very suitable for an early American or traditional home.

Mrs. W. P. Stephenson and Mrs. O. L. Alexander designed a classic mass arrangement using a tall white urn. Spike material was of green and yellow ligustrum, followed by the shiny green leaves of photinia serrulata. Buds and blooms of bright yellow chrysanthemums filled in the center of the symmetrical pattern. Photinia leaves were placed low over the rim of the container. Suitable for a living room or hall table, also eminently suitable for a church.

THEME

Mrs. Luther Booth and Mrs. W. L. Duckworth designed a gay and crisp crescent arrangement with a Thanksgiving theme. A brass compote set on a round wood plaque served as a receptacle for the arrangement. The crescent line was established with small leaf ivy and the design filled in with tiny cushion chrysanthemums of yellow and deeper bronze mums in the center. Large ivy leaves were used low for transition and filler. A small turkey was perched in the curve of the crescent symbolizing the Thanksgiving holiday.

Our extra of the week was a bold, modern mass design made by Mrs. O. L. Alexander and Mrs. W. P. Stephenson. The pillow container was modern in concept in green, gold and white. Furled aspidistra leaves were placed in an asymetrical pattern in the vase with deep lavender chrysanthemums following the established pattern. Foliage of the primrose jasmine was used for transition and filler. A most effective arrangement for a modern living room.

A pink radiance rose was exhibited by Mrs. Stephenson in the horticulture section. Also exhibited were a group of debutante camellias grown by Mrs. Charles Camp.

Sleepyheads Welcomed At This School

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is one school in the nation where sleepyheads are welcome. In fact, coming to class with heavy eyelids is a recognized occupational disease.

This unique situation applies to the Capitol page school which begins classes at the unearthly hour of 6:30 a.m. and closes shop four hours later—at 10:30 a.m.

But the pupils—82 boys who run errand and do other chores for member of Congress and justices of the Supreme Court—are not penalized if they report late for class. That also is a recognized part of their schooling.

There is only one requirement for admission to this exclusive college prep school, but it is ironclad.

Each youngster must be sponsored by a member of the House or Senate or a justice of the court. There are 50 in the House, 26 in the Senate, and 4 in the Supreme Court.

When classes end for the day, the boys report for their page duties and, between those and classes the next morning, must manage their school homework as best they can. This calls for considerable management.

When Congress works late into the night, the pages must stay on duty.

Most of the pupils feel they are lucky to be enrolled in the school principal Henry L. De Keyser said. Their attendance record is unusually good, he said, but their tardiness rate likely is the highest of any school.

STANDARDS HIGH

He said teachers try to take the pages' working hours into account, and often close their eyes to sleepyheads who arrive with lessons unprepared. But the school standards remain high, more demanding than most of the boys were accustomed to at home.

De Keyser said that despite this the school's rate of failures is lower than the national average.

Pupils never are flunked out of the page school. But sponsors are sent copies of their proteges' report cards four times a year.

A boy who cannot keep up with his school work is likely to be replaced.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Some Trees Grow Fast

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Trees are commonly thought to grow very, very slowly. This is not necessarily true: after a tree becomes established, its growth is dependent almost entirely upon the food and water you provide for it. If you set your tree out in poor soil, you will get very little growth. If you set it out in a hole that is at least a foot bigger than the root spread and fill in with good soil, you will get fair growth. If, however, you are willing to put your tree into a hole three or four feet deep and two or three feet wider than the root spread and fill this in with garden soil, then the growth will be called "phenominal" by all who see it.

WORTH

Surely your shade trees are worth more than anything else on your property. Young trees will respond with this "phenominal" growth if you are willing to provide the conditions that produce it, and you will have shade where you want it in a few years.

The scarlet oaks finally came through with their color this fall. In some places, they were a disappointment in the Southern mountains, but in the hills, they were brilliant — and still are dazzling in sections where they are native. Few Southern nurserymen supply this handsome tree, but your nurseryman can get trees for you. Even in areas where the scarlet oak may not grow particularly well, it is worthwhile to have one on the grounds and give it special soil and care.

MAPLES

There is a very large-leaved form of sugar maple which seems to occur, here and there over the South. This year, the leaves were yellow with most attractive red veins and edges. The northern sugar maple turns many colors in the Fall, whereas, the Southern sugar maple usually turns bright yellow. In nurseries, the foliage is still hanging on the large-leaved type mentioned here long after it has gone from the trees of the other two kinds. This is certainly a handsome tree at all times of the year. In shape it is like the "northern" and "southern" species, but everything about the tree is more vigorous, and it grows quickly, in good soil, into fine shade tree. Out to themselves, maples cannot send their roots into pipes and are certainly worth planting for their beautiful bare trunks in winter, their flowers in late winter (red maples) and their fall colors. The red maples have been especially brilliant this year. They have assumed almost the ruby red of the scarlet oaks. It hardly seems possible that there is a lapse of only two to two and a half months between the red maple foliage and the early red flowers that tell us spring is trying to come.

EXTENSION NOTES

Compost Pile Items Handy

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's time to make that compost pile if you do not have one. With all the good oak leaves and pine needles falling, be sure and save them - by all means don't burn them. Pile the leaves in a corner of your yard and put a layer of complete fertilizer and another layer of leaves. Next spring this compost will be excellent to put in your flower beds.

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have plans for a rose garden in your landscape, now is the time to get as much sunshine as possible. A location exposed to full sun is best for the rose garden. Good drainage is necessary if roses are to be grown successfully. If the soil is poorly drained, it is not suitable for planting roses.

If you plan to grow roses exclusively for cut flowers, the garden should not be located in a prominent place as the front yard because this type garden is usually not too pretty from the landscape point of view. Be sure to allow enough space in your rose garden. Three feet between plants in the row is a good spacing. After the garden is ready it would be well to place a mulch over the top. The best time to set out roses in our section, according to our specialists, Dr. R. H. Hanchey and W. D. Kimbrough, is February. If you want to be sure of getting certain varieties, I suggest you place your order now with your nurserymen.

Have you, Mrs. Homemaker, ever eaten or made pumpkin preserves. Yours truly is one who has never but plans to make some real soon. Mrs. C. A. Kincaid in Ward 4 called this week to tell us that she had made some and that they are simply delicious. If you have a pumpkin and would like to try, Mrs. Kincaid will be glad to share her recipe with you, so call her at FA 3-7084.

Yours truly will give a demonstration on making Christmas candies this Thursday, December 1 at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe at 9:30 a.m. At this same meeting there will be on display inexpensive decorations which you and the Junior members of your family may enjoy making to give the home a more festive spirit during the Christmas holidays. Will be glad to have you, Mrs. Homemaker, of Ouachita Parish. Remember the date - Thursday, December 1, at 9:30. The meeting will be over by 12:00 o'clock.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

Mrs. Homemaker do you know that certain foods should not be stored in steel containers? Mustard, mayonnaise, lemon juice, vinegar, salt or dressings containing these will attack and corrode stainless steel if exposed to it for a long period of time. Remember, too, that strong bleaches should not come in contact with stainless steel sinks or utensils for periods longer than 30 minutes.

Mrs. Homemaker, the latest information which I have gotten from our State Entomogolist, Kirby Cockerham, and J. J. Joyce Jr., county agent, on the control of the milliped and earwig that are invading your lawn and home, is as follows. To keep them out of the house apply a 15 foot band of insecticide around the house, use five per cent aldrin granules using 10 pounds for 1,000 square feet or 10 pounds of 2.5 per cent heptachlor. They reported that the worm and insect which are found in such great abundance in yards and lawns do little or no damage to the plants and lawns. They usually feed on decaying matter and fungus. Of course this is some consolation, but I know that you are interested in keeping them off your property regardless of whether they do harm or not.

A number of homemakers have reported that these insecticides were not effective but this is the latest information which I have available as there hasn't been any research on this subject in Louisiana.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Better Than Last Year

The drums are beating a new tune in the camp of the Northeast State Indians. It's basketball time, and Coach Lenny Fant leads his Redskins to Monticello, Ark., tomorrow night for their season opener with Arkansas A. and M. The same teams are in Monroe for the collegiate opener here Wednesday night.

"We're still relatively inexperienced," Coach Fant observes, "But we're so much better off than we were a year ago."

Last season the Tribe could manager only two wins in 25 games. Figuring they're in the bottom of the well, they have no place to go except up.

This youngest of any Northeast squad doesn't boast a single senior and just four are juniors, one of whom isn't likely to play this year. So, Coach Fant and Northeast followers are going to be counting greatly on six sophomores and six freshmen.

The juniors are G. O. "Tommy" Thompson, product of Ogden High near Winnsboro and coming to the Tribe after two seasons at Hinds Junior College; Jerry Snellings of Converse, a transfer from Panola Junior College; Lanny Johnson, Monroe, a returned letterman; and J. B. Edminston, Simsboro, who missed last season because of illness and now seems certain to miss the campaign just starting because of a knee injury.

Sophomores expecting heavy duty are Malcolm George and Stuart Toms, both of Quitman; Dave Harkins, Hico; Milton Linder, Fort Necessity; Robert Cook, Jonesboro; and Bobby Lockwood, Spearsville.

Freshmen are Irby Gamble, Marthaville; Jimmy Walker, Jonesboro; Harry "Rabbit" Crowe, Monroe; Steve Clark, Cincinnati, O.; Ray Hawkins, Miami, Okla.; and John Hagan, a 6-foot-8 giant from Colorado who has had no previous basketball experience.

In this age when height means so much in basketball, the least experiences of the Indians — Hagan — in the tallest. Thompson, Harkins, Cook, and Walker come in at 6-foot-5. George is 6-4. Linder and Lockwood are in the 6-3 class. Hawkins and Clark are in at 6-2. Johnson is 6-1, and Snellings and Crowe are an even six feet. Only two are under six — Toms at 5-7, and Gamble at 5-6.

"Pound for pound and man for man, Gamble is sensational," comments Frant. "He only weight 130 pounds, but he's a real competitor, plenty fast, a good shot. He's the kind of player the crowd will like."

Twenty-one dual games and two tournaments that will account for four more gives Northeast a 25-game schedule again this season. They make the Delta State Tournament at Cleveland, Miss., Dec. 15-16, and then host their own Christmas Tournament soon after.

The Tournament Fever

A total of 283 basketball tournaments, including invitational, parish championship, junior and under-graduate, have been approved for the 1960-61 season, according to T. H. Waters, commissioner of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

Seven are scheduled for Ouachita parish schools, including the usual four big invitationals — Calhoun, Dec. 8-9-10; Neville, Dec. 15-16-17; Ouachita, Jan. 5-6-7; and West Monroe, Jan. 26-27-28. The Sterlington High Invitational is added to the list for the first time this year with the new high school event dated Jan. 12-13-14.

In addition, Sterlington hosts its annual and well-established junior tourney Feb. 1-2-3, and Neville offers a freshman meet Feb. 9-10-11.

Some approved tournaments, like Downsville, Dodson Quitman and Eros, have already been played. Dates for area schools are:

Dec. 1-2-3 — Bastrop, Fort Necessity, Lisbon, Georgetown.

Dec. 8-9-10 — Calhoun, Davidson (9-10), Epps, Marion, Sicily Island, Sikes.

Dec. 15-16-17 — Chatham, Farmerville, Grayson, Mangham, Neville, Winnfield (parish only), Georgetown (parish).

Dec. 29-30-31 — Bonita, LaSalle, Newellton, Simsboro.

Jan. 5-6-7 — Block, Oak Grove, Ouachita.

Jan. 12-13-14 — Central (Delhi), Harrisonburg, Sterlington, Tallulah, Winnfield.

Jan. 19-20-21 — Baskin, Bernice, Ferriday, Jonesboro, LaSalle (junior), Pollock.

Jan. 26-27-28 — Lake Providence, West Monroe, Simsboro.

Jan. 30-31-Feb. 1-2-3 — Sterlington (junior).

Feb. 2-3-4 — Baskin (parish), Epps (parish), Holly Ridge, Jena, Harrisonburg (parish), Jonesboro (junior), Lisbon (junior), Sikes (district).

Feb. 9-10-11 — Neville (freshman), Start (district).

Feb. 16-17-18 — Quitman (junior), Sicily Island (district).

Feb. 23-24-25 — Vidalia (triparish).

March 2-3-4 — Linville (junior).

March 7-9-10-11 — Ogden.

Eiland Vs. Norris

A most interesting aspect of the annual Gulf States Conference cross country meet next Saturday at Natchitoches will be the return match between Don "Buddy" Eiland, the Northeast State ace from Farmerville, and Fred Norris, the 39-year-old import from Great Britain.

Norris, weighing just 125 pounds, has won six of his seven starts this year and is the sensation of the McNeese campus as he pushes his 40th birthday.

Eiland, hardly half Norris' age, is the youth who suffered a fractured pelvis in an automobile accident over two years ago and is considered fortunate even to be able to run much less compete in a grueling distance race with a chance to win. He has won four of his six appearances this year.

Some other top contenders include Mickey "Silky" Sullivan and Jerry McGraw, both of Northwestern State; Jack Williams and Bill Frye of Northeast; Lawrence Jacob and Bob Fabre, both of Southeastern; Bob Hayes, Louisiana Tech; Freddie Fuselier, Southwestern; and Phil Hurt, McNeese.

Walter Lodet, head track coach at host Northwestern, has a three-mile stretch on the campus ready for the race in which every member of the conference will enter a team. Louisiana Tech is defending team champion. Eiland is defending individual champion.

The race begins at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

TULANE QUARTERBACK Phil Nugent is snagged by LSU's Bobby Richards in the first quarter of yesterday's contest in New Orleans. Nugent gained four yards to the Louisiana State 44-yard line on the play. Other identifiable players, all LSU gridders, are Donnie Daye (44), Bo Strange (50) and Andy Bourgeois (80). (AP Wirephoto)

Soph Ace Scores Both Touchdowns

By JACK GATES
News-Star—World
Executive Editor

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Louisiana State University's football express, with Lynn Amedee at the throttle, closed out its rebuilding season in brilliant fashion here this crisp Saturday afternoon, defeating stubborn Tulane University, 17 to 6, before 74,000 fans in Sugar Bowl Stadium.

It was the Tigers' fifth win, against one tie and four defeats and was the fourth victory in a row. Featuring primarily sophomores, it indicated greater things to come for next season.

Although it was LSU's tough defense that made the clutch plays when it counted most, it was the 168-pound Amedee who provided the scoring punch as he has done since he took over the quarterback post against Florida.

The Baton Rouge sophomore scored both LSU touchdowns and generally provided the spark that kept Tulane off balance throughout the afternoon.

Amedee scored the first touchdown on an eight-yard dash midway of the first period, and halfback Wendell Harris booted the first of two extra points.

Amedee went one yard for the second touchdown in the second period after he had set it up with a 14-yard dash, after fading back for a pass. He went over on a quarterback sneak.

LSU's final three points came when halfback Tommy Neck booted a 33-yard goal after a tiger drive had stalled on the Tulane 23.

Fighting desperately all the way and threatening to bust open the game with every play, Tulane scored with less than two minutes left in the game.

Quarterback Phil Nugent, a passing threat throughout the game, hit all-American candidate Tommy Mason with a 25-yard touchdown toss. The attempt for a two-point conversion failed.

Both teams threatened repeatedly. Tulane took the opening kickoff and appeared headed for a score until Mason fumbled on the LSU 25. Tiger left end Andy Bourgeois recovered to end the threat.

LSU's first touchdown drive came after Nugent fumbled on his own 38-yard line and it was recovered by Gaynell Kinchen. Two plays later, Amedee hit end Jack Gates with an eight yarder, then sophomore fullback Charles Cranford carried it to the eight from where Amedee scored. Two five-yard off-side penalties aided the Tiger drive.

Early in the second period, Tulane, again with Nugent and Mason sparkling, drove to the Tiger 18. There the LSU defense, headed up by Mickey Mangham and Bo Strange, held Tulane on fourth down with only inches to go in a rock-and-sock 'em charge.

Two series later, another Tulane fumble, this time by half back Terry Terrebonne on the 50, set up another scoring opportunity for LSU. On the first play, Amedee hit Gates with a 35 - yard pass, moving the ball to the 16. However, on three successive plays, LSU failed to move and Harris tried a field goal which was no good.

The Tigers' second touchdown came a few plays later and was set up by a brilliant 22 - yard dash by Cranford to the Tulane 16. Then Amedee took over and on two successive runs scored.

On the first series of plays after the half, LSU drove from its 12 yard line to the Tulane three.

Twice the Tigers, with a yard to go and on fourth down, gambled and won. But the threat ended when Amedee fumbled a handoff and Tulane recovered.

However, the Green Wave failed to move. With a spirited display, Steve Ward rushed in and blocked Sammy Camp's punt and the Tigers had possession again on the Tulane 16. With its defense stiffening, Tulane held the Tigers for three downs, knocking them back to the 23 from where Neck booted the field goal.

Early in the fourth period, Tulane made a determined effort to score. Nugent hit Mason with a beautiful 41-yard-pass, but it went for naught as the Tulane drive stalled on the LSU 20 when Tiger guard Roy Winston intercepted another Nugent pass.

Midway of the fourth period, Tiger end Gene Sykes halted another potential Tulane drive when he intercepted a Nugent pass on the Tulane 45.

However, LSU failed to take advantage of the opportunity as it saw its drive halted at the Tulane 20.

It was at this point that Tulane, with Nugent tossing perfect strikes, started its drive that ended with its only score of the afternoon.

Tulane hasn't beaten LSU since 1947, although there were two ties.

Sophomore halfback Jerry Stovall of West Monroe, the LSU workhorse, walked off with Rushing honors, gaining 53 yards on 10 carries, while Mason was Tulane's best, picking up 34 yards on 10 attempts. Fullback Donnie Daye of Ferriday was second for LSU with 40, while Amedee was third with 37. Amedee also completed four of 9 passes for another 61 yards.

Overall, Tulane edged LSU in first downs, 18 to 16, while Tigers picked up 196 yards rushing to 150 for Tulane.

With Nugent doing the throwing and completing eight of 21 attempts for 138 yards, Tulane walked off with passing yardage. In the fumbling department, Tulane lost three and LSU two, while LSU intercepted three Tulane passes while losing none.

TIDE TO BLUEBONNET

Alabama Edges Auburn On Brooker's Boot, 3-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Injured Tommy Brooker kicked a 22-yard field goal Saturday for a 3-0 Alabama victory rover Auburn in a defensive battle, and the Crimson Tide immediately accepted a bid to the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex., Dec. 17.

Brooker's three-pointer, coupled with a steeltrap defense, earned Alabama its second straight post season shot at bowl gold. The Tide lost 7-0 to Penn State in the inaugural Liberty Bowl game last Jan. 1.

Alabama's tough line never gave Auburn a chance to use its own injured field goal kicker, fullback Ed Dyas, who set two collegiate records this season.

Brooker's fie'd goal from the 12-yard line, kicked from a sharp right angle and into the wind, came with 8:31 left in the second period. It climaxed an Alabama drive from its own 39. In the first period, Brooker was wide on a try from the 23.

The victory before a capacity crowd of 44,000 in Legion Field enabled Alabama to wind up its best season in 15 years with eight wins, one loss and a tie. It was the 11th victory for Alabama in the 25th renewal of the series with Auburn.

The tremendous Tide defense, keyed by linebackers Darwin Holt, Lee Roy Jordan, guard Billy Neighbors and end Richard O'Dell, limited Auburn to only one first down in the first half. The Tigers' deepest penetration carried to the Alabama 43.

Ironically, Auburn won four games this seasn on the field goal kicking of Dyas, who suffered a fractured cheek bone a week ago after booting 13 field goals this year and 17 during his career, both national records.

The Tigers' rushing attack also suffered from the loss of the injured fullback.

Alabama started off as if it intended to make a runaway of the game. Auburn punted three plays after taking the kickoff, and starting from the Alabama 36, quarterback Pat Trammell and halfbacks Mike Fracchia and Leon Fuller alternated to take the first field goal. It was high enough but wide to the right.

Auburn was forced to punt again and Alabama returned to the attack, driving to the Auburn 27 before an intercepted pass killed the drive. Joe Doran, whose punting helped keep Alabama at bay much of the game, punted again and this time the Tide moved to its winning score in 13 plays.

In guiding Alabama to the Auburn 12, Trammell twice ran nine yards for first downs after finding reaceivers covered. He also hit end Bill Battle with a key 12-yard pass down the middle.

Early in the fourth period, Auburn launched a drive from its 33 with a 17-yard pass from quarterback Bobby Hunt to Jimmy Burson but O'Dell broke through to smear Hunt for a 16-yard loss to kill the threat.

Alabama's Bobby Skelton killed Auburn's last threat when he intercepted Joe Overton's pass on his own 42 and returned it to the Tiger 46.

The defeat was the second of the season for Auburn and the second in a row at the hands of its bitter cross-state rival. Auburn, barred from bowl participation for recruiting violations, finished with an 8-2 record.

SOUTHERN CAL FALLS, 17-0

Irish End Long Victory Search

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Notre Dame's long search for victory ended in the rain and mud of Memorial Coliseum Saturday as a hard-running sophomore quarterback, Daryle Lamonica, led the Irish to a 17-0 shutout over the Trojans of Southern California.

A turnout of 29,297 sat through intermittent downpours to watch this 32nd clash between the rivals and see the Irish finally break an unprecedented losing streak of eight straight games.

Lamonica, 19, 6-2, 205, from Fresno, Calif., guided the Irish 71 yards to set up a field goal shortly after Notre Dame got the ball on the opening kickoff. And the outcome seemed never in doubt from there on.

Southern Cal's Warriors held Notre Dame scoreless in the second half but they could never mount a truly serious threat until the final play of the game.

Reserve quarterback Ben Charles passed to Jim Naples for what would have been a touchdown, but the halfback dropped the ball and the gun sounded.

Forbidding clouds all morning and rain that burst loose an hour before the game held the attendance far under the anticipated 50,000 or more.

The contest closed out a dismal season for both teams. Southern Cal ended with a 4-6 record and Notre Dame's 2-8 matched its previous poorest registered in 1956.

Lamonica engineered not only the field goal thrust but also the two touchdowns, scoring one himself. In 10 carries on a sloppy field he gained 53 yards, many of them on rollouts in crucial situations.

Notre Dame had to punt only twice and Lamonica averaged 45 yards with both of them. He also intercepted a pass and returned it 18 yards to start the Fighting Irish off on a touchdown march.

Falcons Upset Colorado In 16-6 Shocker

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Halfback Mike Quinlan's 92-yard punt return for a touchdown launched the Air Force Academy to a 16-6 victory Saturday over Colorado, a two-touchdown favorite.

Quinlan, Falcon game captain, took his touchdown trip in the third quarter to break open the scoring. The Airmen followed with another touchdown and a 29-yard field goal by Mike Rawlins before Colorado got its touchdown in the last 2 minutes.

A spectacular catch on the 1 by end Gary Henson of a 39-yard throw by quarterback Gale Weidner paved the way for the Colorado score. Fullback Chuck Weiss plunged over on the next play.

The teams battled even through the scoreless first two periods. The Air Force's biggest threat in the first half died on Colorado's here the defenders held for four downs.

Quinlan was the star in the Falcons' second touchdown drive. He shot through guard on a 56-yard jaunt that carried to Colorado's 36. Nine plays later he vaulted over a pile of players to score from a yard out.

Colorado, desperately trying to get into the scoring column, unsuccessfully passed on their own 40 on fourth down with six to go to set up the Air Force field goal.

Seven plays later the Falcons had reached only to the Buffalo's 22. Rawlins, who had missed his first placement after a touchdown of the season on the Air Force second TD, booted a perfect field goal from the 29 with 3:11 left.

Gators Whip Miami, 18-0, Take Bowl Bid

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida's high-flying Gators whipped Miami, Fla., 18-0 Saturday night and climaxed their finest football season in 31 years by accepting an invitation to play Baylor in the Gator Bowl.

Fullback Don Goodman and 138-pound quarterback Larry Libertore rushed for consistently good gains and the alert Gator linemen held the ultra-conservative Miami offense in full check in the one-sided game before the season's top crowd of 60,122.

Immediately after the game, Gator Bowl representatives tendered a bid to Florida in the locker room. The players already had voted unofficially to accept it and the transaction was a mere formality.

Bobby Dodd Jr., Libertore and Goodman scored the three Florida touchdowns—one in each of the first three periods—and the Gators wound up a highly successful season under their new coach, Ray Graves.

Graves, former assistant at Georgia Tech, introduced a gambling style of play at Florida and brought the Gators out of the doldrums in remarkably fast order. This was the first year since 1929 that Florida has won eight games.

Disputed Decision

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Floyd Robertson of Ghana won the British Empire featherweight boxing title Saturday night with a disputed 15-round decision over reigning champion Percy Lewis of Trinidad.

Gamecocks In 41-20 Victory Over Deacons

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina surprised Wake Forest with a powerful running game Saturday and spoiled the Deacons' finale by winning the Atlantic Coast Conference football game 41-20.

The bright spot for Wake Forest was quarterback Norman Snead who passed for two touchdowns and broke his ACC total offense record. Snead completed 15 of 33 passes for 273 yards and got 17 yards rushing to run his season's total yardage to 1,655, bettering his old record of 1,365 yards. The Gamecocks had only a one-point 15-14 margin when the second half opened.

Senior quarterback Buddy Bennett, a substitute during his three seasons of play, set up the clinching touchdown in the third quarter with a 24-yard sprint to the Wake Forest 25-yard line. Bennett and halfback Melvin Harris bulled the ball to the 1 on a series of plays and fullback Dick Day pushed it over for the score. Dean Findley, who kicked three extra points, converted.

South Carolina smashed over for three more touchdowns in the final quarter. They came on a 36-yard sprint over right guard by Day, a one-yard plunge by halfback Jack Morris and a 38-yard end sweep by quarterback Tommy Pitcher.

The Deacons scored with a 1:15 left in the game when Snead hit end Bobby Allen with a pass from the 16 to the 4, from where Allen dived across the goal.

Pitcher's touchdown, the final one in the game, came with 39 seconds left and was made possible by a key block thrown at the 5 by tackle Joel Goodrich.

Duke To Meet Arkansas In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Duke University Saturday was extended an invitation to meet Arkansas i nthe 1961 Cotton Bowl game and immediately accepted.

The Blue Devils, who will be making their first appearance in the Dallas holiday classic, still have one game to play—against the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) a week from Saturday.

The Atlantic Coast Conference champions have won seven of nine games, losing only to Michigan and North Carolina. They were idle Saturday.

Arkansas, the host team, finished its season last week with an 8-2 record and with a certain share for the Southwest Conference championship. They won six of seven league games, losing only to Gator Bowl-bound Baylor in side the circuit.

Coach Frank Broyles' team also dropped a highly - controversial three-point decision to Mississippi in mid-season on a field goal in the final six seconds—one which Arkansas partisans said did not sail between the uprights.

The announcement of Duke's selection was made by Felix McKnight, chairman of the Cotton Bowl selection committee, at half-time of the Southern Methodist-Texas Christian University game.

The Cotton Bowl game will be played Jan. 2.

ARMY LOST

Hall Says Navy Didn't Win It

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army Coach Dale Hall, apologizing if he sounded like a poor loser, said, "The fact was we lost the ball game, Navy didn't win it."

Standing in the rear of the quiet Army dressing room under cavernous Philadelphia Stadium, the bespectacled Hall said:

"They (Navy) capitalized on our mistakes. They won on the mistakes we made, not on what they did.

"Understand, I'm not trying to discredit the Navy team. But facts are facts."

Hall flatly refused to compare the Orange Bowl-bound midshipmen with other Navy teams he had played or coached against. Hall apparently wasn't about to place the stamp of greatness on the winners. He did give unstinting praise to little Joe Bellino, the hard-running Navy halfback.

"Bellino is the greatest back Navy has ever had," Hall told the mob of newsmen gathered around him.

"I feel (Bellino) is the best back in the country."

Hall declined to comment about any of the other Navy players, saying that he had the worst seat in the house on the sidelines and it was difficult to tell until he sees the game movies who was good and bad.

Asked what adjustments if any he made in the second half when Army outgained Navy 189 yards to minus 2, Hall said:

"I should tell you that I'm a genius and did something but I didn't.

"We simply stopped making mistakes. We straightened out a little of the technique of what we were trying to do. But that's all."

Hall said Navy ran up its 17-0 halftime lead because Army was trying just a little too hard.

"We (Army) were too eager, perhaps too keyed up," he said. "When the boys calmed down they played their good game."

He agreed with one observation—that Bellino's 58-yard run in the first period after being pinned at its one on a fine Army punt, was a big play.

"Bellino's run gave them the impetus. It started like a simple off tackle play and he cut back. We missed the tackle."

Hall said Navy sprung no surprises. He felt the Middies operated from a set formation more than they had in the past, moving Bellino to the outside. On defense, he said, everything Army met it expected.

While Hall said he doesn't feel good about losing at any time, especially to Navy, he certainly could sleep a little easier than last year when the Middies pasted his first Army team 43-12. "We at least played a good second half today," he said.

Hall summed up the game this way:

"It was the story of football. The team that makes the fewest mistakes wins, especially in an Army-Navy game where desire is always even."

Leaders Up Advantage In Mobile Open

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Freddie Haas and Johnny Pott stumbled in with 1-under-par 71s Saturday but extended their lead to two strokes in the third round of the $15,000 Mobile Open Golf Tournament with 205 totals.

The round also was marked by a triple bogey 7 by Arnold Palmer the year's leading money-winner at $71,716, who wound up with a 2-over-par 74 and dropped four strokes off the pace.

Haas, the veteran New Orleans pro, missed nine greens but was phenomenal on the putting surfaces. He used only 26 putts including 11 one-putt greens. Haas now has used only 83 putts in three rounds.

Pott, the 25-year-old Shreveport, La., lad, had a double-bogey 6 on the seventh hole where he missed the green and three-putted. He made the turn with a 2-over-par 38. Pott also bogeyed 10, again three-putting, but birdied four of the remaining eight holes for a 3-under-par 33 on the back nine.

Haas now stands at 66-68-71—205, and Pott at 68-66-71—205 over the 6,900 yard, par 36-36—72 Mobile Municipal Golf Course.

Two strokes back were Jon Gustin, Gladwyne, Pa., opening day leader with Haas, and Dave Hill of Denver.

Amedee Leads LSU Over Tulane, 17—6

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Better Than Last Year

The drums are beating a new tune in the camp of the Northeast State Indians. It's basketball time, and Coach Lenny Fant leads his Redskins to Monticello, Ark., tomorrow night for their season opener with Arkansas A. and M. The same teams are in Monroe for the collegiate opener here Wednesday night.

"We're still relatively inexperienced," Coach Fant observes, "But we're so much better off than we were a year ago."

Last season the Tribe could manager only two wins in 25 games. Figuring they're in the bottom of the well, they have no place to go except up.

This youngest of any Northeast squad doesn't boast a single senior and just four are juniors, one of whom isn't likely to play this year. So, Coach Fant and Northeast followers are going to be counting greatly on six sophomores and six freshmen.

The juniors are G. O. "Tommy" Thompson, product of Ogden High near Winnsboro and coming to the Tribe after two seasons at Hinds Junior College; Jerry Snellings of Converse, a transfer from Panola Junior College; Lanny Johnson, Monroe, a returned letterman; and J. B. Edminston, Simsboro, who missed last season because of illness and now seems certain to miss the campaign just starting because of a knee injury.

Sophomores expecting heavy duty are Malcolm George and Stuart Toms, both of Quitman; Dave Harkins, Hico; Milton Linder, Fort Necessity; Robert Cook, Jonesboro; and Bobby Lockwood, Spearsville.

Freshmen are Irby Gamble, Marthaville; Jimmy Walker, Jonesboro; Harry "Rabbit" Crowe, Monroe; Steve Clark, Cincinnati, O.; Ray Hawkins, Miami, Okla.; and John Hagan, a 6-foot-8 giant from Colorado who has had no previous basketball experience.

In this age when height means so much in basketball, the least experiences of the Indians — Hagan — in the tallest. Thompson, Harkins, Cook, and Walker come in at 6-foot-5. George is 6-4. Linder and Lockwood are in the 6-3 class. Hawkins and Clark are in at 6-2. Johnson is 6-1, and Snellings and Crowe are an even six feet. Only two are under six — Toms at 5-7, and Gamble at 5-6.

"Pound for pound and man for man, Gamble is sensational," comments Frant. "He only weight 130 pounds, but he's a real competitor, plenty fast, a good shot. He's the kind of player the crowd will like."

Twenty-one dual games and two tournaments that will account for four more gives Northeast a 25-game schedule again this season. They make the Delta State Tournament at Cleveland, Miss., Dec. 15-16, and then host their own Christmas Tournament soon after.

The Tournament Fever

A total of 283 basketball tournaments, including invitational, parish championship, junior and under-graduate, have been approved for the 1960-61 season, according to T. H. Waters, commissioner of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

Seven are scheduled for Ouachita parish schools, including the usual four big invitationals — Calhoun, Dec. 8-9-10; Neville, Dec. 15-16-17; Ouachita, Jan. 5-6-7; and West Monroe, Jan. 26-27-28. The Sterlington High Invitational is added to the list for the first time this year with the new high school event dated Jan. 12-13-14.

In addition, Sterlington hosts its annual and well-established junior tourney Feb. 1-2-3, and Neville offers a freshman meet Feb. 9-10-11.

Some approved tournaments, like Downsville, Dodson Quitman and Eros, have already been played. Dates for area schools are:

Dec. 1-2-3- — Bastrop, Fort Necessity, Lisbon, Georgetown.

Dec. 8-9-10 — Calhoun, Davidson (9-10), Epps, Marion, Sicily Island, Sikes.

Dec. 15-16-17 — Chatham, Farmerville, Grayson, Mangham, Neville, Winnfield (parish only), Georgetown (parish).

Dec. 29-30-31 — Bonita, LaSalle, Newellton, Simsboro.

Jan. 5-6-7 — Block, Oak Grove, Ouachita.

Jan. 12-13-14 — Central (Delhi), Harrisonburg, Sterlington, Tallulah, Winnfield.

Jan. 19-20-21 — Baskin, Bernice, Ferriday, Jonesboro, LaSalle (junior), Pollock.

Jan. 26-27-28 — Lake Providence, West Monroe, Simsboro.

Jan. 30-31-Feb. 1-2-3 — Sterlington (junior).

Feb. 2-3-4 — Baskin (parish), Epps (parish), Holly Ridge, Jena, Harrisonburg (parish), Jonesboro (junior), Lisbon (junior), Sikes (district).

Feb. 9-10-11 — Neville (freshman), Start (district).

Feb. 16-17-18 — Quitman (junior), Sicily Island (district).

Feb. 23-24-25 — Vidalia (triparish).

March 2-3-4 — Linville (junior).

March 7-9-10-11 — Ogden.

Eiland Vs. Norris

A most interesting aspect of the annual Gulf States Conference cross country meet next Saturday at Natchitoches will be the return match between Don "Buddy" Eiland, the Northeast State ace from Farmerville, and Fred Norris, the 39-year-old import from Great Britain.

Norris, weighing just 125 pounds, has won six of his seven starts this year and is the sensation of the McNeese campus as he pushes his 40th birthday.

Eiland, hardly half Norris' age, is the youth who suffered a fractured pelvis in an automobile accident over two years ago and is considered fortunate even to be able to run much less compete in a grueling distance race with a chance to win. He has won four of his six appearances this year.

Some other top contenders include Mickey "Silky" Sullivan and Jerry McGraw, both of Northwestern State; Jack Williams and Bill Frye of Northeast; Lawrence Jacob and Bob Fabre, both of Southeastern; Bob Hayes, Louisiana Tech; Freddie Fuselier, Southwestern; and Phil Hurt, McNeese.

Walter Lodet, head track coach at host Northwestern, has a three-mile stretch on the campus ready for the race in which every member of the conference will enter a team. Louisiana Tech is defending team champion. Eiland is defending individual champion.

The race begins at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Soph Ace Scores Both Touchdowns

By JACK GATES
News-Star—World
Executive Editor

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Louisiana State University's football express, with Lynn Amedee at the throttle, closed out its rebuilding season in brilliant fashion here this crisp Saturday afternoon, defeating stubborn Tulane University, 17 to 6, before 74,000 fans in Sugar Bowl Stadium.

It was the Tigers' fifth win, against one tie and four defeats and was the fourth victory in a row. Featuring primarily sophomores, it indicated greater things to come for next season.

Although it was LSU's tough defense that made the clutch plays when it counted most, it was the 168-pound Amedee who provided the scoring punch as he has done since he took over the quarterback post against Florida.

The Baton Rouge sophomore scored both LSU touchdowns and generally provided the spark that kept Tulane off balance throughout the afternoon.

Amedee scored the first touchdown on an eight-yard dash midway of the first period, and halfback Wendell Harris booted the first of two extra points.

Amedee went one yard for the second touchdown in the second period after he had set it up with a 14-yard dash, after fading back for a pass. He went over on a quarterback sneak.

LSU's final three points came when halfback Tommy Neck booted a 33-yard goal after a tiger drive had stalled on the Tulane 23.

Fighting desperately all the way and threatening to bust open the game with every play, Tulane scored with less than two minutes left in the game.

Quarterback Phil Nugent, a passing threat throughout the game, hit all-American candidate Tommy Mason with a 25-yard touchdown toss. The attempt for a two-point conversion failed.

Both teams threatened repeatedly. Tulane took the opening kickoff and appeared headed for a score until Mason fumbled on the LSU 25. Tiger left end Andy Bourgeois recovered to end the threat.

LSU's first touchdown drive came after Nugent fumbled on his own 38-yard line and it was recovered by Gaynell Kinchen. Two plays later, Amedee hit end Jack Gates with an eight yarder, then sophomore fullback Charles Cranford carried it to the eight from where Amedee scored. Two five-yard off-side penalties aided the Tiger drive.

Early in the second period, Tulane, again with Nugent and Mason sparkling, drove to the Tiger 18. There the LSU defense, headed up by Mickey Mangham and Bo Strange, held Tulane on fourth down with only inches to go in a rock-and-sock 'em charge.

Two series later, another Tulane fumble, this time by half back Terry Terrebonne on the 50, set up another scoring opportunity for LSU. On the first play, Amedee hit Gates with a 35-yard pass, moving the ball to the 16. However, on three successive plays, LSU failed to move and Harris tried a field goal which was no good.

The Tigers' second touchdown came a few plays later and was set up by a brilliant 22-yard dash by Cranford to the Tulane 16. Then Amedee took over and on two successive runs scored.

On the first series of plays after the half, LSU drove from its 12 yard line to the Tulane three.

Twice the Tigers, with a yard to go and on fourth down, gambled and won. But the threat ended when Amedee fumbled a handoff and Tulane recovered.

However, the Green Wave failed to move. With a spirited display, Steve Ward rushed in and blocked Sammy Camp's punt and the Tigers had possession again on the Tulane 16. With its defense stiffening, Tulane held the Tigers for three downs, knocking them back to the 23 from where Neck booted the field goal.

Early in the fourth period, Tulane made a determined effort to score. Nugent hit Mason with a beautiful 41-yard-pass, but it went for naught as the Tulane drive stalled on the LSU 20 when Tiger guard Roy Winston intercepted another Nugent pass.

Midway of the fourth period, Tiger end Gene Sykes halted another potential Tulane drive when he intercepted a Nugent pass on the Tulane 45.

However, LSU failed to take advantage of the opportunity as it saw its drive halted at the Tulane 20.

It was at this point that Tulane, with Nugent tossing perfect strikes, started its drive that ended with its only score of the afternoon.

Tulane hasn't beaten LSU since 1947, although there were two ties.

Sophomore halfback Jerry Stovall of West Monroe, the LSU workhorse, walked off with Rushing honors, gaining 53 yards on 10 carries, while Mason was Tulane's best, picking up 34 yards on 10 attempts. Fullback Donnie Daye of Ferriday was second for LSU with 40, while Amedee was third with 37. Amedee also completed four of 9 passes for another 61 yards.

Overall, Tulane edged LSU in first downs, 18 to 16, while Tigers picked up 196 yards rushing to 150 for Tulane.

With Nugent doing the throwing and completing eight of 21 attempts for 138 yards, Tulane walked off with passing yardage. In the fumbling department, Tulane lost three and LSU two, while LSU intercepted three Tulane passes while losing none.

TIDE TO BLUEBONNET

Alabama Edges Auburn On Brooker's Boot, 3-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Injured Tommy Brooker kicked a 22-yard field goal Saturday for a 3-0 Alabama victory rover Auburn in a defensive battle, and the Crimson Tide immediately accepted a bid to the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex., Dec. 17.

Brooker's three-pointer, coupled with a steeltrap defense, earned Alabama its second straight post season shot at bowl gold. The Tide lost 7-0 to Penn State in the inaugural Liberty Bowl game last Jan. 1.

Alabama's tough line never gave Auburn a chance to use its own injured field goal kicker, fullback Ed Dyas, who set two collegiate records this season.

Brooker's field goal from the 12-yard line, kicked from a sharp right angle and into the wind, came with 8:31 left in the second period. It climaxed an Alabama drive from its own 39. In the first period, Brooker was wide on a try from the 23.

The victory before a capacity crowd of 44,000 in Legion Field enabled Alabama to wind up its best season in 15 years with eight wins, one loss and a tie. It was the 11th victory for Alabama in the 25th renewal of the series with Auburn.

The tremendous Tide defense, keyed by linebackers Darwin Holt, Lee Roy Jordan, guard Billy Neighbors and end Richard O'Dell, limited Auburn to only one first down in the first half. The Tigers' deepest penetration carried to the Alabama 43.

Ironically, Auburn won four games this seasn on the field goal kicking of Dyas, who suffered a fractured cheek bone a week ago after booting 13 field goals this year and 17 during his career, both national records.

The Tigers' rushing attack also suffered from the loss of the injured fullback.

Alabama started off as if it intended to make a runaway of the game. Auburn punted three plays after taking the kickoff, and starting from the Alabama 36, quarterback Pat Trammell and halfbacks Mike Fracchia and Leon Fuller alternated to take the first field goal. It was high enough but wide to the right.

Auburn was forced to punt again and Alabama returned to the attack, driving to the Auburn 27 before an intercepted pass killed the drive. Joe Dolan, whose punting helped keep Alabama at bay much of the game, punted again and this time the Tide moved to its winning score in 13 plays.

In guiding Alabama to the Auburn 12, Trammell twice ran nine yards for first downs after finding receivers covered. He also hit end Bill Battle with a key 12-yard pass down the middle.

Early in the fourth period, Auburn launched a drive from its 33 with a 17-yard pass from quarterback Bobby Hunt to Jimmy Burson but O'Dell broke through to smear Hunt for a 16-yard loss to kill the threat.

Alabama's Bobby Skelton killed Auburn's last threat when he intercepted Joe Overton's pass on his own 42 and returned it to the Tiger 46.

The defeat was the second of the season for Auburn and the second in a row at the hands of its bitter cross-state rival. Auburn, barred from bowl participation for recruiting violations, finished with an 8-2 record.

SOUTHERN CAL FALLS, 17-0

Irish End Long Victory Search

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Notre Dame's long search for victory ended in the rain and mud of Memorial Coliseum Saturday as a hard-running sophomore quarterback, Daryle Lamonica, led the Irish to a 17-0 shutout over the Trojans of Southern california.

A turnout of 29,297 sat through intermittent downpours to watch this 32nd clash between the rivals and see the Irish finally break an unprecedented losing streak of eight straight games.

Lamonica, 19, 6-2, 205, from Fresno, Calif., guided the Irish 71 yards to set up a field goal shortly after Notre Dame got the ball on the opening kickoff. And the outcome seemed never in doubt from there on.

Southern Cal's Warriors held Notre Dame scoreless in the second half but they could never mount a truly serious threat until the final play of the game.

Reserve quarterback Ben Charles passed to Jim Naples for what would have been a touchdown, but the halfback dropped the ball and the gun sounded.

Forbidding clouds all morning and rain that burst loose an hour before the game held the attendance far under the anticipated 50,000 or more.

The contest closed out a dismal season for both teams. Southern Cal ended with a 4-6 record and Notre Dame's 2-8 matched its previous poorest registered in 1956.

Lamonica engineered not only the field goal thrust but also the two touchdowns, scoring one himself. In 10 carries on a sloppy field he gained 53 yards, many of them on rollouts in crucial situations.

Notre Dame had to punt only twice and Lamonica averaged 45 yards with both of them. He also intercepted a pass and returned it 18 yards to start the Fighting Irish off on a touchdown march.

Falcons Upset Colorado In 16-6 Shocker

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Halfback Mike Quinlan's 92-yard punt return for a touchdown launched the Air Force Academy to a 16-6 victory Saturday over Colorado, a two-touchdown favorite.

Quinlan, Falcon game captain, took his touchdown trip in the third quarter to break open the scoring. The Airmen followed with another touchdown and a 29-yard field goal by Mike Rawlins before Colorado got its touchdown in the last 2 minutes.

A spectacular catch on the 1 by end Gary Henson of a 39-yard throw by quarterback Gale Weidner paved the way for the Colorado score. Fullback Chuck Weiss plunged over on the next play.

The teams battled even through the scoreless first two periods. The Air Force's biggest threat in the first half died on Colorado's here the defenders held for four downs.

Quinlan was the star in the Falcons' second touchdown drive. He shot through guard on a 56-yard jaunt that carried to Colorado's 36. Nine plays later he vaulted over a pile of players to score from a yard out.

Colorado, desperately trying to get into the scoring column, unsuccessfully passed on their own 40 on fourth down with six to go to set up the Air Force field goal.

Seven plays later the Falcons had reached only to the Buffalo's 22. Rawlins, who had missed his first placement after a touchdown of the season on the Air Force second TD, booted a perfect field goal from the 29 with 3:11 left.

Gators Whip Miami, 18-0, Take Bowl Bid

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida's high-flying Gators whipped Miami, Fla., 18-0 Saturday night and climaxed their finest football season in 31 years by accepting an invitation to play Baylor in the Gator Bowl.

Fullback Don Goodman and 133-pound quarterback Larry Libertore rushed for consistently good gains and the alert Gator linemen held the ultra-conservative Miami offense in full check in the one-sided game before the season's top crowd of 60,122.

Immediately after the game, Gator Bowl representatives tendered a bid to Florida in the locker room. The players already had voted unofficially to accept it and the transaction was a mere formality.

Bobby Dodd Jr., Libertore and Goodman scored the three Florida touchdowns—one in each of the first three periods—and the Gators wound up a highly successful season under their new coach, Ray Graves.

Graves, former assistant at Georgia Tech, introduced a gambling style of play at Florida and brought the Gators out of the doldrums in remarkably fast order. This was the first year since 1929 that Florida has won eight games.

Gamecocks In 41-20 Victory Over Deacons

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina surprised Wake Forest with a powerful running game Saturday and spoiled the Deacons' finale by winning the Atlantic Coast Conference football game 41-20.

The bright spot for Wake Forest was quarterback Norman Snead who passed for two touchdowns and broke his ACC total offense record. Snead completed 15 of 33 passes for 273 yards and got 17 yards rushing to run his season's total yardage to 1,655, bettering his old record of 1,365 yards. The Gamecocks had only a one-point 15-14 margin when the second half opened.

Senior quarterback Buddy Bennett, a substitute during his three seasons of play, set up the clinching touchdown in the third quarter with a 24-yard sprint to the Wake Forest 25-yard line. Bennett and halfback Melvin Harris bulled the ball to the 1 on a series of plays and fullback Dick Day pushed it over for the score. Dean Findley, who kicked three extra points, converted.

South Carolina smashed over for three more touchdowns in the final quarter. They came on a 36-yard sprint over right guard by Day, a one-yard plunge by halfback Jack Morris and a 38-yard end sweep by quarterback Tommy Pilcher.

The Deacons scored with a 1:15 left in the game when Snead hit end Bobby Allen with a pass from the 16 to the 4, from where Allen dived across the goal.

Pilcher's touchdown, the final one in the game, came with 39 seconds left and was made possible by a key block thrown at the 5 by tackle Joel Goodrich.

Duke To Meet Arkansas In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Duke University Saturday was extended an invitation to meet Arkansas i nthe 1961 Cotton Bowl game and immediately accepted.

The Blue Devils, who will be making their first appearance in the Dallas holiday classic, still have one game to play—against the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) a week from Saturday.

The Atlantic Coast Conference champions have won seven of nine games, losing only to Michigan and North Carolina. They were idle Saturday.

Arkansas, the host team, finished its season last week with an 8-2 record and with a certain share for the Southwest Conference championship. They won six of seven league games, losing only to Gator Bowl-bound Baylor in side the circuit.

Coach Frank Broyles' team also dropped a highly-controversial three-point decision to Mississippi in mid-season on a field goal in the final six seconds—one which Arkansas partisans said did not sail between the uprights.

The announcement of Duke's selection was made by Felix McKnight, chairman of the Cotton Bowl selection committee, at half-time of the Southern Methodist-Texas Christian University game.

The Cotton Bowl game will be played Jan. 2.

ARMY LOST

Hall Says Navy Didn't Win It

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army Coach Dale Hall, apologizing if he sounded like a poor loser, said, "The fact was we lost the ball game, Navy didn't win it."

Standing in the rear of the quiet Army dressing room under cavernous Philadelphia Stadium, the bespectacled Hall said:

"They (Navy) capitalized on our mistakes. They won on the mistakes we made, not on what they did.

"Understand, I'm not trying to discredit the Navy team. But facts are facts."

Hall flatly refused to compare the Orange Bowl-bound midshipmen with other Navy teams he had played or coached against. Hall apparently wasn't about to place the stamp of greatness on the winners. He did give unstinting praise to little Joe Bellino, the hard-running Navy halfback.

"Bellino is the greatest back Navy has ever had," Hall told the mob of newsmen gathered around him.

"I feel (Bellino) is the best back in the country."

Hall declined to comment about any of the other Navy players, saying that he had the worst seat in the house on the sidelines and it was difficult to tell until he sees the game movies who was good and bad.

Asked what adjustments if any he made in the second half when Army outgained Navy 189 yards to minus 2, Hall said:

"I should tell you that I'm a genius and did something but I didn't.

"We simply stopped making mistakes. We straightened out a little of the technique of what we were trying to do. But that's all."

Hall said Navy ran up its 17-0 halftime lead because Army was trying just a little too hard.

"We (Army) were too eager, perhaps too keyed up," he said. "When the boys calmed down they played their good game."

He agreed with one observation —that Bellino's 58-yard run in the first period after being pinned at its one on a fine Army punt, was a big play.

"Bellino's run gave them the impetus. It started like a simple off tackle play and he cut back. We missed the tackle."

Hall said Navy sprung no surprises. He felt the Middies operated from a set formation more than they had in the past, moving Bellino to the outside. On defense, he said, everything Army met it expected.

While Hall said he doesn't feel good about losing at any time, especially to Navy, he certainly could sleep a little easier than last year when the Middies pasted his first Army team 43-12. "We at least played a good second half today," he said.

Hall summed up the game this way:

"It was the story of football. The team that makes the fewest mistakes wins, especially in an Army-Navy game where desire is always even."

Tigers, Rebels Place 4 On All—Twin Cities

Coaches Pirkey, Ruple Honored

West Monroe and Neville placed four men each on the annual all-Twin Cities football team selected by head football coaches of the local schools for the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Bill Ruple of unbeaten Neville and Cecil Pirkey of West Monroe tied for Coach of the Year honors in the balloting by Ruple, Pirkey, Bob Ellen of Ouachita and Fred Lindsay of Southside.

Coaches this season selected seven linemen and four backs instead of naming players by position. Thus the first team has two centers and only one tackle.

Neville's representatives were backs Beverly Franks and Neal Gunn, guard Robert Turner and end Sperry Brown. The West Monroe Rebels are center Butch Lobrano, guard Jewel McBroom and backs Buck Fox and John Covington.

Ouachita placed two players on the team, center Don Ellen and end Johnny Roach. The Southside all - star is tackle James Chancey.

For the second team line, coaches selected three ends, three tackles, one guard and no centers. The ends are Freddie Hooter and Tojo Green of West Monroe, tackles Tommy Averett of West Monroe, tackles Tommy Averett of West Monroe, William Matkins of Ouachita and Jack Youngblood of Neville. The guard is Ouachita's Johnny Butler.

The second team backfield is composed of Jimmy Van Zile of West Monroe, Bubba Via and Herbert Perry of Ouachita and Bill Becton of Neville's Tigers.

There were no repeaters from last year's first team. Van Zile was a first - team choice as an end last fall and Turner, Lobrano and Gunn were members of the second team.

Gunn, Turner, Franks, Brown; Covington, Fox, Ellen and Roach are seniors. McBroom, Lobrano and Chancey are juniors.

Lobrano is the biggest member of the first team at 198 pounds. Franks is the lightest at 140.

Brown and Roach were good all-around performers with both especially outstanding on defense.

Chancey was called by Southside Coach Fred Lindsay the best back he ever coached.

McBroom was probably the best-known lineman in the Twin Cities. He always turned in excellent work on offense and defense and scored two touchdowns, one against Bastrop by grabbing a fumble and against Ouachita on a punt return.

Turner has been a Neville starter for three years. He starred as an offensive guard and defensive end.

Ellen and Lobrano were consistent offensive performers and brilliant linebackers. Both are fast, able to cover running plays and passes equally well.

Gunn was a threat every time he got the ball, a swift runner who could, and did, break away for the long touchdown dash at any time.

Franks completed over 50 per cent of his passes and was also long distance threat, sprinting 44 yards for a TD against Ouachita in the final game of the season.

Fox and Covington were both powerful runners. Fox was more of a break - away threat, scoring 11 touchdowns to rank second in district 1-AAA scoring.

Covington tallied five touchdowns and five extra points. He was tough to stop when the Rebels needed short yardage and quick enough to break loose for long gains.

Members of the all - Twin Cities team will be honored at a Jaycee's Dinner Dec. 1 at 7 o'clock in the Paragon Club. Paul Dietzel, LSU coach, will be the main speaker and player of the year awards will be given.

Moore To Meet Buddy Turman Monday Night

DALLAS (AP)—Archie Moore, whose age is in question but whose ability to fight never has been, meets young Buddy Turman, the Tyler, Tex. heavyweight, in a 10-round feature bout here Monday night.

The fight was drumed up several months ago when Moore appeared on a card here in which he knocked out George Abinet. Turman challenged and Moore accepted.

Archie plans to weight in at about 192 while Turman will be at 187.

The aging Moore recently was stripped of his world's light heavyweight championship because of his failure to defend. So now he is recognized as champion only in states not affiliated with the National Boxing Association.

Moore said he had missed only two days of training since returning from Italy where he lost to Gullio Rinaldi.

Beer-Drinking Race Horse Wins Gold Cup Crown

NEWBURY, England (AP) — Knuckleduster, a race horse who trains on two bottles of beer a day, scored a 15 length victory in the Hennessy Gold Cup Handicap Steeplechase Saturday.

His trainer, Derek Ancil, rode the horse to his fourth straight victory of the season. Then he told of Knuckleduster's drinking habits.

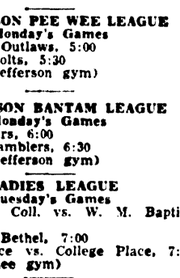

"He's a shy feeder," Ancil said. "But I found he has a definite liking for beer. Since I stepped him up to two bottles a day he has made splendid progress.

"He's entered for the King George the Sixth stakes at Kempton Dec. 26. For that race I'm increasing his ration to three bottles daily."

Knuckleduster, starting at 100-7, covered the 3¼ miles course in 6 minutes, 59 1-5 seconds and earned $15,030 for his owner, Maj. L. S. Marler. A bay gelding by Caudillo out of Allegorie II, he is one of the tallest of Britain's steeplechasers.

Zonda, the 4-1 favorite, was second, 15 lengths behind Knuckleduster. Fearless Cavalier was third, another 10 lengths away.

Farmer Jones, Pig Back At Local Arena

Farmer Jones and the little pig that didn't go to market return to Roll - Arena Monday night with the farmer taking on veteran Firpo Zybsko in half of a double main event.

Jones' pig, a clean, trained animal that he would never think of selling, gets more attention than a race horse. Jones may take a beating in the ring once in awhile but he can fight off an army if anybody tries to make sausage out of his pig.

Indian Chief Geronimo and Jim LaRock tangle in the other half of the main event. Both bouts are scheduled for one hour or less with two falls to win.

Ray Andrews and Carlos Mendoza will trade holds in the evening's first match, a 15 - minute affair.

Farmer Jones, with some help from his pig, whipped Carlos Mendoza in the country boy's first appearance here in some time.

Geronimo, making his local debut, made short work of Andrews last Monday and threatens to do the same with LaRock. Jim, however, claims to have never been defeated in either pro or amateur wrestling and will be tough to pin.

(Written for La. Sports Writers

SHREVEPORT, La. — Powerful, underfeated Byrd High School placed six men on the 1-AAA all-district football teams selected by the seven district coaches.

The Yellow Jackets, who rolled to 11 straight victories, the 1-AAA championship and a state playoff berth, landed end Jerry Caskey, tackles Elton "Jello" Brown and Bill Burns, guard Robert Gerst, quarterback Bookie Shillcutt and back Dean Mann.

Ouachita and West Monroe placed two men each while Fair Park took the other spot.

Ouachita placed end Johnny Roach and center Don Ellen, West Monroe landed guard Jewell McBroom and back Buck Fox while Fair Park's representative was back Jack Odom.

Coaches voting on the all - district team were J. D. Cox of Byrd, Roy Wilson of Fair Park, Lee Hedges of Woodlawn, Bill Maxwell of Bossier, Gene Deverloy of Bastrop, Bob Ellen of Ouachita and Cecil Pirkey of West Monroe.

All members of the 1-AAA team are automatically noinated for the class AAA all-state team to be selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. next month.

Caskey, Byrd 197 - pound end, was the only unanimous choice on this year's team. McBroom was the next best vote - getter with Brown, Shillcutt and Odom following closely.

This year's edition is probably one of the best to represent 1-AAA in several seasons with the combination of power, speed and weight . The line ranges from Burns' 233 pounds to Gerst's 156 with the backs going from 170 to 160.

McBroom is the only junior on the all - district squad and teamed with Gerst to give 1-AAA two of the finest blocking guards in the area.

The ends, Caskey and Roach, combined both good offense and terrific defense. The tackles are rugged two - way performers and the center is a proven veteran of triple - A wars.

Shillcutt at quarterback can run or pass and is a deceptive ball handler. Odom is the district's top running back with 744 yards to his credit and 70 points. He is also one of the district's top pass receivers.

Fox is second in the strict scoring race and gives the team a potent punt along with Odom and Mann. Mann is a top running back and outstanding defensive halfback.

Rice Falls, 12-7; Gets Sugar Bid

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — The Rice Owls Saturday accepted a bid to play in the Sugar Bowl but only after the Baylor Bears knocked them out of a share of the Southwest Conference title with a comeback 12-7 victory.

Rice accepted the invitation for the Jan. 2, 1961 New Orleans classic minutes after Baylor substitute quarterback Bobby Ply nailed Ronnie Goodwin with a nine-yard touchdown pass in the closing minutes to provide the Bears' margin of victory.

The victory left Rice, Baylor and Texas tied for second place in the southwest conference with 5-2 records behind Cotton Bowl-bound Arkansas.

Ply brought the Bears back on a 75-yard scoring drive after Rice took a 7-6 lead late in the fourth period when Owl quarterback Billy Cox slipped over from the one. The first Baylor touchdown came in the second quarter when tackle Buck McLeod recovered Bear fullback Jim Evans' fumble in the end zone.

The game was a frustrating battle of goal line stands, as the two teams made their end zones seem like the most valuable pieces of real estate in Texas.

Rice frustrated the Bears three times within the Owl 10—once on an unsuccessful Baylor field goal try by Larry Corley. The Bruins nailed the Owls on the Baylor one yard line twice in the first half.

Rice took a short-lived 7-6 edge late in the fourth period after an 80-yard march that was capped by Cox's one-yard keeper from his quarterback spot. Max Webb added the point that put the Owls ahead.

Ply took charge from there, slicing the Owl defense with a series of passes that moved Baylor to the nine where Ply found halfback Goodwin with his scoring throw into the end zone. Ronnie Bull was stopped running for the points.

Baylor scored first in the second quarter after an exchange of punts gave them a 16-yard advantage and quarterback Ronnie Stanley kept them moving on a 51-yard march with passes to end Bob Lane and Bull the big gainers. From the Owl 12, Evans ripped off tackle but lost the ball at the three and McLeob recovered for the touchdown. Corley's kick was wide.

In the third quarter, trailing 6-0, Rice held Baylor on the Owl 1, punted and found themselves again moments later stopping the Bears on the 5 before Corley's unsuccessful field goal try from the 11. In the fourth period, Sonny Whorton fumbled at the 2 and Webb recovered for a Rice touchback that started the Owls moving for their lone touchdown drive.

Shreveport Team Grabs Lead In Bowling Tourney

By JERRY HARKNESS
World Sports Writer

Shreveport's S&H Novelty Co. led a second round brigade of Louisiana's sharpest bowlers into action at Western Lanes last night, rolled a big 3,075 series sparked by Don Horlander's pace-setting 720 3-game total, and dropped Monroe's Roi-Tan Cigar team, first week leaders, into second spot going into the final shift.

At Bowlero, with one shift left on last night's doubles slate, J. Tilly and H. Thistlewaite from Opelousas were still in control with a mark too high for yesterday's parade of bowlers to reach.

Tilly and Thistlewaite watched three shifts of 32 sets shoot in vain at their first weekend top score of 1,282, but Lafayette's R. Barras and his 686 singles score dropped into second place behind newcomer H. Smith of Shreveport, who managed a 687 for the lead yesterday.

Robert Creighton and W. H. (Sonny) Durham took over the number one spot in Western Lanes' Rag - Time Doubles competition, holding a 1369 handicap score with only one shift left to bowl last night. G. Parker and B. Roan, who led last week's field, dropped to second place holding a 1356 total, followed by C. Gambino and F. Baldwin, New Orleans, 1299; and W. Cash and M. Carroll, West Monroe, 1286.

Bowlero's all - events list withstood the test of time and yesterday's onslaught of pin thumpers to remain unchanged going into the nitecap shift. H. Rosbottom still holds the lead with 1963.

Roi - Tan's lead was beginning to look like it might hold up until Horlander and S&H mates took over in the 6 o'clock shift.

Horlander's 255, 266 and 199, 720 3 - game series packed the area with spectators and led the Shreveporters to an 11 - pin lead over the Monroe team. The only other changes in the top ten after the 6 o'clock action also came from Shreveport with McDaniels Air Conditioning moving into fourth place with 3,017 and Ark-La - Tex Builders taking seventh place with 3,002.

The two new teams pushed Eunice Office Supply and Mid -City Lanes, New Orleans, out of the top ten.

Bowlero's singles competition was so close that there is no room left for too much improvement in the last five places. Following the top two going into the last shift last night were O. Aguayo, Shreveport, 667; R. Witherington, 666; L. Tylock, 655; F. Baldwin, New Orleans, 654 and four more bowlers spaced only one or two pins apart.

Doubles bowling saw only one change in the top ten, with B. Leonard and W. Sievers of Monroe taking the third spot with a 1272 score.

Scratch highs after last night were S&H Novelty Co. in team bowling with 2949, C. Winter and A. Walters in doubles with 1195, H. Smith in the singles with 648, Robert Creighton Jr. and Sonny Durham in ragtime doubles with 1314, and D. Courtade in all - events with 1794.

Sooners End Poor Season With Victory

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Sooners atoned somewhat for their worst football season under Coach Bud Wilkinson by beating traditional rival Oklahoma State 17-6 Saturday.

The 55th renew of the colorful intrastate feud had all of the dramatics of past games. It wound up in a fist swinging exhibition by the players with only a few minutes to play. Then after the final whistle the pep squads got in a few blows of their own.

Peace was finally restored by patient police and school officials after some 15 minutes of byplay.

Oklahoma proved from the outset that it was the superior team, scoring its first touchdown in a 67-yard drive in 10 plays. Second-string quarterback Bob Cornell, playing his final game for the Sooners and one of his best, provided the key play with a 27-yard run.

Jimmy Carpenter, the No. 1 quarterback, connected on a 13-yard pass to halfback Billy Meacham. This carried to the 5-yard line and Melvin Sandersfekl swept in for the touchdown with 3:39 left in the first quarter.

The Sooners, demonstrating a solid defense, didn't let Oklahoma State past the Oklahoma 42-yard line in the opening half. And they added a touchdown at the start of the third quarter to pad their margin to 14-0.

It took 16 plays to cover 76 yards for the second Oklahoma score, with Cornell blasting through a wide hole for three yards.

Oklahoma State finally got going late in the third quarter and scored its touchdown early in the final period. The Cowboys went 30 yards in 16 plays and fullback Jim Dillard dived over from the 1.

The Sooners retaliated late in the final period, using a pass interception by tackle Tom Cox to get good field position. However, this final effort was stopped on the 11-yard line and fullback Ronnie Hradline came in to kick a 24-yard field goal as a climax to the bitter struggle.

Oklahoma wound up its season 3-6-1. Oklahoma State is 3-7 for the year.

Horned Frogs Defeat SMU By 13-0 Score

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Harry Moreland's brilliant running snapped Texas Christian out of a flat performance Saturday and gave the Horned Frogs a 13-0 triumph over luckless Southern Methodist.

TCU thus ended the season with a .500 record—4 won, 4 lost and 2 tied.

Never since the Methodists first fielded a team in 1915 have they had a worse season. They won none, lost 9 and tied 1. In 1916, the previous worst year, they lost 8 and tied 2.

Moreland, 170-pound senior playing his last college game, broke over his right tackle and then cut to his right, eluding would-be tacklers on all sides and ran 52 yards in the second quarter to the Mustang 15.

It was the longest run from scrimmage this season by a TCU player.

Three plays later, Sonny Gibbs plowed over from the 2 for the first touchdown and that was enough to win. R. E. Dodson kicked the extra point.

Moreland's 12-yard run was the longest leading to TCU's second touchdown. The drive carried 74 yards in 14 plays with Moreland going over right guard for the [illegible] the 1-yard stripe. Los Angeles Charger End Anderson Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ralph Anderson 25, star end of the Los Angeles Chargers and one of the finest pass receivers in the American Football League, died Saturday, probably of a diabetic attack.

Anderson, a quiet giant who had suffered from diabetes for years, was found dead on a bed in a girl friend's apartment. He had gone there after a night out and dropped drowsily on the bed with his clothes on. That was the way he was found.

News of Anderson's death stunned the Chargers and broke up their final practice session for their game here Sunday with the Oakland Raiders .

"I can't believe he won't be with us any more," said linebacker Ron Botchan, who was Anderson's roommate on the road.

"The news was absolutely shocking," said Coach Sid Gillman.

Anderson actually was contested Charger propetry. The Chicago Bears, for whom Anderson formerly played, have sued the Chargers for $300,000, contending the Los Angeles club had lured the big end away from them.

Anderson's girl friend, Virginia Hunt, 23, told police they went to a movie Friday night with Botchan and later had a few drinks.

Later, Virginia said, they went to her apartment and Anderson lay down. She said she left him in the bedroom and made a bed for herself in the living room.

Saturday morning, she said, she came into the bedroom, saw Anderson's feet moving, and thought he was waking up. But when she returned five minutes later, she said, he was motionless. She turned him over, but he was limp.

Anderson, a 6-foot-2 220-pounder, was graduated from Los Angeles State College in 1958. This season he caught 44 passes for 614 yards and scored five touchdowns for the Chargers.

Navy Team Wins 8-0 Over Japan

TOYKO (AP) — The U.S. Nay eleven from Yokosuka edged Japan's collegiate All-Stars 8-0 in the fourth Turkey Bowl Classic Saturday.

The victory gave the Americans three victories against one loss in the annual Turkey Bowl games. A crowd of 5,000, including U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Rear Admiral Frederick S. Withington of the U. S. Navy in Japan, saw the televised contest.

The Yokosuka Seahawks were limited to 175 pounds per player to equalize weight difference between smaller stature Japanese.

The Navy touchdown came in the third quarter on a pass from fullback H. L. Jackson to left end B. H. Keys, who romped 31 yards [illegible]. The Seahawks converted [illegible] running play.

GIBBS STARS IN 35-9 WIN

Ole Miss Mauls Maroons, To Play Rice In Sugar Bowl

By JAMES SAGGUS

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Jake Gibbs pased for two touchdowns and scored a third Saturday to lead third-ranked Mississippi to a 35-9 victory over arch-rival Mississippi State and give the undefeated Rebels their second straight Sugar Bowl invitation and the Southeastern Conference title.

Rice will meet Mississippi in the Jan. 2 game at New Orleans.

Gibbs, hitting on eight straight passes in the opening half, brought the Rebel offense to life after a sluggish start and the outcome was never in doubt.

The victory, ninth in ten games for the Rebels, clinched their fourth SEC championship. Mississippi's only blemish was a 6-6 tie with Louisiana State.

The Rebels marched 38 yards for their first touchdown and 68 for their second to give them a 14-0 halftime edge.

The first TD, which followed a short state punt, came on four straight Gibbs passes and a 2-yard run by fullback Jim Anderson. The payoff was a 10-yard pitch to ace end Johnny Brewer.

Fullback Billy Ray Adams powered the second drive with an assistant from halfback Arthur Doty and Bibbs ended it with a 16-yard pass to halfback Bobby Crespino.

After State scored with a 78-yard drive opening the third period with the Maroons springing a surprise single wing offense for the march. Mississippi struck back with a vengeance. Adams and halfback Louis Guy, a pair of terrific second team backs, led the march from the Rebel's six to the State eight where Gibbs sprinted into the end zone.

End Wesley Sullivan got the fourth touchdown on a 13-yard pass interception return and Adams scored the final one on a 2 yard smash, with center Allen Green kicking his fifth straight conversion.

End David Kelley took a 3-yard pass from quarterback Billy Hill for State's touchdown with Sammy Dantone converting. State added two points in the final period when sub quarterback Doug Elmore of Mississippi slipped and fell in his own end zone after a lone State punt.

The Sugar Bowl appearance will be the fifth for Ole Miss which lost to Georgia Tech in 1953 and Navy in 1955, then beat Texas in 1958, and Louisiana State 21-0 this year. The Rebels have also made single appearances in the Delta, range, and Gator bowls, losing only its 1936 Orange Bowl appearance against Catholic University.

Gibbs had a phenominal afternoon as a passer, hitting on 10 straight before Dody dropped his 11th toss, which was directly on target.

He finished the afternoon completing 13 of 15 with one interception on the final play. He had two other completions nullified by penalties.

Mississippi State made a game of it until midway in the third period.

State marched 78 yards behind the passing of Hill to open the third period. The fleet junior connected on four passes including the 3-yard payoff to Kelley. Hill ran three times during the march.

The Rebels struck back for their third touchdown the next time they got the ball and broke State's back with Gibbs' touchdown sprint.

The score brought out the huge banner from the Rebels side of the field reading, "We're number one — Second to None."

The Rebels added two more touchdowns in the third period with reserves furnishing most of the power.

End Wesley Sullivan picked off a Hill pass as he charged into the State backfield and dashed 13 yards for the fourth touchdown.

Sophomore halfback A. J. Holloway intercepted a State pass at the Maroon 41 and returned it to the 18 to set up the fourth score. Doty picked up most of the distance with a 13-yard sprint and Adams bulled into the end zone.

State matched the Rebels only in the opening quarter when the lines played on almost equal terms. Beginning early in the second quarter, the Rebels began showing a decided edge through the middle and it was their game the rest of the way.

The only State marches that brought any hope of scoring — besides the third period touchdown drive — were with the opening kickoff and in the fourth period.

The Rebels threw an 8-man line up at their 29 to stop the first quarter march and a Dantone field goal try from the 24 was short.

The fourth period march ended at the one-foot line after Rebel coach John Vaught threw in his first team at the 4.

States unexpected single wing attack in the third period caught Ole Miss off balance but the Rebels learned to handle it on the second State march of the final half and the Maroons abandoned it for most of the second period.

SINGLE WING POWER

Tennessee Drubs Vanderbilt, 35-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tailback Glenn Glass spearheaded Tennessee's powerpacked single wing offense to a 35-0 victory over Vanderbilt Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

The victory gave the Vols a 6-2-2 mark and left Vanderbilt without a Southeastern Conference win for the first time in history. The Commodores ended the season with a 3-7 mark.

Vanderbilt threatened once in the opening period, but a stubborn Tennessee defense took over on downs at the 3 and staved off every other Comodore threat.

It was Glass, a junior reserve, who ground out the important yards in Tennessee's first touchdown in the second period, with fullback Jack Nichols smacking over the final yard. Cotton Letner converted his first of three placements.

The Vols lost little time after intermission before they began adding to their lead. Glass scored the first one on a five-yard run to climax an 80-yard drive.

Letner snagged a Vanderbilt pass thrown by Hank Lesesne and galloped 70 yards to score. His conversion made it 21-0.

Tailback Gene Etter scored the fourth touchdown on a beautiful 14-yard stab in the fourth quarter, and Glass following another Volunteer interception, scampered 14 for another. Gary Cannon, a specialist, converted after the last two touchdowns.

The Vols were back in Vanderbilt territory again before the game ended. Reserve end Ken Breeding, who shone on defense for Tennessee, intercepted his second pass and returned it to the Commodore 42 with 21 seconds to go. An off-side penalty nullified a Vol pass and the game ended two plays later.

The biggest football crowd in Nashville's history an estimated 34,000—turned out to see the cross-state rivals play their 55th game since 1892.

Vanderbilt's recently enlarged stadium was filled for the first time and bleacher seats were set up to handle the crowd. The game was played in ideal weather, with temperatures in the high 60's.

Trojan Cage Team Facing Big Schedule

TALLULAH, La. (Special) — Six returning lettermen and nine hopefuls will carry the basketball hopes of Tallulah High School this season into a big 18 game schedule.

The Trojans will enter four tournaments, at Newellton, Oak Grove, Tallulah and Lake Providence.

Of the six lettermen back this year, two are juniors and four seniors. Trojan Coach Laird has had trouble rounding the team into shape, with some top cagers still participating in football playoffs.

Gridders expected to bolster the team are Jerry Fairbanks, "Pops" Neumann, Billy DeMoss, James Wilson, Wayne Noland and Don Bennett.

Rounding out the varsity team are Phillip Wheeler, Charles Grace, Edward Word, Jimmy Rudkin, Richard Peeples, Bubba Panquin, Jerry Rankin and Barry Wilson and Bob Gardsbane.

All home Tallulah games, with the exception of the Newellton games, December 7 and 12 and tournaments will begin at 5:45 for "B" action and 8:00 o'clock for varsity games.

Greenie Frosh Open Basketball Season At Home

NEW ORLEANS, Nov.26 (UPI) — Tulane's freshman basketball team will open a 12-game schedule at home Dec. 3 against the Bogalusa Air Force Sports.

The 1960-61 Baby Billow season includes seven home games and five on the road.

Coach Ralph Pederson has a 12-man squad. They are Bob Davidson (6-5), South Bend, Ind.; John Flynn (6-4), Valparaiso, Ind.; Ronnie Ihnen (6-5), Laketon, Ind.; Mike Kurtz (6-0), Arcola, Ind.; Mike Milholland (6-4), Bluffton, Ind.; Bill Slaughter (6-2), La-Porte, Ind.; Beuker Amann (5-11), New Orleans.

Also Robert Arnowich (5-9), Columbus, Ga.; Billy Arthurs (6-2), New Orleans; Steve Powitz (5-10), Beachhaven Park, N. J.; Gary Puckett (5-10), Atlanta; and Jeffrey Tarte (6-2), Forest Hills, N. Y.

PLAY HERE WEDNESDAY

Redskins Open Season Monday

Northeast takes the wraps off its 1960-61 basketball team at Monticello, Ark., Monday night against Arkansas A&M and gives local fans a look at the Indians here Wednesday night against the same club.

Coach Lenny Fant, starting his fourth year as Indian head man, will start five lettermen against the A&M Boll Weevils Monday night, a big quintet averaging over six feet, two inches.

Robert Cook (6-5) of Jonesboro, Dave Harkins (6-5) of Hico, Milton Linder (6-3) of Fort Necessity, Lannie Johnson (6-1) of Monroe and Stewart Toms (5-10) of Quitman will be Northeast's starting five.

Winners of only three of 24 games last winter, Northeast will pin this year's hopes on youth. There's not a senior on the squad. Johnson and Cook are returning starters. Fant's second unit, which has looked unusually good in practice, beating the starters about as often as not, will probably be G. D. Thompson (6-6), Jimmy Walker (6-5), Jerry Snellings (6-0), Malcolm George (6-3) and Irby Gamble (5-6).

George is the only letterman on the second unit. Thompson and Snellings are transfers, George a sophomore and the other two freshmen. Harry Crowe of Monroe is also slated for action with the second unit.

Arkansas A&M is expected to give the Indians a good opening test. The Weevils finished third in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference last fall and won the district 17 NAIA tournament before losing in the second round of the NAIA tournament in Kansas City.

Coach Leslie "Shorty" Beard has seven lettermen returning from last year's club.

Wednesday's game here will be played in the Ouachita gym at 8 o'clock. Northeast will move into its renovated campus gym in a few weeks, where games will begin at 7:30.

Keeling Stars As Tulsa Tops Houston, 26-16

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Jerry Keeling passed Tulsa to a 26-16 victory over Houston in a non-conference football game Saturday.

Keeling passed for touchdowns of 12, 7 and 4 yards as the Golden Hurricane ended the season with a 5-5 record and left Houston with a 7-4 mark.

Two of Keeling's passes for 12 and 7 yards—found Bill Gary in the end zone. The third scoring pass went four yards to Bob Cunningham. Fullback Bo Bolinger scored Tulsa's other touchdown on a one-yard plunge.

Halfback Billy Richardson scored Houston's first touchdown in the first quarter when he intercepted a pass by Keeling and returned it 45 yards. Quarterback Don Sessions scored the other touchdown for Houston when he plunged over from the 1 to end a 76-yard drive on 13 plays. Eddie Mitchamore kicked both extra points for Houston.

Tulsa dominated the game, mostly through Keeling's passes and a strong defense. The lanky quarterback passed five times for 54 yards during the Hurricane's first touchdown drive of 59 yards.

Rose's Gem Cops Crescent City

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Marion H. Van Berg's Rose's Gem took full command in the stretch and scored a two-and-a-half length victory Saturday in the $10,000 Crescent City Handicap at the Fair Grounds before 9,214 fans.

The 5-year-old gelding, winner of more than $40,000 this year, went to the front at the three quarter pole and won over T. A. Grissom's Mt. Olivet with W. H. Bishop's Santiago third by a neck.

Rose's Gem ran the mile-and-a sixteenth feature race in a brisk 1:46 25 over a fast track and paid $3.80, $3, and $2.40. Mt. Olivet paid $6 and $3.20 and Santiago returned $2.40 to show.

Jockie Ronnie Baldwin sent Roses Gem, the odds-on choice, out fast.

Rose's Gem lost the lead at the half briefly to Mt. Olivet, but surged to the front at the three-quarter mark and had a two-length lead going into the stretch.

Rice Falls, 12-7; Gets Sugar Bid

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — The Rice Owls Saturday accepted a bid to play in the Sugar Bowl but only after the Baylor Bears knocked them out of a share of the Southwest Conference title with a comeback 12-7 victory.

Rice accepted the invitation for the Jan. 2, 1961 New Orleans classic minutes after Baylor substitute quarterback Bobby Ply nailed Ronnie Goodwin with a nine-yard touchdown pass in the closing minutes to provide the Bears' margin of victory.

The victory left Rice, Baylor and Texas tied for second place in the southwest conference with 5-2 records behind Cotton Bowl-bound Arkansas.

Ply brought the Bears back on a 75-yard scoring drive after Rice took a 7-6 lead late in the fourth period when Owl quarterback Billy Cox slipped over from the one. The first Baylor touchdown came in the second quarter when tackle Buck McLeod recovered Bear fullback Jim Evans' fumble in the end zone.

The game was a frustrating battle of goal line stands, as the two teams made their end zones seem like the most valuable pieces of real estate in Texas.

Rice frustrated the Bears three times within the Owl 10—once on an unsuccessful Baylor field goal try by Larry Corley. The Bruins nailed the Owls on the Baylor one yard line twice in the first half.

Rice took a short-lived 7-6 edge late in the fourth period after an 80-yard march that was capped by Cox's one-yard keeper from his quarterback spot. Max Webb added the point that put the Owls ahead.

Ply took charge from there, slicing the Owl defense with a series of passes that moved Baylor to the nine where Ply found halfback Goodwin with his scoring throw into the end zone. Ronnie Bull was stopped running for the points.

Baylor scored first in the second quarter after an exchange of punts gave them a 16-yard advantage and quarterback Ronnie Stanley kept them moving on a 51-yard march with passes to end Bob Lane and Bull the big gainers. From the Owl 12, Evans ripped off tackle but lost the ball at the three and McLeob recovered for the touchdown. Corley's kick was wide.

In the third quarter, trailing 6-0, Rice held Baylor on the Owl 1, punted and found themselves again moments later stopping the Bears on the 5 before Corley's unsuccessful field goal try from the 11. In the fourth period, Sonny Whorton fumbled at the 2 and Webb recovered for a Rice touchback that started the Owls moving for their lone touchdown drive.

Sooners End Poor Season With Victory

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Sooners atoned somewhat for their worst football season under Coach Bud Wilkinson by beating traditional rival Oklahoma State 17-6 Saturday.

The 55th renew of the colorful intrastate feud had all of the dramatics of past games. It wound up in a fist swinging exhibition by the players with only a few minutes to play. Then after the final whistle the pep squads got in a few blows of their own.

Peace was finally restored by patient police and school officials after some 15 minutes of byplay.

Oklahoma proved from the outset that it was the superior team, scoring its first touchdown in a 67-yard drive in 10 plays. Second-string quarterback Bob Cornell, playing his final game for the Sooners and one of his best, provided the key play with a 27-yard run.

Jimmy Carpenter, the No. 1 quarterback, connected on a 13-yard pass to halfback Billy Meacham. This carried to the 5-yard line and Melvin Sandersfeld swept in for the touchdown with 3:39 left in the first quarter.

The Sooners, demonstrating a solid defense, didn't let Oklahoma State past the Oklahoma 42-yard line in the opening half. And they added a touchdown at the start of the third quarter to pad their margin to 14-0.

It took 16 plays to cover 76 yards for the second Oklahoma score, with Cornell blasting through a wide hole for three yards.

Oklahoma State finally got going late in the third quarter and scored its touchdown early in the final period. The Cowboys went 80 yards in 16 plays and fullback Jim Dillard dived over from the 1.

The Sooners retaliated late in the final period, using a pass interception by tackle Tom Cox to get good field position. However, this final effort was stopped on the 11-yard line and fullback Ronnie Hratline came in to kick a 24-yard field goal as a climax to the bitter struggle.

Oklahoma wound up its season 3-6-1. Oklahoma State is 3-7 for the year.

Horned Frogs Defeat SMU By 13-0 Score

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Harry Moreland's brilliant running snapped Texas Christian out of a flat performance Saturday and gave the Horned Frogs a 13-0 triumph over luckless Southern Methodist.

TCU thus ended the season with a .500 record—4 won, 4 lost and 2 tied.

Never since the Methodists first fielded a team in 1915 have they had a worse season. They won none, lost 9 and tied 1. In 1916, the previous worst year, they lost 8 and tied 2.

Moreland, 170-pound senior playing his last college game, broke over his right tackle and then cut to his right, eluding would-be tacklers on all sides and ran 52 yards in the second quarter to the Mustang 15.

It was the longest run from scrimmage this season by a TCU player.

Three plays later, Sonny Gibbs plowed over from the 2 for the first touchdown and that was enough to win. R. E. Dodson kicked the extra point.

Moreland's 12-yard run was the longest leading to TCU's second touchdown. The drive carried 74 yards in 14 plays with Moreland going over right guard for the touchdown from the 1-yard stripe.

Dodson's conversion kick after this score—the [illegible] season he has not [illegible] in 12 [illegible] Moreland's 41 kick [illegible] years and [illegible] games [illegible] score. The Seahawks converted [illegible] running play.

Los Angeles Charger End Anderson Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ralph Anderson 25, star end of the Los Angeles Chargers and one of the finest pass receivers in the American Football League, died Saturday, probably of a diabetic attack.

Anderson, a quiet giant who had suffered from diabetes for years, was found dead on a bed in a girl friend's apartment. He had gone there after a night out and dropped drowsily on the bed with his clothes on. That was the way he was found.

News of Anderson's death stunned the Chargers and broke up their final practice session for their game here Sunday with the Oakland Raiders .

"I can't believe he won't be with us any more," said linebacker Ron Botchan, who was Anderson's roommate on the road.

"The news was absolutely shocking," said Coach Sid Gillman.

Anderson actually was contested Charger propetry. The Chicago Bears, for whom Anderson formerly played, have sued the Chargers for $300,000, contending the Los Angeles club had lured the big end away from them.

Anderson's girl friend, Virginia Hunt, 23, told police they went to a movie Friday night with Botchan and later had a few drinks.

Later, Virginia said, they went to her apartment and Anderson lay down. She said she left him in the bedroom and made a bed for herself in the living room.

Saturday morning, she said, she came into the bedroom, saw Anderson's feet moving, and thought he was waking up. But when she returned five minutes later, she said, he was motionless. She turned him over, but he was limp.

Anderson, a 6-foot-2 220-pounder, was graduated from Los Angeles State College in 1958. This season he caught 44 passes for 614 yards and scored five touchdowns for the Chargers.

Navy Team Wins 8-0 Over Japan

TOYKO (AP) — The U.S. Nay eleven from Yokosuka edged Japan's collegiate All-Stars 8-0 in the fourth Turkey Bowl Classic Saturday.

The victory gave the Americans three victories against one loss in the annual Turkey Bowl games. A crowd of 5,000, including U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Rear Admiral Frederick S. Withington of the U. S. Navy in Japan, saw the televised contest.

The Yokosuka Seahawks were limited to 175 pounds per player to equalize weight difference between smaller stature Japanese.

The Navy touchdown came in the third quarter on a pass from fullback H. L. Jackson to left end B. H. Keys, who romped 31 yards

Ole Miss Mauls Maroons, To Play Rice In Sugar Bowl

By JAMES SAGGUS

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Jake Gibbs pased for two touchdowns and scored a third Saturday to lead third-ranked Mississippi to a 35-9 victory over arch-rival Mississippi State and give the undefeated Rebels their second straight Sugar Bowl invitation and the Southeastern Conference title.

Rice will meet Mississippi in the Jan. 2 game at New Orleans.

Gibbs, hitting on eight straight passes in the opening half, brought the Rebel offense to life after a sluggish start and the outcome was never in doubt.

The victory, ninth in ten games for the Rebels, clinched their fourth SEC championship. Mississippi's only blemish was a 6-6 tie with Louisiana State.

The Rebels marched 38 yards for their first touchdown and 68 for their second to give them a 14-0 halftime edge.

The first TD, which followed a short state punt, came on four straight Gibbs passes and a 2-yard run by fullback Jim Anderson. The payoff was a 10-yard pitch to ace end Johnny Brewer.

Fullback Billy Ray Adams powered the second drive with an assistant from halfback Arthur Doty and Bibbs ended it with a 16-yard pass to halfback Bobby Crespino.

After State scored with a 78-yard drive opening the third period with the Maroons springing a surprise single wing offense for the march. Mississippi struck back with a vengeance. Adams and halfback Louis Guy, a pair of terrific second team backs, led the march from the Rebel's six to the State eight where Gibbs sprinted into the end zone.

End Wesley Sullivan got the fourth touchdown on a 13-yard pass interception return and Adams scored the final one on a 2 yard smash, with center Allen Green kicking his fifth straight conversion.

End David Kelley took a 3-yard pass from quarterback Billy Hill for State's touchdown with Sammy Dantone converting. State added two points in the final period when sub quarterback Doug Elmore of Mississippi slipped and fell in his own end zone after a lone State punt.

The Sugar Bowl appearance will be the fifth for Ole Miss which lost to Georgia Tech in 1953 and Navy in 1955, then beat Texas in 1958, and Louisiana State 21-0 this year. The Rebels have also made single appearances in the Delta, range, and Gator bowls, losing only its 1936 Orange Bowl appearance against Catholic University.

Gibbs had a phenominal afternoon as a passer, hitting on 10 straight before Dody dropped his 11th toss, which was directly on target.

He finished the afternoon completing 13 of 15 with one interception on the final play. He had two other completions nullified by penalties.

Mississippi State made a game of it until midway in the third period.

State marched 78 yards behind the passing of Hill to open the third period. The fleet junior connected on four passes including the 3-yard payoff to Kelley. Hill ran three times during the march.

The Rebels struck back for their third touchdown the next time they got the ball and broke State's back with Gibbs' touchdown sprint.

The score brought out the huge banner from the Rebels side of the field reading, "We're number one — Second to None."

The Rebels added two more touchdowns in the third period with reserves furnishing most of the power.

End Wesley Sullivan picked off a Hill pass as he charged into the State backfield and dashed 13 yards for the fourth touchdown.

Sophomore halfback A. J. Holloway intercepted a State pass at the Maroon 41 and returned it to the 18 to set up the fourth score. Doty picked up most of the distance with a 13-yard sprint and Adams bulled into the end zone.

State matched the Rebels only in the opening quarter when the lines played on almost equal terms. Beginning early in the second quarter, the Rebels began showing a decided edge through the middle and it was their game the rest of the way.

The only State marches that brought any hope of scoring — besides the third period touchdown drive — were with the opening kickoff and in the fourth period.

The Rebels threw an 8-man line up at their 29 to stop the first quarter march and a Dantone field goal try from the 24 was short.

The fourth period march ended at the one-foot line after Rebel coach John Vaught threw in his first team at the 4.

States unexpected single wing attack in the third period caught Ole Miss off balance but the Rebels learned to handle it on the second State march of the final half and the Maroons abandoned it for most of the second period.

SINGLE WING POWER

Tennessee Drubs Vanderbilt, 35-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tailback Glenn Glass spearheaded Tennessee's powerpacked single wing offense to a 35-0 victory over Vanderbilt Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

The victory gave the Vols a 6-2-2 mark and left Vanderbilt without a Southeastern Conference win for the first time in history. The Commodores ended the season with a 3-7 mark.

Vanderbilt threatened once in the opening period, but a stubborn Tennessee defense took over on downs at the 8 and staved off every other Comodore threat.

It was Glass, a junior reserve, who ground out the important yards in Tennessee's first touchdown in the second period, with fullback Jack Nichols smacking over the final yard. Cotton Letner converted his first of three placements.

The Vols lost little time after intermission before they began adding to their lead. Glass scored the first one on a five-yard run to climax an 80-yard drive.

Letner snagged a Vanderbilt pass thrown by Hank Lesesne and galloped 70 yards to score. His conversion made it 21-0.

Tailback Gene Etter scored the fourth touchdown on a beautiful 14-yard stab in the fourth quarter, and Glass following another Volunteer interception, scampered 14 for another. Gary Cannon, a specialist, converted after the last two touchdowns.

The Vols were back in Vanderbilt territory again before the game ended. Reserve end Ken Breeding, who shone on defense for Tennessee, intercepted his second pass and returned it to the Commodore 42 with 21 seconds to go. An off-side penalty nullified a Vol pass and the game ended two plays later.

The biggest football crowd in Nashville's history an estimated 34,000—turned out to see the cross-state rivals play their 55th game since 1892.

Vanderbilt's recently enlarged stadium was filled for the first time and bleacher seats were set up to handle the crowd. The game was played in ideal weather, with temperatures in the high 60's.

Trojan Cage Team Facing Big Schedule

TALLULAH, La. (Special) — Six returning lettermen and nine hopefuls will carry the basketball hopes of Tallulah High School this season into a big 18 game schedule.

The Trojans will enter four tournaments, at Newellton, Oak Grove, Tallulah and Lake Providence.

Of the six lettermen back this year, two are juniors and four seniors. Trojan Coach Laird has had trouble rounding the team into shape, with some top cagers still participating in football playoffs.

Gridders expected to bolster the team are Jerry Fairbanks, "Pops" Neumann, Billy DeMoss, James Wilson, Wayne Noland and Don Bennett.

Rounding out the varsity team are Phillip Wheeler, Charles Grace, Edward Word, Jimmy Rudkin, Richard Peeples, Bubba Panquin, Jerry Rankin and Barry Wilson and Bob Gardsbane.

All home Tallulah games, with the exception of the Newellton games, December 7 and 12 and tournaments will begin at 5:45 for "B" action and 8:00 o'clock for varsity games.

TOP SINGLES SPOT CHANGES

Shreveport Team Grabs Lead In Bowling Tourney

By JERRY HARKNESS
World Sports Writer

Shreveport's S&H Novelty Co. led a second round brigade of Louisiana's sharpest bowlers into action at Western Lanes last night, rolled a big 3,075 series sparked by Don Horlander's pace-setting 720 3-game total, and dropped Monroe's Roi-Tan Cigar team, first week leaders, into second spot going into the final shift.

At Bowlero, with one shift left on last night's doubles slate, J. Tilly and H. Thistlewaite from Opelousas were still in control with a mark too high for yesterday's parade of bowlers to reach.

Tilly and Thistlewaite watched three shifts of 32 sets shoot in vain at their first weekend top score of 1,282, but Lafayette's R. Barras and his 686 singles score dropped into second place behind newcomer H. Smith of Shreveport, who managed a 687 for the lead yesterday.

Robert Creighton and W. H. (Sonny) Durham took over the number one spot in Western Lanes' Rag - Time Doubles competition, holding a 1369 handicap score with only one shift left to bowl last night. G. Parker and B. Roan, who led last week's field, dropped to second place holding a 1356 total, followed by C. Gambino and F. Baldwin, New Orleans, 1299; and W. Cash and M. Carroll, West Monroe, 1286.

Bowlero's all - events list withstood the test of time and yesterday's onslaught of pin thumpers to remain unchanged going into the nitecap shift. H. Rosbottom still holds the lead with 1963.

Roi - Tan's lead was beginning to look like it might hold up until Horlander and S&H mates took over in the 6 o'clock shift.

Horlander's 255, 266 and 199, 720 3 - game series packed the area with spectators and led the Shreveporters to an 11 - pin lead over the Monroe team. The only other changes in the top ten after the 6 o'clock action also came from Shreveport with McDaniels Air Conditioning moving into fourth place with 3,017 and Ark-La - Tex Builders taking seventh place with 3,002.

The two new teams pushed Eunice Office Supply and Mid -City Lanes, New Orleans, out of the top ten.

Bowlero's singles competition was so close that there is no room left for too much improvement in the last five places. Following the top two going into the last shift last night were O. Aguayo, Shreveport, 667; R. Witherington, 666; L. Tylock, 655; F. Baldwin, New Orleans, 654 and four more bowlers spaced only one or two pins apart.

Doubles bowling saw only one change in the top ten, with B. Leonard and W. Sievers of Monroe taking the third spot with a 1272 score.

Scratch highs after last night were S&H Novelty Co. in team bowling with 2949, C. Winter and A. Walters in doubles with 1195, H. Smith in the singles with 648, Robert Creighton Jr. and Sonny Durham in ragtime doubles with 1314, and D. Courtade in all - events with 1794.

PLAY HERE WEDNESDAY

Redskins Open Season Monday

Northeast takes the wraps off its 1960-61 basketball team at Monticello, Ark., Monday night against Arkansas A&M and gives local fans a look at the Indians here Wednesday night against the same club.

Coach Lenny Fant, starting his fourth year as Indian head man, will start five lettermen against the A&M Boll Weevils Monday night, a big quintet averaging over six feet, two inches.

Robert Cook (6-5) of Jonesboro, Dave Harkins (6-5) of Hico, Milton Linder (6-3) of Fort Necessity, Lannie Johnson (6-1) of Monroe and Stewart Toms (5-10) of Quitman will be Northeast's starting five.

Winners of only three of 24 games last winter, Northeast will pin this year's hopes on youth. There's not a senior on the squad. Johnson and Cook are returning starters. Fant's second unit, which has looked unusually good in practice, beating the starters about as often as not, will probably be G. D. Thompson (6-6), Jimmy Walker (6-5), Jerry Snellings (6-0), Malcolm George (6-3) and Irby Gamble (5-6).

George is the only letterman on the second unit. Thompson and Snellings are transfers, George a sophomore and the other two freshmen. Harry Crowe of Monroe is also slated for action with the second unit.

Arkansas A&M is expected to give the Indians a good opening test. The Weevils finished third in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference last fall and won the district 17 NAIA tournament before losing in the second round of the NAIA tournament in Kansas City.

Coach Leslie "Shorty" Beard has seven lettermen returning from last year's club.

Wednesday's game here will be played in the Ouachita gym at 8 o'clock. Northeast will move into its renovated campus gym in a few weeks, where games will begin at 7:30.

Keeling Stars As Tulsa Tops Houston, 26-16

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Jerry Keeling passed Tulsa to a 26-16 victory over Houston in a non-conference football game Saturday.

Keeling passed for touchdowns of 12, 7 and 4 yards as the Golden Hurricane ended the season with a 5-5 record and left Houston with a 7-4 mark.

Two of Keeling's passes for 12 and 7 yards—found Bill Gary in the end zone. The third scoring pass went four yards to Bob Cunningham. Fullback Bo Bolinger scored Tulsa's other touchdown on a one-yard plunge.

Halfback Billy Richardson scored Houston's first touchdown in the first quarter when he intercepted a pass by Keeling and returned it 45 yards. Quarterback Don Sessions scored the other touchdown for Houston when he plunged over from the 1 to end a 76-yard drive on 13 plays. Eddie Mitchamore kicked both extra points for Houston.

Tulsa dominated the game, mostly through Keeling's passes and a strong defense. The lanky quarterback passed five times for 54 yards during the Hurricane's first touchdown drive of 59 yards.

Rose's Gem Cops Crescent City

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Marion H. Van Berg's Rose's Gem took full command in the stretch and scored a two-and-a-half length victory Saturday in the $10,000 Crescent City Handicap at the Fair Grounds before 9,214 fans.

The 5-year-old gelding, winner of more than $40,000 this year, went to the front at the three quarter pole and won over T. A. Grissom's Mt. Olivet with W. H. Bishop's Santiago third by a neck.

Rose's Gem ran the mile-and-a sixteenth feature race in a brisk 1:46 25 over a fast track and paid $3.80, $3, and $2.40. Mt. Olivet paid $6 and $3.20 and Santiago returned $2.40 to show.

Jockie Ronnie Baldwin sent Roses Gem, the odds-on choice, out fast.

Rose's Gem lost the lead at the half briefly to Mt. Olivet, but surged to the front at the three-quarter mark and had a two-length lead going into the stretch.

ARMY RALLY FALLS SHORT

Bellino, Mates Turn Back Cadets For 17-12 Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy built a 17-point lead on the running of fabulous Joe Bellino and the passing of Hal Spooner and then fought off a second-half Army surge for a 17-12 victory that sent the Middies into the Orange Bowl football game against Missouri Jan. 2.

Acceptance of the Orange Bowl invitation was announced immediately after the game. It will be the Middies' fourth bowl appearance and third in six years.

A crowd of 98,616 at Philadelphia Stadium roared through the second half as Army fought back with two touchdowns by Al Rushatz and favored Navy struggled valiantly to hold its edge.

In the final tense moments it was Bellino, Navy's great halfback, who intercepted a pass by Tom Blanda on the goal line and ran it back 46 yards away from danger with only 12 seconds to play.

Bellino dashed over from the 4 behind the second team Navy line for the first score of the game at 12:23 of the first period. After Greg Mather kicked a 27-yard field goal midway in the second period, Navy hit again with Hal Spooner throwing a 12-yard scoring pass to end Jim Luper.

Completely overshadowed in that first half, Army aroused itself to a stirring comeback in the second half as it went to the air on Blanda's passes and crunched out yardage along the ground with fullback Rushatz leading the way.

Still smarting from the 43-12 beating of last year, Army scored in the third on Rushatz' plunge from the 1 and again in the final period on another 1-yard burst by the hard-hitting fullback.

Trailing 17-12 with five minutes to go, Army crashed through and Bellino fumbled. Rushatz recovered the ball on the Navy 17.

Dick Eckert, the sophomore quarterback who alternated with Blanda in the second half comeback, drove Army to a first down on the Navy 6.

Then came the play that broke Army's drive. Eckert was trapped and attempted to pitch out to Glen Adams, but the ball got away with both teams chasing it out of bounds on the Navy 20. Army retained possession, but a 4-yard run by Blanda and two Blanda passes that missed connections forced them to give up the ball.

Following a Navy kick, Army had one more shot, but Bellino's interception snuffed out the Cadets' last hope and saved the day for Navy.

Actually the enormous crowd that watched in bright sunshine and 55-degree temperature, saw two separate and distinct ball games. The first half was all Navy with the Middies gaining 201 yards to Army's 92 while piling up a 17-0 lead. Bellino picked up 82 yards in 14 carries in that first half, and Spooner completed 12 of 18 passes for 126 yards.

Rushatz, whose fumble on the Army 23 that was recovered by Navy's Vern Von Sydow led to a Navy score, played a slashing game in the second half. In addition to scoring twice, he drove for a vital first down on a fourth and one situation from his own 40 in the fourth period.

When they added up the final statistics, Army had gained 281 yards and Navy 199. The Middies actually were held to a minus two yards in the second half.

John Hewitt, Frank Visted and Von Sydow played great ball in the Navy line.

At the end of the day, Bellino had gained a net 85 yards in 20 carries and Spooner had hit with 12 of 20 passes for 126 yards.

Rushatz picked up 64 yards on 16 carries and Glen Adams 48 yards on 14 carries. Blanda completed nine of 22 for 112 yards.

The finest run was turned in by Bellino, the All-America candidate from Winchester, Mass., who went 58 yards on the first play after a punt by Army's Paul Stanley had gone out of bounds on the Navy 1 in the first period.

Bellino, spinning and churning those fire-plug legs, was broken loose on blocks by Hewitt, the outstanding lineman of the game, and Erchul. Rolling away from Army tacklers, he sped downfiled to the Army 41 before he finally was collared.

In the fourth period, Bellino, running a pass pattern, broke away from the Army defense with about 8 minutes to go, but Spooner's pass to midfield was too long. Earlier, Bellino lost a possible touchdown when he ran into the end zone on a pass play but an official got between him and the passer.

Bellino's final scoring total for the year was 110 points on 18 touchdowns and one two-point conversion.

The word from the dressing room that Navy had accepted an Orange Bowl bid to play Missouri was Navy's fourth bowl acceptance. They played in the 1924 Rose Bowl, tying Washington 14-14. They beat Mississippi 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl in 1955 and downed Rice 20-7 in the Cotton Bowl in 1956.

Navy finished its season with a 9-1 record, and Army was 6-3-1. Navy lost to Duke 1910 on Nov. 5 for its only defeat.

Neither team did a good job on its conversions in this wild struggle. Mather missed a placement after the first score. He also missed a 28-yard field goal attempt in the same period.

The Middies picked up two points after the second TD when Spooner handed off to Bellino who couldn't get a pass away and finally lateralled to Spooner, who ran it over.

Army tried a pass after both touchdowns. The first was deflected away from Paul Zmuida in the end zone and the second was intercepted by Von Sydow.

FIRST APPEARANCE FOR RICE

Happy Ole Miss Rebels Accept Sugar Bowl Bid

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Athletic Director C. M. Smith announced Saturday the University of Mississippi has accepted an invitation to play Rice in the 1961 Sugar Bowl football game in New Orleans.

Jubilant players voted to accept a Sugar Bowl bid in their dressing room after walloping Mississippi 35-9 for their ninth victory of the season against a 6-6 midseason tie with Louisiana State.

"We consider it a real privilege," Smith said. "We are grateful for the opportunity of representing our state and the Southeastern Conference in New Orleans.

"We feel there is no finer climax to a successful season than to appear once again before a Sugar Bowl audience. Two of the Rebels' finest football afternoons were spent in Sugar Bowl stadium Jan. 1—in 1958 and 1960. I hope we can be that fortunate in 1961."

The Rebels defeated Texas 39-7 in the 1958 game and Louisiana State 21-0 this yer. They had lots to Georgia Tech 24-7 in the 1953 Sugar Bowl and to Navy 21-0 in 1955.

Chancellor John D. Williams of Mississippi praised the team and said he was proud of its successes this yer.

A rafter-shattering yell went up in the Rebels dressing room after officials announced the team had Sugar Bowl bid.

Players milled around yelling and clapping each other on the back as they prepared for their showers.

"Sure we're happy," a grinning quarterback Jake Gibbs told newsmen.

Fullback Jim Anderson said, "We'll do a better job this time."

Head coach John Vaught, wearing an enormous smile, said, "That's the spirit they've shown all year."

Rice, making its first Sugar Bowl appearance, had a season record of 7-3. It dropped the opener to Georgia Tech 16-13, the windup tilt to Baylor 7-12 Saturday, and lost in midseason to Arkansas 3-0.

The Owls beat Tulane 10-7, Florida 10-0, SMU 47-0, Texas 7-0, Texas Tech 30-6, Texas A&M 21-14, and Texas Christian 23-0.

Rice scored 168 points to its opponents' 58.

Ole Miss, sporting a 9-0-1 season record, beat Houston 42-0, Kentucky 21-6, Memphis State 31-20, Vanderbilt 26-0, Tulane 26-13, Arkansas 10-7, Chattanooga 45-0, and Tennessee 24-3, in addition to Saturday's Mississippi State victory.

Wildlife Unit Slates Final Meet Of Year

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit holds its final regular meeting of the year Tuesday night with all past presidents of the unit to be honored.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 in the Virginia Hotel.

Charles Bosch, executive secretary of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, will attend the meeting, according to Unit President A. S. "Bud" Tidwell. Bosch, of Baton Rouge, will be in Monroe to make plans for the state convention scheduled here early next year.

Tidwell said a history of the local unit will be given by past president O.N. McNeil and a special award will be made.

Slated for discussion is the unit's mallard and deer contest, a part of the membership drive. The member who kills the largest wild mallard will receive an automatic shotgun and killer of the biggest deer will get a high-powered rifle.

Tidwell urged all sportsmen to join the unit and participate in the contest. Dues are $2.00 per year.

Program Chairman A.B. Smith will show a sports film at the meeting. Also scheduled are special committee reports by chairman Jack Rushing and Lloyd Voorhies.

Turkeys will be awarded as door prizes.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

Georgia Defeats Engineers, 7-6

ATHENS, Ga.(UPI)—Halfback Bill McKenny's 23 - yard return with a pass interception late in the third period gave the Georgia Bulldogs the spark they needed to beat Georgia Tech, 7-6, Saturday for their fourth straight victory over the Engineers.

Fullback Bill Godfrey's two yard touchdown plunge and specialist Durwood Pennington's conversion early in the fourth period provided the Bulldog points. But until McKenny grabbed a deflected pass at the Georgia Tech 36 and returned it to the 13, the Bulldogs didn't seem to have the steam needed to overcome an early Tech lead.

An evenly divided record crowd of 55,000 alternately cheered and groaned as the fortunes of the game kept changing sides. At the close of the game Tech was driving hard toward the Bulldog goal but quarterback Francis Tarkenton ended it with a pass interception to preserve the Georgia victory.

The Bulldogs opened the game as though they would run Tech out of Sanford Stadium, driving 66 yards after the opening kickoff. But Tech safetyman Walter Howard recovered a Georgia fumble at his own eight yard line and the only other time the Bulldogs were within the Tech 20 was when they scored their touchdown.

Tech unleashed a 55-yard drive that started late in the first period and ended four minutes into the second when quarterback Marvin Tibbetts sneaked across from the one.

Specialist Tommy Wells' try for the extra point was blocked by all - conference guard Pat Dye, who also deflected a Wells' field goal attempt late in the final period.

A total of six 15-yard penalties, three against each side, hampered all offensive efforts in the third period and it began to appear that Tech would hang on to its 6-0 lead until McKenny, a junior from Jacksonville, Fla., put the Bulldogs into contention with his interception. A fourth - down plunge by Godfrey kept Georgia alive at the two and he went over on the next play.

Tech came storming back midway through the fourth period, mainly on a 13-yard run by Tibbetts and a 33-yard pass from Tibbetts to halfback Chick Graning. But Georgia stiffened at its 10 and Wells 30-yard field goal try with 4:28 remaining was wide to end the Tech threat.

With barely a minute to go in the game, Tibbetts started hitting on sideline passes and moved the Yellow Jackets 46 yards. But on the last play, Tarkenton picked Tibbetts, pass out of the air and ran out the clock.

Scoring:

Tech — Tibbetts 1 run (kick blocked)

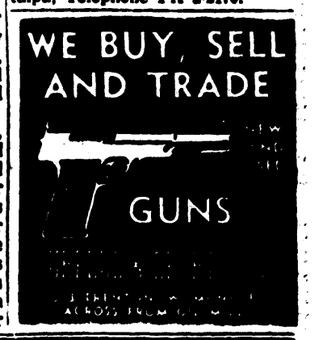

Geo—Godfrey 2 run (Pennington kick)

Teams Needed In City Loop

The Monroe Recreation Dept. has openings still available in its City League Basketball Program. At the present there are three teams entered in this league and more are needed if this league is to operate.

Several teams have mentioned they would like to play in this league but none of these teams have been present at any meetings or contacted any one in the Recrceation Dept.

Anyone desiring to enter this league should contact Jackie Neal at the Community Center, 113 Catalpa, Telephone FA 2-2170.

HERE! THE TRUCKS THAT RIDE SMOOTHER, WORK HARDER, LAST LONGER!

Just a year ago, Chevy came up with independent front suspension and has already put some 300,000 Chevrolet trucks with it out on jobs.

The ride that results from Chevy's suspension design is making life a lot easier for drivers. (Just ask them.) It's taking better care of loads, the fragile kind that cost somebody money if they are bounced around. Chevy's ride also enables truck owners to revise their buying habits and work their trucks longer before they trade. This follows naturally. The trucks take less of a beating. There's less stress on sheet metal. Less abuse to tires. Less pounding that wears out parts before their time. The upshot of it is, you either save money or earn more of it or both. And you couldn't ask a truck to do more than that. See your dealer.

ARMY RALLY FALLS SHORT

Bellino, Mates Turn Back Cadets For 17-12 Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy built a 17-pont lead on the running of fabulous Joe Bellino and the passing of Hal Spooner and then fought off a second-half Army surge for a 17-12 victory that sent the Middies into the Orange Bowl football game against Missouri Jan. 2.

Acceptance of the Orange Bowl invitation was announced immediately after the game. It will be the Middies' fourth bowl appearance and third in six years.

A crowd of 98,616 at Philadelphia Stadium roared through the second half as Army fought back with two touchdowns by Al Rushatz and favored Navy struggled valiantly to hold its edge.

In the final tense moments it was Bellino, Navy's great halfback, who intercepted a pass by Tom Blanda on the goal line and ran it back 45 yards away from danger with only 12 seconds to play.

Bellino dashed over from the 4 behind the second team Navy line for the first score of the game at 12:23 of the first period. After Greg Mather kicked a 27-yard field goal midway in the second period, Navy hit again with Hal Spooner throwing a 12-yard scoring pass to end Jim Luper.

Completely overshadowed in that first half, Army aroused itself to a stirring comeback in the second half as it went to the air on Blanda's passes and crunched out yardage along the ground with fullback Rushatz leading the way.

Still smarting from the 43-12 beating of last year, Army scored in the third on Rushatz' plunge from the 1 and again in the final period on another 1-yard burst by the hard-hitting fullback.

Trailing 17-12 with five minutes to go, Army crashed through and Bellino fumbled. Rushatz recovered the ball on the Navy 17.

Dick Eckert, the sophomore quarterback who alternated with Blanda in the second half comeback, drove Army to a first down on the Navy 6.

Then came the play that broke Army's drive. Eckert was trapped and attempted to pitch out to Glen Adams, but the ball got away with both teams chasing it out of bounds on the Navy 20. Army retained possession, but a 4-yard run by Blanda and two Blanda passes that missed connections forced them to give up the ball.

Following a Navy kick, Army had one more shot, but Bellino's interception snuffed out the Cadets' last hope and saved the day for Navy.

Actually the enormous crowd that watched in bright sunshine and 55-degree temperature, saw two separate and distinct ball games. The first half was all Navy with the Middies gaining 201 yards to Army's 92 while piling up a 17-0 lead. Bellino picked up 82 yards in 14 carries in that first half, and Spooner completed 12 of 18 passes for 126 yards.

Rushatz, whose fumble on the Army 23 that was recovered by Navy's Vern Von Sydow led to a Navy score, played a slashing game in the second half. In addition to scoring twice, he drove for a vital first down on a fourth and one situation from his own 40 in the fourth period.

When they added up the final statistics, Army had gained 281 yards and Navy 199. The Middies actually were held to a minus two yards in the second half.

John Hewitt, Frank Visted and Von Sydow played great ball in the Navy line.

At the end of the day, Bellino had gained a net 85 yards in 20 carries and Spooner had hit with 12 of 20 passes for 126 yards.

Rushatz picked up 64 yards on 16 carries and Glen Adams 48 yards on 14 carries. Blanda completed nine of 22 for 112 yards.

The finest run was turned in by Bellino, the All-America candidate from Winchester, Mass., who went 58 yards on the first play after a punt by Army's Paul Stanley had gone out of bounds on the Navy 1 in the first period.

Bellino, spinning and churning those fire-plug legs, was broken loose on blocks by Hewitt, the outstanding lineman of the game, and Erchul. Rolling away from Army tacklers, he sped downfiled to the Army 41 before he finally was collared.

In the fourth period, Bellino, running a pass pattern, broke away from the Army defense with about 8 minutes to go, but Spooner's pass to midfield was too long. Earlier, Bellino lost a possible touchdown when he ran into the end zone on a pass play but an official got between him and the passer.

Bellino's final scoring total for the year was 110 points on 18 touchdowns and one two-point conversion.

The word from the dressing room that Navy had accepted an Orange Bowl bid to play Missouri was Navy's fourth bowl acceptance. They played in the 1924 Rose Bowl, tying Washington 14-14. They beat Mississippi 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl in 1955 and downed Rice 20-7 in the Cotton Bowl in 1958.

Navy finished its season with a 9-1 record, and Army was 6-3-1. Navy lost to Duke 1910 on Nov. 5 for its only defeat.

Neither team did a good job on its conversions in this wild struggle. Mather missed a placement after the first score. He also missed a 28-yard field goal attempt in the same period.

The Middies picked up two points after the second TD when Spooner handed off to Bellino who couldn't get a pass away and finally lateralled to Spooner, who ran it over.

Army tried a pass after both touchdowns. The first was deflected away from Paul Zmuida in the end zone and the second was intercepted by Von Sydow.

FIRST APPEARANCE FOR RICE

Happy Ole Miss Rebels Accept Sugar Bowl Bid

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Athletic Director C. M. Smith announced Saturday the University of Mississippi has accepted an invitation to play Rice in the 1961 Sugar Bowl football game in New Orleans.

Jubilant players voted to accept a Sugar Bowl bid in their dressing room after walloping Mississippi 35-9 for their ninth victory of the season against a 6-6 midseason tie with Louisiana State.

"We consider it a real privilege," Smith said. "We are grateful for the opportunity of representing our state and the Southeastern Conference in New Orleans.

"We feel there is no finer climax to a successful season than to appear once again before a Sugar Bowl audience. Two of the Rebels' finest football afternoons were spent in Sugar Bowl stadium Jan. 1—in 1958 and 1960. I hope we can be that fortunate in 1961."

The Rebels defeated Texas 39-7 in the 1958 game and Louisiana State 21-0 this yer. They had lots to Georgia Tech 24-7 in the 1953 Sugar Bowl and to Navy 21-0 in 1955.

Chancellor John D. Williams of Mississippi praised the team and said he was proud of its successes this yer.

A rafter-shattering yell went up in the Rebels dressing room after officials announced the team had Sugar Bowl bid.

Players milled around yelling and clapping each other on the back as they prepared for their showers.

"Sure we're happy," a grinning quarterback Jake Gibbs told newsmen.

Fullback Jim Anderson said, "We'll do a better job this time."

Head coach John Vaught, wearing an enormous smile, said, "That's the spirit they've shown all year."

Rice, making its first Sugar Bowl appearance, had a season record of 7-3. It dropped the opener to Georgia Tech 16-13, the windup tilt to Baylor 7-12 Saturday, and lost in midseason to Arkansas 3-0.

The Owls beat Tulane 10-7, Florida 10-0, SMU 47-0, Texas 7-0, Texas Tech 30-6, Texas A&M 21-14, and Texas Christian 23-0.

Rice scored 168 points to its opponents' 58.

Ole Miss, sporting a 9-0-1 season record, beat Houston 42-0, Kentucky 21-6, Memphis State 31-20, Vanderbilt 26-0, Tulane 26-13, Arkansas 10-7, Chattanooga 45-0, and Tennessee 24-3, in addition to Saturday's Mississippi State victory.

Wildlife Unit Slates Final Meet Of Year

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit holds its final regular meeting of the year Tuesday night with all past presidents of the unit to be honored.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 in the Virginia Hotel.

Charles Bosch, executive secretary of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, will attend the meeting, according to Unit President A. S. "Bud" Tidwell. Bosch, of Baton Rouge, will be in Monroe to make plans for the state convention scheduled here early next year.

Tidwell said a history of the local unit will be given by past president O.N. McNeil and a special award will be made.

Slated for discussion is the unit's mallard and deer contest, a part of the membership drive. The member who kills the largest wild mallard will receive an automatic shotgun and killer of the biggest deer will get a high-powered rifle.

Tidwell urged all sportsmen to join the unit and participate in the contest. Dues are $2.00 per year.

Program Chairman A.B. Smith will show a sports film at the meeting. Also scheduled are special committee reports by chairman Jack Rushing and Lloyd Voorhies.

Turkeys will be awarded as door prizes.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

Georgia Defeats Engineers, 7-6

ATHENS, Ga.(UPI)—Halfback Bill McKenny's 23 - yard return with a pass interception late in the third period gave the Georgia Bulldogs the spark they needed to beat Georgia Tech, 7-6, Saturday for their fourth straight victory over the Engineers.

Fullback Bill Godfrey's two yard touchdown plunge and specialist Durwood Pennington's conversion early in the fourth period provided the Bulldog points. But until McKenny grabbed a deflected pass at the Georgia Tech 36 and returned it to the 13, the Bulldogs didn't seem to have the steam needed to overcome an early Tech lead.

An evenly divided record crowd of 55,000 alternately cheered and groaned as the fortunes of the game kept changing sides. At the close of the game Tech was driving hard toward the Bulldog goal but quarterback Francis Tarkenton ended it with a pass interception to preserve the Georgia victory.

The Bulldogs opened the game as though they would run Tech out of Sanford Stadium, driving 66 yards after the opening kickoff. But Tech safetyman Walter Howard recovered a Georgia fumble at his own eight yard line and the only other time the Bulldogs were within the Tech 20 was when they scored their touchdown.

Tech unleashed a 55-yard drive that started late in the first period and ended four minutes into the second when quarterback Marvin Tibbetts sneaked across from the one.

Specialist Tommy Wells' try for the extra point was blocked by all - conference guard Pat Dye, who also deflected a Wells' field goal attempt late in the final period.

A total of six 15-yard penalties, three against each side, hampered all offensive efforts in the third period and it began to appear that Tech would hang on to its 6-0 lead until McKenny, a junior from Jacksonville, Fla., put the Bulldogs into contention with his interception. A fourth - down plunge by Godfrey kept Georgia alive at the two and he went over on the next play.

Tech came storming back midway through the fourth period, mainly on a 13-yard run by Tibbetts and a 33-yard pass from Tibbetts to halfback Chick Granning. But Georgia stiffened at its 10 and Wells 30-yard field goal try with 4:28 remaining was wide to end the Tech threat.

With barely a minute to go in the game, Tibbetts started hitting on sideline passes and moved the Yellow Jackets 46 yards. But on the last play, Tarkenton picked Tibbetts, pass out of the air and ran out the clock.

Scoring:
Tech — Tibbetts 1 run (kick blocked)
Geo—Godfrey 2 run (Pennington kick)

Teams Needed In City Loop

The Monroe Recreation Dept. has openings still available in its City League Basketball Program. At the present there are three teams entered in this league and more are needed if this league is to operate.

Several teams have mentioned they would like to play in this league but none of these teams have been present at any meetings or contacted any one in the Recrceation Dept.

Anyone desiring to enter this league should contact Jackie Neal at the Community Center, 113 Catalpa, Telephone FA 2-2170.

HERE! THE TRUCKS THAT RIDE SMOOTHER, WORK HARDER, LAST LONGER!

ORDINARY I-BEAM FRONT AXLE transmits road shock and vibration between wheels and to chassis and cab.

CHEVY'S INDEPENDENT SUSPENSION. Each wheel flexes independently, minimizes stress and strain on chassis and cab.

Just a year ago, Chevy came up with independent front suspension and has already put some 300,000 Chevrolet trucks with it out on jobs.

The ride that results from Chevy's suspension design is making life a lot easier for drivers. (Just ask them.) It's taking better care of loads, the fragile kind that cost somebody money if they are bounced around. Chevy's ride also enables truck owners to revise their buying habits and work their trucks longer before they trade. This follows naturally. The trucks take less of a beating. There's less stress on sheet metal. Less abuse to tires. Less pounding that wears out parts before their time. The upshot of it is, you either save money or earn more of it or both. And you couldn't ask a truck to do more than that. See your dealer. CHEVROLET

Industrialist Dies At Home

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Victo Emanuel, 62, board chairman (Avco Manufacturiny Co. and director of Republic Steel Corp., died Saturday at his home.

He also was a director of the Crosley Broadcasting Co. In World War II he served as director and president of the Aircraft Production Council and as a member of a regional war manpower commission. He was a Navy flier in World War I.

At various times Emanuel served on the Hoover Report Committee and on the Advisory Committee to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

He also was a trustee of Cornell University, from which he was graduated in 1919. He was a native of Dayton, Ohio.

Private services will be conducted at Kensico Cemetery, Valhalla, Westchester County. He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Dorothy Woodruff; two sons, Albert II of Philadelphia and Barton, of New Market, England; a brother Ellard J., and three grandsons.

Nixon May Run For Governor

RICHMOND, Calif. (UPI) —The Richmond Independent said Saturday Vice President Richard M. Nixon would enter the field of international law in Washington D. C. after he leaves office in January, and probably run for governor of California in 1962.

In a copyright story by John Raymond, the evening newspaper quoted a source "very close to the vice president" as saying Nixon plans to open a law office in Washington with his friend William P. Rogers, now attorney general.

Raymond quoted the source as saying "Nixon said he will probably run for governor in 1962 if he feels the people want him. Winning the popular vote in California practically cinchs it."

Now that we are safely by Thanksgiving with no complaints that a little pushing back from the table won't cure, we may look forward to the increasingly hectic pace of Christmas and preparations therefor. Best to have shopping, wrapping, and goodie-cooking out of the wy before the social whirl steps up.

Among the high school set, several parties have been given over the long weekend for former Monroyans here for the holidays. JERRI ROBERTS of Lufkin, Texas, was the guest of LINDA TRUETT. LINDA and CAROLYN THOMPSON entertained with a conversational hour Friday morning at Highland Park country club. Fall colors of brown and gold were carried out in the decorations. The refreshment table held a centerpiece of gold chrysanthemums. About seventy friends called during the appointed hours.

Another former resident, SUZANNE CASON, who now lives in New Orleans, visited ROSEMARY UPSHAW for the four - day holidays.

SHERRY FREE, who moved with her family to Beaumont, Texas, this fall, was here for a week, dividing her time between the homes of MIGNON SCOGIN and MIMI LANDRY. Mimi was hostess Friday night at a home dance attended by the visitors. Red candles and pyracantha berries decorated the festive refreshment table. There were fifteen guests.

Thanksgiving weekend is a favorite time for college students to spend a weekend at home. Arriving late Wednesday night were our group from Baylor in Waco, Texas, which includes MILLIE HISLOP, BETH FINK, and DANNY SAMPSON. They will return to school today.

From Southern Methodist came JACKIE MASUR, bringing as house guest GLO YOUNGE of Peoria, Illinois. G'o returned to Dallas Friday, and Jackie goes back today.

Last weekend the MERTON ABINGTONS had as their house-guests MR. and Mrs. JAMES R. PAXTON of Palestine, Texas. This Wednesday Ellen's daughter SARA BEACHAM arrived for a two day visit. She returned to New Orleans yesterday in time for the LSU - Tulane game.

Leaving today after a four day visit are MRS. W. E. DENTS and her grandson, DICK HARDING, of Jackson, Miss. They have been guests of the W. E. DENTS, JR.

Here for the Revelers' dance last weekend were former Monroyans JOAN and CHARLIE SEISS, guests of MARY ALICE and BILL HUSTED. They arrived on Friday and returned to Houston on Sunday. . . Saturday at noon, EVELYN COLE honored Joan at luncheon at home. Fresh fruit and ivy centered the table where eight guests were seated. Included on the menu were chicken a la king, congealed cranberry salad, and pecan praline cake.

This was a big week for birthdays down at the HENRY HAMMONDS' house, what with Henry and his daughter Ann both celebrants. Ann, who was ten years old, invited twelve little girls for lunch. The table was decorated with red and gold. Christmas angels were the favors at each place, and ballerina dancers were used as candles on the cake. A menu dear to the hearts of ten-year - olds were served: fried chicken, French fries, punch and birthday cake.

A surprise caught Henry Tuesday night on his fortieth birthday. Wife Regina, sitting around looking completely unconcerned, managed to conceal all party preparations until the arrival of guests, and then produced a centerpiece of white chrysanthemums and complete steak dinner for eight. The birthday cake was a work of art, decorated with a tiny wine bottle, chorus girl, and musician playing a ukelele. The single candle was encircled with the words "Life Begins".

And speaking of cake, cake lovers are hereby alerted to the cake sale being given this coming Friday by the Temple Sisterhood. Cakes who'e or by the slice will be offered for sale from nine until five on the ground floor of the Virginia Hotel. FREDA WILENZICK and JULIA SOLOMON are chairmen of the project.

MARGE and JOHN MULLENS and their children, MIKE, LARRY and MARTY, are in Dallas for the weekend, are due home today.

Red snapper, caught by the host himself, was the highlight of the menu served at the PHIL ROSAMUNDS dinner party Tuesday. Twelve guests enjoyed the results of Phil's successful Gulf fishing trip . . . Cody and Phil left Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving in Canton, Miss., and reclaim son Jim, who has been visiting his grandmother.

On Saturday evening BARBARA MASUR entertained at a small dance in the private dining room at the Paragon Club. A Thanksgiving theme was carried out in the decorations. Chrysanthemums encircled the punch bowl. Barbara wore for her party an orange velvet blouse with a quilted taffeta skirt appliqued with leaves of matching velvet. About fifty guests, members of the Neville freshman class, attended.

The HUNTER MULLIS are in Dallas for the weekend. With them are the children, BILL, BOB, STEVE, and JUNE.

At her luncheon on Monday, DOLLY PETRUS served an unusually delicious menu: beef stroganoff with rice, a congealed lime salad, and for dessert, pumpkin pie flavored with a whiff of bourbon. White and yellow chrysanthemums centered the table where six guests were seated.

A number of our football enthusiasts were in New Orleans for the LSU - Tulane game yesterday afternoon. The DICK KELLOGGS took son RICHARD down for the weekend. With JANE and JOHN SHERROUSE, JR., were their daughters, SUSAN, JANE, and ANN.

Another while family party down for the game included JANE and BOBBY OLIVER; sons ROBERT, RHYMES, and McVEA; and two grandmothers, PEARL RHYMES and BLANCHE OLIVER.

In place of a poem, today we quote from Don Herold's light essay entitled "Clams Are Not My Dish":

Once I loved a girl to whom I bared my soul (talked my head off). She bounced me in favor of a monosyllabic Tarzan whom she described as "the strong, silent type.' Since then I've been astonished at how frequently people who do nothing but keep their mouths shut are praised for it.

What's so wonderful about being a clam?

I prefer people who speak up, people who vo'unteer information, people with conversational carelessness. They may make some errors, but they give.

I am totally unimpressed by cagey men with poker faces, or bankers with glass eyes, or doctors who say nothing but "Hmm!" and will not tell me my temperature, or by movie cowboys who just say "Yup." Many times I have finally succeeded in getting them to talk, and it has been worth something less than the effort.

I like people who wag injudiciously like a dog, not people who pussyfoot through life. Chatters, spouters, blabbers and kidders — they constitute 95 per cent of the spirited, kindly and sympathetic people of the earth. It's among these that you'll find the philosophers, the poets, the appreciators and the stimulators.

And if some of them should happen to be bores, I thank them for helping me find it out all the sooner. People who never talk nonsense never say anything profound. People who are afraid of being inconsequential are of no consequence.

Generosity — or the lack of it— is often the key. I've found that the silent individual is often hostile. The man who so politely conceals his knowledge is usually overestimating its extend. And a man who never interrupts isn't listening to you. But the man who talks about himself trusts you. And the man who "talks shop" likes his job.

I know that most of life's aphorisms counsel silence, such as "He who does not open his mouth will never put his foot in it.' But how much more lively the world would be if we saw more people with their feet in their mouths!

So when I'm with you, let's talk and make our mistakes early, for which we can either love each other or part company soon.

MRS. ROSS NOLAN

Nolan-Hand Vows Said In College Place Church

Miss Patricia Hand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hand, 1704 North McGuire, became the bride of Ross Nolan, 5100 DeSiard, in a ceremony performed at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 22 in College Place Baptist Church. Rev. T. Earl Ogg officiated at the double ring exchange of vows.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Erma Boyd, Monroe, and Jurd Nolan, Rt. 5, Rayville.

Baskets of white gladioli banked the four white candelabra which formed a background for the altar setting. Trailing ivy entwined the chancel arbors and altar rails.

Mrs. C. W. Dillingham, organist, accompanied Max Dillingham, who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer," and also played traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of delustered bridal satin, featuring a round neckline, large pouf sleeves with bow detail on the shoulders and deep pleats forming the floor length skirt. She wore elbow length satin gloves and her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a tiny crown of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a crescent shape arrangement of white carnations and stock.

Miss Sandra Burford, maid of honor, wore a gold street-length frock of crystalline satin, with full pleated skirt and round neckline. She wore matching satin slippers and a large bow headdress to which was attached a brief illusion veil. Her bouquet was of small gold pompons surrounding a large bronze chrysanthemum, showered with golden ribbon streamers.

Miss Pat Ford and Miss Brenda Lyons were bridesmaids and were dressed identical to the honor attendant. Candlelighters were Miss Sharron Nolan and Don Hilburn. Miss Nolan wore a yellow brocade taffeta dress with a white wrist corsage.

Serving as best man was Ernie Nolan and groomsmen were Bill Nolan and Truett Nolan.

Mrs. Hand chose for her daughter's wedding a blue wool suit and matching cloche hat with illusion veil. Her corsage was of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a rose lace dress with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. Six yellow candles in crystal holders, surrounded by three large bronze chrysanthemums centered the white damask covered table. Gold punch was served from a silver punch bowl at one end of the table, opposite the yellow trimmed cake. A candle, trimmed in ivy and bronze chrysanthemums graced the table where the bride's book was presided over by Miss Shelia Townley. Mrs. Bill Nolan presided at the punch bowl and cake was served by Mrs. Harper McKay.

For a wedding trip to Vicksburg, Mississippi, the bride wore a dress of French blue hopsacking with large pearl buttons, a white fur coat and hat and matching shoes and bag. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Nolan was graduated from Neville High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College one year. Also a graduate of Neville, Mr. Nolan is now attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. Ernest O. Nolan, Misses Sharon and Debbie Nolan, of Kenner; Mrs. Mary Moseley, Lafayette, Mrs. Gloria Biggs, Point; Mrs. Frank D. Cox, Shreveport; Miss Cindy Cox, Shreveport; Ernest O. Nolan, New Orleans, Eugene Antley, Start and Mrs. Robert R. Townley, Fort Lewis, Washington.

Vows Of Area Interest Read In Monroe

Vows uniting in marriage Mrs. Adrienne Duchkar of Monroe, and Dr. Thermon B. Smith of Little Rock, Arkansas, were solemnized Thanksgiving morning in Grace Episcopal church. The Reverend A. Donald Davies officiated at the ceremony in the presence of family members and close friends.

The couple will make their home in Little Rock.

Tangy Taste

Marinate green asparagus from a can or jar, using a tangy French dressing. Serve the spears atop slices of ripe red tomato.

Nellie Head, Fiance Select Bridal Party

Attendants have been selected by Miss Nellie Marie Head and her fiance, James Simmons, for their wedding which will take place Thursday, December 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Sikes Baptist church.

Miss Linda Simmons of New Orleans will serve as maid of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Gay Gregory, cousin of the bride, of Sikes and Miss Mary Ellen Smith of Baton Rouge.

The future bridegroom has chosen Garland Pepper of West Monroe as best man and ushers will include Morris Vickers, of Olla; Sonny McDaniel of Sikes; both brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, and Lloyd Johnston, West Monroe, cousin of the bride-elect.

Candlelighters will be Douglas Head, brother of the future bride and Billy Johnson.

Miss Head is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Onus Head of Sikes, and parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Simmons of Sikes. A reception will follow the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Frank P. Stubbs III, Bride Plan Boston Home

Of wide area interest is the announcement received here of the marriage of Miss Cornelia Howard Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leslie Jordan of New Orleans, to Frank Palmer Stubbs III, son of Mrs. Frank Palmer Stubbs Jr., and the late Col. Stubbs of Natchez, Mississippi.

The couple exchanged wedding vows at 6 p.m. November 11 in the Church of the Advent in Boston, Massachusetts. The Right Reverend Anson P. Stokes, Bishop of Massachusetts, who officiated at the christening of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Thomas L. Jordan Jr., who gave her in marriage. Her gown of candlelight hued peau de soie was fashioned on Empire lines, with the high - waisted bodice and sleeves made of Duchesse lace. A panel caught at the high waistline fell to the hemline of the short skirt. A soft flat bow of the peau de soie was worn by the bride for a headdress and she carried a spray bouquet of gardenias.

Her bridal attendants were her sisters, Miss Priscilla Jordan, as maid of honor and Miss Gay Jordan, as bridesmaid. Their short frocks in shades of deep blue silk were worn with matching veil headpieces and matching satin slippers. They carried bouquets of pink roses.

Eric Schaftshausen of Hobbs Ferry, N. Y., was best man for Mr. Stubbs and the groomsman was Harry Viener of Natchez, Miss.

A reception followed at the Hampshire House on Beacon Street in Boston, where an orchestra provided musical background. Mrs. Jordan chose for her daughter's wedding a deep blue silk brocade sheath worn with a matching jacket and small hat of silk leaves in same shades of blue. Mrs. Stubbs, mother of the bridegroom, wore a French blue silk brocade ensemble. Her head-hugging hat was of flowers in blue tones. Both mothers wore corsage bouquets of white orchids.

Following a wedding trip in New Hampshire and Maine, Mr. Stubbs and his bride will establish a home in Boston.

The bride, who attended Louise S. McGehee School, is a graduate of the Weston school in Connecticut and attended Sweet Briar college, in Sweet Briar, Va. As a member of the debutante coterie of 1959-60, the bride was introduced at a large reception given by her parents at the family home in the Garden District with dancing following. During the Carnival seasons she was chosen a maid of honor in the balls of Rex and the Prophets of Persia. Her mother, who is the former Miss Cornelia Ingersoll, is a daughter of Mrs. Howard Lyman Ingersoll and the late Mr. Ingersoll of Bedford, N. Y., and Cleveland, Ohio. Her late paternal grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clarendon Jordan of Frederick County, Va.

Mr. Stubbs' mother, the former Miss Jane Wall, is a daughter of Mrs. William W. Wall and the late Mr. Wall of New Orleans. The bridegroom's paternal grandparents, Col. and Mrs. Frank P. Stubbs were residents of Monroe.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Hill school in Pennsylvania and attended Tulane university where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and was also elected to Phi Eta Sigma scholastic honor society. He served for three years in the 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron of the 12th Cavalry Regiment on overseas duty, and for a time resided in British Guiana.

Columbia Couple Exchanges Vows In Church Scene

In a candlelight, double ring ceremony in the Columbia Heights Baptist Church, Miss Beatrice Ann Manley became the bride of Thomas Nelson Simons. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Manley of Columbia. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey M. Broussard of Columbia Heights.

The Rev. A. L. Bond officiated at the one o'clock ceremony on November 19. Miss Kathy Serrett at the organ presented a program of nuptial music.

Pedestal baskets of white pompon mums flaked the altar which was lighted by tall white tapers in wrought iron candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by Harold Miller, a close friend of the family, was dressed in traditional gown of white Chantilly lace. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline and the long tapering sleeves ended in lily points over the hands. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Patricia Manley served her sister as maid of honor. She wore apricot taffeta with matching shoes and hat, and a corsage of carnations.

Groomsmen and ushers were Carl Childress of Olla and Bud Kinnerson of Columbia.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Manley chose a dress of powder blue with matching accessories. Mrs. Broussard's dress was a darker blue with matching accessories. Both wore pink carnation corsages.

A reception was held in the home of the bride. The refreshment table was covered in white and held the tiered wedding cake which was topped with a minature bride and groom. Assisting in the courtesies of the afternoon were Mrs. Gus Alaniz and Mrs. Harold Miller.

For a wedding trip in the Ozarks the bride wore a brown and white checked suit with dark brown accessories. Her corsage was from her bouquet.

Mrs. Simons is a senior of Columbia High chool. The bridegroom is a graduate of Columbia High School; has served in the Army and is employed in Marquette, Kansas.

Couple Wed In Cathedral At New Orleans

Miss Lorna Rae Montgomery, New Orleans, daughter of Mrs. Howard W. Montgomery, Monroe, and the late Mr. Montgomery, became the bride of John Frank Gentile Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Frank Gentile of New Orleans, on Saturday, November 19.

Father Liberto officiated at the double ring ceremony in St. Louis Cathedral at New Orleans, at 10 a.m.

A program of nuptial music was presented by the church organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, M. W. Montgomery. She wore a waltz length gown of peau de sole satin with overlays of lace encrusted with seed pearls. Her shoulder length bridal veil fell from a Swedish-style pearl and net headpiece and she carried a shower arrangement of white orchids.

Miss Helen C. Johnson, New Orleans, formerly of Monroe, served as maid of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore a waltz - length gown of wedgewood blue brocade taffeta, with a bandeaux headdress of matching material and carried a bouquet of split yellow chrysanthemums showered with bronze streamers.

Serving as best man was Gerard J. Ponseti and ushers were Roy J. Gentile and John R .Sims.

For the occasion the bridegroom's mother wore a teal blue wool suit with white feathered hat and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of St. Mary's Italian Church. Tiny white wedding bells and floral clusters decorated the white linen covered table, which was centered with the tiered wedding cake.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing an olive green flannel suit with beige hat and other accessories in brown. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. Gentile was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School in Monroe and Mr. Gentile graduated from St. Aloysius High School. The couple will be at home in New Orleans.

Out - of - town guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Myers, Houston, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Sims, Baton Rouge, sisters and brothers - in - law of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Dorothy Hamilton Sevier, Wayne Gordon Elliott Wed In Tallulah Church

Solemnized Friday, November 25 at 11 a.m. in Trinity Episcopal church at Tallulah, was the wedding of Miss Dorothy Hamilton Sevier and Wayne Gordon Elliott, of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Putnam Sevier Jr., of Tallulah and Mr. Elliott is the son of Mrs. Joseph Gordon Elliott and the late Col. Elliott of Lake Park, Florida.

The Rev. David E. Holt of Ocean Springs, Miss., uncle of the bride, and the Rev. William Parkerson of Tallulah, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Alter vases of white stock and Fuji chrysanthemums, interspersed with three branched candelabra holding white candles formed the setting for the exchange of vows.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. C. Sherwin rendered a program of organ music including "Panis Angelious," "Cantelane Nuptiale,' and "O Prefect Love. For the processional she played Purcells "Trumpet Voluntaire," and the bridal party left the church to the strains of "Recessional,' by Joseph Barnby.

Miss Sherrill Sevier, twin sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a gown of olive green taffeta fashioned with full skirt and elbow sleeves and matching slippers. Her headdress, a pearl bandeau, featured a veil sprinkled with pearls and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaids, wearing identical costumes as the maid of honor were Miss Bettye Jo Oakes, Miss Dorothy Yerger, both of Tallulah, Miss Charlotte Donald, of Jennings, La., cousin of the bride, Mrs. Carroll Regan of Pensacola, Fla., and Mrs. Richard P. Sevier of Shreveport, sister - in - law of the bride. The flower girl, Margaret Elise Federick of Vicksburg was dressed in white taffeta and carried a basket of yellow flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk peau de soie and Alencon lace designed with a fitted elongated bodice of lace, having a raised waist line bordered with folds of silk, a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long lace sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists. The full skirt, edged with wide scalloped lace was worn over hoops and was caught up in front with a graceful draped effect over a deep flounce of lace and swept to a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown set with Aurora Borealis stones and her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Lee Popejoy of Shreveport served the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen were Maxwell Yerger Jr. and Jacob Storey of Tallulah, Murphy Oliver of Marison, La. Clyde Elliott of Monroe, cousin of the groom and Richard P. Sevier of Shreveport, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Sevier chose for the daughter's wedding a sheath dress of apple green brocaded silk with matching accessories, white gloves and a cymbidium orchid pinned to her bag. The groom's mother was attired in a sheath dress in tones of brown and gold, matching accessories and cymbidium orchid corsage.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Sevier entertained with a reception at the Tallulah Country Club. Mantels in the lounge and ball room held fan shaped arrangements of golden gladioli, mums and carnations. Members of the receiving line stood in front of tall branched candelabra holding white candles.

Two serving tables covered with white organdy over satin, each had a silver punch service at the end, a five branched silver candelabram with nosegay arrangements in the center and silver trays of turkey, ham and other delicacies. Misses Dorothy Anne Woodyear and Jane Vernon Sevier served punch. At another table, covered with an antique embroidered cloth was the four tiered wedding cake served by Mrs. James Federick of Vicksburg, and Mrs. Berry Ashley of Fern Park, Fla. Guests were invited to register in the bride's book by Mrs. Richard Priest of Ruston. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Travis McNeel, Mrs. W. W. Ziegler, Mrs. Barton Sevier, Mrs. Jom Sevier, Mrs. E. E. Warrick and Mrs. David E. Holt, aunts of the bride, Mrs. James Elliott, aunt of the groom, Mrs. James Griswold, Mrs. Albert Sevier and Mrs. R. W. Gandy.

When the couple left for a trip to Florida the bride was wearing a black wool suit, flowered hat in shades of lavendar, black accessories and a camellia corsage. On their return they will reside at 3151 State Street Drive in New Orleans.

Mrs. Elliott is a graduate of Tallulah High School, Louisiana State University and Charity Hospital School of Medical Technology. Her sorority is Delta Delta Delta. Mr. Elliott is a graduate of Northeast State College and L. S. U. Medical School. He is a member of Kappa Alpha, Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity, Undergraduate Medical Society and Alpha Omega Phi.

A large number of out of town guests attended the wedding.

Alter vases of white stock and Fuji chrysanthemums, interspersed with three branched candelabra holding white candles formed the setting for the exchange of vows.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. C. Sherwin rendered a program of organ music including "Panis Angelious." "Cantelane Nuptiale,' and "O Prefect Love. For the processional she played Purcells "Trumpet Voluntaire," and the bridal party left the church to the strains of "Recessional,' by Joseph Barnby.

Miss Sherrill Sevier, twin sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a gown of olive green taffeta fashioned with full skirt and elbow sleeves and matching slippers. Her headdress, a pearl bandeau, featured a veil sprinkled with pearls and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaids, wearing identical costumes as the maid of honor were Miss Bettye Jo Oakes, Miss Dorothy Yerger, both of Tallulah, Miss Charlotte Donald, of Jennings, La., cousin of the bride, Mrs. Carroll Regan of Pensacola, Fla., and Mrs. Richard P. Sevier of Shreveport, sister - in - law of the bride. The flower girl, Margaret Elise Federick of Vicksburg was dressed in white taffeta and carried a basket of yellow flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk peau de soie and Alencon lace designed with a fitted elongated bodice of lace, having a raised waist line bordered with folds of silk, a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long lace sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists. The full skirt, edged with wide scalloped lace was worn over hoops and was caught up in front with a graceful draped effect over a deep flounce of lace and swept to a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown set with Aurora Borealis stones and her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Lee Popejoy of Shreveport served the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen were Maxwell Yerger Jr. and Jacob Storey of Tallulah, Murphy Oliver of Marison, La. Clyde Elliott of Monroe, cousin of the groom and Richard P. Sevier of Shreveport, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Sevier chose for the daughter's wedding a sheath dress of apple green brocaded silk with matching accessories, white gloves and a cymbidium orchid pinned to her bag. The groom's mother was attired in a sheath dress in tones of brown and gold, matching accessories and cymbidium orchid corsage.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Sevier entertained with a reception at the Tallulah Country Club. Mantels in the lounge and ball room held fan shaped arrangements of golden gladioli, mums and carnations. Members of the receiving line stood in front of tall branched candelabra holding white candles.

Two serving tables covered with white organdy over satin, each had a silver punch service at the end, a five branched silver candelabram with nosegay arrangements in the center and silver trays of turkey, ham and other delicacies. Misses Dorothy Anne Woodyear and Jane Vernon Sevier served punch. At another table, covered with an antique embroidered cloth was the four tiered wedding cake served by Mrs. James Federick of Vicksburg, and Mrs. Berry Ashley of Fern Park, Fla. Guests were invited to register in the bride's book by Mrs. Richard Priest of Ruston. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Travis McNeel, Mrs. W. W. Ziegler, Mrs. Barton Sevier, Mrs. Jom Sevier, Mrs. E. E. Warrick and Mrs. David E. Holt, aunts of the bride, Mrs. James Elliott, aunt of the groom, Mrs. James Griswold, Mrs. Albert Sevier and Mrs. R. W. Gandy.

When the couple left for a trip to Florida the bride was wearing a black wool suit, flowered hat in shades of lavendar, black accessories and a camellia corsage. On their return they will reside at 3151 State Street Drive in New Orleans.

Mrs. Elliott is a graduate of Tallulah High School, Louisiana State University and Charity Hospital School of Medical Technology. Her sorority is Delta Delta Delta. Mr. Elliott is a graduate of Northeast State College and L. S. U. Medical School. He is a member of Kappa Alpha, Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity, Undergraduate Medical Society and Alpha Omega Phi.

A large number of out of town guests attended the wedding.

Lakeshore Church Site Of Nuptials

MRS. KENNETH RAY KIRKHAM

In a setting of lighted tapers and baskets of white gladioli against a background of greenery, Miss Carolyn June Willis became the bride of Kenneth Ray Kirkham, on Wednesday, November 23 at Lakeshore Baptist church. Rev. V. R. Headrick performed the 6 o'clock double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Willis, Monroe, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Kirkham, also of the city.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Tom Water, organist, played "With This Ring," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace on duchess lines. The bodice featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline and the bouffant skirt worn over layers of crinoline, reflected the scalloped detail at the hemline, which was caught up in back to reveal a tiered net bustle. Her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and she wore a single strand of pearls. The bridal bouquet was a crescent of white roses and vanda orchids.

Miss Linda Ann Deas, as maid of honor, wore a dress of bright blue iridescent taffeta, styled with bouffant skirt, basque bodice and balloon sleeves. Her headdress was a band of blue net adorned with tiny seed pearls and blue velvet bows and she carried a colonial bouquet of white and yellow carnations.

Candles were lighted by Miss Georgia Lee Burkett, who was wearing a dress of champagne chiffon with color matched shoes and corsage of yellow and white carnations.

Thomas Kirkham attended as best man and ushers were George Palowsky and Bobby Roberts.

For the occasion the bride's mother selected a pale blue wool dress featuring a cut - away jacket with white and blue accessories and a corsage of white feathered chrysanthemums and orchids. Mrs. Kirkham, mother of the bridegroom, wore a muted blue - gray wool dress with blue and black accessories and a corsage of orchids and white chrysanthemums.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents on Curve Drive in Bayou Shores. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth with pale blue cutwork and had for a centerpiece silver candelabra holding white tapers. White roses and yellow and white carnations encircled the wedding cake on a reflector, and white gladioli were placed about the living room and den.

Miss Georgia Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Edna Greenwood, served the cake and Miss Darla Storms presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. C. B. Storms. Presiding at the bride's book was Miss Judy Palowsky.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride wore a blue wool suit with white hat and black accessories and a corsage of vanda orchids from her bouquet. Upon their return they will reside in their new home on the New Swartz Road in Bayou Shores.

Mrs. Kirkham was graduated from Neville high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. Also a graduate of Neville, Mr. Kirkham is presently attending Northeast.

Lilly B. Glenn Is Bride Of Merle F. Lichtenfels

First Methodist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Lilly Belle Glenn and Merle Frederick Lichtenfels, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, November 23 at 6 o'clock. Dr. George Pomeroy, assisted by Rev. Roy Grant of Ringgold, La., cousin of the bride, officiated at the double ring candelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Walter Glenn of Monroe and Mr. Lichtenfels is the son of Mrs. Fred Lichtenfels of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Twin arrangements of white stock, carnations and pompon chrysanthemums in brass altar containers provided the setting at the altar for the exchange of vows. Plumosa fern threaded the seven-branched candelabra which interspersed floor baskets of white chrysanthemums, carnations and stock, tied with white satin bow for the background and white satin bows were used to mark the area where the couple knelt on a white satin pillow.

Mrs. Everett Zeagler, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music, including "O Perfect Love," and "Meditation," from Thais by Massenet. She also accompanied Thomas H. Spurlock Jr., as he sang "Because" and "Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her nephew, Charles Edward Nugent, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a Victorian inspired original gown of candlelight velvet, fashioned with a moulded bodice, outswept skirt and long tapering sleeves. French reembroidered Alencon lace studded with pearls, accented the Sabrina neckline. Her veil of silk illusion fell shoulder length from a scalloped cap of velvet leaves, edged in seed pearls and her only jewelry was a pair of diamond earscrews, a gift of her parents. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple throated white orchid and feathered chrysanthemums showered with satin streamers.

Miss Ann Mickel was maid of honor and Mrs. Charles Nugent, bridesmaid. They were dressed identically in street-length frocks of de-lustered peacock blue satin. The dresses were designed with below-elbow sleeves, bateau neck front which dropped to a V in back from which streamers extended to the hemline of the princess skirt. They wore color matched headdresses and shoes and carried crescent bouquets of yellow fuji chrysanthemums.

Leon Hammonds served as best man and ushers were O. W. Stephens, Wichita, Kans., A. D. Williams and Robert L. Bright of Monroe.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Glenn chose a navy silk suit with matching accessories and a velvet and feathered hat of peacock blue. Her corsage was a purple throated orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of Romance green with matching velvet toque and a yellow orchid.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. Massive arrangements of white stock and pompons in silver and crystal epergnes decked the entrance hall and the guest book table held a white memory candle scented with lily of the valley, where Mrs. Bobby Ray Nugent presided.

Cut glass punch bowls encircled with lily of the valley and pompons were placed at opposite ends of the long serving table, centerpiece for which was a silver epergne filled with white carnations, stock and pompons. Triple branched candelabra holding white tapers flanked the arrangement. The bride's table covered with an imported cloth was centered with an all white wedding cake, crested with wedding bells, maline poufs and valley lily and encircled with white pompons and fern.

Alternating at the punch bowls were Dr. Katherine Foster, Mrs. D. I. Hirsch, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. George Aubrey O'Neal and Mrs. Robert Charles Bates. Mrs. Freeda Anderson and Mrs. William Montgomery served at the cake table. Others assisting were Mrs. Homer Gay, Mrs. Jean Boyce, Mrs. Roy Grant, Mrs. Nolan J. Landry, Miss Dianne McGee and Mrs. Hugh Murray.

After a wedding trip to Florida the couple will be at home in Franklin, Louisiana. For travel the bride wore a black and beige Italian silk tweed suit with matching silk blouse and multiple strand pearl necklace. Completing her costume was a hat of beige velvet leaves with other accessories in black. She wore the orchid from her bouquet.

Miss Parris, Mr. Malone Wed Thanksgiving Day

Vows uniting Miss Dickie Lee Parris and Doyle Ragan Malone were solemnized on Thanksgiving Day, November 24 at 4 p.m. in Central Baptist Church of Monroe. Rev. Charles B. Littleton officiated at the double ring ceremony, in a candlelight setting of four branched candelabra holding pink tapers interspersed with two pedestal baskets of pink stock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Parris, Monroe and Mr. Malone is the son of Mrs. Gladys Malone, Monroe and G. L. Malone, Alexandria.

Preceding the ceremony E. M. Wooten, accompanied at the organ by Miss Elaine Knight, sang "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," and at conclusion of the exchange of vows he sang the "Wedding Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Misses Jackie and Johnnie Johnson cousins of the bridegroom, who wore mauve peau de soie dresses, featuring gathered skirts, scoop necklines and three - quarter length puff sleeves. Their matching headdresses were styled in softly gathered bows and they wore wrist corsage of pink blossoms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white peau de soie, with long tapered sleeves, and a round neckline edged in matching lace motif, embroidered in seed pearls. The bodice, enclosed with tiny self - covered buttons down the back, features an inverted scissor pleat in front. Deep pleats with lace pailettes, which terminated into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle cascaded from a headdress of reembroidered lace and seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, centered with Happiness roses in winterberry shade.

Mrs. Hildred R. Nappier, as matron of honor, wore a dress of winterberry velveteen. The skirt, pleated on either side, featured a self - material bow at the waist, which matched her headdress. She carried a single long stem pink rose.

Susan Denise Knight, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a dress of winterberry velveteen, designed with gathered skirt, scoop neckline and brief puff sleeves. Her headdress was a matching bow and she carried a white straw basket from which scattered white rose petals.

Mr. Malone attended his son as best man and ushers were O. Leon Johnson and Gerald Thorne, both of Monroe. Ring bearer was Roger Wood, nephew of the bridegroom, who carried a small white pillow with the bride's wedding band attached with white streamers and lily of the valley.

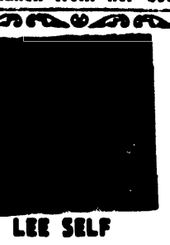

The bride's mother wore a dark copen peau de soie dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Malone, mother of the bridegroom, chose a two - piece suit of deep lavendar, with matching floral hat and a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. A white lace cloth covered the table from which the tiered pink cake and pink punch were served. Mrs. David Ross Coates served the cake and Mrs. Guy Smart presided at the punch bowl. The bride's book in the church vestibule was presided over by Miss Elaine Primm from a table which held a pink taper and small floral arrangement.

During the reception Denise Knight distributed tiny white net rice bags, tied with pink ribbon Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Carl White, Buna, Texas; Mrs. J. E. Johnson and Suzie, Bridge City, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Parris, Dallas, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Davis, Mr and Mrs. Homer Barlow, of Hazlehurst Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Furlow, Beaumont, Texas; Mr and Mrs. Woodie B. Malone, Chamblee, Georgia and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barlow, Jackson, Mississippi.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a two piece suit of winterberry velveteen, styled with a round collar and brief peplum. She wore a mauve hat, white gloves and other accessories in black and her corsage was of Happiness roses taken from her bouquet.

The couple will reside in their new home at 3204 DeSiard Street upon their return. Both were graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Mr Malone is at present a senior student at Northeast Louisiana State College, where he is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity.

Lakeshore Church Site Of Nuptials

MRS. KENNETH RAY KIRKHAM

In a setting of lighted tapers and baskets of white gladioli against a background of greenery, Miss Carolyn June Willis became the bride of Kenneth Ray Kirkham, on Wednesday, November 23 at Lakeshore Baptist church. Rev. V. R. Headrick performed the 6 o'clock double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Willis, Monroe, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Kirkham, also of the city.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Tom Wafer, organist, played "With This Ring," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace on duchess lines. The bodice featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline and the bouffant skirt worn over layers of crinoline, reflected the scalloped detail at the hemline, which was caught up in back to reveal a tiered net bustle. Her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and she wore a single strand of pearls. The bridal bouquet was a crescent of white roses and vanda orchids.

Miss Linda Ann Deas, as maid of honor, wore a dress of bright blue iridescent taffeta, styled with bouffant skirt, basque bodice and balloon sleeves. Her headdress was a band of blue net adorned with tiny seed pearls and blue velvet bows and she carried a colonial bouquet of white and yellow carnations.

Candles were lighted by Miss Georgia Lee Burkett, who was wearing a dress of champagne chiffon with color matched shoes and corsage of yellow and white carnations.

Thomas Kirkham attended as best man and ushers were George Palowsky and Bobby Roberts.

For the occasion the bride's mother selected a pale blue wool dress featuring a cut - away jacket with white and blue accessories and a corsage of white feathered chrysanthemums and orchids. Mrs. Kirkham, mother of the bridegroom, wore a muted blue - gray wool dress with blue and black accessories and a corsage of orchids and white chrysanthemums.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents on Curve Drive in Bayou Shores. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth with pale blue cutwork and had for a centerpiece silver candelabra holding white tapers. White roses and yellow and white carnations encircled the wedding cake on a reflector, and white gladioli were placed about the living room and den.

Miss Georgia Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Edna Greenwood, served the cake and Miss Darla Storms presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. C. B. Storms. Presiding at the bride's book was Miss Judy Palowsky.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride wore a blue wool suit with white hat and black accessories and a corsage of vanda orchids from her bouquet. Upon their return they will reside in their new home on the New Swartz Road in Bayou Shores.

Mrs. Kirkham was graduated from Neville high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. Also a graduate of Neville, Mr. Kirkham is presently attending Northeast.

Lilly B. Glenn Is Bride Of Merle F. Lichtenfels

First Methodist Church was the setting for the weding of Miss Lilly Belle Glenn and Merle Frederick Lichtenfels, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, November 23 at 6 o'clock. Dr. George Pomeroy, assisted by Rev. Roy Grant of Ringgold, La., cousin of the bride, officiated at the double ring candelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Walter Glenn of Monroe and Mr. Lichtenfels is the son of Mrs. Fred Lichtenfels of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Twin arrangements of white stock, carnations and pompon chrysanthemums in brass altar containers provided the setting at the altar for the exchange of vows. Plumosa fern threaded the seven-branched candelabra which interspersed floor baskets of white chrysanthemums, carnations and stock, tied with white satin bow for the background and white satin bows were used to mark the area where the couple knelt on a white satin pillow.

Mrs. Everett Zeagler, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music, including "O Perfect Love," and "Meditation," from Thais by Massenet. She also accompanied Thomas H. Spurlock Jr., as he sang "Because" and "Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her nephew, Charles Edward Nugent, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a Victorian inspired original gown of candlelight velvet, fashioned with a moulded bodice, outswept skirt and long tapering sleeves. French reembroidered Alencon lace studded with pearls, accented the Sabrina neckline. Her veil of silk illusion fell shoulder length from a scalloped cap of velvet leaves, edged in seed pearls and her only jewelry was a pair of diamond earscrews, a gift of her parents. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple throated white orchid and feathered chrysanthemums showered with satin streamers.

Miss Ann Mickel was maid of honor and Mrs. Charles Nugent, bridesmaid. They were dressed identically in street-length frocks of de-lustered peacock blue satin. The dresses were designed with below-elbow sleeves, bateau neck front which dropped to a V in back from which streamers extended to the hemline of the princess skirt. They wore color matched headdresses and shoes and carried crescent bouquets of yellow fuji chrysanthemums.

Leon Hammonds served as best man and ushers were O. W. Stephens, Wichita, Kans., A. D. Williams and Robert L. Bright of Monroe.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Glenn chose a navy silk suit with matching accessories and a velvet and feathered hat of peacock blue. Her corsage was a purple throated orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of Romance green with matching velvet toque and a yellow orchid.

RECEPTION

Marriage Of Sallie White, Ira Phillips Jr. Performed In Candlelight Ceremony

White tapers in seven-branched candelabra, arranged pyramid fashion and interspersed with baskets of bronze chrysanthemums formed an altar setting at the Liberty Baptist Church in Calhoun for the wedding of Miss Sallie Lou White of Calhoun and Ira Phillips Jr., Monroe.

Rev. Leonard O. Garlington performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, November 26. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White, Calhoun and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Phillips Sr., of Baton Rouge.

Traditional wedding selections were played by Mrs. Cary Staples, organist, who also accompanied Garland Shell, who sang "Through The Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white peau de sole appliqued with Alencon lace, encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The sweeping chapel train extended from beautied bells by Jessica of Pandora and the basque bodice was styled with a low round neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of sheer Italian illusion cascaded from a scalloped queen's crown of lace, outlined with twists of open work pearls and teardrops with sequins and beads. Her bouquet of yellow-throated white orchids nestled in tufts of maline atop a white Bible. The cascade design was accented with garlands of stephanotis and shower streamers tied in love knots. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Lorena White, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and wore an afternoon frock of pale gold taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and bell-shaped skirt. Her headdress was a veil whimsey attached to three gold satin rings and she carried a bouquet fashioned of gold rings encircling bronze fuji chrysanthemums, pompons and gold ribbon streamers. Gold satin slippers completed her attire.

Bridesmaids were Miss Anna Camp, Miss Joyce Lanier, Mrs. Maurice Brownell, Mrs. James A. Chennival, Mrs. Chester Burns and Mrs. Woodrow Bailey. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant with matching whimseys and bouquets.

Misses Carolyn Hale and Lou Ann Staples, as flower girls, wore floor-length dresses of white taffeta, featuring a shirred flounce, scoop neck and long pointed sleeves. They wore white satin ring veiled whimseys and carried white baskets of bronze chrysanthemum petals.

Ronnie Phillips served his brother as best man and ushers were Maurice Brownell, Chester Burns, James E. Files Jr., Hudson Tomlinson, Charles Hall and Tex Kilpatrick. Candlelighters were Terry Hessick and Pat Welker and ring bearer was John M. Drouett III.

Mrs. White selected for her daughter's wedding a gold peau de soie dress, with draped design and matching accessories.

MISS POLLY JANE RISER

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Phillips, wore a mink brown sheath with matching accessories and both wore corsages of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Immediately following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, which was profusely decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums. A floor-length cloth of white net and taffeta, garlanded with white satin bows and streamers covered the bride's table, which was centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Two crystal punch bowls were placed at opposite ends of the dining table which was covered with an imported lace cloth over gold, and centered with bronze chrysanthemums and white tapers in crystal candelabra. Mrs. John M. Drouet, aunt of the bride, had charge of the guest book. Tea girls were Mrs. Rudy Ramsey, Miss Pat Davis, Mrs. J. Hugh Barnes and Mrs. Tom Mitchell and others assisting were Mrs. R. C. Camp, Mrs. Pat Camp, Mrs. Fred Staples, Mrs. Wiley A. Roach, Mrs. Merdie Lee McQueen, Mrs. Clifford Foster, Mrs. Arthur Kilpatrick and Mrs. Oral Sims.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a dark brown wool suit with fur collar and matching accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 2513 North 12th in Monroe.

Mrs. Phillips was graduated from Washington high school in Natchez, Miss., and attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston. She is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Mr. Phillips was graduated from Neville high school and Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James A. Chennival, Susan, James A. Jr., and Joel Stephen, of Alexandria; Mrs. Jack Homelsky, Levittown, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Phillips Sr., Baton Rouge; Ronnie Phillips, Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burns, Bellaire, Texas; Mrs. Audie Horton, Bossier City; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Brooks, Mrs. Dale Brownell, Shreveport; Miss Anna Camp, Dallas, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Cary Staples, Cary Mack, Mike, Bill and Tim of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gremillion, LaMarque, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Hebert, Galveston, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hudgins, Longview; Mr. and Mrs. George Monroe, Beaumont, Tex.

Mr. Dupuy was graduated from Neville high schol anod attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston. He is presently associated in business with his father.

White Cake Pudding

Ever steam white-cake batter for a pudding? If you use custard cups, filled two-thirds full, you'll need to steam these individual desserts for only about 30 minutes.

Pastry Hint

A pastry recipe based on 2 cups of flour will make 2 crusts for an 8-inch pie dish; use 2¼ cups of flour for a 9-inch pie plate.

Don't Undermix

If you cake has a heavy streak in it, the chances are that your batter was undermixed.

Marriage Of Sallie White, Ira Phillips Jr. Performed In Candlelight Ceremony

White tapers in seven-branched candelabra, arranged pyramid fashion and interspersed with baskets of bronze chrysanthemums formed an altar setting at the Liberty Baptist Church in Calhoun for the wedding of Miss Sallie Lou White of Calhoun and Ira Phillips Jr., Monroe.

Rev. Leonard O. Garlington performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, November 26. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. White, Calhoun and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Phillips Sr., of Baton Rouge.

Traditional wedding selections were played by Mrs. Cary Staples, organist, who also accompanied Garland Shell, who sang "Through The Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white peau de soie appliqued with Alencon lace, encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The sweeping chapel train extended from beautied bells by Jessica of Pandora and the basque bodice was styled with a low round neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of sheer Italian illusion cascaded from a scalloped queen's crown of lace, outlined with twists of open work pearls and teardrops with sequins and beads. Her bouquet of yellow-throated white orchids nestled in tufts of maline atop a white Bible. The cascade design was accented with garlands of stephanotis and shower streamers tied in love knots. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Lorena White, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and wore an afternoon frock of pale gold taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and bell-shaped skirt. Her headdress was a veil whimsey attached to three gold satin rings and she carried a bouquet fashioned of gold rings encircling bronze fuji chrysanthemums, pompons and gold ribbon streamers. Gold satin slippers completed her attire.

Bridesmaids were Miss Anna Camp, Miss Joyce Lanier, Mrs. Maurice Brownell, Mrs. James A. Chennival, Mrs. Chester Burns and Mrs. Woodrow Bailey. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant with matching whimseys and bouquets.

Misses Carolyn Hale and Lou Ann Staples, as flower girls, wore floor-length dresses of white taffeta, featuring a shirred flounce, scoop neck and long pointed sleeves. They wore white satin ring veiled whimseys and carried white baskets of bronze chrysanthemum petals.

Ronnie Phillips served his brother as best man and ushers were Maurice Brownell, Chester Burns, James E. Files Jr., Hudson Tomlinson, Charles Hall and Tex Kilpatrick. Candlelighters were Terry Hessick and Pat Welker and ring bearer was John M. Drouett III.

Mrs. White selected for her daughter's wedding a gold peau de soie dress, with draped design and matching accessories.

MISS POLLY JANE RISER

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Phillips, wore a mink brown sheath with matching accessories and both wore corsages of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Immediately following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, which was profusely decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums. A floor-length cloth of white net and taffeta, garlanded with white satin bows and streamers covered the bride's table, which was centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Two crystal punch bowls were placed at opposite ends of the dining table which was covered with an imported lace cloth over gold, and centered with bronze chrysanthemums and white tapers in crystal candelabra. Mrs. John M. Drouet, aunt of the bride, had charge of the guest book. Tea girls were Mrs. Rudy Ramsey, Miss Pat Davis, Mrs. J. Hugh Barnes and Mrs. Tom Mitchell and others assisting were Mrs. R. C. Camp, Mrs. Pat Camp, Mrs. Fred Staples, Mrs. Wiley A. Roach, Mrs. Merdie Lee McQueen, Mrs. Clifford Foster, Mrs. Arthur Kilpatrick and Mrs. Oral Sims.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a dark brown wool suit with fur collar and matching accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 2513 North 12th in Monroe.

Mrs. Phillips was graduated from Washington high school in Natchez, Miss., and attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston. She is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Mr. Phillips was graduated from Neville high school and Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James A. Chennival, Susan, James A. Jr., and Joel Stephen, of Alexandria; Mrs. Jack Homelsky, Levittown, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Phillips Sr., Baton Rouge; Ronnie Phillips, Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burns, Bellaire, Texas; Mrs. Audie Horton, Bossier City; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Brooks, Mrs. Dale Brownell, Shreveport; Miss Anna Camp, Dallas, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Cary Staples, Cary Mack, Mike, Bill and Tim of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gremillion, LaMarque, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Hebert, Galveston, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hudgins, Longview; Mr. and Mrs. George Monroe, Beaumont, Tex.

Local Couple Exchanges Nuptial Vows

Mr. Dupuy was graduated from Neville high schol anod attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston. He is presently associated in business with his father.

White Cake Pudding

Ever steam white-cake batter for a pudding? If you use custard cups, filled two-thirds full, you'll need to steam these individual desserts for only about 30 minutes.

Pastry Hint

A pastry recipe based on 2 cups of flour will make 2 crusts for an 8-inch pie dish; use 2¼ cups of flour for a 9-inch pie plate.

Don't Undermix

If you cake has a heavy streak in it, the chances are that your batter was undermixed.

Young-Ganey Nuptials Read In Ferriday Church

First Presbyterian church of Ferriday was scene of the wedding of Miss Valadine Jarriet Ganey and Francis Leo Young Jr., solemnized Friday evening with The Reverend C. E. Pickens performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Abraham Ganey of Ferriday, and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Will Ganey of Jena, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ferguson of Minden. Mr. Young is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Leo Young, and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Young and Mrs. E. S. Davis of Birmingham, Ala., and the late Mr. Davis.

Lighted tapers and floral arrangements formed a setting for the exchange of vows. Miss Frances Pung of Memphis, Tenn., cousin of the bride, sang "Always," "I Love Thee," and "Because," accompanied at the organ by Miss Judy Willis, who also played traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of peau de soie of ante bellum design, with elbow length sleeves, and scoop neckline embroidered with peau d'ange lace and seed pearls. The polonaise panels and train were appliqued with peau d'ange lace, embroidered with seed pearls and sequins and her veil of imported illusion fell from a pillbox headpiece appliqued with lace and seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was of regal white roses and her only jewelry was a diamond lavelliere fashioned from her mother's engagement ring.

The bride's niece, Miss Vicky Lynn Ourso of Jena, served as maid of honor and Mrs. Ronald Gaude' of Natchez, Miss., was matron of honor. They wore ballerina frocks of pink peau de soie, designed with square necklines and bracelet sleeves, with bell shaped skirts caught at the waist with tiny bows. They also wore pink peau de soie pillbox hats, with pink illusion attached by a single rose. Their shoes were of matching shade and they carried cascades of Happiness roses.

Misses Frances Maxwell, Ann Jones and Carol Schuchs, all of Ferriday and Miss Mae Young of Tallulah, cousin of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids, and were dressed identically to the honor attendants.

Misses Jean Hawkins and Anna Maxine Sewell of Ferriday, were junior bridesmaids and wore gowns of white silk organza, styled with Sabrina necklines and pink peau de soie cummerbunds, adorned with large pink satin roses, from which pink streamers fell to the hemline. They wore matching headpieces and carried cascades of pink roses.

Anna Katherine Sewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sewell of Natchitoches, and Chere' Lynn Gaude', daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Ronald Gaude' of Natchez, were flower girls and wore dresses of white silk organza with pink peau de soie sashes. Each carried a miniature satin and tulle basket filled with rose petals.

James Edwin Young, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were John Davis Young, also a brother and Herbert Jarrett Davis, cousin of the bride. Groomsmen were John Young, brother of the bridegroom; Billy Taylor, both of Ferriday, Paul Hawley, Shreveport; John Harvey Johnson, Jeff Bratton, of New Orleans and Harry Pankey, Ferriday.

RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Ganey were hosts at a reception in the Community Center immediately following the ceremony. White stock and chrysanthemums decorated the room and the bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, flanked by two white cupid epergnes holding stock and white roses. Serving the cake were Mrs. Jewel Davis of Beaumont, Texas, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Nelson Summerell, Southern smilax and white carnations adorned the two punch tables at opposite ends of the room and two wedding bells tied with white ribbon graced the guest book table. Alternating at the punch bowls were Misses Marianne Harding of Birmingham, Ala., Joan Schuchs, Charlaine Turner, Peggy Current and Leah Storey. The guest book was presided over by Miss Marjorie Ruth Lancaster and Miss Marsha Townsend and assisting as tea girls were Misses Mary Jane Hawkins, Hope Davis, Veta Ourso, Diane Ourso and Lynn Mann.

An arch of smilax and foliage flanked by baskets of stock and chrysanthemums formed a background for the receiving line.

For the occasion Mrs. Ganey wore a beige chiffon dress with green velvet hat and two green orchids. Mrs. Young, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of champagne chiffon and Chantilly lace with hat of bronze sequins and beads and a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a frock of camel colored wool embroidered in rust, gold and brown. Her hat was rust satin and she carried a brown beaver muff and wore a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Young will establish a home in Ferriday. Both are graduates of Ferriday high school. Mrs. Young attended Northeast Louisiana State College and Mr. Young received a bachelor of business administration degree from Tulane University. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Jewel Davis, Hope and Herbert, Beaumont, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ferguson, Minden; Mrs. Miriam Cother, Mrs. W. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Val Carruthers, E. S. Davis Jr., and Pam of Little Rock, Ark., Mrs. Frances Harding and Marianne; Mrs. E. S. Davis, Mrs. B. Elliott of Birmingham, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. James E. Young of Tallulah; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Young, Mrs. Mae Pettit of Monroe.

Mrs. Cook Speaker For Local DAR

Mrs. Amiee Cook, retired school teacher, was guest speaker for the Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution when it met Saturday, November 19 at Highland Park Country Club.

Her topic was "He Helps Those Who Help Themselves," in which she gave a brief historical background to show why we as a nation are in our present situation by using the topic to imply that he helps even nations who help themselves. Mrs. Cook's talk was based on the D. A. R. National Defense program for November.

Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, first vice - regent, presided over the meeting which opened with prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. J. C. Stewart.

A donation was made by the chapter to help with the Red Cross Christmas party for the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria. Mrs. McGuire reported on the recent D. A. R. board meeting held in Alexandria, which she and the regent, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds attended.

Gifts were acknowledged from two out of town members, Mrs. Nola Mize Coffman and Mrs. Henrietta Cullom Berg to apply on the Don Juan Filhiol marker which the chapter plans to erect.

Autumn flowers were used in profusion about the lounge, where following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. M. Bell, Mrs. W. Lester Corley, Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr., and Mrs. Archie L. Dickerson.

Other members and guests present were Mrs. Louis I. Craig, Miss Mary Louise Ellis, Mrs. H. C. Ervin, Mrs. I. H. Hamilton, Mrs. Edward F. Koserog, Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Mrs. Warren B. McGee, Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, Mrs. James L. McGuire, Mrs. J. Otto Miller, Mrs. J. L. Norris, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. C. G. Wall Jr., and guests, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. J. C. Steele Jr.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today by Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Stedman, 209 Grayling Lane, Monroe, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Loette Stedman, above, to Kenneth Saterfield. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Dean Saterfield of Dearborn, Michigan. The wedding will be an event of January 28 at 4 p.m. in the First Baptist church, Monroe, with Dr. James T. Horton, pastor, officiating.

Jr. Garden Club Hears Talk On Arrangements

Mrs. John Tolar was guest speaker for the November meeting of the Sherrouse Junior Garden club held at the school.

Mrs. Tolar discussed triangular flower arrangements, and illustrated her talk by making arrangements using both fresh and dried flowers. At conclusion of her talk several children made arrangements following suggestions Mrs. Tolar had given.

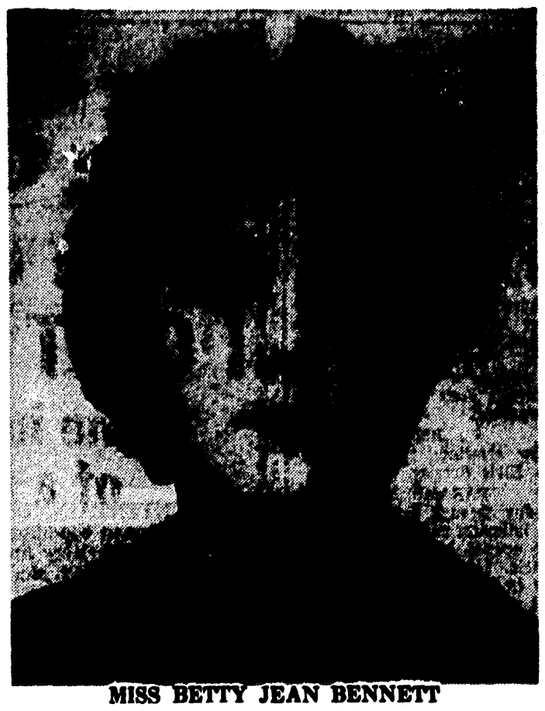

For its December project the group made plans to prepare and plant a flower bed by the school cafeteria.

Workshop Held For Welcome Garden Club

Mrs. V. S. Garnett conducted a workshop in plaques and Christmas tree ornaments for the Welcome Garden club when it met Monday, November 21.

During the business session a report on the fifth district meeting held in Ruston November 11 at which Mrs. M. W. Montgomery was elected treasurer from a two year term, was given by the president, Mrs. Frank Pettit. The 1961 district meeting will be in Monroe with Mrs. Jamar Adcock presiding.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Garnett, Mrs. H. S. Snyder, Mrs. J. R. Spurlock, Mrs. J. C. Andes, Mrs. J. N. Ezell, and Mrs. Neal Collins to Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Pettit, Mrs. W. R. Laing, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. R. P. McKay, Mrs. Ed Hislop, Mrs N. S. Snider, Mrs. Charles P. Chisholm, Mrs. T. H. Spurlock, Mrs. Fred L. Stricklin, Mrs. H. G. Thompson, Mrs. W. T. Simpson, Mrs. L. B. Gannaway and Mrs. Oscar Harrell.

Western Series Real Workout For Film Beauty

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joanne Dru, long accustomed to the pampered life of a movie star, is getting her lumps in a television series.

"Even in movie Westerns," says the beauteous actress, "I always had it soft. Doubles do all the tough work for you."

This season she's starred in "Guestward Ho" in which she plays a New York model who goes west with her city-bred husband to operate a dude ranch.

Much of her acting is done while cooking on a wood stove for which she has to chop the wood; sweeping with a straw broom; milking cows with her own pretty hands; cleaning the chimney; mending fences; scrubbing barns and painting walls.

Joanne, once a Copa girl in New York City, says she likes the job anyway.

"Where else do you get paid so well for doing chores?"

ADULT ENTERTAINMENT opens today at the Paramount Theatre in the showing of "Girl of the Night," which stars John Kerr and Ann Francis, along with Lloyd Nolan and Kay Medford. The picture is recommended for adults only.

AT PARAMOUNT

'Girl Of The Night' Theme Of Picture

A provocative social psychoanalytical study of a contemporary problem forms the basis for Warner Bros. "Girl of the Night," opening today at the Paramount Theatre.

Anne Francis stars in the title role with Lloyd Nolan portraying the analyst who attempts to guide her back to a more normal way of life. Kay Medford and John Kerr are also starred in the Vanguard Production as a worldly woman and the young man who lives off of Miss Francis and her earnings.

"Girl of the Night" was based on the Ph.D. thesis prepared by Dr. Harold Greenwald at Columbia University and subsequently published as "The Call Girl," immediately becoming a non-fiction best seller. It was adapted for the screen by Ted Berkman and Raphael Blau, who previously had scripted "Fear Strikes Out."

In detailing the struggle of a young woman to understand and rehabilitate herself with the aid of an analyst, "Girl of the Night" faithfully brings to the screen the factual material which was disclosed by Dr. Greenwald's trail-blazing study.

TOPCAST

Fresh from her starring role in Warner Bros.' "The Crowded Sky," Anne Francis is topcast as the "girl" of the title. The beautiful blonde actress has scored in a wide variety of roles in Hollywood.

Lloyd Nolan, regarded as an "actor's actor" by his colleagues, has won the Donaldson and New York Drama Critics' awards for his portrayal as the psychotic "Captain Queeg" in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial." Although Nolan emphasizes that he is not a "Method" actor, his performance as the analyst in "Girl of the Night" is subtly subdued and introspective: expressed in the hitch of a shoulder, the movement of his hands, the twitch of a lip.

Nolan's role as a psychoanalyst in "Girl of the Night" is in sharp contrast to his tremendous stage triumph as the psychotic officer in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

Young John Kerr has already achieved glowing stardom on the stage and screen. His memorable portrayal in the Broadway production of "Tea and Sympathy" brought him to Hollywood's attention and he has most recently scored in the screen presentation of "South Pacific" and "The Crowded Sky." Kerr conceives of his role in "Girl of the Night" as a "character" part: a gigolo who lives on the earnings of a "girl" — no longer a sympathetic, fumbling romantic but instead a hard-bitten, tough "operator."

Like many members of her profession, Kay Medford, starring as a wordly woman, thrives on hard work; and she proved it during the filming of "Girl of the Night" by toiling before the cameras all day and winning ovations each night in her comedy role in the Broadway stage hit "Bye Bye Birdie." Miss Medford has appeared in an impressive string of Broadway successes, and she was most recently seen on the screen in "The Rat Race."

Producer Max Rosenberg introduces two new screen personalities in his bold film: cafe society entrepreneur Julius Monk and ingenue Eileen Fulton. Monk has already achieved wide fame as guiding light for the unique Upstairs - at - the - Downstairs and Downstairs - at - the- Upstairs cabaret in New York and plays Miss Medford's erudite boyfriend in the film.

Hysteria Scene Unitentional, Kept In Picture

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In "Midnight Lace," Doris Day does a hysteria scene that is Academy Award calibre—and it was unintentional.

Producer Marty Melcher, also Miss Day's husband, discloses that the actress worked herself into such a frenzy that she scared herself.

"I can't go on. I can't go on like this," she screamed. Melcher said she was speaking her mind—not the words in the script.

"But it was so hysterical that Director David Miller kept the cameras moving—and it stayed in the picture."

Visitor Lends Confusion To Movie Leaders

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Ustinov and Charles Laughton were standing together on the set during the filming of "Spartacus" when a woman visitor approached.

She greeted Laughton thus: "I thought you were wonderful in 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof.'"

Laughton smiled but didn't correct her for confusing him with Burl Ives.

Said Ustinov: "Don't worry, Charles. She'll come back and apologize."

She did come back. But she approached Ustinov this time, and asked: "Say, aren't you Walter Ustinov?"

HOSTAGE VETERAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Celia Salkeld, who has been acting in "The Hostage" for three years, notes a lot of change in the Brendan Behan opus.

She began with the show in first premier at Dublin and is still with the company at Broadway's Barrymore theater.

"It was an entirely different play then," she reports. "It was a serious play and there was none of the singing and dancing we have in it now."

Miss Salkeld, who is Behan's sister-in-law, says he wrote the play after a number of Irish actresses complained that his first script, "The Quare Fellow" had no feminine parts.

BUSIEST ACTOR

Whitman Pegged Star Successor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stuart Whitman, ex-boxer, ex-football player and ex-bulldozer, is the busiest actor in Hollywood because his bosses long ago pegged him as a young Clark Gable.

Studios for years have been looking for a young successor to the famed star. Now that death has taken the king, the search will be intensified.

A 20th Century-Fox executive explains Whitman's current work schedule, a throwback to the early 1930s.

"When you have someone who has the potential," says the exec, "there is only one way to build a major star—and that is by exposure. And we don't mean TV exposure—that's overexposure and usually a casting rut.

"About a year ago we decided Whitman had a little of the early Gable appeal in him, so we put him in movie after movie without a day off. Watch what happens to this boy in the next year."

It's true. Whitman finished "Murder, Inc.," in New York City, came home and kissed his wife and four kids goodby and left for Ireland to make "The Mark."

BUSY

That was his first trip overseas. As the picture neared its 11-week schedule, he bought a new English car and cabled his wife to join him for a continental vacation. She did, but she, like Whitman, saw only Ireland.

He finished work on a Friday and was told to report back to the studio on Monday to start "The Fiercest Heart." The last week of that picture he was told to start packing again. Now he's in Italy making "St. Francis of Assisi." He plays the fun-loving and disbelieving playboy friend of the saint.

"Stu doesn't know it," says the Fox executive, "but we may give him a week off between this one and his next—provided 'St. Francis' doesn't go over schedule."

Exposure plus a variety of roles—some of them heavies—is the Whitman program. It parallels that of Gable's 30 years ago.

Curtain Call

By BB STRON

Director Richard Clark announces the opening night for "The Gazebo," as Thursday, December 8th. The play is scheduled for a seven-night run through December 14th.

The hardworking cast and crew took off a couple of days to celebrate Thanksgiving. W. J. Haddad is taking a well-earned rest after "Ghosts' and the "Las Vegas Follies'. Dr. Beryl Franklin is planning to visit friends at LSU, and Gerry Lester, Violet Cotton and Lamar Mulligan will attend the teachers convention in Baton Rouge. Patricia Payton enjoyed an outstanding production in Shreveport last weekend, of T. S. Elliott's "Murder in the Cathedral,' at the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse. They will be back to nightly rehearsal after the short holiday to put the finishing touches on "The Gazebo" for opening night.

IN NEW YORK

Our president, Bob and Judy Evans, and daughter, Jan, are in New York this week, combining business with pleasure. They plan to see "Bye Bye Birdie," and "Under the Yum Yum Tree."

The next presentation of the Twin City Concerts will be "Amahal and the Night Visitors." They will be using local talent in the chorus and in the ballet. Curtis Rape, Charlene Correro and Pat Wattley will be dancing in the ballet.

Little Theatre members enjoyed our own Betty Bandy, John Pierpont and Dell Moore, who added a professional touch to "The Las Vegas Follies".

Our thanks to Mrs. Arthur Read, who contributed a formal dress suit to our Wardrobe Department.

PARTNERSHIP

News comes from New York that L. Slade Brown has recently formed a partnership with Ed Padula, who produced "Bye Bye Birdie,' to be known as Padula-Brown, Inc. "Bye Bye Birdie' is still running to capacity crowds in New York. Western Series Real Workout For Film Beauty

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joanne Dru, long accustomed to the pampered life of a movie star, is getting her lumps in a television series.

"Even in movie Westerns," says the beauteous actress, "I always had it soft. Doubles do all the tough work for you."

This season she's starred in "Guestward Ho" in which she plays a New York model who goes west with her city-bred husband to operate a dude ranch.

Much of her acting is done while cooking on a wood stove for which she has to chop the wood; sweeping with a straw broom; milking cows with her own pretty hands; cleaning the chimney; mending fences; scrubbing barns and painting walls.

Joanne, once a Copa girl in New York City, says she likes the job anyway.

"Where else do you get paid so well for doing chores?"

ADULT ENTERTAINMENT opens today at the Paramount Theatre in the showing of "Girl of the Night," which stars John Kerr and Ann Francis, along with Lloyd Nolan and Kay Medford. The picture is recommended for adults only.

AT PARAMOUNT

'Girl Of The Night' Theme Of Picture

A provocative social psycho-analytical study of a contemporary problem forms the basis for Warner Bros. "Girl of the Night," opening today at the Paramount Theatre.

Anne Francis stars in the title role with Lloyd Nolan portraying the analyst who attempts to guide her back to a more normal way of life. Kay Medford and John Kerr are also starred in the Vanguard Production as a worldly woman and the young man who lives off of Miss Francis and her earnings.

"Girl of the Night" was based on the Ph.D. thesis prepared by Dr. Harold Greenwald at Columbia University and subsequently published as "The Call Girl," immediately becoming a non-fiction best seller. It was adapted for the screen by Ted Berkman and Raphael Blau, who previously had scripted "Fear Strikes Out."

In detailing the struggle of a young woman to understand and rehabilitate herself with the aid of an analyst, "Girl of the Night" faithfully brings to the screen the factual material which was disclosed by Dr. Greenwald's trail-blazing study.

TOPCAST

Fresh from her starring role in Warner Bros.' "The Crowded Sky," Anne Francis is topcast as the "girl" of the title. The beautiful blonde actress has scored in a wide variety of roles in Hollywood.

Lloyd Nolan, regarded as an "actor's actor" by his colleagues, has won the Donaldson and New York Drama Critics' awards for his portrayal as the psychotic "Captain Queeg" in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial." Although Nolan emphasizes that he is not a "Method" actor, his performance as the analyst in "Girl of the Night" is subtly subdued and introspective: expressed in the hitch of a shoulder, the movement of his hands, the twitch of a lip.

Nolan's role as a psychoanalyst in "Girl of the Night" is in sharp contrast to his tremendous stage triumph as the psychotic officer in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

Young John Kerr has already achieved glowing stardom on the stage and screen. His memorable portrayal in the Broadway production of "Tea and Sympathy" brought him to Hollywood's attention and he has most recently scored in the screen presentation of "South Pacific" and "The Crowded Sky." Kerr conceives of his role in "Girl of the Night" as a "character" part: a gigolo who lives on the earnings of a "girl" — no longer a sympathetic, fumbling romantic but instead a hard-bitten, tough "operator."

Like many members of her profession, Kay Medford, starring as a wordly woman, thrives on hard work; and she proved it during the filming of "Girl of the Night" by toiling before the cameras all day and winning ovations each night in her comedy role in the Broadway stage hit "Bye Bye Birdie." Miss Medford has appeared in an impressive string of Broadway successes, and she was most recently seen on the screen in "The Rat Race."

Producer Max Rosenberg introduces two new screen personalities in his bold film: cafe society entrepreneur Julius Monk and ingenue Eileen Fulton. Monk has already achieved wide fame as guiding light for the unique Upstairs - at - the - Downstairs and Downstairs - at - the- Upstairs cabaret in New York and plays Miss Medford's erudite boyfriend in the film.

Hysteria Scene Unitentional, Kept In Picture

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In "Midnight Lace," Doris Day does a hysteria scene that is Academy Award calibre—and it was unintentional.

Producer Marty Melcher, also Miss Day's husband, discloses that the actress worked herself into such a frenzy that she scared herself.

"I can't go on. I can't go on like this," she screamed. Melcher said she was speaking her mind—not the words in the script.

"But it was so hysterical that Director David Miller kept the cameras moving—and it stayed in the picture."

Visitor Lends Confusion To Movie Leaders

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Ustinov and Charles Laughton were standing together on the set during the filming of "Spartacus" when a woman visitor approached.

She greeted Laughton thus: "I thought you were wonderful in 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof.'"

Laughton smiled but didn't correct her for confusing him with Burl Ives.

Said Ustinov: "Don't worry, Charles. She'll come back and apologize."

She did come back. But she approached Ustinov this time, and asked: "Say, aren't you Walter Ustinov?"

HOSTAGE VETERAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Celia Salkeld, who has been acting in "The Hostage" for three years, notes a lot of change in the Brendan Behan opus.

She began with the show in first premier at Dublin and is still with the company at Broadway's Barrymore theater.

"It was an entirely different play then," she reports. "It was a serious play and there was none of the singing and dancing we have in it now."

Miss Salkeld, who is Behan's sister-in-law, says he wrote the play after a number of Irish actresses complained that his first script, "The Quare Fellow" had no feminine parts.

BUSIEST ACTOR

Whitman Pegged Star Successor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stuart Whitman, ex-boxer, ex-football player and ex-bulldozer, is the busiest actor in Hollywood because his bosses long ago pegged him as a young Clark Gable.

Studios for years have been looking for a young successor to the famed star. Now that death has taken the king, the search will be intensified.

A 20th Century-Fox executive explains Whitman's current work schedule, a throwback to the early 1930s.

"When you have someone who has the potential," says the exec, "there is only one way to build a major star—and that is by exposure. And we don't mean TV exposure—that's overexposure and usually a casting rut.

"About a year ago we decided Whitman had a little of the early Gable appeal in him, so we put him in movie after movie without a day off. Watch what happens to this boy in the next year."

It's true. Whitman finished "Murder, Inc.," in New York City, came home and kissed his wife and four kids goodby and left for Ireland to make "The Mark."

BUSY

That was his first trip overseas. As the picture neared its 11-week schedule, he bought a new English car and cabled his wife to join him for a continental vacation. She did, but she, like Whitman, saw only Ireland.

He finished work on a Friday and was told to report back to the studio on Monday to start "The Fiercest Heart." The last week of that picture he was told to start packing again. Now he's in Italy making "St. Francis of Assisi." He plays the fun-loving and disbelieving playboy friend of the saint.

"Stu doesn't know it," says the Fox executive, "but we may give him a week off between this one and his next—provided 'St. Francis' doesn't go over schedule."

Exposure plus a variety of roles —some of them heavies—is the Whitman program. It parallels that of Gable's 30 years ago.

Curtain Call

By BB STRON

Director Richard Clark announces the opening night for "The Gazebo," as Thursday, December 8th. The play is scheduled for a seven-night run through December 14th.

The hardworking cast and crew took off a couple of days to celebrate Thanksgiving. W. J. Haddad is taking a well-earned rest after "Ghosts' and the "Las Vegas Follies'. Dr. Beryl Franklin is planning to visit friends at LSU, and Gerry Lester, Violet Cotton and Lamar Mulligan will attend the teachers convention in Baton Rouge. Patricia Payton enjoyed an outstanding production in Shreveport last weekend, of T. S. Elliott's "Murder in the Cathedral,' at the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse. They will be back to nightly rehearsal after the short holiday to put the finishing touches on "The Gazebo" for opening night.

IN NEW YORK

Our president, Bob and Judy Evans, and daughter, Jan, are in New York this week, combining business with pleasure. They plan to see "Bye Bye Birdie," and "Under the Yum Yum Tree."

The next presentation of the Twin City Concerts will be "Amahal and the Night Visitors." They will be using local talent in the chorus and in the ballet. Curtis Rape, Charlene Correro and Pat Wattley will be dancing in the ballet.

Little Theatre members enjoyed our own Betty Bandy, John Pierpont and Dell Moore, who added a professional touch to "The Las Vegas Follies".

Our thanks to Mrs. Arthur Read, who contributed a formal dress suit to our Wardrobe Department.

PARTNERSHIP

News comes from New York that L. Slade Brown has recently formed a partnership with Ed Padula, who produced "Bye Bye Birdie,' to be known as Padula-Brown, Inc. "Bye Bye Birdie' is still running to capacity crowds in New York. A national company is being formed to open in Los Angeles in April; Australia is to get an edition that will open in Melbourne probably early in February, and for England a company will begin rehearsals in late May. Columbia Pictures should start the cameras going on the film version next fall. L. Patsy Ann Wroten, Lt. John Taylor Exchange Wedding Vows In Bastrop

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Patsy Ann Wroten, daughter of Mrs. Morgan Aylmer Wroten of Bastrop, and Lt. John Robert Taylor, Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph John Taylor, Collingswood, New Jersey, were solemnized Saturday evening, November 26.

Father Irwin Huntsha performed the double ring ceremony at 5 o'clock in St. Joseph Catholic church at Bastrop, in a setting of white Fuji chrysanthemums and white tapers, banked with palms.

A prelude of nuptial selections was rendered by the organist, Sister Ruth, who accompanied Mrs. Edwards Barham as she sang "Ave Maria," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Bertney Landry, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of dull white Dulette satin. The close fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline scalloped with appliques of reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls, and long sleeves tapering to points over her hands. The belled skirt was appliqued with scattered motifs of the lace and a full cathedral train extended from beneath a soft obi sash at back of the waist. A crown of pearls held her fingertip illusion veil and her bouquet was fashioned of 25 white rosebuds with accents of small leafed ivy.

Mrs. Bertney Landry, Bastrop, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Flint Robertson, Bastrop, also a sister of the bride; Mrs. Charles L. Hamaker, Monroe, Miss Mahamalea Blizzard, Miss Annette Berry and Miss Kathryn Smithson, all of Shreveport.

The attendants were dressed identically in gowns of emerald green velveteen, styled with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and demi-belled skirts, draped to the side front. Crushed cummerbunds of emerald satin girdled the waists from which streamers extended to the hemlines. Brief nose veils attached to emerald bows formed their headdresses and their costumes were completed with matching satin shoes and long white kid gloves. The attendants carried crescent arrangements of white Fuji chrysanthemums and ivy.

Miss Susan Deering, Gonzales, La., was junior bridesmaid and Miss Cynthia Ann Robertson, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. Their dresses with full skirts were styled similar to the other attendants.

Serving his brother as best man was Lt. Joseph J. Taylor Jr., Tucson, Ariz. Groomsmen were Flint Robertson, Bastrop, brother-in-law of the bride; Lt. (j.g.) Thomas W. Taylor, Pensacola, Fla., brother of the bridegroom and ushers included Thomas Foley, Philadelphia, Pa., Lt. John Harvey Cameron, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Lt. Thomas Turnbull, Shreveport.

Ring bearers were Stephen Landry, Bastrop, nephew of the bride and Stephen Taylor, Tucson, Ariz., nephew of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Wroten, mother of the bride, was gowned in a dubarry rose lace sheath with floating back panel of chiffon, and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a Dior blue lace sheath, trimmed in satin, with matching accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

Morehouse Country club at Bastrop was scene of the reception following the church ceremony.

Centering the bride's table was an arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums and green grapes in a silver - based crystal epergne. White tapers in silver candelabra flanked the arrangement and crystal punch bowls were placed at each end of the table. Baskets of white chrysanthemums and palms decorated the reception rooms. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. W. T. Dudley, Elas, Texas; Mrs. T. B. Dainwood, Bastrop; Miss Mary Taylor and Miss Anne Taylor, both aunts of the groom from Philadelphia, Pa. The cake was served by Mrs. F. G. Kelly, Ruston, Mrs. E. L. Kelly, Shreveport; Mrs. J. L. Kelly, Angola and Mrs. F. G. Kelly, Ruston, Mrs. E. L. Kelly, Shreveport; Mrs. J. L. Kelly, Angola and Mrs. W. G. Kelly, Choudrant, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Thomas W. Taylor, Pensacola, Fla., and Mrs. Joseph J. Taylor Sr., Tucson, Ariz., alternated at the guest book.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, the bride was wearing an avocado green silk suit with matching hat and black accessories. They will be at home in Lompoc, Calif., where Lt. Taylor is stationed at Vandenberg air force missile base.

Mrs. Taylor attended Louisiana State University and summer school at the University of Hawaii. She was graduated from Centenary College and has been employed by Caddo Parish schools in Shreveport the past four years. Lt. Taylor is a graduated of the U. S. Naval Academy at Anapolis, Md.

MRS. JOHN ROBERT TAYLOR

Two Local Couples Host Thanksgiving Eve Dance

A gala event of Thanksgiving Eve, was a cocktail supper and dance hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Silverstein and Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Glazer Wednesday from 9 p.m. until midnight at the Paragon Club.

The ballroom of the club was transformed into a tropical paradise setting to keynote the Hawaiian Thanksgiving theme of the party.

Three exotic arrangements graced the long serving table with the central decor a pyramid formed by a cluster of cornucopias, filled and surrounded with gilded and glittered pineapples, artichokes, eggplant and bananas. Interspersed throughout the arrangement were exotic bird of paradise blooms from Hawaii in flaming orange shade, combined with colorful leaves, purple and green grapes and palm fronds.

Orange candles in gilt holders were placed between the two smaller arrangements of the glittered fruit and vegetables and bird of paradise blossoms. Glittered Hawaiian candles in bamboo poles completed the scene.

Tall palm trees from which were suspended tiny monkeys and Hawaiian leis, surrounded the dance floor and a fountain in front of the band stand, was banked with green potted plants. Music for dancing was provided by The Dukes.

The party foods and hors d'oeuvres also included various Hawaiian dishes.

For the occasion Mrs. Glazer wore a matte jersey frock in forest green, fashioned with drape effect from shoulder to hemline, with matching green satin shoes. Self - fabric roses adorned one shoulder. Mrs. Silverstein wore an "after five" dress of ice blue chiffon, detailed with lace and sequin - studded midriff. Her satin slippers were of matching blue shade.

Approximately 300 guests attended the gala event.

Mrs. Salisbury New Member Of Bosco HD Club

Mrs. Pat Salisbury was welcomed as a new member of the Bosco Home Demonstration club when it met recently in the home of Mrs. Allen Cloud.

Guests for the occasion were Mrs. Jack Russell, Mrs. Melba Givines, Mrs. Audrey Dawson and Miss Billie Cloud.

Mrs. Dawson gave the demonstration on the topic "Food for Health." Mrs. James Pender reported on trees, seeds to plant and bedding plants and bulbs to buy. A report on citizenship and civil defense was given by Mrs. Cloud.

Mrs. J. R. Lee won the door prize and during the social hour refreshments were served to 10 members. The December meeting will be in the home of Mrs. P. M. Jeter, for a Christmas gift exchange.

Jackson-Foster Vows Read In Natchez Setting

Stanton Hall, headquarters of the Pilgrimage Garden Club at Natchez, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Cole Armitage Foster and Percy Ventress Jackson III, Nashville, Tenn., solemnized Saturday, November 19 at 4 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Allison R. Foster of Natchez, and the late Mr. Foster. Mr. Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy V. Jackson Jr., of Franklin, Tennessee.

The Rev. J. Whitner Kennedy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Natchez, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Wylie Edward Ponder. Mrs. John R. Watts attended as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Helen Theus, Monroe; Miss Saigue Gadbois, Miss Rowan Moody of Natchez and Mrs. Jay Leidner of New Orleans.

The bridegroom's father attended as best man and groomsmen were Donald Jackson, his brother; Bruce P. Poole, Nashville, Tenn., Dr. John R. Watts and Lucien C. Gwin Jr., Natchez. Ushers were Tommy B. Buckles Jr., and Harry E. Viener of Natchez.

A program of nuptial music was played by Wayne Youree, who also accompanied Philip Ware, as he sang "The Lord's Prayer." After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Nashville.

Fifth Graders Give Program At Smith PTA

Members of the Parent-Teacher Association of the A. L. Smith school met November 17 in the school cafeteria with the president, Mrs. Ted Curtis, in charge. Coach Guy Carroll of Sterlington high school, gave the invocation.

A program of Thanksgiving songs and readings was given by students of the fifth grade, accompanied by Mrs. Jimmy Hayes, and led by Shirley Odom.

Mrs. Monroe Alford introduced the guest speaker, R. W. Guelzow of Commercial Solvents Corporation, who talked on "What Do Your Children and Their Education Mean to Industry?"

Refreshments were served by the women of Fairbanks with Mrs. Malvin Hendrix as chairman. Room count was won by Mrs. Richardson's fifth grade.

New Member Welcomed By Review Club

Mrs. Thomas C. Dansby was welcomed into membership of the Review Club when it was entertained Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., for the semi-monthly meeting.

The mantel of the antique white fireplace in the living room was decked with purple chrysanthemums in an amber compote, with matching candles at the opposite end. The seasonal note was further carried out in arrangements of flowers and fruit throughout the rooms.

Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, president, introduced Mrs. E. P. Cudd, chairman of the Home Life committee, who gave an inspiring Thanksgiving message on "Gratitude," followed by prayer.

Mrs. Sam Smith, treasurer, reported that a contribution had been sent to the United Givers Fund. A letter was read by Mrs. Claude Smith, from the Royal National Foundation, under the chairmanship of His Majesty, the King Paul of Greece, acknowledging the Review club's contribution of tools given through CARE to Greece. The tools have been presented to graduates of the technical and agriculture schools of the foundation for use in rural areas.

The afternoon's program was a continuation of the study of the Hawaiian Islands. The history report given by Mrs. A. T. Givens depicted the contrast of the old and modern customs of the islands in the fields of arts and crafts, industry, religion, education, social life and government. Mrs. Claude Smith reviewed the latter part of James A. Michener's novel, "Hawaii." Mr. Michener established residence in the islands a few years ago and has become an active participant in the civic affairs of Hawaii. This work of fiction can be properly called the first main chronicle of the land and its people with several dominating themes.

During the social hour at conclusion of the afternoon guests were invited into the dining room for dessert. Central decor for the polished table was an arrangement of yellow and white chrysanthemums, flanked by yellow tapers. The buffet was graced with a cluster of white paraffin fruit on an alabaster stand. Mrs. Inabnet presided at the coffee service and the hostess served confections to Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr., Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray Jr., Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Thomas C. Dansby, Mrs. George T. Walker, Mrs. Sam Smith and Mrs. L. M. Waddell.

Lakeshore PTA Hears Talk On Psychology

Lakeshore Parent - Teacher Association met Thursday evening, November 17 at the school with Mrs. J. B. Evans Sr., giving opening prayer. Group singing was led by Mrs. F. S. Fisher and Miss Evelyn Duke.

Dr. Robert O. Morrow, assistant professor of psychology at Northeast Louisiana State College, was guest speaker, and discussed the topic, "These Are Our Children."

He pointed out that mental and physical growth are determined by heredity to an extent of more than 75 per cent and that teachers and parents must accept the product of heredity to provide the best external environment in order for optimum social and emotional growth to occur.

Dr. Fred J. Vogel, president, conducted the business session during which reports were given. Mrs. Faye Cook's third grade won the room award and fifth grade parents were hosts during the social hour.

Readers, we hope, will be interested in hearing of some of the highlights of the 35th National Girl Scout Convention, attended by three delegates from our council, Mrs. Leon Noland Jr., program chairman and board member, Mrs. B. O. Yeldell Jr., member of a board committee, and Annis Klie, our professional.

The value of the uniform is evident when one attends a meeting of 5000 people, all in Girl Scout green. Thrilling to, is to meet people from all of the 50 states, to look at their badges and learn various council names.

From a stage decorated with thousands of Girl Scout roses, Mrs. Charles U. Culmer, national president, presided over the opening session. To the strains of a march played by a military band, hundreds of Intermediate and Senior Scouts, marching four abreast, carried their troop flags down the long aisle while the audience stood at attention. Using the theme of the birthday years, "Honor the past; serve the future", special recognition of founders was a part of the opening program. Daisy Gordon Lawrence, a niece of Juliette Low and a member of the first Girl Scout troop, wearing a replica of her first uniform, navy blue middy with light blue tie, was escorted to a place of honor on stage by the newest Brownie Scout in the St. Louis area.

One of the earliest leaders from each of the twelve regions was escorted to the stage by one of the newest leaders in the St. Louis area. The audience got a lot of laughs out of the old-style uniforms and even a few high buttoned shoes. Miss Mary Lee Cambre, of Alexandria, who became a leader in 1921, represented Region V. Seated in the frame of a cold trefoil, these women were an inspiring sight, pioneers, indeed, in work for girls.

By the modern miracle of radio and transatlantic telephone, Lady Baden - Powell, World Chief Guide, addressed one session from B.B.C., London. Representatives of many of the 50 countries which are members of the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides were guests of the convention. Mrs. Lykiadopoulo, chairman of the World Association, spoke on the international aspects of Scouting.

Several hundred Senior Scouts served as aides or attended as guests. Two of their representatives appeared on a panel when big national events, such as Round up, were under discussion.

The girls looked smart in the new Senior uniforms, the first our delegates had seen. These are just a few glimpses of convention. Our delegates wished all our leaders could have participated in the final ceremony honoring leaders. All leader delegates, seated in the center sections of the huge auditorium, received the golden shoulder ribbons which have just been adopted as leader insignia. Mrs. Culmer asked leaders to pin them on each other's uniforms. National officers and board members, following the flags as they were retired, lined both sides of the aisle in the rear of the hall, forming a guard of honor, while leaders, to stirring organ music, came down the aisle two by two. It took almost a half hour for all to pass, while those who were not leaders looked on and got a thrill of excitement out of the concluding ceremony of a thrilling convention.

Plans For Yule Party Made By Claiborne Club

Mrs. Jasper Jones was hostess to the Claiborne Home Demonstration club for its monthly meeting Wednesday, November 16 with Mrs. J. W. Fleming, co-hostess.

Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held Friday, December 16 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. C. A. Nenny, Farmerville Road.

"Food for Health" was the topic of the demonstration given by Mrs. Audrey Dawson, home demonstration agent. Mrs. J. R. Frantam gave a report of the last Council meeting and other reports included civil defense by Mrs. H. O. Eley; citizenship, Mrs. Charles Magowan and landscape and gardening, Mrs. L. M. Bayne.

Members attending were Mrs. E. H. Avent, Mrs. H. O. Eley, Mrs. L. M. Bayne, Mrs. Charles Glover, Mrs. E. C. Gaskins, Mrs. J. D. Cannon, Mrs. L. A. Malloy, Mrs. J. W. Fleming, Mrs. Ouida Jones, Mrs. R. R. Hearne, Mrs. J. R. Frantam, Mrs. Charles Magowan, Mrs. Bobby Norris, Mrs. C. W. Byrd, Mrs. L. E. McCurry, Mrs. Bill Dunn, Mrs. Henry O. Hartman, Mrs. James L. Perkins, Mrs. C. A. Nenny, Mrs. Monk Salley, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Dawson.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

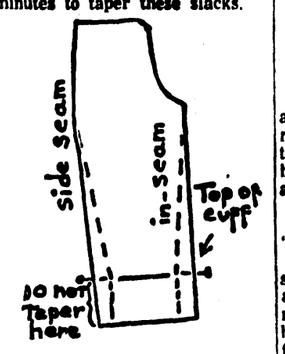

"All the guys in our fraternity have the same trouble. We all like our khakis and cords tapered at the bottom of the legs, but all the pants we can buy are too wide. There's a sewing machine at our house and we will try to fix these ourselves if you will tell us how."

The Kappa Sigs

Dear Kappa Sigs:

Just to think that you boys are aware of a column such as mine flatters me so much I am almost ready to fix them myself. You will be happy to know that it won't take more than a few minutes to taper these slacks.

1. Turn the slacks inside out and place a pin at the point where the top of the cuff comes. This should be done on both the in-seam and the side seam of each leg.

2. Rip the hem that forms the cuff.

3. Decide how much smaller you want the lower end of the slacks to be and mark each seam at he place where you placed the pin.

4. Take a yard stick and mark a straight line from this mark you have just made, up to the pocket on the side seam, and the crotch at the in-seam. See illustration.

5. The seam from the point you placed the pin, down to the end of the pants, must be straight. If you don't make this straight, the cuff will not turn up right.

6. When turning the hem up again, it may be machine stitched. The machine stitching will not show because it will be slightly under the finished cuff.

7. Turn up the cuff on the old crease marks, press and tack the cuff slightly at teach seam. Good luck!

MATCH NAP

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"Now that the season for velvets and corduroys is here again, would you please tell us about the nap?"

Mrs. L.J.

Dear. Mrs. L.J.:

First, and most important, every piece of your pattern must be laid in the same direction when using napped fabric.

With velvet, velveteen and corduroy, the nap should run UP. To test the direction of the nap, hold the fabric up to your body. When you run your fingers from the shoulder down, the fabric should feel rougher to the touch than it does when you run your fingers up.

The color will be much deeper and richer looking when cut correctly. You also will notice that the nap will not flatten out and become as shiny in such places as the back of your skirt.

BUTTONHOLE HINTS

"Dear Eunice:

"I sent for your leaflet with instructions on bound buttonholes and must tell you that I have never had them turn out so nice before. I'm showing all my friends how you make them. Is there any place I would not use this type of buttonhole?"

Your Fan

If everyone has the same kind of luck with them that you have, we will have overcome one of the hazards of "That home-made Look."

Don't use this type of buttonhole for anything you are making for boys or men, such as vests, sport jackets, sport shirts, etc. If you are using small buttons on blouses or tailored dresses such as shirtwaist dresses, you probably will use a machine - made buttonhole. It would be safe to sew them on anything that isn't man - tailored.

If you would like to have Eunice Farmer's free leaflet, "Bound Buttonholes" send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

PTA Purchases Equipment For Shady Grove

Officer Gregory of the Monroe Police Department was guest speaker at the November meeting of the Shady Grove Parent-Teacher Association held last Thursday.

"The Hazard of Wheels," was the topic for discussion. Officer Gregory graphically illustrated the statistics on auto accidents by pointing out that each year the number of persons killed in auto accidents is equal to the population of the city of Monroe.

Committee reports were given during the business session and the project chairman reported on the purchase of filing cabinets, library tables and other materials for the school.

Room count was a tie between Miss Winnie Mae Lindsay's third grade and Miss Jeanette Womack's sixth grade. A coffee hour was held following the meeting, at which time refreshments were served by the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Mamie Thomas.

Life Saving Is Demonstrated At Logtown PTA

A demonstration on life saving highlighted the program for Logtown Parent - Teacher Association when it met last Thursday afternoon in the school library. Mrs. Cecil M. McMullen, vice-president, conducted the business session.

Mrs. J. A. Bradford, program chairman, presented James McKay and four of his students, Dahnell McGuffee, Dottie Jones, Diane Dumas and Betty Arrant, who demonstrated various methods of life saving.

Mrs. Sprague, school librarian, gave an informative talk on the school library and its facilities and at conclusion of the afternoon refreshments were served by second grade room mothers, Mrs. A. O. Kitchens, Mrs. Webster Smith and Mrs. H. L. McDaris Jr.

Room count was won by Mrs. Tidwell's second grade.

Patsy Ann Wroten, Lt. John Taylor Exchange Wedding Vows In Bastrop

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Patsy Ann Wroten, daughter of Mrs. Morgan Aylmer Wroten of Bastrop, and Lt. John Robert Taylor, Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph John Taylor, Collingswood, New Jersey, were solemnized Saturday evening, November 26.

Father Irwin Huntsha performed the double ring ceremony at 5 o'clock in St. Joseph Catholic church at Bastrop, in a setting of white Fuji chrysanthemums and white tapers, banked with palms.

A prelude of nuptial selections was rendered by the organist, Sister Ruth, who accompanied Mrs. Edwards Barham as she sang "Ave Maria," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Bertney Landry, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of dull white Dulette satin. The close fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline scalloped with appliques of reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls, and long sleeves tapering to points over her hands. The belled skirt was appliqued with scattered motifs of the lace and a full cathedral train extended from beneath a soft obi sash at back of the waist. A crown of pearls held her fingertip illusion veil and her bouquet was fashioned of 25 white rosebuds with accents of small leafed ivy.

Mrs. Bertney Landry, Bastrop, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Flint Robertson, Bastrop, also a sister of the bride; Mrs. Charles L. Hamaker, Monroe, Miss Mahamalea Blizzard, Miss Annette Berry and Miss Kathryn Smithson, all of Shreveport.

The attendants were dressed identically in gowns of emerald green velveteen, styled with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and demi-belled skirts, draped to the side front. Crushed cummerbunds of emerald satin girdled the waists from which streamers extended to the hemlines. Brief nose veils attached to emerald bows formed their headdresses and their costumes were completed with matching satin shoes and long white kid gloves. The attendants carried crescent arrangements of white Fuji chrysanthemums and ivy.

Miss Susan Deering, Gonzales, La., was junior bridesmaid and Miss Cynthia Ann Robertson, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. Their dresses with full skirts were styled similar to the other attendants.

Serving his brother as best man was Lt. Joseph J. Taylor Jr., Tucson, Ariz. Groomsmen were Flint Robertson, Bastrop, brother-in-law of the bride; Lt. (j.g.) Thomas W. Taylor, Pensacola, Fla., brother of the bridegroom and ushers included Thomas Foley, Philadelphia, Pa., Lt. John Harvey Cameron, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Lt. Thomas Turnbull, Shreveport.

Ring bearers were Stephen Landry, Bastrop, nephew of the bride and Stephen Taylor, Tucson, Ariz., nephew of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Wroten, mother of the bride, was gowned in a dubarry rose lace sheath with floating back panel of chiffon, and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a Dior blue lace sheath, trimmed in satin, with matching accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

Morehouse Country club at Bastrop was scene of the reception following the church ceremony.

Centering the bride's table was an arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums and green grapes in a silver - based crystal epergne. White tapers in silver candelabra flanked the arrangement and crystal punch bowls were placed at each end of the table. Baskets of white chrysanthemums and palms decorated the reception rooms. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. W. T. Dudley, Elas, Texas; Mrs. T. B. Daimwood, Bastrop; Miss Mary Taylor and Miss Anne Taylor, both aunts of the groom from Philadelphia, Pa. The cake was served by Mrs. F. G. Kelly, Ruston, Mrs. E. L. Kelly, Shreveport; Mrs. J. L. Kelly, Angola and Mrs. F. G. Kelly, Ruston, Mrs. E. L. Kelly, Shreveport; Mrs. J. L. Kelly, Angola and Mrs. W. G. Kelly, Choudrant, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Thomas W. Taylor, Pensacola, Fla., and Mrs. Joseph J. Taylor Sr., Tucson, Ariz., alternated at the guest book.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, the bride was wearing an avocado green silk suit with matching hat and black accessories. They will be at home in Lompoc, Calif., where Lt. Taylor is stationed at Vandenberg air force missile base.

Mrs. Taylor attended Louisiana State University and summer school at the University of Hawaii. She was graduated from Centenary College and has been employed by Caddo Parish schools in Shreveport the past four years. Lt. Taylor is a graduated of the U. S. Naval Academy at Anapolis, Md.

MRS. JOHN ROBERT TAYLOR

Two Local Couples Host Thanksgiving Eve Dance

A gala event of Thanksgiving Eve, was a cocktail supper and dance hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Silverstein and Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Glazer Wednesday from 9 p.m. until midnight at the Paragon Club.

The ballroom of the club was transformed into a tropical paradise setting to keynote the Hawaiian Thanksgiving theme of the party.

Three exotic arrangements graced the long serving table with the central decor a pyramid formed by a cluster of cornucopias, filled and surrounded with gilded and glittered pineapples, artichokes, eggplant and bananas. Interspersed throughout the arrangement were exotic bird of paradise blooms from Hawaii in flaming orange shade, combined with colorful leaves, purple and green grapes and palm fronds.

Orange candles in gilt holders were placed between the two smaller arrangements of the glittered fruit and vegetables and bird of paradise blossoms. Glittered Hawaiian candles in bamboo poles completed the scene.

Tall palm trees from which were suspended tiny monkeys and Hawaiian leis, surrounded the dance floor and a fountain in front of the band stand, was banked with green potted plants. Music for dancing was provided by The Dukes.

The party foods and hors d'oeuvres also included various Hawaiian dishes.

For the occasion Mrs. Glazer wore a matte jersey frock in forest green, fashioned with drape effect from shoulder to hemline, with matching green satin shoes. Self - fabric roses adorned one shoulder. Mrs. Silverstein wore an "after five" dress of ice blue chiffon, detailed with lace and sequin - studded midriff. Her satin slippers were of matching blue shade.

Approximately 300 guests attended the gala event.

Mrs. Salisbury New Member Of Bosco HD Club

Mrs. Pat Salisbury was welcomed as a new member of the Bosco Home Demonstration club when it met recently in the home of Mrs. Allen Cloud.

Guests for the occasion were Mrs. Jack Russell, Mrs. Melba Givines, Mrs. Audrey Dawson and Miss Billie Cloud.

Mrs. Dawson gave the demonstration on the topic "Food for Health." Mrs. James Pender reported on trees, seeds to plant and bedding plants and bulbs to buy. A report on citizenship and civil defense was given by Mrs. Cloud.

Mrs. J. R. Lee won the door prize and during the social hour refreshments were served to 10 members. The December meeting will be in the home of Mrs. P. M. Jeter, for a Christmas gift exchange.

Jackson-Foster Vows Read In Natchez Setting

Stanton Hall, headquarters of the Pilgrimage Garden Club at Natchez, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Cole Armitage Foster and Percy Ventress Jackson III, Nashville, Tenn., solemnized Saturday, November 19 at 4 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Allison R. Foster of Natchez, and the late Mr. Foster. Mr. Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy V. Jackson Jr., of Franklin, Tennessee.

The Rev. J. Whitner Kennedy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Natchez, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Wylie Edward Ponder. Mrs. John R. Watts attended as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Helen Theus, Monroe; Miss Saigue Gadbois, Miss Rowan Moody of Natchez and Mrs. Jay Leidner of New Orleans.

The bridegroom's father attended as best man and groomsmen were Donald Jackson, his brother; Bruce P. Poole, Nashville, Tenn., Dr. John R. Watts and Lucien C. Gwin Jr., Natchez. Ushers were Tommy B. Buckles Jr., and Harry E. Viener of Natchez.

A program of nuptial music was played by Wayne Youree, who also accompanied Philip Ware, as he sang "The Lord's Prayer." After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Nashville.

Fifth Graders Give Program At Smith PTA

Members of the Parent-Teacher Association of the A. L. Smith school met November 17 in the school cafeteria with the president, Mrs. Ted Curtis, in charge. Coach Guy Carroll of Sterlington high school, gave the invocation.

A program of Thanksgiving songs and readings was given by students of the fifth grade, accompanied by Mrs. Jimmy Hayes, and led by Shirley Odom.

Mrs. Monroe Alford introduced the guest speaker, R. W. Guelzow of Commercial Solvents Corporation, who talked on "What Do Your Children and Their Education Mean to Industry?"

Refreshments were served by the women of Fairbanks with Mrs. Malvin Hendrix as chairman. Room count was won by Mrs. Richardson's fifth grade.

New Member Welcomed By Review Club

Mrs. Thomas C. Dansby was welcomed into membership of the Review Club when it was entertained Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., for the semi-monthly meeting.

The mantel of the antique white fireplace in the living room was decked with purple chrysanthemums in an amber compote, with matching candles at the opposite end. The seasonal note was further carried out in arrangements of flowers and fruit throughout the rooms.

Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, president, introduced Mrs. E. P. Cudd, chairman of the Home Life committee, who gave an inspiring Thanksgiving message on "Gratitude," followed by prayer.

Mrs. Sam Smith, treasurer, reported that a contribution had been sent to the United Givers Fund. A letter was read by Mrs. Claude Smith, from the Royal National Foundation, under the chairmanship of His Majesty, the King Paul of Greece, acknowledging the Review club's contribution of tools given through CARE to Greece. The tools have been presented to graduates of the technical and agriculture school's of the foundation for use in rural areas.

The afternoon's program was a continuation of the study of the Hawaiian Islands. The history report given by Mrs. A. T. Givens depicted the contrast of the old and modern customs of the islands in the fields of arts and crafts, industry, religion, education, social life and government. Mrs. Claude Smith reviewed the latter part of James A. Michener's novel, "Hawaii." Mr. Michener established residence in the islands a few years ago and has become an active participant in the civic affairs of Hawaii. This work of fiction can be properly called the first main chronicle of the land and its people with several dominating themes.

During the social hour at conclusion of the afternoon guests were invited into the dining room for dessert. Central decor for the polished table was an arrangement of yellow and white chrysanthemums, flanked by yellow tapers. The buffet was graced with a cluster of white paraffin fruit on an alabaster stand. Mrs. Inabnet presided at the coffee service and the hostess served confections to Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr., Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray Jr., Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Thomas C. Dansby, Mrs. George T. Walker, Mrs. Sam Smith and Mrs. L. M. Waddell.

Lakeshore PTA Hears Talk On Psychology

Lakeshore Parent - Teacher Association met Thursday evening, November 17 at the school with Mrs. J. B. Evans Sr., giving opening prayer. Group singing was led by Mrs. F. S. Fisher and Miss Evelyn Duke.

Dr. Robert O. Morrow, assistant professor of psychology at Northeast Louisiana State College, was guest speaker, and discussed the topic, "These Are Our Children."

He pointed out that mental and physical growth are determined by heredity to an extent of more than 75 per cent and that teachers and parents must accept the product of heredity to provide the best external environment in order for optimum social and emotional growth to occur.

Dr. Fred J. Vogel, president, conducted the business session during which reports were given. Mrs. Faye Cook's third grade won the room award and fifth grade parents were hosts during the social hour.

Cherry Chapman Is Wed To Paul Edwin Hynes

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Cherry Lou Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orland E. Chapman, West Monroe, and Paul Edwin Hynes, son of Cyril A. Hynes and the late Mrs. Hynes of Sulphur, were solemnized Sunday afternoon, November 20 in the First Baptist church of West Monroe.

Large fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, flanked by white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra against a background of southern smilax, formed the setting for the vows performed by Rev. Harold Cook at 3 p.m.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Ronnie Brothers, organist and Miss Pat Wells, who sang "I Love Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported white bridal silk in an original design, fashioned with portrait neckline with appliques of reembroidered lace embellished in tiny seed pearls. The gown also featured long tapering sleeves on a fitted bodice coming to a point over the flat front skirt encircled in the lace. Soft fabric roses caught up the sides to form a pouf effect and the lace appliques were repeated on the chapel train. Her veil of imported silk illusion fell in tiers from a crown of tiny seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Gerald Wayne Dyson of Ruston, was matron of honor and the bride's sister, Miss Sandra Chapman, served as maid of honor. They wore ballet length gowns designed with gold velvet fitted bodices and elbow length sleeves, with bell shaped skirts of satin in the same gold shade. They wore slippers in matching shade and minute pill box hats of the velvet and satin with matching nose veils.

Bridesmaids were Miss [illegible] Taylor, cousin of the bride, Miss Charlotte Null and Miss Diana Cobb, who were dressed identical to the honor attendants'. All carried cascade arrangements of large bronze chrysanthemums and feathered and pompon chrysanthemums accented with satin leaves.

Miss Karen Hynes, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a floor length dress of white silk organza, with scalloped flounce and carried a nosegay of white roses and feathered chrysanthemums.

George Hynes attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were David Marchman, Joe Hinton and Don Tippit. Ushers included Jim Campbell, Pat Garrett and Bud Viator and the ring bearer was Kirby Adams.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Chapman wore a gown of blue lace over taffeta fashioned with a side drape, matching slippers and hat of blue feathers and sequins. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The round cake table was covered with a floor length cloth of white net over satin. Pompons and bracken fern encircled the all white cake on a mirror plaque. The reception table was also covered with white net over satin and held two crystal punch bowls at opposite ends of a mass arrangement of white pompons and white beauty branched and silked fern, flanked with tapers in crystal holders.

Mrs. H. O. Taylor Jr. served the cake and Mrs. G. V. Brown and Mrs. W. W. Chapman presided at the punch bowls. Registering guests at the bride's book from a table holding a memory candle nestled in nylon net poufs, was Miss Tommie Sue Lowery.

Assisting at the reception were Misses Camille Camp, Polly Riser, Helen Fielder and Linda Loper. Rice bags of white tulle tied with blue ribbon were distributed by Mike and Deborah Taylor.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Gulf Coast the bride changed to a pale beige wool sheath with matching jacket and large fox collar. Her hat was of beaver and other accessories were brown lizard. The couple will be at home in Ruston where both will continue studies at Louisiana Tech. Mrs. Hynes, a graduate of West Monroe high school and a junior at Tech, is a member of Phi Mu. In high school she was a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Delta Kappa Pi. Mr. Hynes was graduated from Sulphur high school and is a senior at Tech.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Baker, Fort Worth, Tex., Mrs. George Hynes, Tyler, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Sam Adams, Pine Bluff, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Chapman, Eddie and Diane, Lake Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lyons and Miss Hazel Jean Lyons, DeQuincy; Mrs. Dorothy Gilmer, Sulphur; Mrs. Pittman Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Williams and family, Shreveport; Mrs. Benton Slack, Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor and Jana, Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lewis and Misses Linda and Barbara Lewis, Cotton Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker and Rodney, Tallulah; Mrs. John A. Faculty Women Make Plans For Holiday Parties

Northeast Louisiana State College Women's club met Monday, November 21 in the Little Theater on the campus, at which time plans were announced the annual Christmas dinner for faculty and staff of the college.

Mrs. Fern Whatley, president, opened the meeting with a prayer in form of a Thanksgiving poem, "What to be Thankful For," by Jim Bishop.

Mrs. Whatley announced the Christmas dinner to be held Saturday night, December 17 in the new cafeteria at the college. A party for children of faculty members is planned for December 16 at 4 p.m. in the Student Center.

Mrs. Montez Smith introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Jane Watson, home service representative of Louisiana Power & Light company, and wife of Jewel Watson, professor of business at the college. Mrs. Watson gave an informative talk and demonstration Christmas lighting and decorations for the home.

At conclusion of the meeting members adjourned to the lounge for refreshments. The serving table, covered with a white linen cloth had for a centerpiece a silver bowl of yellow pompon chrysanthemums. Mrs. Lawrence Browning and Mrs. John McCarter presided at the silver coffee services.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Evelyn Morton, chairman; Mrs. Myrna Perkins, co-chairman; Mrs. Jane Price, Mrs. Juanita Kilpatrick, Mrs. Marjorie Huffman, Mrs. Louise McCarter, Mrs. Lillian Parkerson, Mrs. Ruth Monroe, Mrs. Bea Moak, Mrs. Avis Barrett, Mrs. Marlene Browning, Mrs. Beth Anderson, Mrs. Harry Bland, Mrs. R. E. Britt Jr., and Mrs. Frances Brown.

Sherrouse PTA Shown Physical Skills By Pupils

Students of all five grades of Sherrouse School participated in a demonstration of modern dynamic physical fitness activities when the Parent - Teacher Association met Thursday evening, November 17 in the school auditorium.

Mrs. W. L. Allen, president, presented Mrs. W. S. Vincent, principal of the school, who emphasized the importance of daily outdoor physical activity in the proper development of the child's body and the ability to use it skillfully.

Students from the first grade gave singing and rhythmic exercises and the second graders performed an Indian dance, song and Indian pin relay. A singing game, bean bag relay and walking, running and galloping exercises were presented by the third grade. Fourth grade students did precision marching, calisthenics, stunts and self - testing activities. Rope jumping and a game of newcum ball were demonstrated by the fifth grade girls while the boys performed calisthenics and a "skin the snake" relay.

Each parent was given an information sheet summarizing the child's physical needs and questioning the parent's individual interest in his child's recreational activities.

AFTER WEDDING

Actress, Husband Begin Honeymoon

EVERLY HBILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actress Debbie Reynolds honeymooned at an undisclosed hideaway Saturday with multimillionaire shoe store owner Harry Karl.

"Someplace warm," was the only hint the bouncy blonde gave when asked where she and the graying Karl would spend the weekend. One guess was Palm Springs. The bride reports back to work Monday before the cameras.

Miss Reynolds, 28, former wife of singer Eddie Fisher, and Karl, 46 and five times wed, were married Friday night at the sumptuous home of the bridegroom's sister, Sarah Pollack.

The wedding caught Hollywood by surprise, although the pair had been dating for a year.

"We decided a few days ago to get married now," the actress said, "so the children can have a real family Christmas."

She has two youngsters, Carrie Frances, 4, and Todd, 3, by Fisher. Their celebrated romance broke up early last year. Fisher married screen beauty Elizabeth Taylor shortly after Debbie testified at her divorce trial that: "My husband became interested in another woman." She didn't name Miss Taylor.

Fisher and Miss Taylor are due in Palm Springs Monday. The pair, now in Paris, wished Miss Reynolds well.

"We want to wish her all the happiness she so richly deserves," Fisher said. "Elizabeth and I are very happy for her."

Fisher said the marriage would cut sharply the $1 million alimony settlement made at the time of his divorce.

"But this is no time to talk about that," he said.

Miss Taylor fell sick recently in London, but Fisher said she now "is feeling much better."

On their return the newlyweds will move into the house Debbie once occupied with Fisher. Karl recently sold his $450,000 Beverly Hills home and is building another, larger one.

For the wedding, Miss Reynolds wore an ankle-length wedding dress of pale blue. She described her ring as "a plain wedding band of diamonds."

"I feel wonderful," she said after the ceremony.

"I never felt better in my life," Karl added.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Mills, pastor of the nondenominational Little Brown Church of the Valley.

Karl's previous marriages were to Los Angeles socialite Ruth Lamb, actress Marie (The Body) McDonald (twice) and Joan Cohn, widow of Harry Cohn, founder of Columbia Pictures.

A false alarm Saturday temporarily halted the hunt, but it was resumed again after it was learned the wreckage sighted was from an old air crash.

There were 33 passengers and crewmen aboard the DC-3 PAL mainliner when it disappeared.

Red Chinese Critical Of Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. officials reported Saturday that there is some evidence that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may have come under personal attack by the Chinese Comunists for his policy of trying to deal with the West on a basis of "peaceful coexistence."

They said there were "leaks" from the Red summit meeting in Moscow, not yet officially confirmed, that Chinese President Liu Shao-cyi denounced the Soviet leader by name during a speech at the secret Kremlin gathering.

U.S. officials pointed out that this would be the first time that the Chinese Reds, who demand a more aggressive policy for international Communism, have concentrated top level fire on Khrushchev himself. Heretofore, they have confined themselves to a general denunciation of "deviationist" theories and policies.

It might also indicate that Peiping believes the time has come when Khrushchev can be ousted from his position by elements within the Soviet leadership who are known to be somewhat dissatisfied with his so-called "soft" approach towards the West.

The Chinese Reds insist that war with the West is inevitable at some point before the global victory of international communism. Khrushchev claims this is not necessarily so.

Albanian Comunist chief Enver Hoxha, who left for home Friday, has strongly supported the Chinese and also predicts privately that Khrushchev's days are numbered, according to Communist sources in Washington.

U.S. officials said that while the reported personal attack on Khrushchev could not yet be confirmed it nevertheless was obvious that he had encountered stormy weather.

It appears to be fairly well established, they said, that the ideological split between the two giants of the Communist world is as great as ever, if not greater. This dispute has been sharpened by Communist China's entry into direct competition with Russia to see which will be the leader in exporting communism to olatin America and Africa.

WEEKLY REPORT

Seven Wells Finaled In Oil, Gas District

By RICHARD GREENE
Oil Editor

The rainy weather that came in the early part of last week and the Thanksgiving Holiday both failed to slow the pace of oil activity in the 14-parish Monroe district as seven new wells were completed.

This was reported by Duncan S. Cook, manager of the Monroe district of the State Department of Conservation.

Rain and a holiday lull would ordinarily have caused quite a let-up in the industry, but the number of new completions was only one below the previous week's total and there were also two wells re-completed. The new locations did, however, drop to nine, which is a let-down from the preceeding period's total of 25.

Also listed in the report were seven wells that were plugged and abandoned due to little or no production, and a total of 23 rigs active in the fields.

Following are the new completions:

CATAHOULA

Wildcat Field — Bodcaw Co.'s Nebo Fee no. 111 in sec. 16-7-6E, completed to pump 15 barrels from perforations at 2441-45 ft., gravity 23.

LaSALLE

Little Creek Field — John S. Callon and S. M. Callon's Doughty-Callon no. 2 in sec. 32-9-2E, completed to pump 56 barrels from perforations at 2576-80 ft., gravity 31.

Olla Field — Ark Fuel Oil Corp's Trem. Lbr. Co. A-33 in sec. 33-10-2E, completed to pump 66 barrels from perforations at 2296-2306 ft., casing pressure 359 lbs.

Tullos Urania Field—Ark Fuel Oil Corp.'s Trem. Lbr. Co. "C" no. 40 in sec. 2-9-1E, completed to pump 12 barrels from open hole at 1492-1501 ft., gravity 21.1.

OUACHITA

Calhoun Field — Ark La Gas Co.'s R. R. Fuller no. 2-D in sec. 3-17-1E, completed to flow 3000 MCF through a 24-64 in. choke from perforations at 7253-67 ft., tubing pressure 950 lbs.

TENSAS

Buckhorn Field — Est of William G. Helis' Gerbisn no. 2 in sec. 35-12-11E, completed to flow 160 barrels through a 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 8730-34 ft., tubing pressure 1550 lbs. gas oil ratio 850:1, gravity 40.1.

UNION

Monroe Field — Southwest Natural Prod. Co.'s Emma Rabun no. 1-A in sec. 36-20-2E, completed to flow 3046 MCF, rock pressure 9.65 lbs.

These two wells were re-completed:

CATAHOULA

Saline Lake Field — Hunt Oil Co.'s La Delta Hdw. Lbr. Co. no. 105 in sec. 32-5-5E, re-completed to pump 31 barrels, tubing pressure 100 lbs., gravity 45.5.

CONCORDIA

Clayton Field — William Heard Jr.'s Miller et al no. 1-D in sec. 40-8-10E, re-completed to pump 44 barrels from perforations at 5059-64 ft., tubing pressure 50 lbs., gas oil ratio 400:1, gravity 45.

These are the new locations:

CATAHOULA

Boltners Brake Field — Olin Oil and Gas Ten Delta Ltd. Co.'s Olin Ten Delta No. 1, located 665 ft. south and 1987 ft. east of the NW corner of sec. 8-6-5E.

Wallace Lake Field — R. A. Campbell Co.'s Steve L. Collins no. 1, located 330 ft. from the east line and 660 ft. from the south line of the SE¼-SW¼ of sec. 15-8-6E.

FRANKLIN

Wildcat Field — Monsanto Chemical Co.'s Leila no. 1, located 663 ft. from the west line and 723 ft. from the north line of the NW¼-NW¼ of sec. 5-13-8E.

ABANDONMENTS

Two holes were plugged and abandoned in the Wildcat field of Catahoula Parish, and another in the Tew Lake field. Two others were left in Concordia in the Wildcat and Milestone Forks fields; two in LaSalle, the Olla and Searcy fields.

Mississippi Triple Zone Well Possible

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Humble Oil and Refining Co. may have a three-zone producer if tests go well.

The company is testing a second sand in the new Yazoo County discovery well, which established production in a lower Hosston sand at 10,445-53 feet.

The discovery well was the Thompson No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w. Production gauge on the first sand tested was 198 barrels 41 gravity oil per day.

TESTS MADE

Operators began testing a zone at 10,297-315 feet and plan to test a third sand at 10,170 feet.

The well is four miles east of Bentonia and six miles southeast of the giant Tinsley oil field.

Two other wildcat locations have been announced for Yazoo County.

Continental Oil Co. is working on the Freudenberg No. 1, sec. 24-12n2w, a 14,100-foot try east of Yazoo City.

Drilling and Exploration Co. is working on the Bob and Theresa Bridgeforth No. 1, sec. 24-12n-3e, a 5,200 foot try near the Pickens oil field.

In Pike County, R. E. Williams shut down after logging slight oil shows in the wildcat May-Love No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e. The well was drilled to 11,344 feet. The oil shows were in the Tuscaloosa sand at 10,328 feet.

The wildcat is three miles northeast of Summit oil field.

FIELD DRILLING

At McComb in Pike County, Sun Oil Co. completed the Mabry unit No. 1, sec. 29-7n-5e at 97 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 20,917-27 feet.

Also at McComb, Will Knight completed the O'Brien No. 1, (no section) at 148 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,880-90 feet.

In Pike County's Summit field, Larco Drilling Co. completed the Cain No. 1, sec. 22-4n-7e at 157 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,372-84 feet.

In Lamar County's Baxterville field, Gulf Oil Corp. completed the Bass No. 45, sec. 13-1n-15w, at 103 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 8,721 feet.

In Hancock County's Ashley field, Shallow Oil Co. completed the International-Alexander No. 1, sec. 25-8s-16w, at 575,000 cubic feet of gas daily from a sand at 10,779-811 feet.

Cotton Futures Show Losses On N. Y. Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Contracts for cotton delivery continued to sag on the New York Cotton Exchange this week. Closing with losses of 70 cents to $1.05 a bale.

Distant July suffered the biggest loss as prices were trimmed for the second successive week.

Short covering in advance of the first notice day for the current December delivery trimmed prices somewhat early in the week, along with the Census Bureau ginning report issuing some doubt whether the crop would equal the government's Nov. 1 forecast.

Prices later softened on trade and commission house liquidation, which met limited demand; a slight increase in bales selling and a gradual increase in certificated stock with an additional quantity said to be certificated.

The Census Bureau reported 10,521,000 bales ginned to Nov. 14 compared with 11,585,000 to the same time last year and an average of 10,437,000 for the past 10 seasons. The exchange service bureau said ginnings thus far represented about 72 per cent of the prospective crop compared with 79 per cent a year ago and 73 per cent on average for the past 10 years.

Registrations for exports reported to the Commodity Credit Corp. rose to 220,679 in the week ended Nov. 18 from 179,330 a week earlier, bringing the total for the season to 3,339,000.

Exports, meanwhile, were estimated by the exchange service bureau at 118,000 bales in the week ended Tuesday compared with 151,000 the previous week and 225,000 in the similar 1959 week. For the season through Nov. 22 exports were estimated at 1,070,000 bales vs 1,268,000 to the same time last year.

GOP Postpones Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee has postponed its scheduled December meeting until Jan. 6-7. GOP National Chairman Thruston B. Morton notified members Tuesday the change had been made because of "conflicts of plans with many members of the national committee, in addition to the launching of vote recount and fraud investigations in several states this week."

Hamilton Management Corp. is sponsor and investment manager of Hamilton Funds, Inc., a registered common stock mutual fund investment plan whose shares are distributed in 46 states and 23 foreign areas.

New Directory

NEW ORLEANS — A new Directory of National Associations of Businessmen has been published by the U. S. Department of Commerce, according to an announcement by Edwin A. Leland Jr., manager of the Department's New Orleans field office.

The new 1960 edition contains 81 pages and lists all major national trade associations and about 90 societies of engineers and scientists. It is available at the Commerce Departments New Orleans field office, 1508 Masonic Temple Building.

FINANCIAL OIL-GAS NEWS

COMMERCIAL GAS SALES now are five times greater than 1941, and the number of commercial gas users in the United States has doubled to run far ahead of general business growth. Nearly 2.4 million commercial customers use gas for such applications as heating and air conditioning, cooking, water heating and incineration.

BY NATURAL GAS

Stiff Competition Dealt Domestic Oil

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic crude oil is receiving rather stiff competition from some of its own by-products.

Natural gas liquids are claiming an increasing share of the domestic petroleum products market.

Such liquids, in effect, are produced coincidental with oil and gas. They are, for the most part, gaseous while in the ground but change to liquids when processed at oil refineries and natural gas plants. They range from natural gasoline to such liquified petroleum gases as butane and propane.

Natural gas liquids in 1931 supplied less than 2 per cent of total domestic demand for petroleum products. The 1960 share will be close to 10 per cent.

The 10 per cent still is comparatively small. But the domestic crude producer, faced with a world surplus of oil, is beginning to show concern.

STEADY

The steady growth by the liquids is one of several factors involved in recent requests independent producers have made for an overhaul of the formula for determining crude quotas under the mandatory controls program for oil imports.

Anticipated continued growth by the liquids also is contributing to the rather pessimistic forecasts being made for domestic crude requirements the next five years.

A report placed before the American Petroleum Institute Convention last week in Chicago estimated domestic demand for petroleum products will increase from 2 to 2½ per cent annually the next three to five years. An increase of only 1 to 1½ per cent annually was forecast for domestic and imported crude.

The report said there is little doubt increasing production of natural gas liquids will continue to supply part of the increased demand.

Independent operators contend the growth of natural gas liquids is increasing the crude quotas for imports. Current quotas are based on 9 per cent of total domestic products demand, including natural gas liquids. The independents contend quotas based on 10 per cent of domestic crude demand would cut crude imports 170,000 barrels a day.

Drillsteam Tests Show Results In Jackson Parish

Jackson Parish in North Central Louisiana yesterday was assured of its second producing area after drillsteam tests by Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., of its No. 1 Kavanaugh well showed for good commercial gas production with some gas - distillate.

The well is located in section 22-T17n-R15W nine miles west of Texas Gas Exploration Company's T. L. Scarborough No. 1 which was completed on Oct. 22 as the first oil producer for Jackson Parish. It is also about 13 miles southwest of the big Calhoun field of Ouachita Parish.

On drillsteam test of a Hosston zone at 7,666-76 feet the Kavanaugh well showed a calculated open flow the rate of 77,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with an estimated 3 to 4 barrels of distillate per million.

Arkansas Louisiana gas Co. officials said the well will be drilled to 10,500 feet to seek additional zones, especially the prolific Cadeville sand found in both the Calhoun field and the Texas Gas discovery below 9,000 feet.

The gas company has approximately 6,400 acres under lease in the Kavanaugh discovery area, which also is only 9 miles south of ArkLa's Natural gasoline plant in Ruston field.

Merchants Hope For Yule Record

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas buying season got off to a colorful start the past week amid high hopes by merchants that the dollars spent will add up to a new record.

The National Retail Merchants Association predicted that dollar volume will run two per cent ahead of the all-time high 1959 total.

Merchants in bigger cities launched the yule season with spectacular parades. Holiday decorations went up in store windows and on their buildings.

Although there are spotty segments in the economy which have brought on high unemployment, the outlook appears better than last year, when the steel strike threw hundreds of thousands out of work.

The Christmas season, as always, will tell the story of what kind of a year 1960 is for the retailing industry. The storekeepers expect the period between now and Dec. 25 to account for 17 to 20 per cent of the year's sales.

NOT GOOD

The week before Thanksgiving Day wasn't a very good one for the stores. Dollar volume was unchanged to four per cent below the corresponding week a year ago. Merchants blamed unusually warm weather for holding back early Christmas buying.

The consumer suffered a blow where it hurts — in the pocketbook. Living costs rose to a new high in October. The government's price index advanced fourtenths of one per cent to 127.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

The increase was the largest since last April. Nearly half of it was due to higher food prices.

And food prices are still going up. Wholesale food costs, as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., index, rose to a new 1960 high the past week for the third consecutive week.

The Thanksgiving holiday put a crimp in business activity, particularly in the steel and automobile industries, where some plants closed down for the entire weekend.

STEELS

Steel output declined to 47.5 per cent of capacity from 51.6 per cent the previous week. The trade publication Iron Age predicted that steel operations probably will drop next month to the year's lowest level.

The automobile industry made its sixth millionth car of the year as it turned out an estimated total of 116,000 passenger units the past week. The previous week's total was 148,866. Production this year is expected to total about 6.5 million.

Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. had good news for motorists, announcing a cut of $1 to $4 in the prices of passenger car tires.

The commerce department reported that the factory output of manufacturers has not shown a pickup of seasonal proportions so far this fall. It added that there is no indication of a change in the flow of new orders.

ON PERMITS LIST

Church Building Project Planned

A $22,000 remodeling project for the bottom floor of the education building at the First Baptist church was one of the leading construction jobs listed in the Monroe building inspector's office during the past week.

Dale Martha issued a permit for alterations to the church's brick veneer education building, 201 St. John St.

All partitions on the ground floor will be removed, new fixtures will be installed, new classrooms for young marrieds' classes, seven closets and four lavatories will be added, Martha stated.

The entire east side of the floor will be remodeled into a modern nursery, where babies will be cared for while the parents attend services.

OTHER PERMITS

The permit was issued Friday. Others issued during the past week include:

Monday, Nov. 21:

Dr. O. H. Vreeland, add one room and one bath to brick veneer residence, 211 Lakeside Dr., 604 square feet, $3500.

Everett G. Heller, construct brick veneer residence, six rooms, two baths, 1405 Speed St., 2000 square feet, $24,500.

Mary Graham, add one room to frame residence, 3011 Pippin St., 192 square feet, $570.

Monroe Linen Co., repair burned cleaners building, 405 S. Grand St., $9210.

George W. Stewart, add carport to frame residence, 705 Reed St., $150.

Savage Brothers received two permits: 1. alter two story frame and block apartment by remodeling two rooms and bath, 1304 McGuire Ave., $1200; 2. construct brick veneer residence, five rooms and bath, 2905 S. Sixth St., 1100 square feet, $10,200.

Mrs. J. A. Maggio, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 1407 Glenmar, 1400 square feet, $11,000.

Twin City Lumber Co., alter frame residence, 3013 Pippin St., $900.

Tuesday, Nov. 22:

Charles Anderson, move frame residence to Mercy Street, outside the Monroe city limits, from West Monroe, size 24 by 40 by 15 feet high, $750.

Wednesday, Nov. 23:

Louvella Gary received three permits to add baths, each 16 square feet, cost of each $41, to frame residences at: 1. 901-A Camp; 2. 901-B Camp and 3. 901-C Camp Street.

Henry Braxton, add 60 square feet to frame residence, 1907 Griffin St., $100.

Friday, Nov. 25:

Usrey Lumber and Supply Co., construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 2012 Sherwood Dr., 1455 square feet, $12,000.

Rocco Giurlando, construct frame retail store, one room, 712 Jackson St., 628 square feet, $800.

Professional Management Angles Told

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most everyone knows that professional management is the backbone of the mutual fund industry.

But not many people know much about this professional management. It actually starts with the research men who travel thousands of miles each year in search of investment values.

One such industry specialist is Harcourt Wood of the Boston Fund, a 28-year-old balanced mutual fund with assets of more than $225 million. Wood, a graduate of Harvard College and the Harvard Business School, follows the electronics and electrical equipment, office equipment, finance and glass industries for Boston Fund.

Last year he traveled some 28,000 miles in quest of investment values. He actually spent about one-third of his travel time interviewing key executives of more than 60 corporations across the United States and Canada. He made an average of 11 visits per trip.

REPORTS

And this extensive travel schedule is only part of Wood's job. He also reads five newspapers daily, six trade papers a week and several magazines each month. He also sifts through all sorts of reports, news releases, industry figures, and government statistics to confirm and augment his field trip findings.

What does a research man look for in his interviews? According to Wood the key to investment research is the evaluation of a company's management. "But, we also look at a company's plant, new products, earnings picture, competition and pricing, expansion plans and financing requirements," he added.

An industry specialist really moves into action upon his return from a field trip. In Wood's case, he first prepares for the entire staff a capsule report of each company visit.

... Prepare Industry Reviews ...

This is followed by a verbal report at one of the fund's two weekly staff meetings. More complete written reports come later with specific recommendations which are taken up by an investment committee at its weekly meeting.

Wood and the other Boston Fund research men also prepare semi- annual industry reviews which are discussed throughly by the entire staff. And meetings are held almost daily with various officers of the fund to talk over a significant development within an industry.

Although his job may seem a bit hectic to most people, Wood said it does offer a great deal of personal satisfaction. "We are left to our own devices and the doors always are open for the presentation of new ideas," he said.

Livestock Market Summary Given For Past Week

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA) —Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

Compared Friday last week: Barrows and gilts sold 50-1.00 higher with the most advance on weights under 230 lbs. Sow advanced 25-50. Mixed grades No. 1 and 2 and mixed No. 1 2 and 3 190-220 lb barrows and gilts closed at 18.60-18.85; 27 head No. 1 at around 210 lbs 19.00; mixed No. 1, 2 and 3 mixed No. 2 and 3 200-240 lbs barrows and gilts brought 18.00-18.65 with mixed No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 240-280 lbs 17.50-18.00; mixed grades No. 1, 2 and 3 and mixed No.2 and 3 300-400 lb sows 14.75-16.50; mixed grades 2 and 3 and No. 3 400-550 lbs 13.75-15.25.

Cattle Slaughter steers and heifers were 1.25-1.75 higher with all weights and grades sharing in advance, cows strong to 50 higher, bulls strong, vealers steady to 1.00 lower.

Bulk of choice and prime 900-1,450 lbs slaughter steers 26.00-28.75 with closing sales from 26.-75-28.75, dozen loads prime 1,100-1,400 lb to 29.00. Several loads high choice 1,000-1,100 lb steer many loads prime and mixed choice and prime 1,050-1,450 lb weights brough 28.00-28.75 and numerous loads choice 1,100-1,375 lb steers brought 27.00-27.75.

Load lots mixed good and choice steers 900-1,300 lbs 26.00-27.00 late with bulkd good grades 24.75-26.50. Standard and mixed standard and good steers 23.00-24.50. Mixed choice and prime slaughter heifers 25.75-27.00 largely 26.50 up with bulk choice 25.25-26.50 at the close. Mixed good and choice heifers 24.75-25.25 late with bulk good 23.00-24.75. Utility and commercial bulls 17.00-20.00. Good and choice vealers 21.00-25.00.

Sheep—Compared with Friday last week: Slaughter lambs strong to mostly 50 higher. Ewes advanced 50-1.00 and reached the higest levels since last July. Several loads choice and prime 100-112 lb fed western wooled lambs 18.00-18.25, four decks 105 lbs mixed shorn and wooled 17.00. A load choice and prime 94 lb shorn fed lambs with No. 1 pelts also 17.50. Choice and prime wooled native lambs 17.50-18.00, most choice 17.00-17.50. Cull to choice wooled slaughter ewes largely 5.00-5.50.

Most Grains Show Advance

CHICAGO (UPI)— All grain futures but rye and July soybeans advanced this week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Compared with last Friday, wheat was up 1½ to 2¼, corn up 1 to 1¾; oats up ¼ to 1⅜, rye off 3⅝ to 3¾, soybeans off ¼ to up ⅝, and drummed lard up 20 to 35 points.

Corn bounced back sharply after sinking to new lows for the season Monday. The December contract sold down to $1.60¼, which was the lowest price for any corn future since 1942.

Weak cash markets burdened corn futures early in the week. But cash corn turned upward when receipts fell off, and futures followed along.

Heads Awards Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Veteran producer and songwriter Arthur Freed was selected Tuesday to produce the 33rd annual Academy Awards show April 17. It will be televised and carried on radio.

DESPITE UNCERTAINTY IN ECONOMY

Fair Advances Made In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite uncertainty about the economy, the stock market made a pretty fair advance this week.

The Thanksgiving Day market recess cut the number of trading days down to four and was an additional depressant. Many traders squared away their commitments on Wednesday and went off for a long weekend.

Although expectations were for a very dull session on Friday, the market finally perked up after a couple of hours of hesitation and posted the best daily advance in more than two weeks.

Speculative demand was quite lively for more volatile stocks in the fields of electronics, vending machines and bowling equipment. Some of this buying spilled over into the less glamorous issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average spent most of the week lurking just above the 600 level which is now regarded as a downside support. There was no overwhelming opinion in Wall Street that the Dow 600 would prove a very sturdy downside barrier if a real test were made; but as things happened, the list remained well above it.

The Dow industrials on the week rose 2.85 to 606.47.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.00 to 216.30.

Volume for the holiday-shortened week was 12.71 million compared with 13.97 million for the previous market week of five full days. Average daily trading was 3.12 million shares, well above average for the year and the best since the week ended Nov. 12 when it was 3.44 million.

Of 1,423 issues traded, 712 advanced and 534 declined. New highs for the year totaled 71 and new lows 63.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Universal Controls, up ¾ at 15¼ on 103,200 shares.

For the fourth week in a row U.S. government bond prices faltered this holiday week. Corporates also ended on the downside as the result of a steep plunge by utility bonds.

The setback among Treasury issues did not include the shortest maturity bonds. However, among the others it was sharper than the last two weeks while still within ¾ of a point .Since the start of November the list has given up ¾ to 1½ or 2 full points.

There was little in the way of news or developments to lure either the big or small investor back into the bond markets. Trading retained the relaxed pace of the entire month. Thursday's Thanksgiving holiday lull carried over into Friday.

Volume totaled $21.55 million par value on the New York Stock Exchange compared with $24.71 million the previous week while the average for four sessions was $5.39 million compared with just below $5 million.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced this week to 216.3 from 214.3 a week ago. The commodity index, led by livestock, advanced to 162.1 from 160.6 last week. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

WEEKLY REPORT

Seven Wells Finaled In Oil, Gas District

By RICHARD GREENE
Oil Editor

The rainy weather that came in the early part of last week and the Thanksgiving Holiday both failed to slow the pace of oil activity in the 14-parish Monroe district as seven new wells were completed.

This was reported by Duncan S. Cook, manager of the Monroe district of the State Department of Conservation.

Rain and a holiday lull would ordinarily have caused quite a let-up in the industry, but the number of new completions was only one below the previous week's total and there were also two wells re-completed. The new locations did, however, drop to nine, which is a let-down from the preceeding period's total of 25.

Also listed in the report were seven wells that were plugged and abandoned due to little or no production, and a total of 23 rigs active in the fields.

Following are the new completions:

CATAHOULA

Wildcat Field — Bodcaw Co.'s Nebo Fee no. 111 in sec. 16-7-6E, completed to pump 15 barrels from perforations at 2441-45 ft., gravity 23.

LaSALLE

Little Creek Field — John S. Callon and S. M. Callon's Doughty-Callon no. 2 in sec. 32-9-2E, completed to pump 56 barrels from perforations at 2576-80 ft., gravity 31.

Olla Field — Ark Fuel Oil Corp.'s Trem. Lbr. Co. A-38 in sec. 33-10-2E, completed to pump 66 barrels from perforations at 2298-2306 ft., casing pressure 359 lbs.

TuNos Urania Field—Ark Fuel Oil Corp.'s Trem. Lbr. Co. "C" no. 40 in sec. 2-9-1E, completed to pump 12 barrels from open hole at 1492-1501 ft., gravity 21.1.

OUACHITA

Calhoun Field — Ark La Gas Co.'s R. R. Fuller no. 2-D in sec. 3-17-1E, completed to flow 3000 MCF through a 24-64 in. choke from perforations at 7253-67 ft., tubing pressure 950 lbs.

TENSAS

Buckhorn Field — Est of William G. Helis' Gerbish no. 2 in sec. 35-12-11E, completed to flow 160 barrels through a 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 8730-34 ft., tubing pressure 1550 lbs. gas oil ratio 850:1, gravity 40.1.

UNION

Monroe Field — Southwest Natural Prod. Co.'s Emma Rabun no. 1-A in sec. 36-20-2E, completed to flow 3046 MCF, rock pressure 995 lbs.

These two wells were re-completed:

CATAHOULA

Saline Lake Field — Hunt Oil Co.'s La Delta Hdw. Lbr. Co. no. 106 in sec. 32-5-5E, re-completed to pump 31 barrels, tubing pressure 100 lbs., gravity 45.5.

CONCORDIA

Clayton Field — William Heard Jr.'s Miller et al no. 1-D in sec. 40-8-10E, re-completed to pump 44 barrels from perforations at 5059-64 ft., tubing pressure 50 lbs., gas oil ratio 400:1, gravity 45.

These are the new locations:

CATAHOULA

Mississippi Triple Zone Well Possible

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Humble Oil and Refining Co. may have a three-zone producer if tests go well.

The company is testing a second sand in the new Yazoo County discovery well, which established production in a lower Hosston sand at 10,445-53 feet.

The discovery well was the Thompson No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w. Production gauge on the first sand tested was 198 barrels 41 gravity oil per day.

TESTS MADE

Operators began testing a zone at 10,297-315 feet and plan to test a third sand at 10,170 feet.

The well is four miles east of Bentonia and six miles southeast of the giant Tinsley oil field.

Two other wildcat locations have been announced for Yazoo County.

Continental Oil Co. is working on the Freudenberg No. 1, sec. 24-12n2w, a 14,100-foot try east of Yazoo City.

Drilling and Exploration Co. is working on the Bob and Theresa Bridgeforth No. 1, sec. 21-12n-3e, a 5,200-foot try near the Pickens oil field.

In Pike County, R. E. Williams shut down after logging slight oil shows in the wildcat May-Love No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e. The well was drilled to 11,144 feet. The oil shows were in the Tuscaloosa sand at 10,828 feet.

The wildcat is three miles northeast of Summit oil field.

FIELD DRILLING

At McComb in Pike County, Sun Oil Co. completed the McCool unit No. 1, sec. 3-3n-7e, at 97 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,917-27 feet.

Also at McComb, Will Knight completed the O'Brien No. 1, (no section) at 148 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,880-90 feet.

In Pike County's Summit field, Larco Drilling Co. completed the Cain No. 1, sec. 22-4n-7e at 157 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,872-84 feet.

In Lamar County's Baxterville field, Gulf Oil Corp. completed the Bass No. 45, sec. 13-1n-15w, at 108 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 8,721 feet.

In Hancock County's Ashley field, Shallow Oil Co. completed the International-Alexander No. 1, sec. 25-9s-16w, at 575,000 cubic feet of gas daily from a sand at 10,779-844 feet.

Cotton Futures Show Losses On N. Y. Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Contracts for future delivery continued to sag on the New York Cotton Exchange this week, closing with losses of 70 cents to $1.65 a bale.

Distant July suffered the biggest loss as prices were trimmed for the second successive week.

Short covering in advance of the first notice day for the current December delivery firmned prices somewhat early in the week, along with the Census Bureau ginnings report raising some doubt whether the crop would equal the government's Nov. 1 forecast.

Prices later softened on trade and commission house liquidation, which met limited demand; a slight increase in hedge selling and a gradual increase in certificated stock with an additional quantity still to be certificated.

The Census Bureau reported 10,321,000 bales ginned to Nov. 14 compared with 11,585,000 to the same time last year and an average of 10,487,000 for the past 10 seasons. The exchange service bureau said ginnings thus far represented about 72 per cent of the prospective crop compared with 80 per cent a year ago and 78 per cent on average for the past 10 years.

Registrations for exports reported to the Commodity Credit Corp. rose to 230,679 in the week ended Nov. 18 from 179,380 a week earlier, bringing the total for the season to 3,839,000.

Exports, meanwhile, were estimated by the exchange service bureau at 118,000 bales in the week ended Tuesday compared with 151,000 the previous week and 225,000 in the similar 1959 week. For the season through Nov. 22 exports were estimated at 1,070,000 bales vs 1,268,000 to the same time last year.

GOP Postpones Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee has postponed its scheduled December meeting until Jan. 6-7, GOP National Chairman Thruston B. Morton notified members Tuesday the change had been made because of "conflicts of plans with many members of the national committee, in addition to the launching of vote recount and fraud investigations in several states this week."

FINANCIAL $ OIL-GAS NEWS

COMMERCIAL GAS SALES now are five times greater than 1941, and the number of commercial gas users in the United States has doubled to run far ahead of general business growth. Nearly 2.4 million commercial customers use gas for such applications as heating and air conditioning, cooking, water heating and incineration.

BY NATURAL GAS

Stiff Competition Dealt Domestic Oil

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic crude oil is receiving rather stiff competition from sone of its own by-products.

Natural gas liquids are claiming an increasing share of the domestic petroleum products market.

Such liquids, in effect, are produced coincidental with oil and gas. They are, for the most part, gaseous while in the ground but change to liquids when processed at oil refineries and natural gas plants. They range from natural gasoline to such liquified petroleum gases as butane and propane.

Natural gas liquids in 1931 supplied less than 2 per cent of total domestic demand for petroleum products. The 1960 share will be close to 10 per cent.

The 10 per cent still is comparatively small. But the domestic crude producer, faced with a world surplus of oil, is beginning to show concern.

STEADY

The steady growth by the liquids is one of several factors involved in recent requests independent producers have made for an overhaul of the formula for determining crude quotas under the mandatory controls program for oil imports.

Anticipated continued growth by the liquids also is contributing to the rather pessimistic forecasts being made for domestic crude requirements the next five years.

A report placed before the American Petroleum Institute Convention last week in Chicago estimated domestic demand for petroleum products will increase from 2 to 2½ per cent annually the next three to five years. An increase of only 1 to 1½ per cent annually was forecast for domestic and imported crude.

The report said there is litt'e doubt increasing production of natural gas liquids will continue to supply part of the increased demand.

Independent operators contend the growth of natural gas liquids is increasing the crude quotas for imports. Current quotas are based on 9 per cent of total domestic products demand, including natural gas liquids. The independents contend quotas based on 10 per cent of domestic crude demand would cut crude imports 170,000 barrels a day.

Drillsteam Tests Show Results In Jackson Parish

Jackson Parish in North Central Louisiana yesterday was assured of its second producing area after drillsteam tests by Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., of its No. 1 Kavanaugh well showed for good commercial gas production with some gas - distillate.

The well is located in section 22-T17n-R15W nine miles west of Texas Gas Exploration Company's T. L. Scarborough No. 1 which was completed on Oct. 22 as the first oil producer for Jackson Parish. It is also about 13 miles southwest of the big Calhoun field of Ouachita Parish.

On drillsteam test of a Hosston zone at 7,666-76 feet the Kavanaugh well showed a calculated open flow the rate of 77,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with an estimated 3 to 4 barrels of distillate per million.

Arkansas Louisiana gas Co. officials said the well will be drilled to 10,500 feet to seek additional zones, especially the prolific Cadeville sand found in both the Calhoun field and the Texas Gas discovery below 9,000 feet.

The gas company has approximately 6,400 acres under lease in the Kavanaugh discovery area, which also is only 9 miles south of ArkLa's Natural gasoline plant in Ruston field.

DESPITE UNCERTAINTY IN ECONOMY

Fair Advances Made In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite uncertainty about the economy, the stock market made a pretty fair advance this week.

The Thanksgiving Day market recess cut the number of trading days down to four and was an additional depressant. Many traders squared away their commitments on Wednesday and went off for a long weekend.

Although expectations were for a very dull session on Friday, the market finally perked up after a couple of hours of hesitation and posted the best daily advance in more than two weeks.

Speculative demand was quite lively for more volatile stocks in the fields of electronics, vending machines and bowling equipment. Some of this buying spilled over into the less glamorous issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average spent most of the week lurking just above the 600 level which is now regarded as a downside support. There was no overwhelming opinion in Wall Street that the Dow 600 would prove a very sturdy downside barrier if a real test were made; but as things happened, the list remained well above it.

The Dow industrials on the week rose 2.85 to 606.47.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.00 to 216.30.

Volume for the holiday-shortened week was 12.71 million compared with 13.97 million for the previous market week of five full days. Average daily trading was 3.12 million shares, well above average for the year and the best since the week ended Nov. 12 when it was 3.44 million.

Of 1,423 issues traded, 712 advanced and 534 declined. New highs for the year totaled 71 and new lows 63.

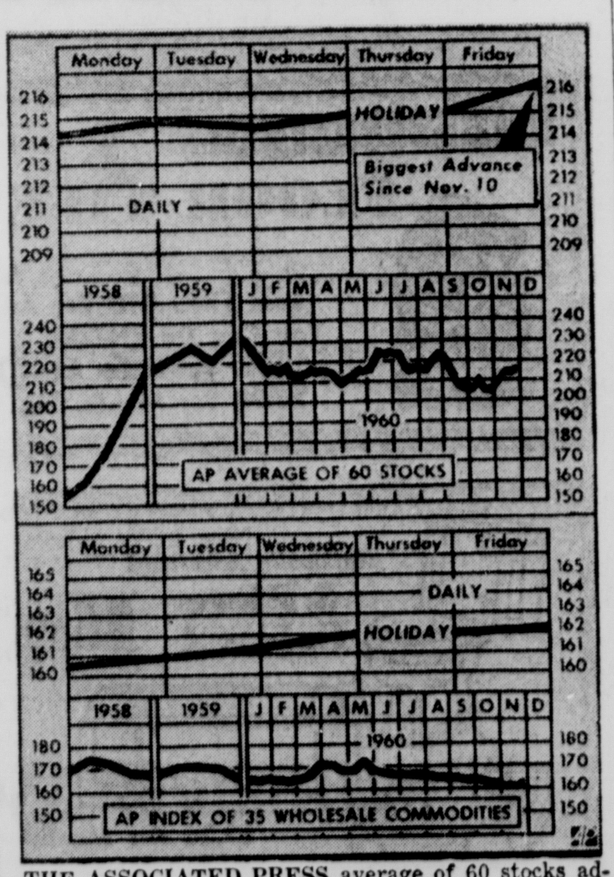

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Universal Controls, up ⅜ at 15¼ on 103,200 shares.

For the fourth week in a row U.S. government bond prices faltered this holiday week. Corporates also ended on the downside as the result of a steep plunge by utility bonds.

The setback among Treasury issues did not include the shortest maturity bonds. However, among the others it was sharper than the last two weeks while still within ¾ of a point .Since the start of November the list has given up ¾ to 1½ or 2 full points.

There was little in the way of news or developments to lure either the big or small investor back into the bond markets. Trading retained the relaxed pace of the entire month. Thursday's Thanksgiving holiday lull carried over into Friday.

Volume totaled $21.55 million par value on the New York Stock Exchange compared with $24.71 million the previous week while the average for four sessions was $5.39 million compared with just below $5 million.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced this week to 216.3 from 214.3 a week ago. The commodity index, led by livestock, advanced to 162.1 from 160.6 last week. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Merchants Hope For Yule Record

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas buying season got off to a colorful start the past week amid high hopes by merchants that the dollars spent will add up to a new record.

The National Retail Merchants Association predicted that dollar volume will run two per cent ahead of the all-time high 1959 total.

Merchants in bigger cities launched the yule season with spectacular parades. Holiday decorations went up in store windows and on their buildings.

Although there are spotty segments in the economy which have brought on high unemployment, the outlook appears better than last year, when the steel strike threw hundreds of thousands out of work.

The Christmas season, as always, will tell the story of what kind of a year 1960 is for the retailing industry. The storekeepers expect the period between now and Dec. 25 to account for 17 to 20 per cent of the year's sales.

NOT GOOD

The week before Thanksgiving Day wasn't a very good one for the stores. Dollar volume was unchanged to four per cent below the corresponding week a year ago. Merchants blamed unusually warm weather for holding back early Christmas buying.

The consumer suffered a blow where it hurts — in the pocketbook. Living costs rose to a new high in October. The government's price index advanced fourtenths of one per cent to 127.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

The increase was the largest since last April. Nearly half of it was due to higher food prices.

And food prices are still going up. Wholesale food costs, as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., index, rose to a new 1960 high the past week for the third consecutive week.

The Thanksgiving holiday put a crimp in business activity, particularly in the steel and automobile industries, where some plants closed down for the entire weekerd.

STEELS

Steel output declined to 47.5 per cent of capacity from 51.6 per cent the previous week. The trade publication Iron Age predicted that steel operations probably will drop next month to the year's lowest level.

The automobile industry made its sixth millionth car of the year as it turned out an estimated total of 116,000 passenger units the past week. The previous week's total was 148,866. Production this year is expected to total about 6.5 million.

Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. had good news for motorists, announcing a cut of $1 to $4 in the prices of passenger car tires.

The commerce department reported that the factory output of manufacturers has not shown a pickup of seasonal proportions so far this fall. It added that there is no indication of a change in the flow of new orders.

Professional Management Angles Told

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most everyone knows that professional management is the backbone of the mutual fund industry.

But not many people know much about this professional management. It actually starts with the research men who travel thousands of miles each year in search of investment values.

One such industry specialist is Harcourt Wood of the Boston Fund, a 28-year-old balanced mutual fund with assets of more than $225 million. Wood, a graduate of Harvard College and the Harvard Business School, follows the electronics and electrical equipment, office equipment, finance and glass industries for Boston Fund.

Last year he traveled some 28,000 miles in quest of investment values. He actually spent about one-third of his travel time interviewing key executives of more than 60 corporations across the United States and Canada. He made an average of 11 visits per trip.

REPORTS

And this extensive travel schedule is only part of Wood's job. He also reads five newspapers daily, six trade papers a week and several magazines each month. He also sifts through all sorts of reports, news releases, industry figures, and government statistics to confirm and augment his field trip findings.

What does a research man look for in his interviews? According to Wood the key to investment research is the evaluation of a company's management. "But, we also look at a company's plant, new products, earnings picture, competition and pricing, expansion plans and financing requirements," he added.

An industry specialist really moves into action upon his return from a field trip. In Wood's case, he first prepares for the entire staff a capsule report of each company visit.

Prepare Industry Reviews

This is followed by a verbal report at one of the fund's two weekly staff meetings. More complete written reports come later with specific recommendations which are taken up by an investment committee at its weekly meeting.

Wood and the other Boston Fund research men also prepare semi- annual industry reviews which are discussed throughly by the entire staff. And meetings are held almost daily with various officers of the fund to talk over a significant development within an industry.

Although his job may seem a bit hectic to most people, Wood said it does offer a great deal of personal satisfaction. "We are left to our own devices and the doors always are open for the presentation of new ideas," he said.

Most Grains Show Advance

CHICAGO (UPI)— All grain futures but rye and July soybeans advanced this week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Compared with last Friday, wheat was up 1½ to 2¼, corn up 1 to 1¾; oats up ¼ to 1⅛, rye off 3⅜ to 3¾, soybeans off ¼ to up ⅝, and drummed lard up 20 to 35 points.

Corn bounced back sharply after sinking to new lows for the season Monday. The December contract sold down to $1.00¼, which was the lowest price for any corn future since 1942.

Weak cash markets burdened corn futures early in the week. But cash corn turned upward when receipts fell off, and futures followed along.

CONSERVATIVES WIN

Laborites Lose In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — New Zealand is switching back to free enterprise government after three years under Socialist rule.

A general election Saturday restored the conservative-minded National party to power. The Laborites of Prime Minister Walter Nash, who squeezed out a narrow victory in 1957, were ousted.

The Nationals took 45 of the 80 seats in New Zealand's single-house Parliament. The Laborites, who held 41 seats in the old Parliament, dropped to 35, according to unofficial returns.

Nash, 78, conceded to Keith J. Holyoake, 56, a farmer who heads the National party and is in line to take over the prime ministry.

"We will build a nation in the South Pacific," Holyoake said in a broadcast to New Zealand's 2.4 million people.

Two small parties—Social Credit and the Communists—repeated their 1957 performance by getting not a single seat.

Absentee ballots could change one or two seats at most, still leaving the National party in command.

New Zealand is a British Commonwealth nation composed of two large islands and a group of smaller ones. New Zealand belongs to the Southwest Aisa Treaty Organization and is linked with Australia and the United States under a 1952 defense alliance the ANZUS treaty.

Foreign policy had almost no bearing in the election campaigns of the two major parties. Both pledged continued close bonds with the Commonwealth, the United Nations, SEATO and ANZUS. The big stress by each party was on slightly reduced taxes.

But the National party promised, in addition, and end to compulsory union membership. It promised cheaper housing loans and general reliance on personal incentive, free interprise and private ownership.

Under the Labor party there has been no high commissioner for New Zealand in London and no minister in Washington. The National party said it would fill those posts again.

The Labor party here is similar to the Socialists in Britain. It traces its background 50 years to the Socialist days in the British Isles, origin of many immigrants who settled here.

New Zealand had 14 years of socialism under the Labor party from 1935 to 1949. The National party ruled for the next eight years, up to the last general election in 1957.

Labor made glittering promises three years ago, but the high cost of implementing them, plus dwindling overseas markets, cost the party much of its appeal.

The National party leader first entered Parliament 28 years ago. Holyoake became prime minister for just 11 weeks when he took over from retiring Sir Sidney Holland before the 1957 election.

Nash, a veteran politican and statesman, emigrated to New Zealand from England in 1909. He has been active in Socialist politics since arriving. His parliamentary tenur spans 31 years.

British Papers Splash News Of Kennedy Baby

LONDON (AP)— Young John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., is getting the royal treatment in royalty-minded London.

For the second straight day British newspapers, which get off an old subject right quickly and onto new ones, splashed the news of President-elect John F. Kennedy's baby just as if a new and highly desirable prince had come onto the scene.

There were photographs in all the high-circulation dailies showing Kennedy being congratulated by a nurse in the hospital where the baby was born early Friday.

Much was made of the fact that Queen Elizabeth II had sent congratulations. Drawing further on the royal analogy, the Times commented: "Press coverage of the event has been so enthusiastic and detailed that one could get the impression that this was a royal birth and the dynasty had been saved."

The Times added: "It seems likely that Mrs. Kennedy, who was educated partly at the Sorbonne (in Paris) will bring a more cosmopolitan and cultured atmosphere to the White House than has been seen there in quite a long time."

The Daily Telegraph, an independent newspaper which avoids the offbeat and maintains a serious tone, headline: "U.S. Celebrates Son for Mrs. Kennedy.

CONSERVATIVES WIN

Laborites Lose In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — New Zealand is switching back to free enterprise government after three years under Socialist rule.

A general election Saturday restored the conservative-minded National party to power. The Laborites of Prime Minister Walter Nash, who squeezed out a narrow victory in 1957, were ousted.

The Nationals took 45 of the 80 seats in New Zealand's single-house Parliament. The Laborites, who held 41 seats in the old Parliament, dropped to 35, according to unofficial returns.

Nash, 78, conceded to Keith J. Holyoake, 56, a farmer who heads the National party and is in line to take over the prime ministry.

"We will build a nation in the South Pacific," Holyoake said in a broadcast to New Zealand's 2.4 million people.

Two small parties—Social Credit and the Communists—repeated their 1957 performance by getting not a single seat.

Absentee ballots could change one or two seats at most, still leaving the National party in command.

New Zealand is a British Commonweath nation composed of two large islands and a group of smaller ones. New Zealand belongs to the Southwest Aisa Treaty Organization and is linked with Australia and the United States under a 1952 defense alliance the ANZUS treaty.

Foreign policy had almost no bearing in the election campaigns of the two major parties. Both pledged continued close bonds with the Commonwealth, the United Nations, SEATO and ANZUS. The big stress by each party was on slightly reduced taxes.

But the National party promised, in addition, and end to compulsory union membership. It promised cheaper housing loans and general reliance on personal incentive, free interprise and private ownership.

Under the Labor party there has been no high commissioner for New Zealand in London and no minister in Washington. The National party said it would fill those posts again.

The Labor party here is similar to the Socialists in Britain. It traces its background 50 years to the Socialist days in the British Isles, origin of many immigrants who settled here.

New Zealand had 14 years of socialism under the Labor party from 1935 to 1949. The National party ruled for the next eight years, up to the last general election in 1957.

Labor made glittering promises three years ago, but the high cost of implementing them, plus dwindling overseas markets, cost the party much of its appeal.

The National party leader first entered Parliament 28 years ago. Holyoake became prime minister for just 11 weeks when he took over from retiring Sir Sidney Holland before the 1957 election.

Nash, a veteran politican and statesman, emigrated to New Zealand from England in 1909. He has been active in Socialist politics since arriving. His parliamentary tenur spans 31 years.

White House To Be Home For Children

By MARGARET KERNODLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — After next Jan. 20 it will be story-telling time again in a White House nursery each night.

For the first time in 28 years, small children will be regular residents at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. Caroline Kennedy, 3, and her infant brother, John F. Kennedy Jr., will be moving into the executive mansion after Sen. John F. Kennedy takes the presidential oath on the Capitol steps.

They'll find the huge White House south lawn a wonderful, safe place to play as Buzzie and Sistie Dall did back in 1933 when their mother went to the White House to live with her father, President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Buzzie was 3 then, while his big sister was 6.

Four grandchildren of President Dwight D. Eisenhower have been [illegible] house [illegible] Doud Eisenhower, 12, Dublin, John, 8, and Mary Jean, 4, Gettysburg, Pa., the third [illegible] produced quickly. Outside the diplomatic reception room on the ground floor they had a garage to park bikes, trucks, wagons and other toys on one side of a corridor.

Caroline Kennedy will bring her nylon bag of favorite books, dolls and roller skates to the beautiful mansion where her mother, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, 31, will make an effort to give her and her brother a normal happy childhood while their father occupies the [illegible]

The Kennedy's son is the first baby born to a president-elect, but two daughters were born in the White House to President Grover Cleveland during his second administration. [illegible] Dent Grant was born [illegible] her grandfather, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, was president.

The six children of President Theodore Roosevelt perhaps were the gayest, most madcap children of all the White House hears. Their spotted pony rode White House elevators with them. They took ducks and dogs, cats and rabbits to bed with them. At least once a meeting of senators broke up when Quentin Roosevelt came in with a [illegible] mounted a different ring [illegible] arm.

[illegible] important visitors while he bowed [illegible] to make polite little speech. But he loved also to smear [illegible] with ink.

President John [illegible] had children aged 11 to 3 and to them he wrote a letter laying down guidelines like this:

"Now, my children, during the next few years we are to occupy the home of the president of the United States. I hope that you will conduct yourselves with even more than your usual propriety and decorum.

"Remember you will be much in the public eye. You are to know no favorites. Your visitors will be [illegible] be [illegible] You [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] however, and allow [illegible] approach you on the [illegible] of fice on favors. [illegible] you will kindly remember [illegible] it not be incumbent [illegible] to speak them again."

At their ages, Caroline and John Junior are not likely to be bothered by favor-seekers. But they will have to become accustomed to spending most of their time outside their big home under the watchful eyes of Secret Service men assigned to protect around the calendar and around the clock.

Balsamo Rites Are Pending

Mrs. Ella Balsamo, 68, died unexpectedly at her residence at 1901 Breard St. late Friday night.

Funeral service arrangements were incomplete last night but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mrs Balsamo was a native of Caldwell Parish but had lived in Monroe for the past 30 years.

She is survived by her husband, Frank Balsamo, Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Wilson, Virginia; three stepsons, James, Charles and Matthew Balsamo, all of Monroe; three brothers, J. D. and Isaac Soloman, both of Columbia, and Dan Solomon, Monroe; and one sister.

Revival Series To Start Monday

A two week revival series will get underway Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Southside Assembly of God Church, 600 South 8th St., West Monroe.

Delivering the sermons as well as special music and singing will be the Rev. Gerald Lewis, and his wife, Shirley Nettles Lewis, both well known as evangelists.

The Rev. Lewis is pastor of the Lake Village, Ark., Assembly of God Church.

David Eisenhower, 12, Baraba, 11, Susan, 8, and Mary Jean, 4, like the solarium on the third floor too. Also the special kitchen where hot dogs and hamburgers for children can be produced quickly. Outside the diplomatic reception room on the ground floor they had a garage to park bikes, trucks, wagons and other toys on one side of a corridor.

Caroline Kennedy will bring her nylon bag of favorite books, dolls and roller skates to the beautiful mansion where her mother, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, 31, will make an effort to give her and her brother a normal happy childhood while their father occupies the most important office in the Western world.

The Kennedy's son is the first baby born to a president-elect, but two daughters were born in the White House to President Grover Cleveland during his second administration. And Julia Dent Grant was born there while her grandfather, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, was president.

The six children of President Theodore Roosevelt perhaps were the gayest, most madcap children of all the White House hears. Their spotted pony rode White House elevators with them. They took ducks and dogs, cats and rabbits to bed with them. At least once a meeting of senators broke up when Quentin Roosevelt came in with a bag full of snakes and a five-foot king snake on his arm.

Tad Lincoln, son of President Abraham Lincoln, at 7 impressed important visitors when he bowed low to make polite little speeches. But he loved also to smear desks with ink.

President John Tyler had children aged 11 to 26 and to them he wrote a letter laying down guidelines like this:

"Now, my children, during the next few years we are to occupy the home of the president of the United States. I hope that you will conduct yourselves with even more than your usual propriety and decorum.

"Remember you will be much in the public eye. You are to know no favorites. Your visitors will be citizens of the United States, and as such are all to be received with equal courtesy. You will not receive any gifts whatsoever, and allow no one to approach you on the subject of office on favors. These words you will kindly remember, and let it not be incumbent upon me to speak them again."

At their ages, Caroline and John Junior are not likely to be bothered by favor-seekers. But they will have to become accustomed to spending most of their time outside their big home under the watchful eyes of Secret Service men assigned to protect around the calendar and around the clock.

Balsamo Rites Are Pending

Mrs. Ella Balsamo, 68, died unexpectedly at her residence at 1901 Breard St. late Friday night.

Funeral service arrangements were incomplete last night but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mrs Balsamo was a native of Caldwell Parish but had lived in Monroe for the past 30 years.

She is survived by her husband, Frank Balsamo, Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Wilson, Virginia; three stepsons, James, Charles and Matthew Balsamo, all of Monroe; three brothers, J. D. and Isaac Soloman, both of Columbia, and Dan Solomon, Monroe; and one sister.

Revival Series To Start Monday

A two - week revival series will get underway Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Southside Assembly of God Church, 600 South 8th St., West Monroe.

Delivering the sermons as well as special music and singing will be the Rev. Gerald Lewis, and his wife, Shirley Nettles Lewis, both well known as evangelists.

The Rev. Lewis is pastor of the Lake Village, Ark., Assembly of God Church.

PAPA ALWAYS SAID A CHILD COULD ONLY MATURE BY MAKING HIS OWN ERRORS, MRS. WORTH!

BESIDES, HOW COULD YOU POSSIBLY KNOW CASS AS I DO?... GOODBYE, MRS. WORTH!

LATER, AT THE STUDIO..

NOW, KEEDS!.. AGAIN! AND REMEMBER.. THE BEAT EES EEN 3/4 TIME.. ROMANTIC.. BUT FIERY, EH?

CASS! I MUST SPEAK WITH YOU!.. PRIVATELY!.. IT'S A.. A GRAVE EMERGENCY!

I CAN'T LEAVE UNTIL THE NEXT REST BREAK, BUTTON! 'RITA JUST THREW A NEW ROUTINE AT US!... A MOORISH BOLERO!

THIS CAN'T WAIT! .. EVEN SECONDS! .. SOMEONE IS .. IS PURSUING YOU!

PURSUING ME?... THERE'S A LITTLE ROOM BACK THERE WHERE THEY STORE PROPS AND COSTUMES!

I CAN'T FIND THAT SUKI SUSIE WHO PLANTED THE BOMB, AN' I CAN'T FIND TH' NICE JAPANESE BOY WHO RESCUED ME!

SO I'M TH' ONLY WITNESS FOR COUSIN STEVIE—AN' WHO'LL BELIEVE ME?

THEY'RE NOT HOLDING COURT TONIGHT, BUT THERE IS A SQUADRON SHIRT DANCE GOING ON...

—AND WE'RE INVITED! SOME REAL CUTE SECOND LIEUTENANTS DOWN THERE WHO ARE BUSTIN' TO MEET YOU!

EACH SQUADRON HAS A DISTINCTIVE SCARF AND SHIRT, SO EACH MEMBER'S WIFE HAS A MATCHING ONE!

ONCE A MONTH THEY FORGET ABOUT AIRPLANES AND TAKE OFF FROM THE DANCE FLOOR...

WHY, IT'S CAP'N REDDING, MINUS HER DISGUISE AS A STERN AND DEDICATED FLY-GIRL!

—INTRODUCE YOUR FRIEND, BEFORE THE STAG LINE BRINGS FORMAL CHARGES!

WELL, MISS CANYON, IS THAT LONG FACE ANY WAY TO GREET A DASHING DEFENDER OF THE NATION'S SKIES?

I'M DOWNRIGHT SORRY, LIEUTENANT—IT WAS JUS' SOMETHIN' YOU SAID...

ABOUT FORMAL CHARGES, YOU MEAN? I'M SORRY! THAT WAS STUPID OF ME!

Y'MEAN YOU KNOW 'BOUT-

ABOUT YOUR COUSIN, COL. CANYON? OF COURSE WE D-- WHAT'S WRONG?
